Solon Says Hormones 'Too High'

Hearings Show Costly Prices, Kefauver Notes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said Saturday public hearings had demonstrated that antiarthritic drug prices are "clearly too high."

Kefauver is chairman of a Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee which has devoted the week to testimony about prices, profits and costs of steroid hormone drugs, largely used by sufferers of arthritis.

Kefauver said testimony showed large manufacturers are selling these same drugs to the government and to foreign sales outlets at prices far below those charged retail druggists and the public.

He said that over the past three years major drug makers had the highest profit rate of any U.S. industry.

INTERESTED

Kefauver said his subcommittee is interested in the use of patents and licenses to control the distribution of miracle drugs; also in whether exaggerated claims are made about the drugs.

He said his group has evidence that 250 million dollars is being spent yearly for drugs that are no good, "some of which may be harmful," and that it will seek quicker action to protect the public from quack drugs.

Kefauver said the Senate inqury will resume public hearings about mid-January on another group of drugs. Other sources said this probably would be antibiotics.

Frank J. Wilson, president of the National Assn. of Retired Civil Employes, urged legislation "to correct the obviously serious conditions resulting from drug prices.

He said scores of elderly citizens, many of them on small pensions, are unable to buy drugs they need because of "the exorbitant prices."

Wilson said the association had heard that in many places having large concentrations of retired persons, such as in Florida, "costs of medicines and drugs are so much higher than elsewhere that our members are buying by mail from other states to secure a measure of financial relief."

A Senate investigator said a large drug firm uses only 14 cents worth of raw materials to make a product it sells for $15.

Port Authority Group Urging Federal Action

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The federal government should act immediately to improve channels leading to the nation's main ports, the American Assn. of Port Authorities has urged.

In the windup of its 48th annual convention Friday, the association also urged the government to investigate interstate commerce commission actions which it called "detrimental to the continued existence of domestic shipping."

Other resolutions called for compensatory charges for the use of deep sea terminals, especially those owned by railroads; standardization of containers used by steamship lines, coast guard supervision of explosives at nonmilitary marine terminals and aboard ships in the terminals, and a prohibition against a user charge on water borne commerce or vessels using waterways within states.

ELECTED

M. C. Cunningham of Mobile, Ala., was elected to the key office of third vice president after an unprecedented tie vote was broken on the second ballot.

Cunningham, general manager of the Alabama state docks, was nominated from the floor. He was opposed by Roger Gilman, director of port development for the port of New York Authority. Gilman was nominated by the association's nominating committee.

The organization's third vice president usually advances automatically until he becomes president.

D. Leon Williams, executive director of the North Carolina State Port Authority, was installed as president. He had been first vice president.

117 YEARS NEARING CLOSE

Aged Veteran In Oxygen Tent

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Walter Old Reb. Williams, 117, the last living veteran of the Civil War, wheezed away what may be the last hours of his life Saturday in an oxygen tent while liquid nourishment dripped through a needle into the big vein in his right wrist.

"I think he's in a coma," his daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, said. "But it's hard to tell. He's so weak."

Dr. Russell Wolfe, who has been treating him for the last six years, said Williams could die at any moment of his fourth attack of pneumonia this year. Dr. Wolfe thinks he will be gone within a matter of hours, unless there is a dramatic change.

HOSPITAL

There was none apparent Saturday. Williams lay on a hospital bed with his head and his shoulders raised slightly to help his labored breathing. Oxygen from a big green tank hissed steadily into the square tent covering his head and shoulders.

Mrs. Bowles, a widow in her 50s, with whom he has lived since he came to Houston, sat occasionally on the edge of his bed, raised his left hand to her throat and hummed.

"He can feel the vibration even if he can't see me," she said.

Williams' eyes are open and if he could see, he would see a Confederate flag on the side of the room opposite his bed, flanked by a United States flag and the flag of Texas.

A bottle of the liquid nourishment with which Dr. Wolfe hopes to strengthen him — he hasn't been able to eat since last Sunday — hung on a stand by his bed.

The liquid in it dripped through a clear plastic tube and thence into a needle inserted in a vein

DISCUSS MANY PROBLEMS

Ike And Nehru Talk In Private

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nehru held private talks Saturday night on a range of pressing world problems.

More personal discussions between the two will follow Sunday.

Saturday night's meeting came after a dinner Eisenhower gave for Nehru at the U. S. ambassador's residence. There was no official announcement on the ground covered, but reliable informants said the talks centered on issues ranging from India's border troubles with Red China to world disarmament.

After the meeting Eisenhower returned to his suite in the Indian Presidential House for the night.

The stage for their latest meeting on this fourth day of Eisenhower's visit to India was set by a glowing tribute from Nehru to Eisenhower's "pilgrimage in quest of peace."

A U. S. official said the three hours of discussions Eisenhower and the leader of the world's most populous democracy have had previously were "exceedingly cordial." He declared U.S.-Indian relations at the moment were at the highest peak since India became independent.

Baby Sea Lion On Way Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sandy the baby sea lion is headed again for a place under the Christmas tree at the home of Robert S. Kennedy.

Sandy disappeared Friday. But he was captured and returned today after having flipped and flopped his way a mile and a half from home.

Kennedy, former chief counsel for the Senate Rackets Committee and brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), bought the 2½ foot long baby sea lion as a gift for his seven children. They range in age from three months to eight years.

Gunman Robs Bakery Here

Beats Owner, Fires At 3; Loss Is $51

A gunman last night beat the owner of Bond's Louisville Avenue Bakery over the head, fired at three employees of Clover Leaf Dairy and escaped with $51 from the bakery's cash till.

The violence erupted around 7 p.m. at the 13th and Louisville Avenue Clover Leaf building which houses both bakery and dairy firms.

No one was seriously injured in the fracas, but Mrs. Thelma C. Bond sustained several superficial scalp wounds when she was hit repeatedly with the robber's automatic pistol.

UNHARMED

Each of the other three employees involved were unharmed, although all were missed by less then two or three feet by the gunman's bullet.

The gunman himself was believed to be the most seriously injured, witnesses observed, because he was smashed across the chest with a metal chair by one of the dairy employes before he fired and fled the scene.

An accomplice was waiting outside in the getaway car, witnesses said, and the two disappeared in a white 1959 Ford Galaxie.

Area law enforcement departments immediately set up roadblocks surrounding the area and began an intense search for the car and two suspects.

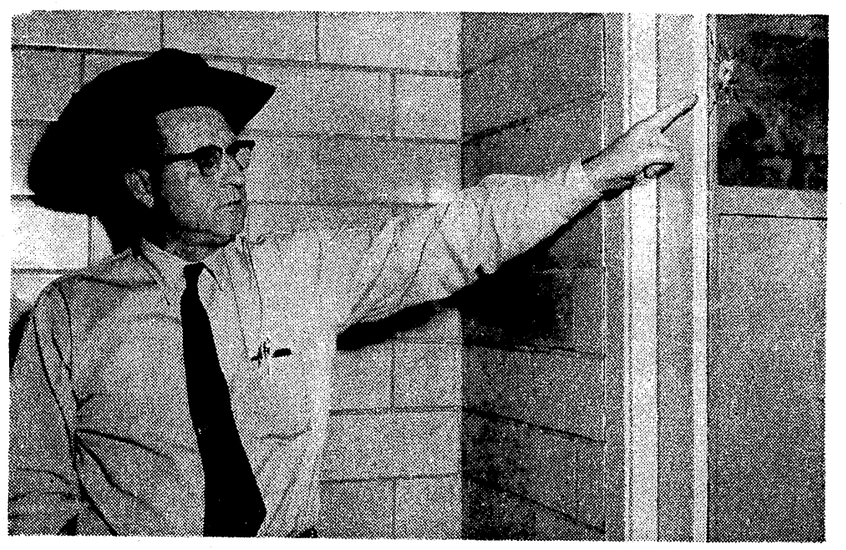

The two suspects were being sought late last night, officials said.

DESCRIPTION

Wave Of Illness Affects Many At Louisiana Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Over 100 students sought treatment at the infirmary at Louisiana Tech college Thursday and Friday for extreme nausea and diarrhea, Virginia Fowell, head nurse at the infirmary said yesterday.

It was estimated that at least as many more were ill but did not seek treatment.

The nurse said a continuous procession of students sought treatment during the night and Friday morning, with many going to bed, staying there until they felt better, then relinquishing their beds so that other new patients might use them.

No records was kept during the peak of the attacks, but Miss Powell said yesterday she had treated 83 since she started keeping count.

All patients were boys and all were freshmen and sophomores, she disclosed.

Dr. Carl Langford was called in to help, but declined to say exactly what the cause was. Although he did not say it was food poisoning, he did not rule out that possibility.

Politicians Step Toward Another Tilt

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana politicians step into another scrap Tuesday to pick the chairman of the newly elected Democratic State Central Committee.

It will shape into a test of strength between the runoff rivals for governor—Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans and Jimmie Davis, governor 15 years ago.

Voters rejected Gov. Earl Long's choice for his successor and Morrison and Davis are busy campaigning for Democratic nomination in the Jan. 9th second primary.

Morrison leaders, reliable informants said Saturday, are preparing to support for party chairman William J. Dodd. He finished fifth in the record 11-man contest for governor Dec. 5.

FAVORITE

Dodd, a labor favorite, was second high man in a field of 14 for central committee member in Baton Rouge. The capital city named two committeemen. Dodd has endorsed Morrison for governor.

N. B. Carstarphen of Shreveport, veteran committee member and chairman under former Gov. Robert Kennon, has attracted favorable attention in the Davis camp for the party chairmanship. There is no word of a definite decision at this time.

Dodd was a candidate for governor twice. He was Gov. Long's lieutenant governor several years ago, but broke with him.

Carstarphen, a quiet-voiced conservative, gained a political reputation of fair play in the party splitting days when pro-Eisenhower Kennon swung his support in 1952 to President Eisenhower.

GOODFELLOWS REPORT

Vital Necessities Sought By Many

While most families around the Twin Cities are planning festive dinners to go with a big yule tree and holiday party this Christmas, there are many persons asking hopefully for another piece of clothing or extra plate of food.

To these less fortunate citizens of the area, such holiday gaiety as a plump Christmas turkey and a tree loaded with presents is merely a faraway dream that becomes more of a gnawing nightmare as the Holy Day draws nearer.

The only thread of hope these people have for any sort of Christmas is the Goodfellows Christmas fund, which is seeking to show the people of the Twin Cities that "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

DEPENDING

Depending entirely upon contributions from the public, the Goodfellows are planning to provide a happy answer to the countless requests that have poured into their headquarters from the less fortunate persons who ask for only food, clothing, or medicine.

The funds are lagging far behind, officials stated yesterday. With only 12 more days remaining until Christmas, the outlook for most of these families is

Plant Accuses Governor Of Aiding Strikers

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — Wilson & Co. Saturday night accused Gov. Orville Freeman of using the National Guard to aid striking United Packinghouse Workers "as much as for the purpose of maintaining law and order."

In a statement released here, the meatpacking firm said: "It becomes increasingly apparent that the Albert Lea plant was seized and shut down by Gov. Freeman by the use of the National Guard of Minnesota to assist the striking UPWA in their strike against Wilson & Co. as much as for the purpose of maintaining law and order.

"Actions taken by the guard since this seizure has been so partial to the union and injurious to the company that this conclusion is obvious."

RELEASED

The statement was released shortly before Freeman summoned a press conference apparently to comment on Wilson's announced intentions of going to federal court Monday to seek an order to reopen its plant here.

Wilson listed five points it said supports its contention that the guard has been used more on the side of the union than for any other reason.

The plant, which employs more than 1,000 production workers, was closed by guardsmen dispatched

Group Okays UN Peace Role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly approved unanimously Saturday night a plan to give the United Nations a role in the peaceful exploration of outer space.

But the 82-nation Assembly was deadlocked in a stubborn East-West contest over filling a vacancy on the Security Council as it pushed toward adjournment of its 1959 session.

No Reason Known For Blow Up

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Titan, America's biggest military rocket exploded into a roaring inferno Saturday as it lifted off on its most critical test flight.

The 98-foot intercontinental-range giant barely struggled from its launch pad when it was ripped by tons of burning fuel. The eruption, resembling a nuclear blast, sent an orange ball of fire soaring hundreds of feet into the air.

A mushroom cloud of black smoke capped the spectacular scene. When the wind blew the smoke away, the Titan service tower was a fire-blackened mass. None of the 60 members of the launch crew, in a blockhouse 100 yards away, was hurt.

The blow up was almost identical to the last Titan launch on Aug. 14. That missile also rose a few feet, then was consumed in a holocaust.

BLAME

The August explosion was blamed on a faulty release mechanism. There was no indication of what caused the latest blowup.

Both the ill-fated launches were aimed at igniting the Titan's huge second stage for the first time. If successful, it would have been the most powerful rocket engine ever fired in flight by the United States.

The 41-foot second stage was set to ignite after the 57-foot first stage had reached an altitude of about 27 miles. If all had gone right, the 80,000-pound thrust of the upper engine would have

Three Killed On Trip For Yule Shopping

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—A trip to town for Christmas shopping ended in tragedy Saturday when three persons were killed and a fourth injured in a train-automobile collision.

Killed were Mrs. Curtis Hewitt, 26; her infant daughter Martha Ann; and her mother, Mrs. Addie Lovell, 50. Hospitalized at Anniston was Mrs. Shelby Jean Herren, 20, sister of Mrs. Hewitt.

All of the victims were from Graham, a small community in northeast Randolph County near the Georgia line.

POLICE

Police said Mrs. Hewitt and her daughter were killed instantly when the speeding Southern Railway passenger train collided with their car three miles east of nearby Oxford. The Anniston Memorial Hospital said Mrs. Lovell died about an hour later in the emergency room.

Police said the victims were killed when Mrs. Hewitt apparently tried to beat the Kansas City-Florida Special at a crossing. Officers said the car was hurled into a ditch by the train.

Mrs. Hewitt was taking her family to town for a day of Christmas shopping and police said she had taken a short cut into town.

Train engineer W. S. Reaves, 64, of Birmingham, said there was "not so much to it in a way. Just me and the automobile met on the crossing at the same time."

Exciting Christmas Story

Here is a new concept of the Christmas Story as told by Mrs. Billy Graham. It is warm and wonderful. You will want to read it to your children to give them a new understanding of this Day of Days.

As informally and warmly as if she were speaking to her own children, Mrs. Graham tells the story of God's preparation for his gift to the world; the birth of His Son.

When did Christmas begin? she asks. Not in Bethlehem nearly two thousand years ago, but long before that — in the Garden of Eden. In simple but moving language she follows the story through the centuries of history to the manger in Bethlehem and explains why the birthday of Jesus is only part of the wonderful story.

Both you and your children will get new inspiration and understanding from this beautifully told story. In it, Mrs. Graham tells how such men as Noah and Moses played important roles in God's preparation for his Christmas gift to the world.

Mrs. Graham was born Ruth Bell in China where her

Donkey Upsetting To Church Pageant

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Sally all but turned the final dress rehearsal of a Christmas dream pageant into a Saturday nightmare.

Sally is a donkey, and like most of her kind she has an impish intuition about when to be balky.

Such a stubborn moment came Saturday. Little children of the First Reformed Church were assembled on the stage or in the wings, all of them in costumes of Biblical times and keyed up for their roles.

The director told them it was most important that the dream quality of the play be undisturbed, so would the children please soft pedal their high spirits. Try to be a bit ethereal, that was the idea.

Sally, essential to the pageant's theme, went along meekly enough to the church door. Then she turned on the temperament. She glued her feet to the ground. She slanted her flanks to the rear defiantly. She rolled her eyes wickedly. On stage, the mood was fast slipping from the ethereal. As for Sally's handlers, they were losing that decorum appropriate to the surroundings.

"Did you ever see such a prima donna?" said one. "Wants to be carried, just like a bride."

It had to be done, no less. Two men huffed and puffed and lifted Sally across the threshold and by firm shovings got her down the aisle.

Sally's humor changed fast once she was on stage. She flicked

GOODFELLOWS REPORT

Vital Necessities Sought By Many

While most families around the Twin Cities are planning festive dinners to go with a big yule tree and holiday party this Christmas, there are many persons asking hopefully for another piece of clothing or extra plate of food.

To these less fortunate citizens of the area, such holiday gaiety as a plump Christmas turkey and a tree loaded with presents is merely a faraway dream that becomes more of a gnawing nightmare as the Holy Day draws nearer.

The only thread of hope these people have for any sort of Christmas is the Goodfellows Christmas fund, which is seeking to show the people of the Twin Cities that "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

DEPENDING

Depending entirely upon contributions from the public, the Goodfellows are planning to provide a happy answer to the countless requests that have poured into their headquarters from the less fortunate persons who ask for only food, clothing, or medicine.

The funds are lagging far behind, officials stated yesterday. With only 12 more days remaining until Christmas, the outlook for most of these families is

Plant Accuses Governor Of Aiding Strikers

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — Wilson & Co. Saturday night accused Gov. Orville Freeman of using the National Guard to aid striking United Packinghouse Workers "as much as for the purpose of maintaining law and order."

In a statement released here, the meatpacking firm said: "It becomes increasingly apparent that the Albert Lea plant was seized and shut down by Gov. Freeman by the use of the National Guard of Minnesota to assist the striking UPWA in their strike against Wilson & Co. as much as for the purpose of maintaining law and order.

"Actions taken by the guard since this seizure has been so partial to the union and injurious to the company that this conclusion is obvious."

RELEASED

The statement was released shortly before Freeman summoned a press conference apparently to comment on Wilson's announced intentions of going to federal court Monday to seek an order to reopen its plant here.

Wilson listed five points it said supports its contention that the guard has been used more on the side of the union than for any other reason.

The plant, which employs more than 1,000 production workers, was closed by guardsmen dispatched

Group Okays UN Peace Role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly approved unanimously Saturday night a plan to give the United Nations a role in the peaceful exploration of outer space.

But the 82-nation Assembly was deadlocked in a stubborn East-West contest over filling a vacancy on the Security Council as it pushed toward adjournment of its 1959 session.

STUBBORN AS A MULE

Donkey Upsetting To Church Pageant

Sally is a donkey, and like most of her kind she has an impish intuition about when to be balky.

Such a stubborn moment came Saturday. Little children of the First Reformed Church were assembled on the stage or in the wings, all of them in costumes of Biblical times and keyed up for their roles.

The director told them it was most important that the dream quality of the play be undisturbed, so would the children please soft pedal their high spirits. Try to be a bit ethereal, that was the idea.

Sally, essential to the pageant's theme, went along meekly enough to the church door. Then she turned on the temperament. She glued her feet to the ground. She slanted her flanks to the rear defiantly. She rolled her eyes wickedly. On stage, the mood was fast slipping from the ethereal. As for Sally's handlers, they were losing that decorum appropriate to the surroundings.

"Did you ever see such a prima donna?" said one. "Wants to be carried, just like a bride."

It had to be done, no less. Two men huffed and puffed and lifted Sally across the threshold and by firm shovings got her down the aisle.

Sally's humor changed fast once she was on stage. She flicked

STARTS IN WORLD WEDNESDAY

Exciting Christmas Story

Here is a new concept of the Christmas Story as told by Mrs. Billy Graham. It is warm and wonderful. You will want to read it to your children to give them a new understanding of this Day of Days.

As informally and warmly as if she were speaking to her own children, Mrs. Graham tells the story of God's preparation for his gift to the world; the birth of His Son.

When did Christmas begin? she asks. Not in Bethlehem nearly two thousand years ago, but long before that — in the Garden of Eden. In simple but moving language she follows the story through the centuries of history to the manger in Bethlehem and explains why the birthday of Jesus is only part of the wonderful story.

Both you and your children will get new inspiration and understanding from this beautifully told story. In it, Mrs. Graham tells how such men as Noah and Moses played important roles in God's preparation for his Christmas gift to the world.

Mrs. Graham was born Ruth Bell in China where her

No Reason Known For Blow Up

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Titan, America's biggest military rocket exploded into a roaring inferno Saturday as it lifted off on its most critical test flight.

The 98-foot intercontinental-range giant barely struggled from its launch pad when it was ripped by tons of burning fuel. The eruption, resembling a nuclear blast, sent an orange ball of fire soaring hundreds of feet into the air.

A mushroom cloud of black smoke capped the spectacular scene. When the wind blew the smoke away, the Titan service tower was a fire-blackened mass. None of the 60 members of the launch crew, in a blockhouse 100 yards away, was hurt.

The blow up was almost identical to the last Titan launch on Aug. 14. That missile also rose a few feet, then was consumed in a holocaust.

BLAME

The August explosion was blamed on a faulty release mechanism. There was no indication of what caused the latest blowup.

Both the ill-fated launches were aimed at igniting the Titan's huge second stage for the first time. If successful, it would have been the most powerful rocket engine ever fired in flight by the United States.

The 41-foot second stage was set to ignite after the 57-foot first stage had reached an altitude of about 27 miles. If all had gone right, the 80,000-pound thrust of the upper engine would have

Three Killed On Trip For Yule Shopping

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—A trip to town for Christmas shopping ended in tragedy Saturday when three persons were killed and a fourth injured in a train-automobile collision.

Killed were Mrs. Curtis Hewitt, 26; her infant daughter Martha Ann; and her mother, Mrs. Addie Lovell, 50. Hospitalized at Anniston was Mrs. Shelby Jean Herren, 20, sister of Mrs. Hewitt.

All of the victims were from Graham, a small community in northeast Randolph County near the Georgia line.

POLICE

Police said Mrs. Hewitt and her daughter were killed instantly when the speeding Southern Railway passenger train collided with their car three miles east of nearby Oxford. The Anniston Memorial Hospital said Mrs. Lovell died about an hour later in the emergency room.

Police said the victims were killed when Mrs. Hewitt apparently tried to beat the Kansas City-Florida Special at a crossing. Officers said the car was hurled into a ditch by the train.

Mrs. Hewitt was taking her family to town for a day of Christmas shopping and police said she had taken a short cut into town.

Train engineer W. S. Reaves, 64, of Birmingham, said there was "not so much to it in a way. Just me and the automobile met on the crossing at the same time."

The Titan first stage generates 300,000 pounds of thrust compared with 360,000 for the Atlas, this nation's only other intercontinental-range ballistic missile.

But the firing of the power-packed second stage in the thinner atmosphere above the earth gives the payload a big kick, adding greater range to the Titan.

Early this year four Titans were launched successfully in test of the first stage. But since May, the Martin Co., which makes the missile, has been plagued by technical troubles.

Ike And Nehru Talk In Private

dor to Washington, said Eisenhower's visit to India will open "a new chapter in world history."

One major result of the Eisenhower - Nehru meetings so far seems to be an easing of tension between Pakistan and India — long at loggerheads over boundaries, water rights, and the princely State of Kashmir claimed by both countries.

The Indians are reported to have been assured that U. S. military aid to Pakistan is granted as an ally in the anti-Communist CENTO pact and not a menace to India.

This seemed implicit in Nehru's repeated statements that there are no problems between India and the United States.

Discussing his visit next year to Moscow, Eisenhower is said to have told Nehru he believes Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev also is searching for a formula for an insured peace.

A communique the two will issue before Eisenhower's departure is expected to dwell on the principle of negotiation rather than force to settle disputes. It also is expected to declare that disarmament is the only means of warding off the annihilation of humanity.

The unprecedented outpouring of affection for Eisenhower from the masses the past three days was matched by 8,000 of New Delhi's elite Saturday afternoon. They nearly mobbed the U. S. president at a garden party given in his honor at the magnificent Moghul Gardens by President Rajendra Prasad.

About 100 Indian security men and U.S. Secret Service agents, shielding Eisenhower, almost had to fight their way through the eager crowd pressing around the famous visitor. The agents locked hands in a human chain circling the President as he strode smiling about the six acres of gardens before taking a seat near Prasad on a wicker sofa.

During the party Eisenhower sat with Prasad as thousands of admiring Indians filed past. Some tried to present him with petitions, pamphlets and books. Even then his security from excess of affection was a difficult problem.

Eisenhower gave a dinner Saturday night honoring Nehru at the U. S. ambassador's residence. Then they met for private talk.

Eisenhower and Nehru were reliably reported to be concentrating their talk on these five major issues: prospects of an East-West summit conference, disarmament, Communist Chinese threats to India, Indian-Pakistan relations, and India's food and economic development problems.

The two leaders in final Sunday talks also will review how much India may expect in the way of U. S. economic aid for 1960.

The United States already has provided two billion dollars worth of food, raw materials, and technical assistance to India since 1951.

Nehru, who previously had lauded Eisenhower as "a messenger of peace," paid his latest tribute to the President in an impromptu news conference at press headquarters set up by the Indian government for the duration of the Eisenhower visit.

Nehru said the presidential visit "is important news in view of this—if I may use the word — pilgrimage in quest of peace."

"While many things have been discussed and have happened here," Nehru said, "everything has been in the context of peace, cooperation and freedom."

While his son John and daughter-in-law Barbara rode a highly trained and magnificently decked out elephant in the presidential palace grounds, Eisenhower remained inside the palace catching up on a backlog of White House business and snatching what rest he could.

Eisenhower's doctor Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, said the President is bearing up amazingly well under the strain of the rigorous round of events. At the garden party Eisenhower looked vigorous and happy. He was wearing the famous Eisenhower grin.

Williams' skin is so white it was hard to tell the difference between adhesive tape and skin.

In other places, his skin looks nearly translucent. His arms and fingers are extremely thin; his fingernails are long and beginning to curl.

He is so weak now that Mrs. Bowles is afraid even to put water into his mouth with an eyedropper for fear of strangling him. She wipes the inside of his lips with a damp swab.

"I haven't slept a whole night since he got sick this time," she said. "I have been 24 hours without sleep now. Maybe it's the same stamina that has helped him to live to be 117."

Some persons doubt that Williams was old enough at the time of the Civil War to have been a forage master, as he claimed, or to have helped waylay and kill 100 Yankees.

Texas, which pays him a $300-a-month pension, recognizes him, however, as the last of four million men who fought in the Confederate and Union armies during the Civil War.

That makes it official as far as the U.S. government is concerned and when Williams dies, President Eisenhower will declare a day of national mourning.

Pentagon Tells Of Plane Debris, Apparently Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon said Saturday that the wreckage of a transport plane, apparently Soviet, had been spotted on the ice approximately 180 miles northwest of Iceland.

There were no signs of life except what appeared to be animal tracks around the C47-type aircraft, the crew of a U.S. Navy P2V reported. The crew of the Navy plane, based in Iceland, spotted the wreckage while on routine ice patrol Friday.

Shaw was making a left turn when the vehicles met. Heavy damage was done to the scooter and slight damage to the car.

No charges have been filed, pending investigation.

Demo Group To Have 39 New Members

BATON ROUGE (AP)—The 101-man Democratic State Central Committee will have 39 new members when it meets here Tuesday to certify party nominees for state office.

Twenty incumbents, including former Gov. Sam Jones of Lake Charles, did not seek reelection to the party governing authority.

Nineteen members were defeated, including chairman Rufus Hayes, Baton Rouge; Gov. Earl Long and vice chairman Jett M. Talbot, Bernice.

Talbot was the man the state committee named when it voted to remove Camille Gravel Jr., Alexandria, from the national committeeman's post.

Gravel held on because the national committee voted to retain him.

In the Dec. 5th primary, Gravel topped a field of 17 candidates in winning reelection. He led the three members named from his Rapides Parish.

Another loser for committee membership was former Gov. James Noe, who was Long's unsuccessful candidate for governor.

Dist. Atty. Leander Perez of Plaquemines and St. Bernard parishes, arch foe of Long, and Rep. John Garrett, righthand man of Sen. William Rainach, state segregation leader, were among members winning reelection.

SWEDISH SHIP

Saga Of Wasa Is Outlined

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—It was a pleasant August Sunday. After church, Stockholm citizens gathered at the harbor in a festive mood.

They crowded the green hills, waiting for the mighty Wasa, flagship of the royal fleet, to embark on her maiden voyage.

Saturday night had been a wild one. Beer and schnapps had flowed freely for the crew and soldiers leaving on the Wasa to join their King fighting in Germany.

King Gustavus Adolphus, embroiled in the Thirty Years War, was waiting impatiently to impress his friends and foes on the continent with the most splendid warship the world had ever seen. All spring he had sent threatening letters to the master shipbuilder, Henrik Hybertson, urging him to rush the ship to completion.

But the Wasa never reached the north German coast. In fact, sometime next year, 322 years later, she will complete her maiden voyage—something less than two miles.

When the Wasa set sail on that Aug. 10 afternoon in 1628, she carlater, she will complete her maiden voyage—something less than two miles.

When the Wasa set sail on that Aug. 10 afternoon in 1628, she carried a crew of 133 and 300 soldiers. Altogether, more than 500 people were aboard, including some soldiers' families who had been given permission to go as far as the fortress city of Waxholm, in the inner archipelago.

Officers on board noticed a slight list while the Wasa was still docked, and Erik Joensson, the chief ordnance officer, went below deck to make sure the ship's 64 guns were properly lashed. They were.

At 4 p.m., Capt. Soerfing Hansson Jute ordered the sails set.

As the ship increased speed, the captain noticed she was not answering the helm as she should.

Then a sudden gust of wind hit, and the Wasa started to list to leeward. Once again, Joensson ran below deck, to order the leeward guns pulled to the windward side. But it was too late.

Water poured through the gun ports. Soon the masts were touching the water. With sails and flags flapping, her rigging slowly disappeared. In moments, only the main mast was visible.

The spectators in the green Hills, paralyzed at first, rushed boats to the scene and saved 450 people.

The next day, the Royal Council started an investigation.

No cause was found for the disaster.

Master Hybertson proved he had followed the King's order in building the ship. Capt. Hansson Jute and Ordnance Officer Joensson proved that the guns and supplies were properly lashed.

Three days later, the first salvage attempt was started, by a British engineer, Ian Bulmer. He failed. So did others, for more than 30 years, until a Swede, Albrecht von Treibelben, introduced the diving bell. He succeeded in recovering much of the armament and other equipment of value. Eventually the Wasa was forgotten, slowly she settled into the mud.

But a few years ago, a navy engineer, Anders Franzen, stumbled across old papers telling about the Wasa. He had been interested in ship salvage since boyhood. On a summer evening in 1956, he put out in a boat to sound for the ship and located her. He interested authorities at the navy's diving school. They determined the 136-foot Wasa had sunk into the ooze up to her former water line.

For 2½ years, the navy's frogmen brought up some 700 objects from the watery depths. They included odd pieces of the ship and decorative art objects from Sweden's baroque period — allegoric carvings depicting mythical gods and animals; vines and bunches of flowers; sensual female figures; a statue of the Roman Emperor Tiberius and a magnificent figurehead of a roaring lion.

The Wallenberg Foundation, created by a leading Swedish banking family, became interested. The present king, another Gustav Adolf, added his prestige.

A committee was formed under control of navy Comdr. Edward Clason to study salvage of the ship's hull.

Finally, the cradle method was decided upon. Last Aug. 12, six tunnels were dug by water jets, and 12 wires, each 2 inches thick and 130 yards long, were passed under the Wasa and paid out to two pontoons.

The hull is to be cleaned by water jet and lifted to the surface, possibly next year. Eventually it will be displayed in a museum to be especially constructed for the royal ship.

There, hundreds of salvaged pieces will be joined together and missing details replaced by newmade substitutes.

The cost for the total operation, including museum, will be nearly 1¼ million dollars.

The ship has given fascinating new information about oldtime shipbuilding. Some details of the foremast construction came as a complete surprise to experts.

Historians call the Wasa the world's oldest fully identified ship. Naval experts credit the oak nails that joined the hull with helping to preserve it. Iron nails used to attach decorations disintegrated, leaving only rust-filled holes.

SWEDISH SHIP

Saga Of Wasa Is Outlined

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—It was a pleasant August Sunday. After church, Stockholm citizens gathered at the harbor in a festive mood.

Saturday night had been a wild one. Beer and schnapps had flowed freely for the crew and soldiers leaving on the Wasa to join their King fighting in Germany.

King Gustavus Adolphus, embroiled in the Thirty Years War, was waiting impatiently to impress his friends and foes on the continent with the most splendid warship the world had ever seen. Ballot Numbers Are Unchanged

JONESVILLE (Special) — All candidates will have the same number in the second primary as alloted them in the first primary. This information was confirmed by Ronald Richardson, Catahoula Parish Clerk of Court, in a telephone conservation with Secretary of State Wade O. Martin.

This will clarify any confusion as to whether the candidate's number would be different in the second primary. The numbers will be the same as in the first primary.

HAS PROBLEM, THOUGH

Barbara Buys Some Saris

NEW DELHI India (AP)—Like most American women who come to India, Barbara Eisenhower bought a handful of saris. And like most American women who buy saris Barbara bought a problem: How does one wear a flowing, colorful, lengthy cloth which has no buttons or bows or zippers?

Mrs. Eisenhower bought the saris Friday. Saturday, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, only daughter of Prime Minister Nehru, undertook the job of solving Barbara's problem.

Into the rolling green garden of the Prime Minister's house — where Nehru's gardeners had built a seven-foot elephant of plywood and yellow chrysanthemums — Mrs. Gandhi invited women from virtually all of India's 14 states.

Whether Barbara actually mastered the problem remained a state secret. But she had a look at some of the finest saris in India and learned that—like skinning a cat—there is more than one way to wear a sari.

There were women from Maharashtra and Madras with saris divided at the bottom and tucked between the legs—handy for riding horses. There were women from the high coffee-growing region of Coorg with the sari wrapped around the waist and the loose end draped over the shoulder.

Some women used pins to keep the loose end in place. Others simply let it flap. And for still more variety there were women from Punjab with blousy, pantaloon-type trousers and Moslem ladies with not only pantaloons but veils.

To add to the potential confusion, Barbara learned some guests wore saris eight feet long; some only five. The average length was six feet and this included Mrs. Gandhi, who wore a brown and green silk printed number—with no pin.

For her complicated tour around the sari-wearing course, Barbara wore strictly American attire: a navy blue silk dress with pleated velveteen hat. But there was a strong Indian influence on what she wore to the afternoon reception given her father-in-law — President Eisenhower—by Indian President Rajendra Prasad.

The afternoon garb was a sheath dress and a jacket of gold brocade made from cloth Nehru gave her when he visited Washington four years ago. Barbara didn't wear a hat to the reception because she didn't have one to match the dress.

In another essay into Indian lore, Barbara was driven Saturday morning to Katwari Sarai, a village 10 miles down a dusty bumpy road from New Delhi.

After being introduced to the villagers as the "bahu" of the "Amrikan rashtrapati" — daughter-in-law of the American President—Barbara was garlanded by school children and shown through the community center and a number of mud-walled homes.

She also took a turn at an Indian spinning wheel and appeared pleased when one village woman declared the Amrikan rashtrapati's bahu seemed to have a good deal of promise on the charkha—spinning wheel.

Goldfine Replies Go To Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. District Court that ordered Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine to answer a congressional committee's questions or face jail, got a copy of his replies Friday.

They were sent to the court, without recommendation or comment by the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee, its spokesman said.

Goldfine testified before the committee behind closed doors. Wednesday.

From the edited version of his testimony made public, it appeared the subcommittee got little enlightenment as to what Goldfine did with $104,973 he borrowed from the Boston Port Development Co.

Goldfine, a millionaire and the biggest stockholder in this real estate holding company, was cited for contempt of Congress for refusing to answer 18 subcommittee questions.

He was convicted, given a suspended sentence of a year in jail and $1,000 fine and ordered by the court to answer the questions if they were put to him again.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the subcommittee itself did not intend to pass on the adequacy of Goldfine's latest answers.

The millionaire, whose gift-giving caused the resignation of Sherman Adams from President Eisenhower's staff, gave some replies to all 18 questions involved in the court action. Harris said some were answered forthrightly, but others not so fully.

The transcript confirmed Harris' earlier announcement that Goldfine had been excused under the Fifth Amendment from answering a question as to who really owns the Little Building in Boston, which was involved in some of his affairs. The Fifth Amendment provides that a witness may not be forced to give information that may incriminate him.

During the closed hearing, committee counsel Robert W. Lishman acknowledged the committee has little hope of finding out what use was made of money Goldfine obtained from the Boston company.

Lishman said: "We cannot with our presently available information substantiate that some of the funds included in these questions were used for the purchase of influence. Some persons who were alive last year—when Goldfine refused to answer the questions — and might have testified are now dead."

For a substantial part of the withdrawals Goldfine offered this explanation: W. J. McDonald, president of Boston Port Development Co., "needed money and he told me" that he would "like to draw some money from the company. I said, 'Look, McDonald, if you draw, then I will draw the same.' That is how it started."

According to the testimony, this practice continued, with McDonald and Goldfine from time to time withdrawing identical sums, usually in the thousands, and giving the company notes.

Goldfine said he is paying off his and McDonald's notes, together with additional borrowings by McDonald's son-in-law and successor, W. R. Scudder, and others. The repayments, Goldfine said, are part of a $600,000 settlement obtained by minority stockholders in a lawsuit in Boston. He testified the estate McDonald left when he died several years ago could not pay off the indebtedness.

Santa Rides Again

SYNOPSIS: After a long journey across the ice sea, Oonik has finally reached Santa Land. Much to his dismay, he finds Santa suffering from the Ice King's wrath as much as the Eskimos of his own village.

CHAPTER SIX

A TALK WITH SANTA

Oonik ran down to the barn. The door was blocked by snow. He knew someone was inside because he could hear voices and every now and then the tap of a reindeers hoof.

Oonik went around to the side of the barn. There he found a ladder leading up to an enormous window high above. He had never seen a ladder before. He climbed it fearfully. When he was near the top he looked down and when he saw Keotuk way below he grew so dizzy he almost fell. Shutting his eyes, he went up the rest of the ladder and climbed in the window.

He found hiself at the top of a vast pile of hay. At the bottom of the pile was Santa Claus. He knew it was Santa because he was fat and round and wore a red suit and had silvery whiskers. But he didn't look gay and merry the way Oonik had always pictured him. He looked sad and worried.

He was talking to a crooked-legged dwarf with large, flappy ears and the two of them were gazing unhappily a eight skinny reindeer.

"It's no use, Tweedleknees," Santa said, "I'm going to let them go. I can't keep them here to starve."

"If only they'd eat meat," grumbled the crooked - legged dwarf. "Or cookies. Or vegetables. Or something."

"They want moss," murmured Santa Claus. "They can't understand why summer has not come I'll turn them loose. They can go somewhere were there's bound to be summer in August as it should be."

"But what will you do when Christmas comes?" exclaimed Tweedleknees. "With no reindeer how will you make your rounds?"

"I don't know." Santa shook his head. "Perhaps there won't be Christmas any more. Who knows? Anyway, I'm turning them loose."

"We'll never get the door open, protested Tweedleknees. "It's blocked by snow."

"They can fly out the window," replied Santa. "That is if they still have the strength to fly."

"Come now," he said gently, patting the reindeer. "Fly away and find some summer feeding ground."

The reindeer looked around uncertainly and then, tapping their hooves three times on the floor, they flew gracefully upwards straight to the window where Oonik sat.

But it was too late. The reindeer brushed past him, one by one, into the sky.

Then Santa called out, "Who on earth are you?"

Oonik slid to the bottom of the pile of hay. He landed with a plop at Santa's feet. "I'm Oonik the Eskimo boy," he said. "And I came to you because my people are being destroyed by the Ice King's anger."

"Ah," said Santa, "so are we, my boy. And it is the same everywhere. Only yesterday I had a letter from a child who said that though it was August she had not yet had a chance to use the bathing suit I brought her last Christmas. Another child wrote that he was still using the ice skates I brought to him. So you see, the whole world is cold."

"But you must stop the Ice King!" cried Oonik.

"I?" said Santa.

"Of course! You are the most powerful, the bravest, the wisest one on earth. You are the only one who can stop the Ice King."

Santa pulled his pipe from his pocket and slowly filled it. "Tell me," he said. "How shall I stop the Ice King?"

"Why," said Oonik simply, "by going to him and telling him to stop."

Now the crooked - legged Tweedleknees growled. "What nonsense! If Santa went to see the Ice King who knows what might happen to him!"

"I'll go, too," protested Oonik. "I — I could help!"

"You!" snorted Tweedleknees.

"Hush, Tweedleknees," said Santa. Then he looked for a long time into Oonik's eyes. At last he said, "Very good, son. We will go."

ty affairs. It is the key to which way Louisiana will go in the 1960 presidential campaign.

The state has backed the Democratic nominee only once in the last three elections. Thus makeup of the new committee and its selection of a chairman may serve as a weathervane for 1960.

Because the final choice for Democratic nominee for governor awaits the January 9 runoff, the new central committee may elect only a temporary chairman. Also to be selected are a vice chairman, secretary, sergeant at arms and assistant sergeant at arms.

The present committee, disbanding Tuesday, meets briefly at 2 p.m. in the House of Representatives here to certify first primary winners and runoff candidates.

Then the new committee, which has 39 new members, organizes at once. Dodd is one of the new members.

Those who lost committee seats in the Dec. 5 public voting included Gov. Long; chairman Rufus Hayes, a candidate for state insurance commissioner on the Davis ticket, and vice chairman Jett Talbot, Bernice. Dodd was one of the two men replacing Hayes and another Baton Rougean on the central committee

Last October, in a coalition of the forces of Gov. Long and Sen. Rainach, the existing committee voted to remove from his national post national committeeman Camille Gravel.

Foes charged Gravel, espousing what he called moderate views on segregation, failed to represent majority thinking in Louisiana. The state action failed because the national committee voted to keep Gravel. He is a Morrison supporter.

The coalition had tried to name as Gravel's replacement on the national committee a well known segregationist, vice chairman Talbot. He was a loyal Democratic party supporter.

But National Chairman Paul Butler backed Gravel, when the national committee rejected the Talbot bid.

Although Gravel may remain an issue himself on the committee, in his national post, selection of a new national committeeman is not expected until next year, just before the Democratic party's national convention in Los Angeles in July.

Plant Accuses Governor Of Aiding Strikers

by Freeman to enforce a martial law declaration.

The UPWA struck the plant Nov. 3 but management had continued operation with nonunion workers. On Wednesday and Thursday, these workers were attacked by stone-throwing pickets.

Atty. Gen. Miles Lord, who will be called upon to defend the Governor's action in calling the Guard and closing the plant, said the company's decision to go to court was no surprise.

"I'm sure," he added, "that the Governor will absolutely obey the decree of the Federal Court which we fully expect will sustain his decision keeping troops there to queel disorder."

The Governor has said it would take 2,000 guards instead of the 200 now stationed here to keep the plant open.

Nine men arrested after picket line violence at the plant face trials in Municipal Court here Dec. 21. All are charged in complaints signed by Chief of Police Charles Heilman and three Wilson employes with aiding in a breach of peace.

Heilman, the sheriff, the mayor and the county attorney all signed the formal request to Gov. Freeman to send the National Guard here.

The Wilson plant area was virtually deserted Saturday, except for the guards and the rest of the city was outwardly normal.

ing her to "hand over all the money you have in that box."

Mrs. Bond then related that she backed up against the wall, clutching the cash drawer. The gunman then walked around the counter, and when she refused to hand over the money, struck her on the head with the gun. In doing so, he knocked the money from her hands. It fell to the floor and scattered.

Mrs. Bond screamed when she was hit, and the gunman" seemed to be confused about what he should do next." she said. He then reached down and grabbed at a handfull of bills. She screamed again, and he hit her a second time with the pistol. This was repeated a number of times, each time the robber reaching up to strike her on the head from where he knelt beside the cash drawer.

AGAINST WALL

"I was pushed so flat against the wall, he had a hard time hitting me directly," Mrs. Bond said.

In the meantime, three employees of the dairy heard Mrs. Bond's screams as they were talking in a back office.

The first person up front was Dock Brown, a foreman at the dairy. Seeing the armed robber, Brown picked up a metal counter chair and smashed it into the gunman's chest, knocking him up onto the glass counter.

While Brown was reaching behind to grab another chair, the robber managed to jump up, then aimed the gun directly at Brown, who immediately dropped to the floor.

The bullet whizzed over Brown's head and almost struck another employee, Hugh Pitts, who was coming to the front to aid Brown. Pitts jumped to one side, and the bullet "whizzed past just level with my forehead," he said.

The shot slammed through a glass office door in the rear of the front office, and came within a few feet of Carroll McGee, a secretary, who was just opening the door to see what the commotion was.

"I could tell he was mad enough to shoot anybody," stated Brown, who added that he thought Pitts had been hit when he saw him fall across the counter at the rear of the building as he dodged the bullet.

After firing at the men, the robber stuffed some bills in his pockets and rushed out the door to the car waiting outside, then sped off with his accomplice, who was described by witnesses as looking "like a Mexican."

Pitts described the gunman as "about six feet tall, with dark brown hair, light but rough complexion, and wearing a cheap-looking brown suit."

West Monroe police department reported last night that two men were picked up for questioning and later released after their story checked out.

About $50 in cash was picked up in the bakery where it had been dropped by the robber as he fled the scene. Mrs. Bond said he took only large bills. She clutched a $20 bill, a $10 and a $1 bill which he had dropped as he opened the door. The bills were covered with splotches of blood from her head wounds and possibly from the injuries, if any, that the gunman received when hit by the chair thrown by Brown.

A physician was summoned to the scene to check Mrs. Bond's injuries. The doctor said they were "superficial scalp wounds" and not serious.

"I didn't know what was going on when he pulled that gun," she commented. "I just knew he couldn't really mean it."

Besides Mrs. Bond's scalp injuries and the bullet hole in the glass door at the rear, no other damage was done, even though the large glass bakery counter was hit by the robber and the chair which was thrown at the gunman.

Italian Liner Barely Misses Fate Of Sister

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Italian luxury liner Cristoforo Colombo narrowly escaped the fate of its sunken sister ship Andrea Doria Saturday when it grazed a freighter in a peasoup fog at the mouth of New York harbor.

The 29,000 - ton Italian Line vessel had just sailed from its Hudson River Pier, bound for Gibraltar, Naples, Cannes and Genoa and was plowing slowly through the fog when it "brushed" against the freighter Archon Raphael, a 7,000-ton Panamanian ship.

Marshal Shoots Man at Bonita

BASTROP (Special) — A Bonita Negro was in Monroe Charity Hospital last night after he reportedly attacked Night Marshal J. H. Crosty with a pair of brass knuckles.

Crosty shot Chester Bell, 21, below the heart after the Negro resisted arrest for disturbing the peace in a local tavern, it was reported.

The Negro allegedly knocked the marshal down, then when he recovered he shot Bell from a distance of about two feet with a .38 caliber pistol, the marshal said.

Bell was still alive at 10 last night, but in serious condition, it was learned.

Santa Rides Again

SYNOPSIS: After a long journey across the ice sea, Oonik has finally reached Santa Land. Much to his dismay, he finds Santa suffering from the Ice King's wrath as much as the Eskimos of his own village.

CHAPTER SIX
A TALK WITH SANTA

Oonik ran down to the barn. The door was blocked by snow. He knew someone was inside because he could hear voices and every now and then the tap of a reindeers hoof.

Oonik went around to the side of the barn. There he found a ladder leading up to an enormous window high above. He had never seen a ladder before. He climbed it fearfully. When he was near the top he looked down and when he saw Keotuk way below he grew so dizzy he almost fell. Shutting his eyes, he went up the rest of the ladder and climbed in the window.

He found hiself at the top of a vast pile of hay. At the bottom of the pile was Santa Claus. He knew it was Santa because he was fat and round and wore a red suit and had silvery whiskers. But he didn't look gay and merry the way Oonik had always pictured him. He looked sad and worried.

He was talking to a crooked-legged dwarf with large, flappy ears and the two of them were gazing unhappily a eight skinny reindeer.

"It's no use, Tweedleknees," Santa said, "I'm going to let them go. I can't keep them here to starve."

"If only they'd eat meat," grumbled the crooked - legged dwarf. "Or cookies. Or vegetables. Or something."

"They want moss," murmured Santa Claus. "They can't understand why summer has not come. I'll turn them loose. They can go somewhere were there's bound to be summer in August as it should be."

"But what will you do when Christmas comes?" exclaimed Tweedleknees. "With no reindeer how will you make your rounds?"

"I don't know," Santa shook his head. "Perhaps there won't be Christmas any more. Who knows? Anyway, I'm turning them loose."

"They can fly out the window," replied Santa. "That is if they still have the strength to fly."

"Come now," he said gently, patting the reindeer. "Fly away and find some summer feeding ground."

The reindeer looked around uncertainly and then, tapping their hooves three times on the floor, they flew gracefully upwards straight to the window where Oonik sat.

But it was too late. The reindeer brushed past him, one by one, into the sky.

Then Santa called out, "Who on earth are you?"

Oonik slid to the bottom of the pile of hay. He landed with a plop at Santa's feet. "I'm Oonik the Eskimo boy," he said. "And I came to you because my people are being destroyed by the Ice King's anger."

"Ah," said Santa, "so are we, my boy. And it is the same everywhere. Only yesterday I had a letter from a child who said that though it was August she had not yet had a chance to use the bathing suit I brought her last Christmas. Another child wrote that he was still using the ice skates I brought to him. So you see, the whole world is cold."

"But you must stop the Ice King!" cried Oonik.

"I?" said Santa.

"Of course! You are the most powerful, the bravest, the wisest one on earth. You are the only one who can stop the Ice King."

Santa pulled his pipe from his pocket and slowly filled it. "Tell me," he said. "How shall I stop the Ice King?"

"Why," said Oonik simply, "by going to him and telling him to stop."

Now the crooked - legged Tweedleknees growled. "What nonsense! If Santa went to see the Ice King who knows what might happen to him!"

"I'll go, too," protested Oonik. "I — I could help!"

"You!" snorted Tweedleknees.

"Hush, Tweedleknees," said Santa. Then he looked for a long time into Oonik's eyes. At last he said, "Very good, son. We will go."

Politicians Step Toward Another Tilt

ty affairs. It is the key to which way Louisiana will go in the 1960 presidential campaign.

The state has backed the Democratic nominee only once in the last three elections. Thus makeup of the new committee and its selection of a chairman may serve as a weathervane for 1960.

Because the final choice for Democratic nominee for governor awaits the January 9 runoff, the new central committee may elect only a temporary chairman. Also to be selected are a vice chairman, secretary, sergeant at arms and assistant sergeant at arms.

The present committee, disbanding Tuesday, meets briefly at 2 p.m. in the House of Representatives here to certify first primary winners and runoff candidates.

Then the new committee, which has 39 new members, organizes at once. Dodd is one of the new members.

Those who lost committee seats in the Dec. 5 public voting included Gov. Long; chairman Rufus Hayes, a candidate for state insurance commissioner on the Davis ticket, and vice chairman Jett Talbot, Bernice. Dodd was one of the two men replacing Hayes and another Baton Rougean on the central committee

Last October, in a coalition of the forces of Gov. Long and Sen. Rainach, the existing committee voted to remove from his national post national committeeman Camille Gravel.

Foes charged Gravel, espousing what he called moderate views on segregation, failed to represent majority thinking in Louisiana. The state action failed because the national committee voted to keep Gravel. He is a Morrison supporter.

The coalition had tried to name as Gravel's replacement on the national committee a well known segregationist, vice chairman Talbot. He was a loyal Democratic party supporter.

But National Chairman Paul Butler backed Gravel, when the national committee rejected the Talbot bid.

Although Gravel may remain an issue himself on the committee, in his national post, selection of a new national committeeman is not expected until next year, just before the Democratic party's national convention in Los Angeles in July.

ing her to "hand over all the money you have in that box."

Mrs. Bond then related that she backed up against the wall, clutching the cash drawer. The gunman then walked around the counter, and when she refused to hand over the money, struck her on the head with the gun. In doing so, he knocked the money from her hands. It fell to the floor and scattered.

Atty. Gen. Miles Lord, who will be called upon to defend the Governor's action in calling the Guard and closing the plant, said the company's decision to go to court was no surprise.

"I'm sure," he added, "that the Governor will absolutely obey the decree of the Federal Court which we fully expect will sustain his decision keeping troops there to queel disorder."

The Governor has said it would take 2,000 guards instead of the 200 now stationed here to keep the plant open.

Nine men arrested after picket line violence at the plant face trials in Municipal Court here Dec. 21. All are charged in complaints signed by Chief of Police Charles Heilman and three Wilson employes with aiding in a breach of peace.

Heilman, the sheriff, the mayor and the county attorney all signed the formal request to Gov. Freeman to send the National Guard here.

The Wilson plant area was virtually deserted Saturday, except for the guards and the rest of the city was outwardly normal.

WHITE HOUSE TRAIL

Religious Issue Returns To Scene

At issue was whether the Catholicism of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts hurts him as a candidate.

Among the Republicans, the big question was whether Nelson A. Rockefeller is on the way up, or out.

The New York governor included seven states on his last big tour, beginning Saturday, that will help him make up his mind on whether to buck Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination.

Chill winds for Rockefeller — warm ones for Nixon—were blowing from the Midwest. Republican state chairmen, meeting at Chicago, came up with such appraisals as these:

Ohio — "The vast preponderance" is for Nixon.

Wisconsin—Sentiment is "overwhelmingly Nixon."

Minnesota — Rockefeller will have to do "a lot of catching up."

But a Rockefeller man, State Chairman Judson Morhouse of New York, recalled that in 1940 Wendell L. Willkie came from far back to win the Republican presidential nomination.

Morhouse also reminded his fellow chairmen that a lot of people counted Rockefeller out before he swept to a party - inspiring triumph over Democrat Averell Harriman in the New York governorship race last year.

There was an echo of more ancient history in the Democratic camp, on the question of a Roman Catholic holding public office.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Protestant minister who is editor of the Christian Herald, brought up the matter in relation to the presidential aspirations of Sen. Kennedy.

Poling said he knew of a time when the Catholic Church exercised authority over Kennedy, who was then a member of the U.S. House, and caused him to cancel a promised appearance at a meeting in which Protestant and Jews were allowed to participate.

After several days, Kennedy's office got out a one-sentence comment: "All we can say is that the story is inaccurate."

The only Roman Catholic ever nominated for president by a major party was Alfred E. Smith, chosen by the Democrats in 1928.

There was a Republican-Catholic angle last week, too. Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Mich.), reported there has been considerabl talk of putting a Republican Catholic — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell—on the GOP ticket if the Democrats put Kennedy on their's.

Broomfield said there is no question but that Mitchell is running for the vice - presidential nomination.

Oddly enough, warnings against over - confidence were raised in both the Republican and Democratic camps.

GOP Chairman Thruston B. Morton said the odds as of today favor the GOP but, he added, there are more Democrats than there are Republicans and his party will have to attract some independent voters plus those President Eisenhower likes to call discerning Democrats.

One of the elder Democratic senators, John L. McClellan of Arkansas, put it this way: "As of now, the Democrats would win. But we may throw away our opportunity, perhaps with the wrong nominee or the character of the campaign."

And the ranking Democrat of them all, former President Harry S. Truman, cautioned: "You never can tell until the votes are counted."

Truman also set off a lot of guessing when he struck out at those Democrats he called "hothouse liberals, self - appointed guardians of liberal thinking."

He never would say who he was talking about. Speculation ranged over several individuals, but then Truman came along and praised these one and all.

Truman also impartially introduced seven "personal friends of mine" at a New York Democratic dinner honoring Eleanor Roosevelt. The seven: Adlai Stevenson, who lost to Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956; Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Kennedy, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey.

The sight of all these Democratic hopefuls gathered around Mrs. Roosevelt reminded one observer of an amateur cast playing "Life With Mother."

Stevenson won the most applause. Humphrey was next and Kennedy was third.

Pope Set To Preside At Confab

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXII will preside Monday at a secret consistory to elevate eight prelates of the Roman Catholic Church to its College of Cardinals.

Among them are two from the United States, both native sons of Milwaukee.

They are Archbishop Albert Gregory Meyer of Chicago and Archbishop Alois Joseph Muench, until now Bishop of Fargo, N.D. and for several years since the end of the war the Vatican's apostolic nuncio to Germany.

This week, the two cardinals-designate and future princes of the church met joyously at Rome's Ciampino air field when the Chicago Archbishop arrived for the consistory. Archbishop Muench had arrived earlier from Bonn.

With one exception, all the other six cardinals-designate are here for the consistory. The exception is Archbishop Paolo Marella, 64-year-old apostolic nuncio to France.

Following an old custom that exists between the Vatican and France, Archbishop Marella will receive official notification of his elevtion to the College of Cardinals in Paris, where he will also receive his biretta from President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Probers Hear Record In Oil Fray

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators heard a tape recording Friday of an oil company salesman trying to dictate the sales policy of a customer gasoline filling station.

F. H. Thompson, a service station operator at Atlanta, Ga., gave a House small business subcommittee the recording and a film as evidence that Sinclair oil salesman Thomas J. Lampkin tried to pressure him into buying Sinclair - approved auto accessories exclusively.

The film showed Lampkin rearranging his display shelves and removing non-Sinclair products to a back room. Thompson said both the film and the recording were made without Lampkin's knowledge.

Summoned before the committee, Lampkin conceded that his actions in this case were "close to dictatorial."

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.), is holding hearings on charges that major oil producers have pressured their dealers to handle their accessory products exclusively or face loss of their leases.

Thompson told the subcommittee he objected to the oil companies' "coercion or intimidation in pushing dealers around."

He testified that he made the tape recording of a conversation he had with Lampkin in his service station last Aug. 28.

In the recording, Lampkin told Thompson that Sinclair wanted him to carry a complete line of its products. He warned that Sinclair would not renew Thompson's lease on the service station if he tried to sell competitive products.

The recording showed that Thompson objected strenuously to Lampkin's threat.

'Messiah' Play To Be Presented At College Here

HANDEL'S "Messiah" will be presented by a community - college choir this afternoon at 3:30 in Brown Hall Auditorium on the Northeast Louisiana State College campus.

The well - known oratorio will be presented under the direction of Davis Bingham, choral director at Northeast, and will feature five soloists and the Messiah orchestra. No admission will be charged.

Many well - known Monroe personalities will be singing in the 120 - voice choir Sunday The group has been working on the production, which is a project of the Northeast Fine Arts Division, since about the middle of November.

The presentation of the "Messiah" has generally been an annual event, but was omitted from the agenda last year.This year is an attempt to reinstate this oratorio.

The production will have five soloists two coming from out -of-state, and three Monroyans. The soloists are Mrs. Mary Shelton, contralto, of Camden, Ark.; Kermit Breen, tenor, of Magnolia, Ark.; and Mrs. Eloise Temple Anspach, soprano, Palmer Jerrell, baritone, and Luther Burney, baritone, all of Monroe.

Jarrell and Burney are students at Northeast.

SET FOR APRIL

Census Planning Told By Bureau

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Buruea of Census gave Americans advance tips Saturday on questions to be asked next April when house-to-house enumerators make the regular 10-year count of the nation's population.

The tally is expected to show a population of 180 million persons, a million more than now.

A major result will be reapportionment of seats in the House of Representatives. States with big population gains will get more seats. Those with decreased population will lose seats.

There are now 437 seats, including one each created for Hawaii and Alaska when they were admitted to the Union. But after the census the total will drop back to the old level of 435.

In addition to the nose count, 160,000 census enumerators will take a housing census—the first such undertaking in U. S. history.

The population census actually will get underway late in March with the mailing of an advance form which 55 million householders are expected to have ready when the enumerators ring their doorbells starting April 1.

This will save time for everybody since the enumerators will simply transcribe the data to an official form.

At every fourth house the enumerators will leave a household questionnaire. On this form the householder will be asked to report more detailed information about relatives and the dwelling unit.

In the fall of 1960 the Census Bureau will begin publishing the nation and the states, counties, cities, towns and villages.

These will determine which official population figures for the states are entitled to more or fewer members in the House.

The forms to be sent by mail will ask for name, address, sex, color or race, date of birth, marital status and relationship to the head of the household.

The data to be reported about the dwelling includes the number of rooms, water supply and plumbing, cooking facilities, and whether the house is owned or rented. In cities the estimated value of homes or amount of rent will be requested.

The household questionnaire will ask questions such as state or country of birth, mother tongue, schooling, educational attainment, occupations, income, places of work and means of transportation to work, and equipment, facilities and appliances in the dwelling.

Householders will be asked to mail this form to their local census district office. There will be 400 such offices.

Before the census is completed, district supervisors will urge all persons to check with members of their households to be sure they have been counted. This is an important step in completing an accurate census.

After the census, district supervisors will announce preliminary totals for counties and towns of more than 10,000 inhabitants in their districts.

The census records will go to the census operations office at Jeffersonville, Ind., where the data collected will be microfilmed and sent on to Washington.

By law, the secretary of commerce must send to the President by Dec. 1, 1960, the final population total for each state and its number of seats in the House.

Three Persons Injured In Car Accident Here

Three persons were injured in a two-car collision here yesterday shortly before 11 a.m. at the intersection of DeSiard and McGuire streets.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kacurek, of Greenville, South Carolina, and their child, Terry, 5, were rushed to St. Francis hospital by Mulhearn ambulance, but were not critically injured. They remained in the hospital last night.

The crash occurred, police reported, as the Kacurek auto was heading east on DeSiard and collided with another vehicle crossing south across DeSiard at the intersection with McGuire.

Driver of the other auto was identified as Sam Hill, 1003 Powell Avenue. He was not injured, reports said.

Both cars were extensively damaged on the front fenders, investigating officers said.

Sen. Kennedy Likely To Be On National Scene A Lot

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

If you haven't yet seen Sen. John F. Kennedy in person, hold still. Unless you're a hermit, you probably will before next July.

Kennedy is by far the travelingest young man in an aggregation of non-official candidates now roaming the nation's byways in search of support for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

The Massachusetts senator has been flitting from state to state for three years, addressing rallies, speaking at civic club luncheons, riding in parades—and making friends.

Partly as a result of this furious activity, the bushy-haired young fellow who lost the 1956 Democratic vice presidential nomination to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in a dramatic televised floor battle has become identified as the leading contender for top place on the Democratic ticket.

Kennedy has a lengthy list of assets which will help him in the Democratic presidential derby next July at Los Angeles.

At 42 he is boyishly handsome, carrying a slim 160 pounds on his 6-foot frame, topped by a shock unruly brown hair that is almost a trade mark. He has a blue-eyed, open-faced look, a friendly smile, and a studied casualness in dress and demeanor.

Kennedy doesn't talk about how women are obviously attracted toward him, except to note with a smile that there are two million more women voters than men. Even when he takes his attractive wife along with him on political trips, the impression he makes on women politicians is something his rivals marvel at.

As a realist, Kennedy talks in plain language to the voters, usually with a brevity not associated with politicians. As a writer he knows literature and doesn't hesitate to appeal to the eggheads by quoting classics.

As a young fellow who started out to be a writer and ended up by giving writers something to write about, Kennedy is widely known to those who read books.

A thesis he wrote as a Harvard undergraduate at 23, "Why England Slept," sold 80,000 copies as a book. His "Profiles in Courage" was on the best-seller list for more than a year.

Kennedy also has an enviable war record. When his PT boat was rammed and sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the Pacific, he helped save the weak swimmers in his crew and led them in a long swim to safety.

But Kennedy has some political liabilities, too.

He is a Roman Catholic, the first to come within striking distance of the presidential nomination since Al Smith. Kennedy thinks his catholicism will balance out among the voters.

His chances of having this balance struck were not helped by the recent surge of public attention to the world population problem and what should be done about it. The Catholic Church is adamantly opposed to birth control through use of contraceptives, the remedy usually proposed to hold down population in underdeveloped areas.

Whether or not Kennedy's convictions on birth control would affect his decisions as President of the United States, the discussion has centered attention on the fact he is a Catholic and projected a religious issue into the campaign.

As a New Englander, Kennedy used to vote against the subsidies and other legislation aimed at aiding the Midwestern and Southern farmers. Now he has changed his tune.

Eleanor Roosevelt, who still packs something of a political wallop, continues to be displeased with Kennedy because he took no stand on the Senate's censure resolution against the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis). Kennedy was ill and away at the time the Senate vote was taken.

In the category of uncertain assets or liabilities is Kennedy's youthful appearance. The American voter has leaned in the past to more mature types. There have been a few notable exceptions, such as Theodore Roosevelt.

While he has changed course on some issues, Kennedy also has displayed some political fortitude. Although the Republicans accused him of voting on both sides when the 1957 civil rights bill was passed, he chose a Jackson, Miss., Democratic rally to reaffirm his acceptance of the Supreme Court opinion on school desegregation.

In direct opposition to what looked like the weight of Massachusetts opinion, Kennedy supported the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Kennedy is a rich man. His father, Joseph P. Kennedy, industrial financier and former ambassador to Great Britain, set up a million-dollar trust fund for him when he was 9. Rich men are not so much frowned upon now as they once were in political races. And it's nice to be able to campaign extensively without worrying too much about the cost.

By and large, Kennedy's record in the Senate is a controversial one, capped by his sponsorship of a compromise labor reform bill this year.

As the third-ranking Democrat on the Senate's Labor and Public Welfare Committee, Kennedy is in the thick of legislation that affects a wide range of voters. He loses few opportunities to attempt to impress those voters that he is mindful of their wellbeing.

It was his intensive campaigning—little talks at teas, luncheons and informal gatherings—that apparently gave Kennedy the boost he needed when he knocked off Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., in 1952. Before he even announced for the Senate, Kennedy had visited each of Massachusetts' 351 cities and towns.

Kennedy won by 70,000 votes then, in the face of President Eisenhower's landslide. He was reelected in 1958 by a record margin of 874,608 votes out of about two million.

He obviously is now trying to apply the same campaign formula on a national scale.

Jet Craft Bearing On Oil Industry

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jet aircraft are affecting future planning within the oil pipeline industry.

The jets have such heavy appetites for petroleum they create supply and transportation problems. The answer seems to be an increasing number of pipelines to airports.

One turbojet can consume 2,400 gallons of fuel an hour. This is five times the appetite of most modern but concentional aircraft.

Some jet airports already are being serviced by pipeline. One oil executive believes such lines will be a major factor in the pipe line industry's future growth.

"It appears these markets and the jet age which fostered them velopment," said W. S. Spangler, are only in early stages of device president of Humble Pipe Line Co.

Current crude oil pipe line capacity appears to be adequate for some years to come but Spangler is confident new or proposed applications of products to pipelines assure the industry's continued rapid growth.

He believes such petroleum products as jet fuel, petrochemicals, and liquefied gases will dominate such growth.

"But there are areas in which pipelining may assume new roles in the coming decade," he said.

Spangler said many persons in the transportation industry are watching with interest these recent or proposed applications for products pipelines:

The movement of pulverized coal by pipeline from Cadiz to Cleveland, Ohio.

"Also considered eligible for transportation by pipeline are grain, wood chips, salt, and several other products," he said.

An estimated 20 per cent of all refined products currently are being moved through pipelines. Some 934 million barrels were transported in this manner last year, a 200 per cent increase in 10 years.

Interstate oil pipeline companies operate about 75 per cent of the nation's trunk and gathering capacity. Last year these 84 companies had 143,000 miles of line in 43 states and Washington, D.C. Last year's volume of crude and products handled exceeded 3 billion 800 million barrels.

Volume handled increased 72 per cent in 10 years. The total number of line, however, increased only 16 per cent in that the emphasis was on larger-diameter lines.

But Kennedy has some political liabilities, too.

He is a Roman Catholic, the first to come within striking distance of the presidential nomination since Al Smith. Kennedy thinks his catholicism will balance out among the voters.

His chances of having this balance struck were not helped by the recent surge of public attention to the world population problem and what should be done about it. The Catholic Church is adamantly opposed to birth control through use of contraceptives, the remedy usually proposed to hold down population in underdeveloped areas.

Whether or not Kennedy's convictions on birth control would affect his decisions as President of the United States, the discussion has centered attention on the fact he is a Catholic and projected a religious issue into the campaign.

As a New Englander, Kennedy used to vote against the subsidies and other legislation aimed at aiding the Midwestern and Southern farmers. Now he has changed his tune.

Eleanor Roosevelt, who still packs something of a political wallop, continues to be displeased with Kennedy because he took no stand on the Senate's censure resolution against the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis). Kennedy was ill and away at the time the Senate vote was taken.

In the category of uncertain assets or liabilities is Kennedy's youthful appearance. The American voter has leaned in the past to more mature types. There have been a few notable exceptions, such as Theodore Roosevelt.

While he has changed course on some issues, Kennedy also has displayed some political fortitude. Although the Republicans accused him of voting on both sides when the 1957 civil rights bill was passed, he chose a Jackson, Miss., Democratic rally to reaffirm his acceptance of the Supreme Court opinion on school desegregation.

In direct opposition to what looked like the weight of Massachusetts opinion, Kennedy supported the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Kennedy is a rich man. His father, Joseph P. Kennedy, industrial financier and former ambassador to Great Britain, set up a million-dollar trust fund for him when he was 9. Rich men are not so much frowned upon now as they once were in political races. And it's nice to be able to campaign extensively without worrying too much about the cost.

By and large, Kennedy's record in the Senate is a controversial one, capped by his sponsorship of a compromise labor reform bill this year.

As the third-ranking Democrat on the Senate's Labor and Public Welfare Committee, Kennedy is in the thick of legislation that affects a wide range of voters. He loses few opportunities to attempt to impress those voters that he is mindful of their wellbeing.

It was his intensive campaigning—little talks at teas, luncheons and informal gatherings—that apparently gave Kennedy the boost he needed when he knocked off Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., in 1952. Before he even announced for the Senate, Kennedy had visited each of Massachusetts' 351 cities and towns.

Kennedy won by 70,000 votes then, in the face of President Eisenhower's landslide. He was re-elected in 1958 by a record margin of 874,608 votes out of about two million.

He obviously is now trying to apply the same campaign formula on a national scale.

Jet Craft Bearing On Oil Industry

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jet aircraft are affecting future planning within the oil pipeline industry.

The jets have such heavy appetites for petroleum they create supply and transportation problems. The answer seems to be an increasing number of pipelines to airports.

One turbojet can consume 2,400 gallons of fuel an hour. This is five times the appetite of most modern but concentional aircraft.

Some jet airports already are being serviced by pipeline. One oil executive believes such lines will be a major factor in the pipe line industry's future growth.

"It appears these markets and the jet age which fostered them velopment," said W. S. Spangler, are only in early stages of device president of Humble Pipe Line Co.

Current crude oil pipe line capacity appears to be adequate for some years to come but Spangler is confident new or proposed applications of products to pipelines assure the industry's continued rapid growth.

He believes such petroleum products as jet fuel, petrochemicals, and liquefied gases will dominate such growth.

"But there are areas in which pipelining may assume new roles in the coming decade," he said.

Spangler said many persons in the transportation industry are watching with interest these recent or proposed applications for products pipelines:

The movement of pulverized coal by pipeline from Cadiz to Cleveland, Ohio.

"Also considered eligible for transportation by pipeline are grain, wood chips, salt, and several other products," he said.

An estimated 20 per cent of all refined products currently are being moved through pipelines. Some 934 million barrels were transported in this manner last year, a 200 per cent increase in 10 years.

Interstate oil pipeline companies operate about 75 per cent of the nation's trunk and gathering capacity. Last year these 84 companies had 143,000 miles of line in 43 states and Washington, D.C. Last year's volume of crude and products handled exceeded 3 billion 800 million barrels.

Volume handled increased 72 per cent in 10 years. The total number of line, however, increased only 16 per cent in that the emphasis was on larger-diameter lines.

Aptitude Tests Not Conclusive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Columbia University professors said Saturday that a four-year study indicates that aptitude tests can not select the best career for an individual nor indicate the success and satisfaction he will achieve in any line of work.

They said such tests can help place an individual within a wide range of suitable occupations with a good deal of accuracy, but can not tell him whether he would be a better doctor than he would be a lawyer.

Profs. Robert L. Thorndike and Elizabeth Hagen checked on the postwar occupations of 10,000 aviation cadets who took a battery of aptitude tests in 1943. The study was made in cooperation with the Veterans Administration and the Air Force, with a $64,000 research grant from the Grant Foundation.

The researchers concluded from the study that the widespread use of aptitude tests to predict signs of success in an occupation should be stopped.

Thorndike said the study was undertaken in the hope the results would lead to "fewer square pegs in round holes" when placing people in jobs. He said it actually showed, however, that "there is no unique round hole for a particular roundish peg."

The airmen were tested for perceptual speed, reading comprehension, arithmetic reasoning, mechanical understanding, two-hand coordination and eye - hand coordiation.

The professors analyzed their scores in relation to their later civilian occupations.

Their study showed no indication that persons who deviate from the typical occupational pattern could not get into or be successful in a particular job.

It found some individuals with relatively low numerical ability and others with high mechanical ability had become accountants.

Ward 1 Fire District Meet Slated Friday

Ward 1 citizens interested in the development of a fire protection district will meet Friday night at 7:30 to discuss latest developments in the proposal. A fire district has already been established.

F. G. (Red)Studdard, ward 1 police juror, will conduct the meeting. Studdard, acting secretary - treasurer of the fire district, called the meeting and urged "all ward 1 people to attend."

"We want to hear from the people as to just how extensively they want to development a fire protection system for the ward," Studdard said.

Studdard called on "every interested person" to be present at the meeting at A. L. Smith school in Sterlington.

Among the things to be discussed in connection with the fire district, Studdard said, will be the type of protection desired and the cost. "We hope to determine at this meeting about how much the people are willing to spend in order to provide whatever fire protection they want," according to Studdard.

Studdard indicated that a new tax millage will be required to finance the establishment of a fire protection system.

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury has already taken initial steps by creating the ward 1 fire district.

If a system of buildings and fire fighting equipment are secured, it is likely that a bond issue for the ward will be the only means of financing.

Problems Of The Retarded Child Heard

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — An organization to help retarded children conducted a question - and - answer session at the high school here last week. Mrs. F. M. Terral gave information to the group on gaining consent of parents for enrolling children in courses to aid their training.

She said that consent is necessary for maximum participation.

L. L. Kilgore, principal of Lake Providence High School, spoke on "The Problem of Finding a Qualified Teachers." He dealt with the problems involved in training for the retarded child. Ormond Patrick, principal at Transylvania Junior High School told of the values of a program to teach the child to take care of himself.

The group meets once a month. They will meet again Jan. 12.

Tallulah Doctor Succumbs After Lengthy Illness

TALLULAH (Special)—Dr. William Dean Hall Allen, 48, of Tallulah died Saturday at a Jackson, La., hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was a native of Tallulah, and had practiced medicine here since 1937. He was a member of the Methodist Church, American Medical Association, Louisiana State Medical Society, and the Tri-Parish Medical Society.

Services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Tallulah Methodist Church with the Rev. William F. Mayo officiating.

Interment will be in the Silver Cross Cemetery under the direction of Youngs Funeral Home of Tallulah. The body will lie in state at Young's until time for services Sunday.

Survivors are two daughters, Carolyn Allen, New Orleans and Beverly Allen, Plaquemine; one son, William Allen, Baton Rouge.

Jena Choir Performance Set Tuesday

JENA (Special) — The Story of the First Christmas, consisting of nine Christmas anthems depicting the various events in the birth of Christ, will be presented Tuesday night, at 7:30 in the Jena high school auditorium. Sponsored by the Jena high school Parent-Teacher's club, the annual event will be all- choral this year. Combined with beautiful color slides the anthems represent unusual carols from all over the world. The chorus, composed of members of various choirs in town, has been hard at work for the last month and is regarded as an outstanding ensemble by Carl Balius, director.

"The singers have blended their talents into a first - rate chorus in an amazingly short time," he stated.

The program follows in this order by the choir:

"O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," 13th Century; "Thus Did the Angel Sing," Early English; "Venite Adoremus," Traditional; "Rise Up Shepherd and Follow," Spiritual; "Mary's Song," Italian Folk Song; "The Noel Star," Austrian Melody; "Bethlehem, Where All is Still, French Flanders: "Ye Monarchs Three," Old English; and "Give to the World Thy Peace," J. B. Molitor.

Soloists for the occasion are Mrs. W. M. Palmer, soprano; Mrs. Robert Wagner, soprano; Mrs. Lavessa Erwin, soprano; Miss Patty Simmons, contralto; Mr. R. M. Reeves, bass.

The choir will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. S. R. Poland. The narrator will be the Rev. A. G. Taylor. The invocation will be by the Rev. V. T. Bradford and the benediction by the Rev. K. G. Brooks. Projectionist will be Bubba Hawthorne.

Pallbearers will be H. C. Sevier Jr., R. W. Gandy, Rufus T. Yerger, Dr. George Webb, Don Devier, Cliff Adams, R. R. Spigener, and Maxwell Yerger.

9-Year Home Building Record Likely

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Home building is setting a nine-year high in 1959 but a 1960 downturn is in store.

The Commerce Department's annual review and outlook for the construction industry estimates that private housing starts in 1959 will total 1,325,000 dwelling units.

This would top the 1,310,000 starts posted in 1955 and be second only to the 1,352,000 units begun in 1950.

The official forecast for 1960 is 1,200,000 dwelling units, a goodly volume in comparison to most recent years but, according to some authorities, not enough to meet the country's housing needs.

The reason given by the Commerce Department for the downturn is the tight supply of mortgage funds. Construction is picking up in other lines and business investment generally is expanding. The result is a mounting demand for the supply of loan dollars, which the Federal Reserve Board is not letting grow apace—its way of preventing excessive demand pressures on prices and inflation.

A noteworthy feature of the residential building pattern the experts sketch for 1960 is more apartments and fewer houses. This would continue a trend of multiple dwelling units gaining on one-family houses.

According to housing officials, apartment house construction is less vulnerable to the squeeze of high interest rates because such projects are more speculative. Investors in them are not deterred by an extra quarter-point in interest charges. Lenders are said to prefer a big project because it lowers incidental lending costs.

Some officials say the 1960 downturn will be more of a leveling off than a genuine decline. These observers maintain that the big pickup this year—from 1,141,500 starts in 1958—was artificially stimulated by the government's 1958 anti-recession efforts. Hence 1960 will be a "paying back" of some starts "borrowed" in 1959.

This view concludes that housing starts are sliding into a more normal level at 1,200,000 a year, a pace which is likely to be sustained for several years.

There is widespread agreement that the spurt in home building this year was heavily influenced by the government's 1958 billion-dollar mortgage purchase program. Key members of Congress already have hinted that they might favor some revival of the program next year.

The decline began in May, after April housing starts hit an annual rate of 1,434,000 units. By October the rate was down to 1,180,000. Commerce Department experts doubt that November and December figures will be much lower. They expect smaller monthly changes in 1960 than the wide fluctuations of 1959.

9-Year-Old Suicides Over Grief At Death

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—The body of a 9-year-old boy—whose grief over the death of his father drove him to suicide—was found in a river Friday, six hours after his dad's funeral.

Little Jimmy Rukstalis vanished from home Tuesday—vowing that he would jump into the river because his father had died unexpectedly of a heart attack.

Firemen, police and volunteers from several communities joined a round-the-clock search for the youngster in the hope of finding him alive so he could attend the funeral held Friday morning.

Neighbors said Jimmy's family was very poor. But poverty didn't prevent Jimmy and his dad from going on frequent fishing trips together.

"He was a very friendly kid, very affectionate and very well liked by everyone," said Ico Rukstalis, an uncle. "He and his father went around a lot together. They were real chums."

Stephen L. Rukstalis, 49, was a machinist. He had been ill from a collapsed lung but was due to return to work Monday. He suffered the heart attack Tuesday.

Heartbroken, Jimmy ran from home, saying that he would throw himself into the river which he loved so much.

Woman Suicides After Life Of Tragic Mishaps

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — A woman whose life had been shattered by personal tragedy of almost unbelievable proportions was found dead in her apartment here Friday, apparently a suicide victim.

Police said Mrs. Mary Louise Phillips, 35, left a death note saying she had ended her life with a "good slug of Scotch whiskey," eight seconal pills and a dose of cyanide.

Friends told officers that Mrs. Phillips was scheduled to be married last week-end. But at the last moment she received word her fiance was killed in an industrial accident in the East.

They also revelead all three of Mrs. Phillips' husbands had died as well as six of her seven children.

One husband and four of the children were killed in an automobile accident. Mrs. Phillips, a former biochemist at the California Institute of Technology, was ill at the time and put their fifth child out for adoption.

9-Year Home Building Record Likely

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Home building is setting a nine-year high in 1959 but a 1960 downturn is in store.

The Commerce Department's annual review and outlook for the construction industry estimates that private housing starts in 1959 will total 1,325,000 dwelling units.

This would top the 1,310,000 starts posted in 1955 and be second only to the 1,352,000 units begun in 1950.

The official forecast for 1960 is 1,200,000 dwelling units, a goodly volume in comparison to most recent years but, according to some authorities, not enough to meet the country's housing needs.

The reason given by the Commerce Department for the downturn is the tight supply of mortgage funds. Construction is picking up in other lines and business investment generally is expanding. The result is a mounting demand for the supply of loan dollars, which the Federal Reserve Board is not letting grow apace—its way of preventing excessive demand pressures on prices and inflation.

A noteworthy feature of the residential building pattern the experts sketch for 1960 is more apartments and fewer houses. This would continue a trend of multiple dwelling units gaining on one-family houses.

According to housing officials, apartment house construction is less vulnerable to the squeeze of high interest rates because such projects are more speculative. Investors in them are not deterred by an extra quarter-point in interest charges. Lenders are said to prefer a big project because it lowers incidental lending costs.

Some officials say the 1960 downturn will be more of a leveling off than a genuine decline. These observers maintain that the big pickup this year—from 1,141,500 starts in 1958—was artificially stimulated by the government's 1958 anti-recession efforts. Hence 1960 will be a "paying back" of some starts "borrowed" in 1959.

This view concludes that housing starts are sliding into a more normal level at 1,200,000 a year, a pace which is likely to be sustained for several years.

There is widespread agreement that the spurt in home building this year was heavily influenced by the government's 1958 billion-dollar mortgage purchase program. Key members of Congress already have hinted that they might favor some revival of the program next year.

The decline began in May, after April housing starts hit an annual rate of 1,434,000 units. By October the rate was down to 1,180,000. Commerce Department experts doubt that November and December figures will be much lower. They expect smaller monthly changes in 1960 than the wide fluctuations of 1959.

9-Year-Old Suicides Over Grief At Death

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—The body of a 9-year-old boy—whose grief over the death of his father drove him to suicide—was found in a river Friday, six hours after his dad's funeral.

Little Jimmy Rukstalis vanished from home Tuesday—vowing that he would jump into the river because his father had died unexpectedly of a heart attack.

Firemen, police and volunteers from several communities joined a round-the-clock search for the youngster in the hope of finding him alive so he could attend the funeral held Friday morning.

Neighbors said Jimmy's family was very poor. But poverty didn't prevent Jimmy and his dad from going on frequent fishing trips together.

"He was a very friendly kid, very affectionate and very well liked by everyone," said Ieo Rukstalis, an uncle. "He and his father went around a lot together. They were real chums."

Stephen L. Rukstalis, 49, was a machinist. He had been ill from a collapsed lung but was due to return to work Monday. He suffered the heart attack Tuesday.

Heartbroken, Jimmy ran from home, saying that he would throw himself into the river which he loved so much.

Woman Suicides After Life Of Tragic Mishaps

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — A woman whose life had been shattered by personal tragedy of almost unbelievable proportions was found dead in her apartment here Friday, apparently a suicide victim.

Police said Mrs. Mary Louise Phillips, 35, left a death note saying she had ended her life with a "good slug of Scotch whiskey," eight seconal pills and a dose of cyanide.

Friends told officers that Mrs. Phillips was scheduled to be married last week-end. But at the last moment she received word her fiance was killed in an industrial accident in the East.

They also revelead all three of Mrs. Phillips' husbands had died as well as six of her seven children.

One husband and four of the children were killed in an automobile accident. Mrs. Phillips, a former biochemist at the California Institute of Technology, was ill at the time and put their fifth child out for adoption.

PASSMAN AT JONESBORO

Full Text Of His Speech Given

(Editor's note: Due to the fact that some vicious and untrue rumors have been circulated concerning Congressman Otto E. Passman's speech at Jonesboro last Thursday, The world today prints the text of the speech.

"My Friends:

"For fear of being either unintentionally or intentionally misquoted and this being the first time in eight years that I have endorsed the candidacy of any candidate for public office except my own, I prefer to read my address today so that there can be no misunderstanding as to what I say.

"I am proud to offer my support to Jimmie Davis for election as the next Governor of our great State of Louisiana. Thinking solely of the best interests of our State and all its people, there are numerous sound reasons why I take this action and bespeak also your active support in his behalf.

"Jimmie Davis has compiled a clear-cut record of public service — in the public interest — as a public school and college teacher, as a high-ranking official of the City of Shreveport, as a Louisiana Public Service Commissioner, and, more important, through four constructive years as Governor of Louisiana.

"I voluntarily and enthusiastically support him in this campaign — and, in complete good conscience, sincerely hope that you, too, will do so.

"This course of action is taken by me because, after careful study of all the factors involved, I am firmly convinced that Governor Davis is exceptionally well qualified to administer, with maximum benefit to the State and its citizens, the duties of Louisiana's highest public office. His background, his training, his experience — and, most of all, his record of performance in public life — recommend him most highly.

FURTHERMORE

"Furthermore, Governor Davis is known by those who know him best as a man of the finest personal character — a man who has proved himself a true Christian, and a gentleman in the fullest sense of the meaning of the word.

"This political campaign — throughout which Jimmie Davis has conducted himself with dignity of a nature that is indeed rare in the circumstances, while himself the target of many vicious and unfounded personal attacks — demonstrates conclusively the sterling quality of his personality and character.

"Jimmie Davis, of humble beginnings, is an individual who retains his humility.

"He is well educated, both in his formal schooling and in the practical school of life and hard knocks.

"His experience has been broad.

"His success has been substantial — in both government and private enterprise, including business and farming.

"Through all of these years, his services have been valuable to his fellow-man.

"Governor Davis has amply demonstrated that, as I do, he believes in — and works for — fiscal soundness in government.

"The record of his achievements as Governor of Louisiana for the 1944-48 term in unquestionably commendable. This is so despite the fact that conditions prevailing in the War and post-War years prevented him from seeing to completion numerous worthwhile physical improvements.

"But nevertheless he accomplished as much along these lines as could have reasonably been expected — more, even, than most of our governors.

"And he did these things, along with many other sound achievements and constructive public services, without increasing taxes, without spending beyond the State's means. He left, in fact, more than fifty million dollars in State's general fund, for use by the succeeding Administration.

"No person can successfully contradict the statement of fact that Governor Davis' record in handling public funds — in carrying on the people's business — merits the approval of every Louisiana taxpayer.

"He has pledged himself to another term of businesslike administration of public affairs in Louisiana — the biggest business in the State. And it is certain that there is no greater need than this in public life — on every level of government, Federal, State and Local.

"It is imperative that we begin, once again, to live within our means in government, or our cherished form of government itself is in serious danger of crumbling. We must Halt the practice of mortgaging, through government, the lives of generations of citizens yet unborn.

"Jimmie Davis proved when he was governor before that he concurs in these views. Based upon his record, I have no doubt that he will prove it again when he is Governor during the next four years.

"Governor Davis has also proved himself in the extremely important issues of States' rights and segregation.

"And he is now pledged, without equivocation or mental reservation to work diligently and unceasingly as Governor to maintain segregation in our public schools.

"As a former schoolteacher himself, there can be no doubt that he understands full well the necessity for this — its basic importance to all the people.

"It is gratifying also to know that we have a man to choose as our Governor — Jimmie Davis — who declares, firmly and positively, that he will have nothing whatsoever to do with, and rejects support from the NAACP and, further, from Jimmie Hoffa, Harry Bridges, and others of similar ill repute and character.

"As your member of Congress for the past 13 years — in the thick of the fight, on the firing lines where the major battles are fought — I am certainly keenly aware of the need for, and value of, a Governor of our great State who stands foursquare in his beliefs and actions on these matters which are of the utmost importance to each one of us — and to our State, the Southland, and our Nation.

"I want to repeat to you now, my friends, that my support of Jimmie Davis in this campaign was unsolicited.

"I went to Jimmie Davis about this. Jimmie Davis did not come to me.

"Our Heavenly Father and you good people of Louisiana — and particlarly those of you of the Fifth Congressional District — have blessed me abundantly in many ways. Therefore, I not only tender my personal support to Jimmie Davis, but shall, out of my savings, make a monetary contribution to his campaign fund.

"I do this in the interest of good government for our beloved State.

"I do this because we have a pressing need in public life for people such as Jimmie Davis, who, fortunately for all the people of Louisiana, possesses outstanding ability, sterling character and great dignity.

"Before concluding these brief remarks, it should be recalled again at this point, I think, that as Jimmie Davis had such an humble beginning he understands well — and with sympathy — the problems of our aged and needy citizens.

"I thank you. And may God bless you."

OF FOOD QUALITY

Debate Rages On Standardization

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some people question whether it is proper for the government to enter the nation's processing plants and markets to set up quality standards for food.

It is being debated among processors, distributors and consumer groups as a consequence of action of the Department of Agriculture in suspending for a year its grading service for lamb and mutton, beginning Jan. 4.

The department did this because, it said, the meat industry —including producers—could not agree on standards for this meat. Its action served to bring into the open a sharp conflict over grading of other commodities, including beef and veal.

The department now sets quality standards for such other products as poultry, eggs, butter, cheese, non-fat dry milk, rice, dry beans and peas, fresh fruits and vegetables and processed fruits and vegetables, cotton, grains, honey and sugar products, soybeans, hides and skins, tobacco and naval stores products.

Many consumers have been accustomed to buying foods by the U.S. grades. Most grades are stamped or printed on the products, or their wrappers or containers. The grades for consumers are preceded by the letters "U.S." and are enclosed in a shield-shaped mark.

Grades are designed to offer a choice of quality so a consumer could pick the one best suitable, such as top grade of eggs for poaching or frying, lower grades for scrambling or combining with other foods.

The use of U.S. grades for consumers is strictly voluntuary. The food processor, handler, or producer, must request the grading service, if he wants it, and he must pay a fee for it.

There is no argument in the food industry over the need for grades and grading. The need for sorting of meat and most other foods in some manner arises because they are heterogenerous in character. Meat carcasses, for instance. come off the killing line in all sizes, shapes and degrees of fatness.

There are those in industry who contend that the job of grading should be left to the processors or producers themselves. They argue that competition would force good grading because those who offered the best quality products at lowest prices would prevail over those who didn't.

Much of the support for and development of government grading has come under influence of mass distribution of foods by chain stores.

These stores buy immense quantities and sell in a highly systemized operation. They say that without uniformly accepted grades —either government or private— trading in meat and many other products would have to revert largely to bargaining involving personal inspection of each carcass of meat or lot of fruit or vegetables or other products. This would be time-consuming and costly.

Private graders and government graders could be equally competent. But there is the important difference that in private grading there would be as many sets or grades or standards as grading firms. In federal grading there is a single set aimed at national uniformity.

Hence, many big buyers insist upon federally graded products. This insistence forces many processing firms to have their products graded by the government if they are to find markets.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) —"My name's Tiko. I was working out of the zoo division Friday when I spotted this woman walking down the street. It was 2:30 p.m.

"I followed her.

"She spotted me and took me back to the house where she had seen me leave. She rang the bell. No answer. I walked into the house like I held the mortgage. It worked. She left. I followed her again.

"She tried to duck into her own house, but I stayed close. She called police. When they got there I was looking for evidence in the cupboard. I found some and ate it. It was food all right.

"The police got right on my case. They located my owner. It was explained to the officers and Mrs. Joseph G. Smith that I — a trained chimpanzee if you must know—had been hired to hang around a clothing store as an eye catcher—a come-on—a gimmick—you know.

"Then my owner turned in a stool-type pigeon—spilled the coconuts that is. Mrs. Smith and the law found out that I had escaped from my caretaker in the neighborhood.

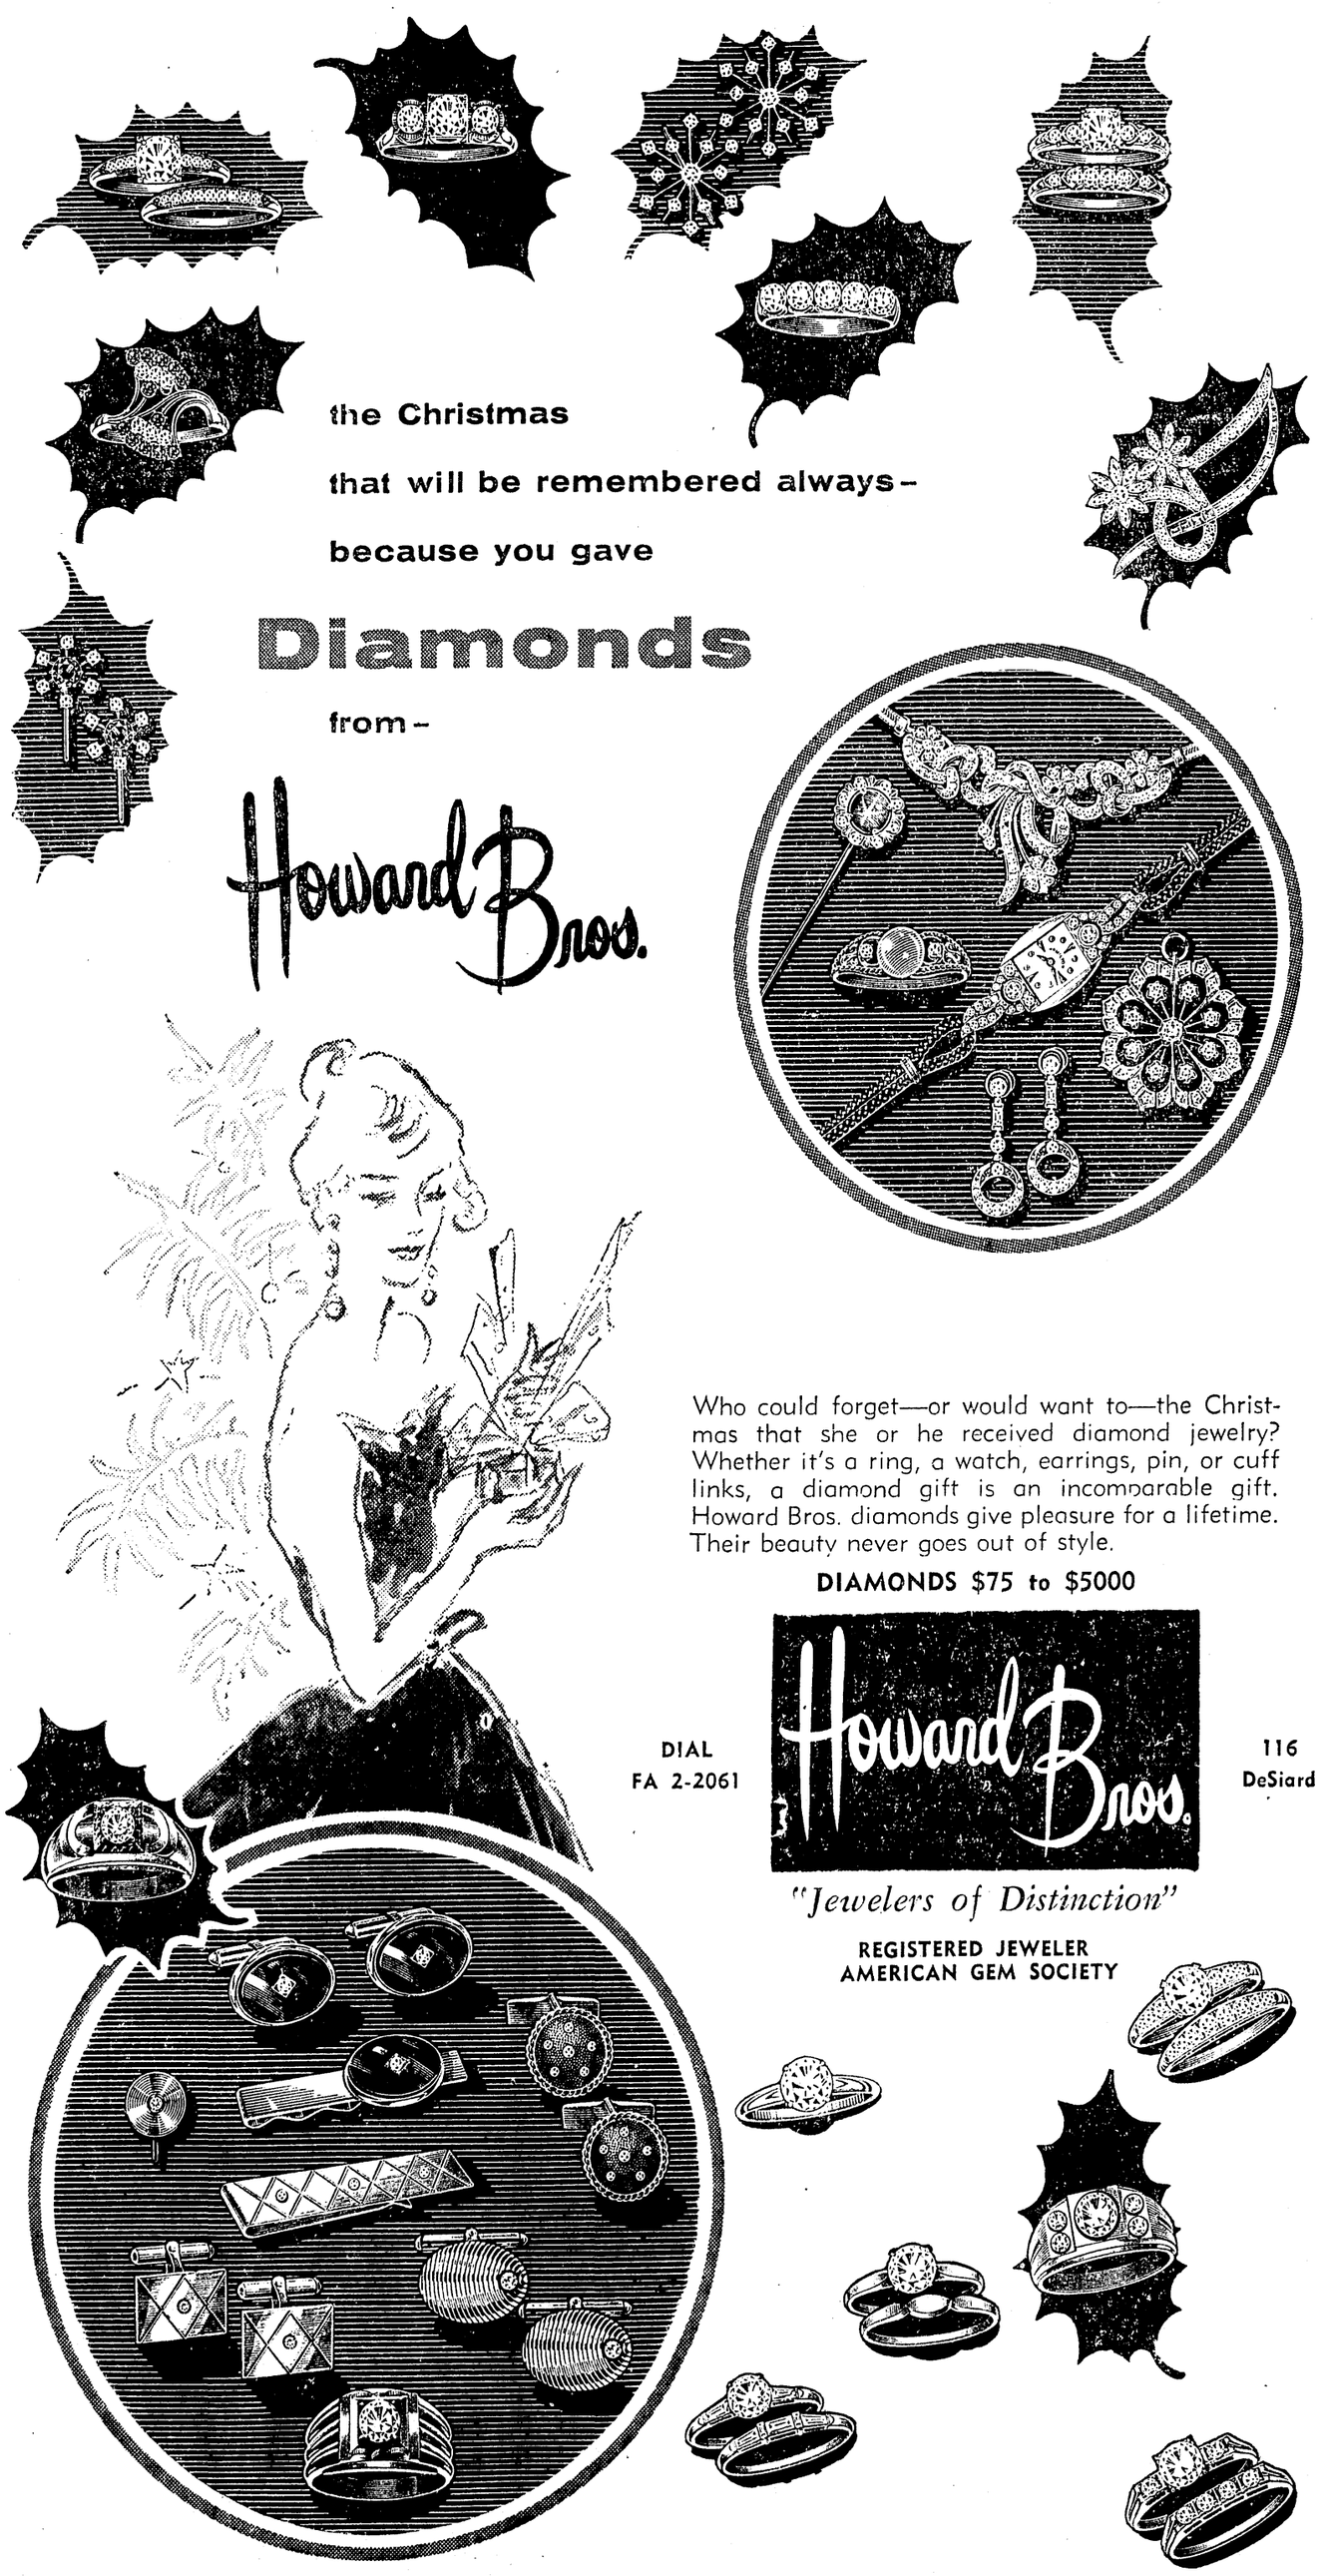

"Mrs. Smith told the police she didn't mind my hanging around her place so much. But she objected to my eating potato chips and wiping my face on her curtains.

"Mrs. Smith, who it turns out is a cafeteria worker at East High School, said she had told me to go home when she first saw me trailing her but I had 'such big brown eyes.'

"She kept saying how funny it all was and how it was the 'most thrilling and exciting experience I've had in my life." She said how she felt kind of sorry for me since I had a cold, a bad cough, and a runny nose.

"You know. I just flew in from New York Wednesday with my handler, and I'm in trouble already, and I'd beter produce at the store."

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Protestant ministers report an increase in religious freedom in Cuba since the Caribbean isle swapped Dictator Batista for Revolutionry Castro.

The trio, the Revs. Clair Hutchins of Colonia, N.J.; Heman Sweet of Wallingford, Conn.; and Dr. Frank Stranges of New York, were in Cuba preparing for an evangelism campaign next winter.

MORGANTOWN, Ky.—"I'm just a country preacher who wanted to be a lawyer or politician," says Dr. Walter O. Parr.

Dr. Parr, who has in his charge three rural Presbyterian churches in western Kentucky, did take a fling at politics 15 years ago. He ran for Congress in Kentucky—and lost.

Now 59, he has not only preached rural development, but brought in agricultural experts for practical advise to his congregations.

Perhaps his biggest project has been organizing private foreign aid. In recent years he has loaded eight freighters with supplies for the needy overseas.

His next vessel will be known as the Barkley Friendship, in honor of the late Sen. Alben Barkely of Kentucky. Dr. Parr hopes it will leave for Korea next summer.

Korea is his special interest. In 1952, while a minister in Texas, he saw his Marine son off to war with advice about "looking to the future."

Sgt. Walter O. Parr Jr., replied bitterly: "In a world like this, what's a young man to look forward to?"

After the farewell, Dr. Parr made a silent vow.

"If my son returns," he told himself, "I will load a ship like that troopship and sent it to Korea with things of peace and goodwill."

The son returned. The vow was kept.

Dr. Parr organized the Texas Friendship Committee from his office at Fort Worth.

The Texas Friendship, loaded with donated farm animals, tools and food left for Korea in 1955. With tears in his eyes, Korean President Syngman Rhee personaly thanked Dr. Parr, who had gone along on the ship.

A year later a 4-H Friendship sailed for Korea, and the trend was established.

New Twist Told For 1960 Census

WASHINGTON (AP)—A couple of do-it-yourself gimmicks to be used in next year's census will save the government considerable time.

The Census Bureau made public Saturday one of two do-it-yourself forms—a four-page item that will be mailed to the nation's 55 million households late in March.

Householders will be asked to fill out this form before census takers make personal visits starting April 1. The census takers, officially called the enumerators, then will merely copy down the information instead of asking questions that might be difficult to answer on the spur of the moment.

The bureau tested this advance from last February in two South Carolina counties. It said use of the form had cut the average visit of the census taker to 7 minutes from about 15 minutes and produced more accurate information.

Basic questions on the advance form include: names of all residents of the household; address, sex, color or race; date of birth; marital status; number of rooms in the household; whether the dwelling is owned or rented, and whether it has running water, plumbing and cooking facilities.

In addition, census takers will leave at every fourth household a somewhat longer form asking more detailed questions about the dwelling and its residents.

Householders will be asked to fill this out themselves and mail it promptly to the locan census office. In past head counts, census takers took about 20 minutes to get answers to this second set of questions. This time they will have only to copy down the answers after the forms are received by mail.

The advance form to be sent to all households carries a message from Census Director Robert W. Burgess.

"The information that you are required to furnish is held confidential by law," Burgess writes. "Your census report cannot be used for purposes of taxation, investigation, or regulation."

Burgess also said the 1960 census will be the basis for reapportioning the 437 seats in the House of Representatives, which are assigned on the basis of population.

Final total population figures for each state must be sent to the President by next Dec. 1. Preliminary totals for counties and places with 10,000 or more inhabitants will be announced by district offices much sooner, some by late April.

Field reports will be sent to an operations office at Jeffersonville, Ind., where they will be microfimed before being forwarded to Washington for compilation by electronic computers.

The last big census was in 1950.

DEER FATALITIES

Big Selling Hits Soybean Market Hard

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavy selling near the end of the week had soybean futures prices on the verge of collapse and within two or three cents of their lowest prices for the season on the Board of Trade.

Grains also were under light to moderate selling pressure throughout the period and the entire list finished without a single plus sign.

The setbacks in soybeans, the broadest in several weeks, ran to almost seven cents a bushel in spots with more than five cents of it charged up on the last two days.

The decline, fairly steady since season highs were reached about six weeks ago, had knocked more than 15 cents off the best prices at that time. Meanwhile, though, the open interest in the commodity continued to climb steadily to a succession of new record highs and by the end of the week had tipped over 198 million bushels.

Thursday more than 48 million bushels, representing about 100 million dollars, changed hands.

The selloff was linked mainly with a government analysis of transactions over the past few weeks. It pointed out that nearly all the large volume of hedge selling during that time had been absorbed by small volume speculative rather than consumer interests. After studying the figures, the trade viewed the circumstance as a technical market weakness.

Periods of firmness in the grains were few and short lived. Renewed bakery buying brought a demand for wheat on a couple days but export business all around was not more than average.

Corn was virtually stationary at minimum fractional changes as cash dealer demand and supplies held in fairly even balance.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅞-1 ¾cents a bushel lower, December $1.95⅜-½; corn unchanged to ⅜ lower, December $1.09⅝-¾; oats ⅝-1 cent lower, December 77⅛-77; rye ¼ cent to 4 cents lower, December $1.28½; soybeans 3-6⅞ cents lower. January $2.13¼-½.

Mechanic Says He Wants To Take Challenge

BATON ROUGE (AP) — C. C. Saxon, a Baton Rouge mechanic, says he wants to accept the challenge of voting machine manufacturer that his machines can't be rigged to register a vote for a different candidate.

Ransom Shoup of the Shoup Voting Machine Co. came here Thursday, conferred with Saxon and the four men.

He said he offered to donate $5,000 to any charity provided they could prove his machines could be altered so that a vote cast for one candidate in a particular race could be thrown to another candidate in that race.

"It has got to the point where I am going to be made a liar or else I am going to prove it," Saxon said yesterday.

He asserted taxpayers have a right to know whether their machines can be rigged.

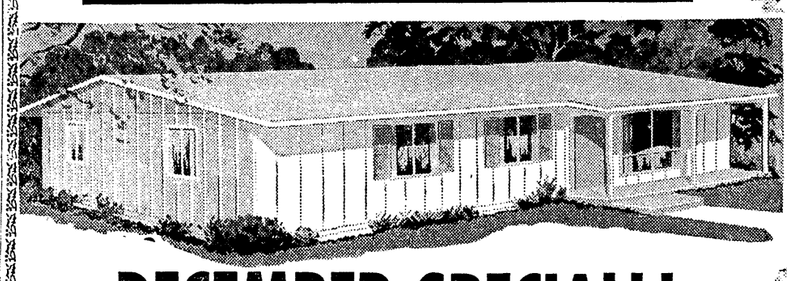

State Voting Machine Custodian Douglas Fowler has offered to provide a machine for the group if they obtain a court order.

Saxon said he preferred not to go to court because of the expense involved.

He said he felt the Shoup company ought to offer a machine for a test because the firm contends they cannot be rigged.

Ike Doing Well On Difficult Task

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Eisenhower "is doing fine and standing up really well" on his strenuous mission to three continents, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, his physician, said Saturday.

Despite his 69 years and three major illnesses in the past four years, Eisenhower is standing the pace far better than some younger members of his party—the newspaper correspondents, for example.

Only the ceaseless dust of Asia has caused the President much trouble. He has been given an occasional throat spray to relieve dust irritation.

At times the President has seemed less chipper than usual. He was tired after Wednesday's big day—tremendous welcomes in Afghanistan and on his arrival in India. But he bounced back.

How does Eisenhower do it?

For one thing, he obviously is having a good time. The joyous welcomes he has been getting from the throngs acts as a tonic.

Then there is his ability to relax.

Take Friday as a typical day. Eisenhower was out of bed at about 7 a.m. An hour and a half later he was off on a series of events that kept him busy all day, with few breathers.

His black Homburg slightly pushed back on his head, Eisenhower munched cokies and sipped an American soft drink. He threw back his head and laughed heartily when loud moos by a cow at the electric milking machines interrupted his talks with fair officials.

Eisenhower had coughed occasionally on a visit to the U.S. Embassy earlier in the day. He used his handkerchief at later events. But Snyder said the president had no cold.

"It's just that he's been doing so much speaking," Snyder said. "His voice is just a little rough, but he's all right."

The President's official day ended about 8 p.m. with a private dinner. He showed up for it looking downright perky.

The President always has been able to catnap. It is understood he has been taking naps on this trip. He also stretches out when his jet airliner is on daylight flights. Snyder gives him a physical checkup each day.

Some of Eisenhower's ceremonial days in Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, and India have run as long as 15 hours, with only brief rest periods between events.

Undoubtedly, the most wearing day of the trip, now nearing its halfway point, was Wednesday. Eisenhower got up about 5 a.m. in Karachi, Pakistan, and flew to Kabul, capital of Afghanistan. The reception by about 500,000 Afghans there was so tumultuous his scheduled departure for New Delhi was delayed a half hour.

Then he flew on to New Delhi for the most frenzied welcome of his tour.

The President was on his feet for two hours smiling and waving as his motorcade made its slow way, inch by inch, through cheering throngs of more than a million and a half Indians.

Eisenhower was still flashing his famous grin when he arrived at the end of his journey, the presidential palace. But he looked tired, and aides admitted he was. Then he went into the palace and had a hot shower.

"You should have seen him at dinner," said Kevin McCann, a presidential speech writer. "Where he had been tired before, now he looked wonderful. The welcome gave him a tremendous lift. He was really exhilarated."

6,000 PLANTS, BUSINESS-HOBBY

From An Orchid

By MARTHA McBRIDE
Correspondent

RUSTON — A small-scale "business - hobby" has developed from a gift of one mature orchid plant received by a Ruston physician three years ago. Dr. W. H. Kimball has increased his one-plant holdings to a greenhouse containing approximately 6,000 orchid plants including seedlings and mature ones.

Dr. J. A. Thomas, another Ruston doctor, has been somewhat interested in raising orchids for some time prior to Dr. Kimball's undertaking.

"Dr. Thomas had shown me his blossoms and I thought they were pretty, but otherwise I was not too impressed. However I took a trip to New Orleans where I visited a large nursery that sold orchids commercially. I expected to see orchids everywhere, but I walked through greenhouse after greenhouse and not one orchid did I see. Finally, I noticed some blooming in a house not much larger than mine. I inquired as to where the rest of the orchids were located, and I was informed that I had passed through several greenhouses containing nothing but orchids which were not blooming at that time. I was really impressed at that. Soon after I returned home, Dr. Thomas gave me an orchid, plant, and I guess that started this hobby."

NEW STUDY

The young doctor admitted that prior to that time, he knew nothing about orchids, and had to learn everything from scratch. He explained that one must learn to tell "good" orchids from "bad" orchids. Color, texture, and shape all enter into determining a good blossom, which usually has a full appearance. It does not appear skimpy. Usually better orchids have thicker petals, but not too thick! They will lose their dainty appearance.

At first, the doctor bought any orchids which were available, giving no thought as to when they would bloom, etc. Now he knows more about which ones to select for the best blossoms. His orchids are bought from commerical orchid growers all over the country. He got some from a friend in Cuba.

Dr. Kimball's greenhouse, located on the spacious grounds adjacent to his new home in the suburbs of Ruston, measures twenty-five by fifty feet. He estimated that he would have to construct a new greenhouse this coming spring, and possibly another one the following fall because of expansion in the orchid growth. The suggested space, according to Dr. Kimball, is one square foot per mature plant, and he definitely will have to expand his housing facilities as his plants grow.

LARGE BOXES

The seedlings are kept in large boxes until they become too crowded. They then are transplanted from these "community pots" into individual pots, graduating to even larger pots as the plant requires more space. Four or five smaller plants may be obtained from one large plant when transplanting. Orchids are potted in fir bark which is usually obtained from California. This material retains just enough moisture for the plants' needs.

Five to seven years are required before an orchid will reach flowering size. The physician said that most of his plants are purchased as seedlings, ranging in price from $1.50 each to $200 each. He added that he was slow to buy any of the latter type. Most of his plants are the "orchid orchid" as he explained. Any color orchid is available except black ones. He pointed out a lovely brown-yellow-beige plant of his which was accented with other colors, and was especially pleased with a large yellow orchid which had just bloomed for the first time. He was somewhat hesitant to allow Mrs. Kimball to cut it for a gift corsage.

"This is my wife's part in the hobby. We do not sell many commercially except some to local florists. We give them as gifts to friends, and occasionally I take a plant to someone who is ill and let them enjoy the blossoms."

The doctor goes into the greenhouse everyday and usually three or four times a day. During his noon hour he checks the temperature in the house. He said, "My orchids are worth more to me than to anyone else, and I could lose my entire stock in a short time if temperature went wrong in the greenhouse."

COLD WEATHER

In cold weather, Dr. Kimball gets up during each night, and goes out to check the temperature. The orchids are much like humans in their needs and desires. They require a temperature of sixty to eighty-five degrees. They like plenty of light, but it must be controlled. He pointed out that the orchid is known as the "camel of the plant kingdom" because they can go for long periods of time without water. They are mostly killed by overwatering and are slow, timid feeders. The secret of growing them to any degree of success, according to him, is to just treat them like human beings.

The greenhouse is heated by natural gas which is conducted around the greenhouse through a large pipe, and back where it enters a plastic tube and is carried through the top of the greenhouse again. Polyethelene material is stretched throughout the top of the house to serve as a drip control. Condensation takes place as the warm air meets the cold air outside. Smiling, he recalled walking in several times and being showered by the extreme amount of moisture that had collected. Serran cloth is used as a shading material on the outside.

Cooling is produced in the greenhouse by a large fan in the end of the house. Because there are warm-growing orchids and cool-growing orchids, Dr. Kimball finds it difficult to produce exactly proper conditions for every plant.

"Every time I go into the greenhouse I find something to do. I never seem to get caught up," he laughed as he placed an identification tag on one of the blooming orchids. "I tag each plant with the name, cross number, when it blooms, and the characteristics of the blossom. That is the way I find the 'deadheads' and cull them out to make room for some that will produce."

WELCOME SIGHT

Some of the orchids he received in 1958 are now blooming. They are very slow growers, however, and each blossom is a welcome sight to the grower. However, Dr. Kimball explained that orchids are not the fragile little bloom that people believe them to be. Some of the plants he has will possibly have blooms that will last for six weeks on the plants and about two or three weeks if cut.

Easter and Mother's Day make the greatest demand for orchids, and because of this fact, forty-eight per cent of the doctor's crop are spring-blooming. There are many species of orchids, and he enumerated the Cattleya. Cypripedium and Phalaenopsis plus many other.

With much enthusiasm, the young man showed his visitors how to transplant orchids; the intricate system of roots that grow out of the restraining pots and through the tables holding the many containers; and he carefully explained the seed pod and the fact that it might contain as many as one million or more seeds at one time.

"This is just a hobby which gets all the time I have to give it. I work at night in the greenhouse and also any other time I can. However, someday I hope to make a living from this work which I enjoy very much."

NIGHTMARES ON THE HIGHWAYS

Tragic Theme Variations

By CHARLES STAFFORD
Associated Press Writer

Questions linger in the tragic aftermath.

Roscoe Poe, 54, Brooklyn truck driver, had been convicter twice of speeding in New Jersey. He had several traffic convictions in New York. Three times in the last year, he had been given warning tickets in Pennsylvania.

Police found the brakes on the tank truck Poe was driving were in an advanced state of deterioration.

Why was a truck in such hazardous condition permitted on the highway?

VARIATIONS

Variations on this tragic theme keep occuring, even though the organized trucking industry is safety-minded and tightly regulated. Rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission go so deeply into the operation of the 1½ million trucks hauling goods between states they even require sheets for sleeper berths.

But there is little regulation of the remaining 9½ million trucks on the highways. State laws permit anyone licensed to drive a car to drive a truck. Only 15 states have mandatory motor vehicle inspection laws.

And there are leaks in the enforcement of the ICC's rules for interstate carriers.

ICC regulation requires a company to keep a record of a driver's accidents and his violations of traffic criminal laws. The company is prohibited from permitting him to drive if his record shows a lack of concern for the safety of the public.

NO GUARANTEE

But writing a regulation does not guarantee compliance.

Take the case of a Philadelphia trucker whose vehicle collided with a fire truck several years ago killing two firemen. The ICC accident report detailed this record for the driver: a bad conduct discharge from the Army, prison terms for auto theft and till tapping, two recent accidents, a speeding conviction 10 days before the fatal accident, and revocation of his license. He was using a learner's permit at the time of the crash.

His employer had received a copy of ICC regulations, of course, and also was aware of the driver's record, the agency says.

The firm was an exempt carrier, one which is subject to ICC safety regulations but free of its economic rules. And this creates another leak in ICC enforcement.

It is in this shadowy area that the "gypsy," the owner-driven truck, is mostly likely to operate. Since the gypsy need not apply for authority to operate, the ICC has no way of knowing his truck is on the road unless it blunders into an ICC inspection crew running a road check. Many a gypsy, short of funds and long on nerve, is a master at avoiding inspections.

HARD-NOSED

Where it exists, truck safety is hard-nosed and four-pronged. It comes down from the ICC Bureau of Motor Carriers, through national and state trucking associations to the individual companies.

Mason and Dixon Lines, Inc., is cited by industry spokesmen as one of the companies with a sound safety program. Of its 800 drivers, 267 belong to its 10-year safety club.

"The most important safety factor," says J. B. Hahn, regional manager at Secaucus, N.J., "is our initial selection of drivers."

References are thoroughly checked. Applicants are given the physical examination required by the ICC, a written test and a driving test. For the first two weeks, a supervisor accompanies a new driver on his runs.

The company keeps a record of traffic violations. When a driver has an accident or gets a ticket, a safety supervisor tries to find the cause and correct it. If the driver was careless, he receives a warning.

If his violations start piling up, or if one of them is serious, "I penalize him," says Ray Strong, safety supervisor at Secaucus. The driver is not permitted to work for at least three days.

LAST RESORT

"Firing is the last resort because of the union," says Strong.

The company must present a completely documented case against a careless driver before the Teamsters Union will permit him to be discharged, he says.

Strong admits it is difficult to check on speeding violations because the driver will often pay his own fine. "But if a man has a heavy foot," he says, "our road patrol will pick him up."

The industry-wide safety program is promoted by the American Trucking Assn. and its state affiliates.

The ATA preaches the gospel that safety is good business.

A trucking firm's insurance rates, for example, are based on its own accident record rather than industry-wide statistics. The better its record, the lower its insurance costs.

PATROLS

To enforce the industry safety program, 1,500 company safety supervisors take part in cooperative road patrols.

ICC regulations are enforced by 250 safety supervisors and inspectors scattered across the country. Four times a year they hold roadside inspections throughout the nation. In between, they make spot road checks and terminal inspections.

The ATA feels the combined safety efforts of the government and the industry are paying off. It cites National Safety Council statistics which show that in 1948 trucks composed 18 per cent of all motor vehicle registration and were involved in 17 per cent of the accidents.

By 1957, registration was 16 per cent while accident involvement was down to 11 per cent. During the same period, truck mileage outside of urban areas rose from 45¼ million miles to 73 million.

Ancient Heritage

By DAVID HINNAWI

The perfectly preserved mummy, in an exquisite coffin, was not listed in museum records. Officials had no idea where it came from, who had dug it up, and how it got to the museum.

This is just one example of the chaos which Dr. Selim Hassan, emergency curator of the museum is uncovering in the handling of Egypt's ancient heritage.

An inventory of the museum was ordered last August after discovery of the theft of Tutankhamen's 3,000-year-old gold-plated scepter from a museum showcase. Investigations in the wake of the theft disclosed additional unpublicized pilferings, lax security measures and careless management of the huge collection.

A report dug up from the files of the registration, department of the museum showed 26,000 pieces of antiquity were missing from the museum. The report, published in 1936, collected dust for more than 20 years. Nothing was done about it.

No inventory was made of the museum's contents, which reputedly amount to two million objects, in the past 30 years.

Two months after the inventory began Hassan announced that thousands of objects in the museum's basement had never been registered, photographed or assessed. Hundreds more lie in wooden boxes which have not been opened for 50 years.

Some of the boxes from Luxor, Minia, San al Hagar and East Zagazig, all scenes of important excavations, have not been opened since their arrival at the museum.

Says Hassan: "Wandering through the basement of the museum is just as exciting as making new discoveries. You never know what you may come across."

The inventory committee, seven teams of five experts working daily nine-hour shifts, will complete its work in four months, Hassan says.

The 67-year-old archeologist was recalled from retirement to put the museum into shape. One of the leading Egyptologists in the world, Hassan graduated from the Sorbonne in Paris with degrees in hieroglyphics and ancient Egyptian history.

Hassan was appointed assistant curator of Cairo Museum before the first World War. Hassan says he was fired in 1939 by former King Farouk when he suspected the king of selling archeological treasures abroad.

A trucking firm's insurance rates, for example, are based on its own accident record rather than industry-wide statistics. The better its record, the lower its insurance costs.

PATROLS

To enforce the industry safety program, 1,500 company safety supervisors take part in cooperative road patrols.

ICC regulations are enforced by 250 safety supervisors and inspectors scattered across the country. Four times a year they hold roadside inspections throughout the nation. In between, they make spot road checks and terminal inspections.

The ATA feels the combined safety efforts of the government and the industry are paying off. It cites National Safety Council statistics which show that in 1948 trucks composed 18 per cent of all motor vehicle registration and were involved in 17 per cent of the accidents.

By 1957, registration was 16 per cent while accident involvement was down to 11 per cent. During the same period, truck mileage outside of urban areas rose from 45¼ million miles to 73 million.

Ancient Heritage

By DAVID HINNAWI

The perfectly preserved mummy, in an exquisite coffin, was not listed in museum records. Officials had no idea where it came from, who had dug it up, and how it got to the museum.

This is just one example of the chaos which Dr. Selim Hassan, emergency curator of the museum is uncovering in the handling of Egypt's ancient heritage.

An inventory of the museum was ordered last August after discovery of the theft of Tutankhamen's 3,000-year-old gold-plated scepter from a museum showcase. Investigations in the wake of the theft disclosed additional unpublicized pilferings, lax security measures and careless management of the huge collection.

A report dug up from the files of the registration, department of the museum showed 26,000 pieces of antiquity were missing from the museum. The report, published in 1936, collected dust for more than 20 years. Nothing was done about it.

No inventory was made of the museum's contents, which reputedly amount to two million objects, in the past 30 years.

Two months after the inventory began Hassan announced that thousands of objects in the museum's basement had never been registered, photographed or assessed. Hundreds more lie in wooden boxes which have not been opened for 50 years.

Some of the boxes from Luxor, Minia, San al Hagar and East Zagazig, all scenes of important excavations, have not been opened since their arrival at the museum.

Says Hassan: "Wandering through the basement of the museum is just as exciting as making new discoveries. You never know what you may come across."

The inventory committee, seven teams of five experts working daily nine-hour shifts, will complete its work in four months, Hassan says.

The 67-year-old archeologist was recalled from retirement to put the museum into shape. One of the leading Egyptologists in the world, Hassan graduated from the Sorbonne in Paris with degrees in hieroglyphics and ancient Egyptian history.

Hassan was appointed assistant curator of Cairo Museum before the first World War. Hassan says he was fired in 1939 by former King Farouk when he suspected the king of selling archeological treasures abroad.

Davis Hits Hoffa Unions, NAACP, Ties Both To Morrison

The second primary campaign is taking definite form as to both issues and personalities. At the moment it is Jimmie Davis versus Chep Morrison, Bill Dodd and Jimmy Noe.

Senator William M. Rainach is expected to say something in a few days, provided his health permits, after a period of hospitalization for acute fatigue and exhaustion. Governor Earl K. Long is described by friends as intending to remain silent.

During the past week, Davis and his ticket turned hot broadsides on Morrison in three speeches in New Orleans and in others across North Louisiana. The Davis attack on Morrison now makes these major charges:

1. That Morrison is backed by Jimmy Hoffa Teamsters Union in this state, three of the four Louisiana locals having endorsed him; that a $2,000 contribution to his 1958 mayoralty campaign came from a former Chicago Hoffa agent sent to Louisiana to handle Hoffa interests here and now doing so. Davis, several times, has unequivocally repudiated "Hoffa votes" or support of any kind.

2. That Morrison is backed by the NAACP, the voting in Negro precincts over the state in the first primary, as well as numerous endorsements from Negro organizations interlocked with the NAACP, demonstrating this. Davis has repudiated "NAACP votes." Attorney General Gremillion, re-elected on the Davis ticket in the first primary, states that Morrison "said he could not have me on his ticket because he was committed to the NAACP to oppose me so as to get its support." Mrs. Ellen Bryan Moore, Davis State Land Register candidate, is appealing to mothers to "vote for our only hope —Davis—of preserving the traditions we have fought so hard to keep." Rufus Hayes, Davis' Insurance Commissioner candidate, refers to his six children, the oldest 13, and urges "defeat of the NAACP candidate," meaning Morrison. C. C. Aycock, Davis Lieutenant Governor candidate, is centering on the same theme.

The Tie-Up With Camille Gravel, "Moral Integrationist"

3. Davis is denouncing Morrison affiliation with Democratic National Committeeman Camille Gravel of Alexandria, terming him Morrison's actual campaign manager. Gravel was ousted as National Committeeman by the Louisiana Democratic State Central Committee on his statements that he considered integration "morally right."

The Paul Butler Democratic National Committee refused to honor the ouster. Louisiana now is represented in the national Democratic Party by a National Committeeman who has been repudiated by the Louisiana Democratic Party's executive committee because of his integration views. Gravel is accused from the Davis side of having engineered support of South Louisiana Negro organizations and NAACP leaders for Morrison.

4. Davis and his ticket, are denouncing Morrison as seeking to establish a statewide political machine to perpetuate and expand Morrison's political power, with the ultimate result that he personally would be a pawn of this machine. Davis has pledged himself to establish no political machine of any kind. Here again the segregation issue enters, with the present Morrison New Orleans organization backed by Negro groups through which Gremillion says approximately 30,000 Negro votes were delivered to Morrison in the Orleans area.

In the first primary Morrison denied that he had NAACP support, as charged then by Rainach. The Davis forces are citing the ballot returns in boxes wherever Negroes are known to be strong in votes.

In New Orleans, two Negro candidates are in runoff primaries against white candidates for the state House of Representatives. Election of either one would integrate the Louisiana Legislature for the first time since Reconstruction days. In one contest, only 57 votes separated the Negro and the white in the first primary. The white man is the candidate Davis backed in the first primary. In the other race, with three whites and one Negro seeking two seats, a Davis-backed white candidate is in the runoff, and Davis is backing a Morrison candidate against the Negro. This situation has made segregation a hot issue in New Orleans in the second primary.

Jimmy Noe, Bill Dodd Not Likely To Swing Many Votes

A strong portion of the Rainach first primary vote should go to Davis regardless of Senator Rainach's personal course. But the extent to which either Noe or Dodd can swing a substantial portion of their votes to Morrison is problematical.

Dodd's endorsement of Morrison is weakened by the fact that various Dodd leaders over the state promptly joined the Davis forces. These included Rufus Fontenot, former State Tax Collector and Dodd's campaign manager; also, William White, Mayor of Gretna—across the Mississippi River from New Orleans in Jefferson Parish — who was Dodd's Lieutenant Governor candidate. Some of the New Orleans city organization for Dodd and much of his first primary force now are working in support of Davis. Rep. Otto Passman of the Fifth District, neutral in the first primary, took to the stump with Davis in that area last Thursday.

This general story of Dodd leaders supporting Davis is being repeated in other parts of the state. With other factors, it could mean that while Morrison has Dodd, Davis may get much of the Dodd vote.

AFL-CIO Vote May Go To Davis On Jimmy Hoffa Issue

On that point, the heavy statewide AFL-CIO labor vote enters the picture. Nearly one third of Dodd's total vote of 83,000 came in three sections where AFL-CIO organized labor voting is heavy — Orleans - Jefferson, East Baton Rouge and Calcasieu (Lake Charles).

The AFL-CIO, statewide, is engaged in all-out war with the Jimmy Hoffa Teamsters Union. The AFL-CIO did not endorse any candidate at the state level in the first primary, its votes apparently going to Dodd, Noe, Morrison and Davis (with some apparently cast for Rainch in Shreveport).

But the AFL-CIO now faces a clear-cut issue of a candidate supported by Hoffa Teamsters locals — expelled from the AFL-CIO — against one who has stated that he does not want any "Jimmy Hoffa votes." There is certain to be a strong inclination among AFL-CIO Dodd (and Noe) voters to mark their ballots for Davis, just as the natural trend among Rainach voters is to mark ballots for Davis.

Noe's vote of something under 100,000 obviously was given to him considerable part by Governor Long, who was candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Noe ticket. In most parishes Noe ran far behind Long.

Davis defeated Noe all over the state, and especially where Noe is best known. Davis beat him in his home box, his home city of Monroe, his home parish of Ouachita, his home district — the Fifth. Noe was simply a token candidate necessary to Long's plans. No one was "tooken" very much by the token candidacy — unless it was Noe himsel.

Certainly, Attorney General Gremillion will be of tremendous compaign platform value to Davis. He is traveling with Davis, stating in almost every speech:

"I desire to make it clear that the only candidate in this race whose views coincide with mine is Jimmie Davis.

"He was the only candidate with courage to accept me on his ticket.

"Morrison told me he could not accept me because of his promise to the NAACP to oppose me and get me out of office.

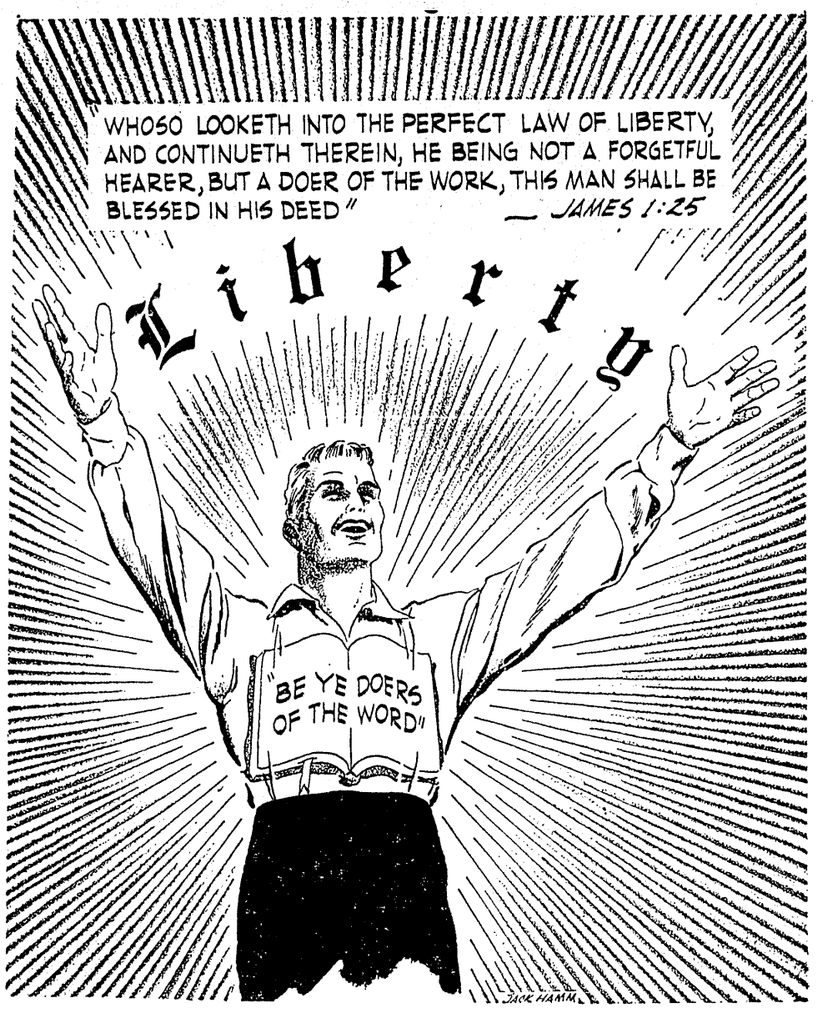

"Jimmie Davis is the only candidate in this second primary race who gives us hope or our future dignity. The issues are too great for me to quit, even though I am already elected. At stake is the whole social order of Louisiana and I'm in here to fight to the end with Jimmie Davis to preserve that order."

Davis Stand On Segregation Clear In First Primary

The Davis concentration on segregation—and on the Hoffa-Teamsters — is not injection of "new" issues by Davis, as Morrison and Noe both charge. It is concentration, in a two-man race, against clearly vulnerable chinks in Morrison's political armor. It is his first primary stand. It does not mean that Davis and his ticket are abondoning any of the sound issues raised by them in the first primary when there were 11 candidates, five of them making major campaigns. There are only two now and contrast is accentuated.

Morrison may come to North Louisiana and preach his own pro-segregation. But he cannot very well go back to New Orleans and make the same preachment to his huge Negro vote there. Davis is able to proclaim his segregation philosophies in all parts of the state without fear of political retaliation from Negro organizations. His stand was sound in the first primary and is now.

Captain 'Josh' Goldberg

Rabbi From Russia Serves Longer In One Post Than Chaplains Usually Serve Anywhere

It is difficult for me to think of the Navy without Chaplain L. Goldberg, chief chaplain of the Third Naval District. He seemed to be a permanent fixture. He has been in this one post longer than chaplains serve anywhere and he has done so much beyond the call of duty that he is beloved by Catholic and Protestant although he is a rabbi.

Captain Goldberg is a curiosity. He came to the United States during World War I from Russia as an immigrant. He immediately enlisted in the Army and went to war. It was in the Army, during the war, that he learned his English, a language in which he preaches and teaches. After World War I, he continued his rabbinical studies although his knowledge of Hebrew and rabbinics was probably as great as most of his professors. Came World War II and Rabbi Goldberg enlisted for service in the Navy where he has remained ever since.

In the Navy, he is known as "Josh." Everybody knows "Josh" Goldberg because he has served everybody, doing the impossible, creating an esprit de corps which transcended religious differences. It cannot be said and should not be said that there is no difference of view and no bigotry in the Chaplain Services but as one who has seen the growth of this significant body of men, what can be said is that nowhere else in the world is it possible for Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen to work together in such harmony. In fact, if a boy in our armed forces requires the comfort of religion according to the traditions of his church and his ancestors, he can receive the benefits from a clergyman of any faith and it will be done honestly without an attempt to proselytize.

Chaplain Goldberg played an enormous role in the development of this noble attitude and for his services he has gained respect if no other recognition.

His recent activities have been largely devoted to developing the same attitude and the same service in the military services of all the NATO countries and two conferences have already been held, one in Europe and one in the United States, in which clergymen whose denominations have been antagonistic since the 16th century met together and spent weeks together in mutual consultation and association. In this work no one compromises his own beliefs and principles. In fact, the slogan of the American Chaplain Services is "Cooperation without Compromise."

The time has come, according to the law, for Captain Goldberg to retire. So he must leave the Navy at the end of this year. Being a man of enormous energy, he will continue to serve as an official of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, which is the seminary for training reformed rabbis in this country. But it seems to me that it is a pity that the government of the United States should have an arbitrary retirement system so that a man at the height of his career, able, brilliant, imaginative, leaves it and goes elsewhere. Fortunately, Chaplain Goldberg was quickly co-opted for other work and at a salary which is larger than the Navy pays, but many are not so fortunte and we continue to lose good men because we do not have the sense to keep them. There are men, like Chaplain Goldberg, who stay on as long as the law will permit because they can afford to underwrite their public service or because they are willing to make sacrifices to serve their country. Then, at the peak of maturity they must retire somewhere to think about what they might have done more had they been permitted to continue.

• • •

If any man served this country beyond the call of duty, if any man served in a position all the hours of every day, knowing no time off and no private life, that man is Chaplain Joshua Goldberg, who once was called the religious diplomat of our time. And this can be said of him that every admiral who ever served over Chaplain Goldberg, that every man who was his boss is turning out to honor him on his retirement. It is a rare quality that wins for a sky-pilot the friendship and respect of hard-boiled Navy admirals.

"Josh" deserves the love he has gained.

DEAD HEAT — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller are running neck and neck in at least one respect in their drive aimed at the White House. According to an 800-page index to hearings held before the House un-American Activities Committee, both Nixon and Rockefeller have been mentioned three times by witnesses. The index is for reference purposes only and contains the names of everyone ever mentioned by a witness before the Committee in a good, bad, or indifferent light. Of the current crop of presidential hopefuls, only the names of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) fail to appear in the index. There are six references to Adlai Stevenson, one to Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), two to Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.); and four to dark-horse Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.). The present incumbent of the White House? Dwight D. Eisenhower shows up five times.

LION'S DEN — Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy, facing a National Press Club luncheon crowd for the first time, borrowed a favorite story of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to explain how it felt: "When Mr. Gilbert, of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, was a young man attending Cambridge he grew fond of horse racing. One day he went to the races at Newmarket and, as was the custom of the day, wore a loud checked suit and an equally loud stock tie, a grey topper, spats, and of course binoculars. After the races he boarded the train for Cambridge and, opening the door of his compartment, was stopped in his tracks by the presence of four Anglican clergymen in black hats, purple gaiters, and a distinctly solemn atmosphere of disapproval of the racy young man at the door. The young man gasped and blurted out 'My goodness, here I am, a lion in a den of Daniels.'"

HISTORY RELEARNED — The Civil War Centennial Commission has a little surprise for all those folks who think the War Between the States began with the firing on the Union's Fort Sumter in South Carolina. Karl S. Betts, executive director of the Commission, announced that the five-year observance of the 100th anniversary of the War will officially begin January 9, 1961, which is not the anniversary of the firing on Fort Sumter. According to Betts, that's the date the merchant steamer Star of the West, on her way with provisions to Fort Sumter, was driven out of the harbor at Charleston, S.C., by protesting Southerners. "This was a slow-buring fuse to a bomb that exploded with the firing on Fort Sumter the following April 12," Betts explained.

CUT RATES — Rep. Bruce Alger (D-Texas), in a speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York, boiled an explanation of free enterprise in all its elements down to a simple American institution — the coffee break. "If six fellows, poor boys all, get together regularly for coffee at ten cents a cup, this is the story — the whole story — of free enterprise," Alger said.

IGNORANCE QUOTIENT — Commenting on the giant strides in science and technology, Interior Undersecretary Elmer F. Bennett recently told a mining and engineering audience: "It seems clear that there is more to be learned than has been learned up to now — and that some of what already has been learned will have to be unlearned. A professor of mine used to say: Every time we discover a new truth, we multiply our visible ignorance by ten."

FIGURES ON DRUGS

Sterlington, La.

To the Editor:

In reply to your editorial of December 1, 1959, Drug Price Inquiry, I would like to submit to you the following thoughts and hope that you will be fair to the Pharmacists of Monroe and the Ouachita Parish Retail Pharmacist Assn. and give us the same space in your editorial section.

New drug discoveries have greatly reduced mortality rates of major infectious diseases — added seven years to life expectancy since 1940 trimmed medical expenses and lost wages by shortening periods of illness.

Price reductions are the rule rather than the exception (is this true in any other field) in the pharmaceutical industry. Insulin originally cost the average diabetic $2.13 per day. Thirteen price reductions have reduced the average cost to 12.4 cents per day. Cigarettes cost 30 to 50 cents per day for the average smoker.

When penicillin was first introduced, 100,000 units cost $7.50. It now sells in tablet form for about 10 cents. Streptomycin once cost more than $25.00 per gram, now costs about 50 cents.

Per Capital Expenditures	1958
Alcoholic beverages	53.15
Tobacco	36.80
Toilet articles barber and beauty shops	24.55
Hospitals (private)	24.92
Physicians	22.51
Drugs and drug sundries	18.82

I feel sure that we will be lucky to get an even break with the headline hunters you are writing up — but do speak a kind word for the pharmacist who works 12 hours a day in a drug store and then gets up at 12 midnight and 4 a.m. as I did last night to get a child who was sick some medicine, charged it and thanked the customer for his business. You can't beat the value you receive at your neighborhood pharmacy in America — I was interrupted in this letter three times — once for information, once for a drink of water by a 3-year-old and to fill a prescription for $1.00.

C. G. DRENNAN,
Vice President Ouachita Parish Retail Phar.

3 Men Are Strong

Nixon, Johnson And Symington Might Give Needed Leadership

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Declare war on crime! Outlaw work stoppages in basic industries! Send the Marines to Cuba! Mount a preventive offensive against the Communist alliance before it overwhelms us!

• • •

All these ideas, so uncharacteristic of American thinking, are in the end-of-the-year atmosphere. The strangest people are admitting that crime is getting the upper hand in many cities, that collective bargaining won't work, that Cuba is becoming a Communist satellite, that in another decade the Sino-Russian monster will crush our children. These same people, many of them recent converts to militant counteraction, a ready to talk desperate remedies. Maybe it's a good sign.

The evidence of rampant lawlessness is front-paged almost daily. There is no longer any doubt that the Steelworkers' leaders are going Marxian in their demands of partial ownership. It is past doubting any longer that Raul Castro, El Supremo's brother and master of the Cuban armed services, is a guided missile of Moscow. Most military scholars, I think, would agree that the USA still has the edge in air power and sea power, but that the sands are running out on the age of American world supremacy.

What should we do about it? It is a question which all of the Presidential contestants ought to be discussing, if not answering. Our posture as an independent and capitalistic nation is altering, and so should our political leadership alter. Three of the candidates, Nixon, Johnson, and Symington have a past history which gives some promise of the ruthless leadership that the times require. Nixon, I say, because he knows what it is to have the Communists, figuratively and almost literally, at his throat. Johnson, I think, because he has somewhere in him a pragmatic ethic-if it works, it's right-which would make him find a workable way to save the country. Symington, I hope, because he was miles ahead of the press and his Senatorial peers in sensing the pace of the Russian technological advance.

One of these men—or a better man than they, if we can find him—must school this country in a new ruthlessness. First, we must put down crime, even if it means issuing arms to all citizens, then, we must overcome Marxism at home, then put down Communism in this Western Hemisphere, and wherever else it is a menace, even if that means an atomic war. Liberty or Death!

• • •

We cannot choose Liberty without being willing to shed some enemy blood. Indeed, it's doubtful that we can offer ourselves as leaders in an imperfect world unless we abondon our absurd pretensions to perfection. Above all, it's unbelievable that we can endure at all unless we publicly assert the life truths which all of us recognize privately, although in different degrees of wisdom. William Faulkner in one of his great passages makes the realistic distinction between the strength of love and the weakness of sentimental remorse. Faulkner's hero, a boy, has just been taken by the old hunter and been "blooded" after shooting his first deer. The hero thinks:

• • •

"Had not Sam Fathers already consecrated and absolved him from weakness and regret, too? Not from Love and Pity for all which lived and ran and then ceased to live in a second in the midst of splendor and speed, but from weakness and regret."

This is the "Blooding" that the American people need to be taught by some leader. So many sloppy thinkers have been allowed to sponge our brains that we forget we inhabit a world which is fierce, passionate and tragic, where even humor is a form of cruelty. It is a world which does not faintly resemble the speeches of Dwight Eisenhower or —thus far—any of his self-proposed successors.

The problems that we have will never yield to sentimental "Know Nothing". If we are ordained to rule the world, or to prevent the bad guys from ruling it, we must bring into play a quality of ruthlessness—and we must do it very soon.

It is concentration, in a two-man race, against clearly vulnerable chinks in Morrison's political armor. It is his first primary stand. It does not mean that Davis and his ticket are abondoning any of the sound issues raised by them in the first primary when there were 11 candidates, five of them making major campaigns. There are only two now and contrast is accentuated.

Morrison may come to North Louisiana and preach his own pro-segregation. But he cannot very well go back to New Orleans and make the same preachment to his huge Negro vote there. Davis is able to proclaim his segregation philosophies in all parts of the state without fear of political retaliation from Negro organizations. His stand was sound in the first primary and is now.

Captain 'Josh' Goldberg

Rabbi From Russia Serves Longer In One Post Than Chaplains Usually Serve Anywhere

It is difficult for me to think of the Navy without Chaplain L. Goldberg, chief chaplain of the Third Naval District. He seemed to be a permanent fixture. He has been in this one post longer than chaplains serve anywhere and he has done so much beyond the call of duty that he is beloved by Catholic and Protestant although he is a rabbi.

Captain Goldberg is a curiosity. He came to the United States during World War I from Russia as an immigrant. He immediately enlisted in the Army and went to war. It was in the Army, during the war, that he learned his English, a language in which he preaches and teaches. After World War I, he continued his rabbinical studies although his knowledge of Hebrew and rabbinics was probably as great as most of his professors. Came World War II and Rabbi Goldberg enlisted for service in the Navy where he has remained ever since.

In the Navy, he is known as "Josh." Everybody knows "Josh" Goldberg because he has served everybody, doing the impossible, creating an esprit de corps which transcended religious differences. It cannot be said and should not be said that there is no difference of view and no bigotry in the Chaplain Services but as one who has seen the growth of this significant body of men, what can be said is that nowhere else in the world is it possible for Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen to work together in such harmony. In fact, if a boy in our armed forces requires the comfort of religion according to the traditions of his church and his ancestors, he can receive the benefits from a clergyman of any faith and it will be done honestly without an attempt to proselytize.

Chaplain Goldberg played an enormous role in the development of this noble attitude and for his services he has gained respect if no other recognition.

His recent activities have been largely devoted to developing the same attitude and the same service in the military services of all the NATO countries and two conferences have already been held, one in Europe and one in the United States, in which clergymen whose denominations have been antagonistic since the 16th century met together and spent weeks together in mutual consultation and association. In this work no one compromises his own beliefs and principles. In fact, the slogan of the American Chaplain Services is "Cooperation without Compromise."

The time has come, according to the law, for Captain Goldberg to retire. So he must leave the Navy at the end of this year. Being a man of enormous energy, he will continue to serve as an official of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, which is the seminary for training reformed rabbis in this country. But it seems to me that it is a pity that the government of the United States should have an arbitrary retirement system so that a man at the height of his career, able, brilliant, imaginative, leaves it and goes elsewhere. Fortunately, Chaplain Goldberg was quickly co-opted for other work and at a salary which is larger than the Navy pays, but many are not so fortunte and we continue to lose good men because we do not have the sense to keep them. There are men, like Chaplain Goldberg, who stay on as long as the law will permit because they can afford to underwrite their public service or because they are willing to make sacrifices to serve their country. Then, at the peak of maturity they must retire somewhere to think about what they might have done more had they been permitted to continue.

* * *

If any man served this country beyond the call of duty, if any man served in a position all the hours of every day, knowing no time off and no private life, that man is Chaplain Joshua Goldberg, who once was called the religious diplomat of our time. And this can be said of him that every admiral who ever served over Chaplain Goldberg, that every man who was his boss is turning out to honor him on his retirement. It is a rare quality that wins for a sky-pilot the friendship and respect of hard-boiled Navy admirals.

"Josh" deserves the love he has gained.

Candidates' Index

DEAD HEAT — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller are running neck and neck in at least one respect in their drive aimed at the White House. According to an 800-page index to hearings held before the House un-American Activities Committee, both Nixon and Rockefeller have been mentioned three times by witnesses. The index is for reference purposes only and contains the names of everyone ever mentioned by a witness before the Committee in a good, bad, or indifferent light. Of the current crop of presidential hopefuls, only the names of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) fail to appear in the index. There are six references to Adlai Stevenson, one to Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), two to Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.); and four to dark-horse Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.). The present incumbent of the White House? Dwight D. Eisenhower shows up five times.

LION'S DEN — Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy, facing a National Press Club luncheon crowd for the first time, borrowed a favorite story of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to explain how it felt: "When Mr. Gilbert, of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, was a young man attending Cambridge he grew fond of horse racing. One day he went to the races at Newmarket and, as was the custom of the day, wore a loud checked suit and an equally loud stock tie, a grey topper, spats, and of course binoculars. After the races he boarded the train for Cambridge and, opening the door of his compartment, was stopped in his tracks by the presence of four Anglican clergymen in black hats, purple gaiters, and a distinctly solemn atmosphere of disapporval of the racy young man at the door. The young man gasped and blurted out 'My goodness, here I am, a lion in a den of Daniels.'"

HISTORY RELEARNED — The Civil War Centennial Commission has a little surprise for all those folks who think the War Between the States began with the firing on the Union's Fort Sumter in South Carolina. Karl S. Betts, executive director of the Commission, announced that the five-year observance of the 100th anniversary of the War will officially begin January 9, 1961, which is not the anniversary of the firing on Fort Sumter. According to Betts, that's the date the merchant steamer Star of the West, on her way with provisions to Fort Sumter, was driven out of the harbor at Charleston, S.C., by protesting Southerners. "This was a slow-buring fuse to a bomb that exploded with the firing on Fort Sumter the following April 12," Betts explained.

CUT RATES — Rep. Bruce Alger (D-Texas), in a speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York, boiled an explanation of free enterprise in all its elements down to a simple American institution — the coffee break. "If six fellows, poor boys all, get together regularly for coffee at ten cents a cup, across the street from where they work, and one of them seeing an opportunity for profit, takes an extra job Saturdays, earns and saves $10 extra, buys his own coffee pot, installs it at his bench, and starts selling to his cohorts at seven cents a cup, this is the story — the whole story — of free enterprise," Alger said.

IGNORANCE QUOTIENT — Commenting on the giant strides in science and technology, Interior Undersecretary Elmer F. Bennett recently told a mining and engineering audience: "It seems clear that there is more to be learned than has been learned up to now — and that some of what already has been learned will have to be unlearned. A professor of mine used to say: Every time we discover a new truth, we multiply our visible ignorance by ten."

FIGURES ON DRUGS

Sterlington, La.

To the Editor:

In reply to your editorial of December 1, 1959, Drug Price Inquiry, I would like to submit to you the following thoughts and hope that you will be fair to the Pharmacists of Monroe and the Ouachita Parish Retail Pharmacist Assn. and give us the same space in your editorial section.

New drug discoveries have greatly reduced mortality rates of major infectious diseases — added seven years to life expectancy since 1940 trimmed medical expenses and lost wages by shortening periods of illness.

Price reductions are the rule rather than the exception (is this true in any other field) in the pharmaceutical industry. Insulin originally cost the average diabetic $2.13 per day. Thirteen price reductions have reduced the average cost to 12.4 cents per day. Cigarettes cost 30 to 50 cents per day for the average smoker.

When penicillin was first introduced, 100,000 units cost $7.50. It now sells in tablet form for about 10 cents. Streptomycin once cost more than $25.00 per gram, now costs about 50 cents.

Per Capital Expenditures	1958
Alcoholic beverages	53.15
Tobacco	36.80
Toilet articles barber and beauty shops	24.55
Hospitals (private)	24.92
Drugs and drug sundries	18.82

I feel sure that we will be lucky to get an even break with the headline hunters you are writing up — but do speak a kind word for the pharmacist who works 12 hours a day in a drug store and then gets up at 12 midnight and 4 a.m. as I did last night to get a child who was sick some medicine, charged it and thanked the customer for his business. You can't beat the value you receive at your neighborhood pharmacy in America — I was interrupted in this letter three times — once for information, once for a drink of water by a 3-year-old and to fill a prescription for $1.00.

C. G. DRENNAN,
Vice President Ouachita Parish Retail Phar.

3 Men Are Strong

Nixon, Johnson And Symington Might Give Needed Leadership

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Declare war on crime! Outlaw work stoppages in basic industries! Send the Marines to Cuba! Mount a preventive offensive against the Communist alliance before it overwhelms us!

* * *

All these ideas, so uncharacteristic of American thinking, are in the end-of-the-year atmosphere. The strangest people are admitting that crime is getting the upper hand in many cities, that collective bargaining won't work, that Cuba is becoming a Communist satellite, that in another decade the Sino-Russian monster will crush our children. These same people, many of them recent converts to militant counteraction, a ready to talk desperate remedies. Maybe it's a good sign.

The evidence of rampant lawlessness is front-paged almost daily. There is no longer any doubt that the Steelworkers' leaders are going Marxian in their demands of partial ownership. It is past doubting any longer that Raul Castro, El Supremo's brother and master of the Cuban armed services, is a guided missile of Moscow. Most military scholars, I think, would agree that the USA still has the edge in air power and sea power, but that the sands are running out on the age of American world supremacy.

What should we do about it? It is a question which all of the Presidential contestants ought to be discussing, if not answering. Our posture as an independent and capitalistic nation is altering, and so should our political leadership alter. Three of the candidates, Nixon, Johnson, and Symington have a past history which gives some promise of the ruthless leadership that the times require. Nixon, I say, because he knows what it is to have the Communists, figuratively and almost literally, at his throat. Johnson, I think, because he has somewhere in him a pragmatic ethic-if it works, it's right-which would make him find a workable way to save the country. Symington, I hope, because he was miles ahead of the press and his Senatorial peers in sensing the pace of the Russian technological advance.

One of these men—or a better man than they, if we can find him—must school this country in a new ruthlessness. First, we must put down crime, even if it means issuing arms to all citizens, then, we must overcome Marxism at home, then put down Communism in this Western Hemisphere, and wherever else it is a menace, even if that means an atomic war. Liberty or Death!

* * *

We cannot choose Liberty without being willing to shed some enemy blood. Indeed, it's doubtful that we can offer ourselves as leaders in an imperfect world unless we abondon our absurd pretensions to perfection. Above all, it's unbelievable that we can endure at all unless we publicly assert the life truths which all of us recognize privately, although in different degrees of wisdom. William Faulkner in one of his great passages makes the realistic distinction between the strength of love and the weakness of sentimental remorse. Faulkner's hero, a boy, has just been taken by the old hunter and been "blooded" after shooting his first deer. The hero thinks:

* * *

"Had not Sam Fathers already consecrated and absolved him from weakness and regret, too? Not from Love and Pity for all which lived and ran and then ceased to live in a second in the midst of splendor and speed, but from weakness and regret."

This is the "Blooding" that the American people need to be taught by some leader. So many sloppy thinkers have been allowed to sponge our brains that we forget we inhabit a world which is fierce, passionate and tragic, where even humor is a form of cruelty. It is a world which does not faintly resemble the speeches of Dwight Eisenhower or —thus far—any of his self-proposed successors.

The problems that we have will never yield to sentimental "Know Nothing". If we are ordained to rule the world, or to prevent the bad guys from ruling it, we must bring into play a quality of ruthlessness—and we must do it very soon.

POPULAR

"C'MON LET'S DANCE." Freddy Martin and his orchestra. Capital T1269, $3.98, ST 1269, $4.98. What makes Freddy Martin's style so popular today? He explains that he not only plays for dancing but also for the people who are sitting at the tables. The songs in this album are primarily show tunes, Broadway and Hollywood hits that have become popular "standards" of the dance floor. They represent the work of America's greatest songwriters. The coming Yuletide season with its many parties, "C'mon Let's Dance" should prove to be a very stirring album at the drop of a needle.

"THE BELLS OF CHRIST-'MAS." Eddie Dunstedter at the console of the cathedral organ. Capital T1264, $3.98, ST 1264, $4.98. There is no happier sound than the music of Christmas. During the next few weeks of the yuletide season, the old and beloved carols will fill the air. Any voice, even the thin wavering tones of a child can give meaning to Christmas Carols; but the many majestic voices of a great pipe organ give them the most fitting expression of all, Here is a performance as delightful as it is impressive to both pipe organ enthusiasts and to the millions of people who love Christmas and Christmas music.

CLASSICAL

TCHAIKOVSKY, "PIANO CONCERTO NO. 1 IN B FLAT MINOR." Georg Solti conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and Clifford Curzon at the piano. London CS 6100, $4.98. This popular work was composed by Tchaikovsky in something like a month's time. Eager to get it published he thought it advisable to seek out a professional opinion first. He invited the famous pianist Nicholos Rubinstein and another friend to hear him play the composition privately. Rubinstein used no uncertain language in condemning the piece to the trash basket. The furious composer sought out the famous conductor—pianist, Hans von Bulow who had already done much for his music in Germany. Unlike Rubinstein, the famous German praised the concerto and gave the works its world premier. Boston was the scene of this occurrence and the American audience went wild with enthusiasm. Shortly thereafter, Rubinstein retracted his earlier opinions and helped bring the works to complete international acceptance.

"OPERATIC RECITAL." Anita Cerquetti Soprano with chorus and Orchestra of the Maggio Musicale Feorentino conducted by Gianandrea Gavazzeni. London OS 25100, $5.98. Anita Cerquetti is one of the most outstanding of the younger generation of the Italian singers. A true dramatic soprano, she was born in Macerata and began her musical studies at the Liceo Musicale Morlacchi in Perugia. She made her debute as Aida, and repeated this role at the Arena in Verona in 1953. Aneta has made numerous appearances in France and Switzerland and at Chicago she has sung in "UN BALLO IN BASCHERA". The album includes works by Verdi, Bellini, Spontini and Puccini.

States Hire Industrial 'Salesmen'

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — A big Havana cigar in his mouth, the wealthy industrialist stopped talking briefly to send up a cloud of rich smoke. The governor of Tennessee made a quick pitch.

"We know what your problem is," said Buford Ellington, "and we in the state government of Tennessee will do all we can to help."

Isaac Rogosin, board chairman of the multi-million dollar Beaunit Mills, Inc., smiled amiably but looked as though he had heard such promises before. He had. South Carolina and Alabama only recently had been at Rogosin's door.

These industrial recruiters not only crisscross the nation, but step over borders looking for new business. North Carolina, whose Gov. Luther Hodges is an active campaigner, sent a delegation to Europe. Gov. Clinton Clauson, Maine's top salesman, went to Toronto to woo realtors.

Arkansas recruiters, spurred by Winthrop Rockefeller, head of the State Industrial Development Commission, made 150 out-of-state forays in 1959, calling on 3,000 industries. Tennessee dispatches four major missions a year, and has individual agents almost constantly on the go.

California sent its state treasurer east to survey the market for state bonds. Connecticut, with Gov. Abraham Ribicoff as the forage master, sent a big hunting party to California.

South Carolina's energetic Gov. Ernest F. Hollings has led more than 20 war parties this year.

Michigan has four industrial agents who concentrate on the Chicago area but make occasional confidential prowls along the Eastern seaboard.

In the span of about three weeks, New York City was visited by groups from Montana, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky. These well - drilled teams go on to other industrial centers: St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston.

They don't always get pleasant receptions from city and state officials. Last May Tennessee Gov. Ellington led his recruiters into Detroit.

"I hope their mission is a dismal failure," said Mayor Louis Miriani. He said the visit was "a barefaced attempt to steal industry from Michigan."

The industry-hunting states officially deny they're preying on each others' plants. Managing Director Sidney A. Edwards of the Connecticut Development Commission, voices the contention of many in insisting that his state directs its foreign recruitment at concerns who plan to expand by creating branches elsewhere.

Science And You
Solar Bonanza

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States throws away each year four billion cubic feet of a unique and limited resource which is invaluable to science, national defense, and space exploration.

This resource is helium, "the wonder gas." The Interior Department hopes Congress will act early next year to stop or at least reduce its waste.

From the standpoint of past uses and promising new ones, helium might well be considered priceless. It does, however, have a commercial price. At current rates, the annual wastage amounts to 62 million dollars. At proposed new rates it would be 100 to 120 million.

Among other things helium has vastly extended the range of radio telescopes and radars, helped to create nuclear weapons and power, provided medicine with a powerful life - saving tool, contributed to missile and space developments, and improved the quality of many products and the efficiency of many industrial processes.

It has brought science as close as it can hope to get to absolute zero—minus 459.6 degrees Fahrenheit—the point at which all molecular motion ceases. The temperature of liquid helium is minus 452 degrees.

Next to hydrogen, helium is the lightest element. It has no taste or smell. It will not burn. It will not react chemically with anything else. All it will do, it has been said, "is perform scientific miracles."

The sole producer of helium outside the U.S.S.R. is the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines. In this country the richest source is in the natural gas fields of the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and southwestern Kansas.

The bureau annually extracts 600 million cubic feet of helium from natural gas in plants at Keyes, Okla.; Amarillo and Exell, Tex.; Otis, Kan., and Shiprock, N.M.

No figures on Soviet production or reserves are known here. The Bureau of Mines estimates that the Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas gas fields contain about 120 billion cubic feet of recoverable helium.

This is about 350 times present annual U.S. consumption. But all of these fields are being tapped for fuel gas, in which the helium is mixed. The bureau estimates that about four billion cubic feet of helium is being lost each year in the gas produced for fuel.

Bills pending in both houses of Congress would authorize construction of 12 new helium extraction plants capable of removing three billion cubic feet each year from the amount now being wasted.

The recovered helium would be stored underground in the government's Cliffside field near Amarillo for use when needed.

ALL ABOUT ART
Between Covers

Florence means a lot of things to a lot of people—Tuscany, the Arno, sculpture and architecture and Brunelleschi and Michelangelo, Savonarola, Medici, Dante, Uffizi, Ponte Vecchio, leather goods, bambino, hot weather, Maggio musicale.

This almost limitless diversity provides a sharp contrast with the encompassable substance of Venice, the waterside museum and resort city about which this author wrote excitingly a couple of years ago in "Venice Observed." Twentieth Century Florentines are able very handily to do without the historic and artistic past that interferes with their present desire to live positively and worthily. Their treasures use up more money than they can afford, the tourists bring in a little but not enough to make up for being a nuisance or to pay for the upkeep of monuments.

So Florence is a contradiction, to most strangers a dead and even dull past despite its Athenian quality, to most residents as much a home here and now as your city or mine. It's the residents who win out, says Miss McCarthy who admires what they have done and what they now do. The city which had a magnificent rise and fall has become a city on its own, inhabited as other Italians say by "the most civilized people in Italy."

Miss McCarthy associates social and artistic achievements revealingly, and matches past and present to get at secrets no one else had discovered. Florence in a large sense is a man's city; at least in its greatness it never was really a woman's. That makes this book all the more remarkable. It is superbly illustrated with 128 black - and - white photos and 12 in color; they are mostly by Evelyn Hofer.

ITALIAN VILLAS AND PALACES. By Georgina Masson. Abrams. $17.50.

Hot, cramped and wealthy, Venice set the pattern for those great palaces in which the rich lived and loved it. The idea spread in Italy, a land of small city states with enough security to indulge the taste of luxury, display and comfort; there were vast elaborate villas as big as towns in Florence and other Tuscan centers, in Rome and later as far south as Naples. There was a French interlude, and a surge of English fashion -- and the period of the great constructions ended as the 19th century came in.

ETRUSCAN ART. By Raymond Bloch. New York Graphic Society. $25.

The Etruscans in the last few decades have posed something of a threat to the classical positions assigned by scholars and historians to their contemporaries the Greeks in their heyday and to the Romans who succeeded them in the Italian peninsula. They are still a people whose language and origins baffle us. But they left art, and art of a high order, remarkable not only for its esthetic values but for the information it supplies. In this book for instance we learn about dancers, banquets, funerals, athletes, warriors, fishing and music; we see the jewelry worn by the women. There are 100 plates 11 by 15 inches, of which 71 are in color. Another in the Graphic Society's "Great Masters of the Past" series, it is a superlative example of what an art book should be.

Diary Keeps The Powder Fast, Hot

Triumph in the West. By Arthur Bryant. Doubleday. $6.95.

Subtitled "A history of the war years based on the diaries of Field-Marshal Lord Alanbrooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff," this continues what we read in "The Turn of the Tide." In theory this closes the Bryant-Alanbrooke story, but in fact this is a book to stir controversies of which you may never hear the end.

The dispute over this second volume flared up with its publication in England where some one quoted Alanbrooke as charging Eisenhower played golf when he should have been directing his armies eastward against the crumbling Reich. The White House declared that Eisenhower didn't have a golf club in his hands in all that time. Actually, Alanbrooke recorded in his diary in mid-November, 1944, that Ike had established headquarters on a golf course at Rheims; 10 days later Alanbrooke complained merely that Ike was still there. The criticism was not that he was playing golf but that he was playing, and only playing, soldier, and there was a war on and he should hop to it.

CRITICISM

It is not the only criticism of Eisenhower, or other Americans from Roosevelt and Marshal down. Winant, our ambassador to London; MacArthur; and a couple of operational commanders are lauded. The rest of us are repeatedly blamed.

But so to a degree are Churchill, de Gaulle and Stalin. Alanbrooke, as it appears more clearly in this volume than in the first, is a complainer by profession; as C.I.G.S. he had a war to win, knew how he wanted to do it, and had no mercy on anybody with contrary ideas—indeed if they were contrary, they weren't ideas to his peppery way of thinking.

The only man almost 100 per cent right is Alanbrooke; everybody was out of step except Johnny. And he does not even work up a modest blush when he puts down in black and white his agreement with Lady Somebody who tells him he practically won the war.

He frequently dismissed those of whom he disapproved with the blunt comment that they didn't understand what it was all about. Beahy for instance "seemed to understand very little" at Yalta about liaison with Moscow. Likewise, we didn't understand the Russians' political maneuvering; didn't understand the value of keeping German divisions tied down in Italy; didn't understand that we couldn't invade across the Channel as early as we wished. Alanbrooke charges we missed a chance to clobber the Germans in Italy, and claims specifically that one reason, maybe the main one, for not gaining victory in Europe in 1944 instead of '45 was that Eisenhower divided his strength and pushed out several spearheads instead of a single invincible one.

Alanbrooke is a testy old-timer — the Germans aren't Nazis but Boches to this World War I veteran. After 4½ years in his incredibly difficult job, he retired on a basic pension of 311 pounds, a skimpy reward for his unique services.

Churchill said that the only thing harder than to get along without Allies was to get along with them; and Alanbrooke's trouble was not his foes but his friends. Bryant calls this diary invaluable for showing how epochal decisions were reached. Undoubtedly we fought as Alanbrooke says; maybe we were wrong. But at any rate the process of arriving at top-level decisions was harrowing. The clamor on the field of battle was anti-climactic; it was the battle of words that really killed. Victory was won by the fiery and impassioned arguments into which men with unshakable convictions threw themselves almost bodily. Letters and memoranda, theories and beliefs caused a council-table carnage tinglingly described in these pages.

Fine Due On Classical Art

GREEK PAINTING. By Martin C. Robertson. Skira. $25.

Though we get the stock painter's name, Apelles, from the Greeks, we get very few actual Greek paintings. The temple and sculpture survive splendidly, not the picture. To know, or at best guess at, the colors the Greeks used, their skill in perspective, and the degree of realism of their figures and settings, there remain for us only some fresco fragments, as from Crete, a few wall paintings, and most importantly the work on vases, jars and flasks.

There are 100 reproductions here in color, mostly red, yellow, brown and black, and hardly a blue in the whole lot. Robertson's spirited commentary traces their development from the Bronze Age on to the Fourth Century, and notes their influence on Roman pictorial art up to the start of the Christian era. His materials come from the northern half of the Mediterranean from Asia Minor and Cyprus on the east to Sicily and the central Italian peninsula once inhabited by Etruscans.

MASTER DRAWINGS FROM THE COLLECTION OF THE BUDAPEST MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS 19th and 20th CENTURIES. Selected and introduced by Denes Pataky. Abrams. $25.

The Budapest collection, despite some lacks noted in the introduction and despite an obvious unevenness, is singularly rich in characteristic items, and the French come off best of all; there are 75 works from France, a dozen from the Netherlands, Austria and Germany, and five from England — after all, it was as much a French art era as the Renaissance was Italian. The reproductions follow the originals in color or black and white, and are of the quality we have a right to require in art books today.

Dedicated To People With Idea

SOMEDAY MALAYSIA, by Eduardo L. Martelino (Pageant): An earnest little (79-page) book dedicated to the idea that the Malaysians — the people of Southeast Asia —can attain security and importance through political unity. The author is currently Philippine government press attache in New York and has a background of 10 years as a newspaperman and commentator in Manila. He believes the Malaysians of the Southeast Asian mainland, Indonesia and the Philippines are living in a power vacuum that is to their advantage. At 36, Martelino is of a new generation of Asians who believe not only in the brand of nationalism prevailing in their own lands but also in the nationalist movements of all Asia.

And Bring All Your Folks Is Excellent Book

AND BRING ALL YOUR FOLKS, by Max Miller (Doubleday): When southern California becomes so overpopulated that even the smog is subdivided, Miller thinks that residents who like a little elbow room will look into the virtually uninhabited islands off the coast. In this breezy book he tells them what they can expect. He describes his visit to San Nicolas island where he met the only inhabitant, a Robinson Crusoe-like shepherd who feared Miller had come to dig bones. San Nicolas was once quite a place. It had pgymy elephants, tropical foliage and a fight between the Russians and Aleuts and the Indian natives. Fascinating.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's getting so that no one is safe from the playwrights.

"Gypsy" is a musical about Gypsy Rose Lee, her sister, June Havoc, and their late mother, Rose Hovik.

"Only in America" has for its hero Harry Golden, North Carolina writer and newspaper publisher.

And now comes "Fiorello!" This musical play about the earlier portion of the career of the late Mayor La Gaurdia of New York City is a most welcome addition to the biographical list. It is a warm and appealing document about a turbulent and fascinating political figure who deserves to be remembered as a colorful person, whether you agreed with him or not.

The veteran George Abbott, whose producing-directing record must be longer than that of anyone active on the American stage, has directed this entertaining bit of theater as well as getting credit as co-author with novelist Jerome Weidman. It isn't the slickest musical ever, the score leaves something to be desired, but it does come off as a lively and vital attraction.

Obviously much of the success of this venture depends on the person playing the title role, and producers Robert E. Griffith and Harold S. Prince have just the right man in Tom Bosley.

Bosley makes his Broadway debut in "Fiorello!" He's been acting for more than a decade in stock and off-Broadway, but, as they say, "nobody ever heard of him," until he was picked for this show.

He is close to the physical Appearance of a younger La Guardia and has managed to approximate the late mayor's peculiar speech quality. These things are important in creating the illusion of a man many persons remember well, but it is also important that Bosley impresses as being a highly skilled actor who need not be typed as a one-role performer.

Weidman and Abbott have woven their libretto around La Guardia's career from his days as a crusading young New York lawyer just before the United States got into World War I to the eve of his election as mayor in 1933. His service as a congressman, his Army career, his defeat the first time he ran for mayor and his two marriages are in the script.

The "book" has a certain rugged quality that probably stems from the nature of the leading character himself. It has some weak spots here and there, but it is better than the average such.

The score of Jerry Bock (music) and Sheldon Harnick (lyrics) is excellent when it is concerned with the "production" type of song. Their ballads are not outstanding.

Defeat Of Armada In Perspective

THE ARMADA. By Garrett Mattingly. Houghton Mifflin. $6.

Before reading this noble account of England's finest hour (with one possible exception) I did not realize—

That the burning of barrel staves by Drake in the raid that singed King Phillip's beard resulted later in more Spanish casualties than did English guns.

That England had bigger ships than did Spain.

That the Spaniards were well aware of England's advantage in great guns, and tried to get more of their own.

That Spanish leadership, seamanship and bravery were all extremely high.

That those big English guns did comparatively little damage at long range after all; the Spaniards were panicked only by fire ships.

That most of the Spaniards shipwrecked in Ireland were slain, but by the English rather than the Irish.

That the legend of a Spanish Armada blood strain in Ireland is largely just that-legend.

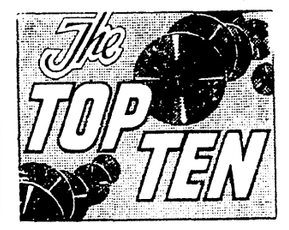

That two-thirds of the Armada ships got back to Spain.

That after the Armada Spain increased the strength of her navy in relation to England's.

That the value of Spain's empire then increased rather than decreased.

That the Spanish - English war dragged on for another 15 years.

But Professor Mattingly's book is no mere collection of odd facts about the Armada. It gives a sweeping picture of the European situation that led to the invasion attempt as well as a blow by blow account of the drawn out battle.

RUNNING THE SCALES With JOHN CALE

Today, Christmas music will waft over the soundwaves on both sides of the Ouachita with a performance of Handel's oratoria, "The Messiah," at Brown Hall on the Northeast campus and a recital by soprano Cecilia Ward at the West Monroe First Baptist Church.

The Messiah, which tells in solos and choral passages the story of the prophecy and birth of Jesus Christ, will be performed at 3:30 p.m. by a student and community chorus and orchestra under the direction of Davis Bingham of the Northeast faculty.

Eloise Temple Anspach, soloist with the St. Paul's Methodist Church choir and wife of organist LeRoy Anspach, will sing some of the soprano arias in the score by Handel. Other soloists will include guest soprano Mary Shelton from Camden, Arkansas; tenor Kermit Breen, Magnolia, Arkansas; Luther Burney, baritone and Palmer Jarrell, bass, both of Monroe.

Cecilia Ward, Louisiana-born singer who has made a name for herself on the national concert scene, will present her recital of Chistmas songs at First Baptist church in West Monroe at 7:45 p.m.

GYPSY BARON

With the stereo speakers primed to let loose with all types of Christmas music from Renaissance motets by a Netherlands choir to a shined up Rudolph's by a modern-day rock-a-billy singer, the Metropolitan Opera company has set up the operetta, "Gypsy Baron," for holiday entertainment.

While the Johann Strauss score has little to do with Christmas, the delightful waltzes and Hungarian themes could mix well with any holiday trimmings — from pine cones and candles to bunting and fire crackers.

While the New York critics did not go all out in praise of the production, it is hoped Met manager Bing can see the real value — commercial and otherwise — of the musical funnies by the old masters.

So far, Broadway has made a complete turnabout in the light musical bracket—from Victor Herbert and Rudolph Friml (old time sentimental) to the belted song period typified by "Kiss Me, Kate" and now back to the new old timers "My Fair Lady" and "The King and I."

With such a completely inscribed circle of events over a 50 year period, there is reason to believe musical comedy which stays funny over the years could be produced at a profit. Johann Strauss and Jacques Offenbach are no longer around to peddle their tunes with "payola," but it might be more of their polkas, waltzes, and can-cans would sell without any push from under the table. Many already have.

The Met did try Offenbach's "La Perichole" last year but why not a fling at "Orpheus in the Underworld," "Martha," "The Devil's Brother," and the thousands of other comic operas which combine satin, silk, satire and spoof.

Who knows? Maybe an adequate injection of such cultivated humor would help heal the scars remaining from the rock-n-roll craze.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New and interesting books are received at the Ouachita Parish Public Library each week. "The Devil's Advocate" by Morris L. West is high on the best seller list. This is a very unusual book and is concerned with the search for information in regard to conferring cannozation on a patriot of the last war. The man who is making the study finds new lessons in love and a meaning in life deeper than one person. Alec Waugh has a new novel called "Fuel for the Flame." It has it's setting on Karak in the China seas. It is a leisurely, luxuriant and superficial novel but should prove very attractive to those who enjoyed his "Island in the Sun."

"Abigail" by Mary Louise Aswell has it's setting in Philadelphia during the 18th century. Abigail, the heroine went against every tenet of her Quaker upbringing and scandalized Philadelphia society. It is a period novel which will appeal especially to women readers. A new mystery story is "The Merriweather File" by Lionel White.

Two outstanding reference books added to our collection during the past week are "The Larousse Encyclopedia of Astronomy" and "Who's Who in American Education". Both of these books should be extensively used. "Elements of Style" by William Strunk will appeal to all who are interested in knowing what is correct. It has been on the best seller list and should appeal to our readers.

A very lovely book is "Printmaking" by Gabor Peterdi. This is a history of printmaking and a discussion of its methods. It will appeal to the artists of the community. An interesting collection of short stories is "Frontiers West" Edited by the Western writers of America. This book will appeal to all who like to read about the old West. Are you planning a trip to California? If so you wil want to see "The Complete Guide to Southern California" by Andrew Hepburn. We already had it's companion volume a "Complete Guide to Northern California." These are very valuable and interesting books.

This weeks additions include a number of books especially James Kjelgaard has a new title called "Hi Jolly." Mary Stolz, who writes very interesting books about girls reaching maturity has a new one called "Some Merry-Go-Round Music". Science fiction addicts will welcome "Galactic Derelict" by Andre Norton. An interesting career story is "Lois Thornton, Librarian" written by Rita G. Brady.

"She Manners" by Robert H. Loeb is an excellent book of etiquette for teen-agers. "The Book of Place Names" by Eloise Lambert contains a wealth of information as to the origin of place names. "Realm of Numbers" by Isaac Asimov makes the entire field of numbers a fascinating study. "Stories of Favorite Operas" by Clyde Robert Bulla is a very fine collection and will be widely used. "Rocketry Through the Ages" by Donald Cox should interest everyone who is interested in rockets. Another book which wil appeal to a wide audience is "Transport Planes that Made History" by David C. Cooke.

POPULAR

"C'MON LET'S DANCE." Freddy Martin and his orchestra. Capital T1269, $3.98, ST 1269, $4.98. What makes Freddy Martin's style so popular today? He explains that he not only plays for dancing but also for the people who are sitting at the tables. The songs in this album are primarily show tunes, Broadway and Holiywood hits that have become popular "standards" of the dance floor. They represent the work of America's greatest songwriters. The coming Yuletide season with its many parties, "C'mon Let's Dance" should prove to be a very stirring album at the drop of a needle.

"THE BELLS OF CHRISTMAS." Eddie Dunstedter at the console of the cathedral organ. Capital T1264, $3.98, ST 1264, $4.98. There is no happier sound than the music of Christmas. During the next few weeks of the yuletide season, the old and beloved carols will fill the air. Any voice, even the thin wavering tones of a child can give meaning to Christmas Carols; but the many majestic voices of a great pipe organ give them the most fitting expression of all. Here is a performance as delightful as it is impressive to both pipe organ enthusiasts and to the millions of people who love Christmas and Christmas music.

CLASSICAL

TCHAIKOVSKY, "PIANO CONCERTO NO. 1 IN B FLAT MINOR." Georg Solti conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and Clifford Curzon at the piano. London CS 6100, $4.98. This popular work was composed by Tchaikovsky in something like a month's time. Eager to get it published he thought it advisable to seek out a professional opinion first. He invited the famous pianist Nicholos Rubinstein and another friend to hear him play the composition privately. Rubinstein used no uncertain language in condemning the piece to the trash basket. The furious composer sought out the famous conductor—pianist, Hans von Bulow who had already done much for his music in Germany. Unlike Rubinstein, the famous German praised the concerto and gave the works its world premier. Boston was the scene of this occurrence and the American audience went wild with enthusiasm. Shortly thereafter, Rubinstein retracted his earlier opinions and helped bring the works to complete international acceptance.

"OPERATIC RECITAL." Anita Cerquetti Soprano with chorus and Orchestra of the Maggio Musicale Feorentino conducted by Gianandrea Gavazzeni. London OS 25100, $5.98. Anita Cerquetti is one of the most outstanding of the younger generation of the Italian singers. A true dramatic soprano, she was born in Macerata and began her musical studies at the Liceo Musicale Morlacchi in Perugia. She made her debute as Aida, and repeated this role at the Arena in Verona in 1953. Aneta has made numerous appearances in France and Switzerland and at Chicago she has sung in "UN BALLO IN BASCHERA". The album includes works by Verdi, Bellini, Spontini and Puccini.

States Hire Industrial 'Salesmen'

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — A big Havana cigar in his mouth, the wealthy industrialist stopped talking briefly to send up a cloud of rich smoke. The governor of Tennessee made a quick pitch.

"We know what your problem is," said Buford Ellington, "and we in the state government of Tennessee will do all we can to help."

Isaac Rogosin, board chairman of the multi-million dollar Beaunit Mills, Inc., smiled amiably but looked as though he had heard such promises before. He had. South Carolina and Alabama only recently had been at Rogosin's door.

These industrial recruiters not only crisscross the nation, but step over borders looking for new business. North Carolina, whose Gov. Luther Hodges is an active campaigner, sent a delegation to Europe. Gov. Clinton Clauson, Maine's top salesman, went to Toronto to woo realtors.

Arkansas recruiters, spurred by Winthrop Rockefeller, head of the State Industrial Development Commission, made 150 out-of-state forays in 1959, calling on 3,000 industries. Tennessee dispatches four major missions a year, and has individual agents almost constantly on the go.

California sent its state treasurer east to survey the market for state bonds. Connecticut, with Gov. Abraham Ribicoff as the forage master, sent a big hunting party to California.

South Carolina's energetic Gov. Ernest F. Hollings has led more than 20 war parties this year.

Michigan has four industrial agents who concentrate on the Chicago area but make occasional confidential prowls along the Eastern seaboard.

In the span of about three weeks, New York City was visited by groups from Montana, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky. These well - drilled teams go on to other industrial centers: St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston.

They don't always get pleasant receptions from city and state officials. Last May Tennessee Gov. Ellington led his recruiters into Detroit.

"I hope their mission is a dismal failure," said Mayor Louis Miriani. He said the visit was "a barefaced attempt to steal industry from Michigan."

The industry-hunting states officially deny they're preying on each others' plants. Managing Director Sidney A. Edwards of the Connecticut Development Commission, voices the contention of many in insisting that his state directs its foreign recruitment at concerns who plan to expand by creating branches elsewhere.

Science And You
Solar Bonanza

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States throws away each year four billion cubic feet of a unique and limited resource which is invaluable to science, national defense, and space exploration.

This resource is helium, "the wonder gas." The Interior Department hopes Congress will act early next year to stop or at least reduce its waste.

From the standpoint of past uses and promising new ones, helium might well be considered priceless. It does, however, have a commercial price. At current rates, the annual wastage amounts to 62 million dollars. At proposed new rates it would be 100 to 120 million.

Among other things helium has vastly extended the range of radio telescopes and radars, helped to create nuclear weapons and power, provided medicine with a powerful life - saving tool, contributed to missile and space developments, and improved the quality of many products and the efficiency of many industrial processes.

It has brought science as close as it can hope to get to absolute zero—minus 459.6 degrees Fahrenheit—the point at which all molecular motion ceases. The temperature of liquid helium is minus 452 degrees.

Next to hydrogen, helium is the lightest element. It has no taste or smell. It will not burn. It will not react chemically with anything else. All it will do, it has been said, "is perform scientific miracles."

The sole producer of helium outside the U.S.S.R. is the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines. In this country the richest source is in the natural gas fields of the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and southwestern Kansas.

The bureau annually extracts 600 million cubic feet of helium from natural gas in plants at Keyes, Okla.; Amarillo and Exell, Tex.; Otis, Kan., and Shiprock, N.M.

No figures on Soviet production or reserves are known here. The Bureau of Mines estimates that the Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas gas fields contain about 120 billion cubic feet of recoverable helium.

This is about 350 times present annual U.S. consumption. But all of these fields are being tapped for fuel gas, in which the helium is mixed. The bureau estimates that about four billion cubic feet of helium is being lost each year in the gas produced for fuel.

Bills pending in both houses of Congress would authorize construction of 12 new helium extraction plants capable of removing three billion cubic feet each year from the amount now being wasted.

The recovered helium would be stored underground in the government's Cliffside field near Amarillo for use when needed.

ALL ABOUT ART
Between Covers

THE STONES OF FLORENCE. By Mary McCarthy. Harcourt, Brace. $15.

Florence means a lot of things to a lot of people—Tuscany, the Arno, sculpture and architecture and Brunelleschi and Michelangelo, Savonarola, Medici, Dante, Uffizi, Ponte Vecchio, leather goods, bambino, hot weather, Maggio musicale.

This almost limitless diversity provides a sharp contrast with the encompassable substance of Venice, the waterside museum and resort city about which this author wrote excitingly a couple of years ago in "Venice Observed." Twentieth Century Florentines are able very handily to do without the historic and artistic past that interferes with their present desire to live positively and worthily. Their treasures use up more money than they can afford, the tourists bring in a little but not enough to make up for being a nuisance or to pay for the upkeep of monuments.

So Florence is a contradiction, to most strangers a dead and even dull past despite its Athenian quality, to most residents as much a home here and now as your city or mine. It's the residents who win out, says Miss McCarthy who admires what they have done and what they now do. The city which had a magnificent rise and fall has become a city on its own, inhabited as other Italians say by "the most civilized people in Italy."

Miss McCarthy associates social and artistic achievements revealingly, and matches past and present to get at secrets no one else had discovered. Florence in a large sense is a man's city; at least in its greatness it never was really a woman's. That makes this book all the more remarkable. It is superbly illustrated with 128 black - and - white photos and 12 in color; they are mostly by Evelyn Hofer.

ITALIAN VILLAS AND PALACES. By Georgina Masson. Abrams. $17.50.

Hot, cramped and wealthy, Venice set the pattern for those great palaces in which the rich lived and loved it. The idea spread in Italy, a land of small city states with enough security to indulge the taste of luxury, display and comfort; there were vast elaborate villas as big as towns in Florence and other Tuscan centers, in Rome and later as far south as Naples. There was a French interlude, and a surge of English fashion — and the period of the great constructions ended as the 19th century came in.

ETRUSCAN ART. By Raymond Bloch. New York Graphic Society. $25.

The Etruscans in the last few decades have posed something of a threat to the classical positions assigned by scholars and historians to their contemporaries the Greeks in their heyday and to the Romans who succeeded them in the Italian peninsula. They are still a people whose language and origins baffle us. But they left art, and art of a high order, remarkable not only for its esthetic values but for the information it supplies. In this book for instance we learn about dancers, banquets, funerals, athletes, warriors, fishing and music; we see the jewelry worn by the women. There are 100 plates 11 by 15 inches, of which 71 are in color. Another in the Graphic Society's "Great Masters of the Past" series, it is a superlative example of what an art book should be.

Diary Keeps The Powder Fast, Hot

Triumph in the West. By Arthur Bryant. Doubleday. $6.95.

Subtitled "A history of the war years based on the diaries of Field-Marshal Lord Alanbrooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff," this continues what we read in "The Turn of the Tide." In theory this closes the Bryant-Alanbrooke story, but in fact this is a book to stir controversies of which you may never hear the end.

The dispute over this second volume flared up with its publication in England where some one quoted Alanbrooke as charging Eisenhower played golf when he should have been directing his armies eastward against the crumbling Reich. The White House declared that Eisenhower didn't have a golf club in his hands in all that time. Actually, Alanbrooke recorded in his diary in mid-November, 1944, that Ike had established headquarters on a golf course at Rheims; 10 days later Alanbrooke complained merely that Ike was still there. The criticism was not that he was playing golf but that he was playing, and only playing, soldier, and there was a war on and he should hop to it.

CRITICISM

It is not the only criticism of Eisenhower, or other Americans from Roosevelt and Marshal down. Winant, our ambassador to London; MacArthur; and a couple of operational commanders are lauded. The rest of us are repeatedly blamed.

But so to a degree are Churchill, de Gaulle and Stalin. Alanbrooke, as it appears more clearly in this volume than in the first, is a complainer by profession; as C.I.G.S. he had a war to win, knew how he wanted to do it, and had no mercy on anybody with contrary ideas—indeed if they were contrary, they weren't ideas to his peppery way of thinking.

The only man almost 100 per cent right is Alanbrooke; everybody was out of step except Johnny. And he does not even work up a modest blush when he puts down in black and white his agreement with Lady Somebody who tells him he practically won the war.

He frequently dismissed those of whom he disapproved with the blunt comment that they didn't understand what it was all about. Leahy for instance "seemed to understand very little" at Yalta about liaison with Moscow. Likewise, we didn't understand the Russians' political maneuvering; didn't understand the value of keeping German divisions tied down in Italy; didn't understand that we couldn't invade across the Channel as early as we wished. Alanbrooke charges we missed a chance to clobber the Germans in Italy, and claims specifically that one reason, maybe the main one, for not gaining victory in Europe in 1944 instead of '45 was that Eisenhower divided his strength and pushed out several spearheads instead of a single invincible one.

Alanbrooke is a testy old-timer — the Germans aren't Nazis but Boches to this World War I veteran. After 4½ years in his incredibly difficult job, he retired on a basic pension of 311 pounds, a skimpy reward for his unique services.

Churchill said that the only thing harder than to get along without Allies was to get along with them; and Alanbrooke's trouble was not his foes but his friends. Bryant calls this diary invaluable for showing how epochal decisions were reached. Undoubtedly we fought as Alanbrooke says; maybe we were wrong. But at any rate the process of arriving at top-level decisions was harrowing. The clamor on the field of battle was anti-climactic; it was the battle of words that really killed. Victory was won by the fiery and impassioned arguments into which men with unshakable convictions threw themselves almost bodily. Letters and memoranda, theories and beliefs caused a council-table carnage tinglingly described in these pages.

Fine Due On Classical Art

Though we get the stock painter's name, Apelles, from the Greeks, we get very few actual Greek paintings. The temple and sculpture survive splendidly, not the picture. To know, or at best guess at, the colors the Greeks used, their skill in perspective, and the degree of realism of their figures and settings, there remain for us only some fresco fragments, as from Crete, a few wall paintings, and most importantly the work on vases, jars and flasks.

There are 100 reproductions here in color, mostly red, yellow, brown and black, and hardly a blue in the whole lot. Robertson's spirited commentary traces their development from the Bronze Age on to the Fourth Century, and notes their influence on Roman pictorial art up to the start of the Christian era. His materials come from the northern half of the Mediterranean from Asia Minor and Cyprus on the east to Sicily and the central Italian peninsula once inhabited by Etruscans.

MASTER DRAWINGS FROM THE COLLECTION OF THE BUDAPEST MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS 19th and 20th CENTURIES. Selected and introduced by Denes Pataky. Abrams. $25.

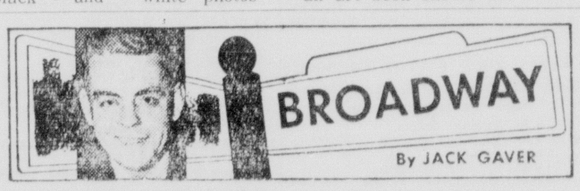

The Budapest collection, despite some lacks noted in the introduction and despite an obvious unevenness, is singularly rich in characteristic items, and the French come off best of all; there are 75 works from France, a dozen from the Netherlands, Austria and Germany, and five from England — after all, it was as much a French art era as the Renaissance was Italian. The reproductions follow the originals in color or black and white, and are of the quality we have a right to require in art books today.

Dedicated To People With Idea

SOMEDAY MALAYSIA, by Eduardo L. Martelino (Pageant): An earnest little (79-page) book dedicated to the idea that the Malaysians — the people of Southeast Asia —can attain security and importance through political unity. The author is currently Philippine government press attache in New York and has a background of 10 years as a newspaperman and commentator in Manila. He believes the Malaysians of the Southeast Asian mainland, Indonesia and the Philippines are living in a power vacuum that is to their advantage. At 36, Martelino is of a new generation of Asians who believe not only in the brand of nationalism prevailing in their own lands but also in the nationalist movements of all Asia.

And Bring All Your Folks Is Excellent Book

AND BRING ALL YOUR FOLKS, by Max Miller (Doubleday): When southern California becomes so overpopulated that even the smog is subdivided, Miller thinks that residents who like a little elbow room will look into the virtually uninhabited islands off the coast. In this breezy book he tells them what they can expect. He describes his visit to San Nicolas island where he met the only inhabitant, a Robinson Crusoe-like shepherd who feared Miller had come to dig bones. San Nicolas was once quite a place. It had pgymy elephants, tropical foliage and a fight between the Russians and Aleuts and the Indian natives. Fascinating.

Eloise Temple Anspach, soloist with the St. Paul's Methodist Church choir and wife of organist LeRoy Anspach, will sing some of the soprano arias in the score by Handel. Other soloists will include guest soprano Mary Shelton from Camden, Arkansas; tenor Kermit Breen, Magnolia, Arkansas; Luther Burney, baritone and Palmer Jarrell, bass, both of Monroe.

Cecilia Ward, Louisiana-born singer who has made a name for herself on the national concert scene, will present her recital of Chistmas songs at First Baptist church in West Monroe at 7:45 p.m.

GYPSY BARON

With the stereo speakers primed to let loose with all types of Christmas music from Renaissance motets by a Netherlands choir to a shined up Rudolph's by a modern-day rock-a-billy singer, the Metropolitan Opera company has set up the operetta, "Gypsy Baron," for holiday entertainment.

While the Johann Strauss score has little to do with Christmas, the delightful waltzes and Hungarian themes could mix well with any holiday trimmings — from pine cones and candles to bunting and fire crackers.

While the New York critics did not go all out in praise of the production, it is hoped Met manager Bing can see the real value — commercial and otherwise — of the musical funnies by the old masters.

So far, Broadway has made a complete turnabout in the light musical bracket—from Victor Herbert and Rudolph Friml (old time sentimental) to the belted song period typified by "Kiss Me, Kate" and now back to the new old timers "My Fair Lady" and "The King and I."

With such a completely inscribed circle of events over a 50 year period, there is reason to believe musical comedy which stays funny over the years could be produced at a profit. Johann Strauss and Jacques Offenbach are no longer around to peddle their tunes with "payola," but it might be more of their polkas, waltzes, and can-cans would sell without any push from under the table. Many already have.

The Met did try Offenbach's "La Perichole" last year but why not a fling at "Orpheus in the Underworld," "Martha," "The Devil's Brother," and the thousands of other comic operas which combine satin, silk, satire and spoof.

Who knows? Maybe an adequate injection of such cultivated humor would help heal the scars remaining from the rock-n-roll craze.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

New and interesting books are received at the Ouachita Parish Public Library each week. "The Devil's Advocate" by Morris L. West is high on the best seller list. This is a very unusual book and is concerned with the search for information in regard to conferring cannozation on a patriot of the last war. The man who is making the study finds new lessons in love and a meaning in life deeper than one person. Alec Waugh has a new novel called "Fuel for the Flame." It has it's setting on Karak in the China seas. It is a leisurely, luxuriant and superficial novel but should prove very attractive to those who enjoyed his "Island in the Sun."

"Abigail" by Mary Louise Aswell has it's setting in Philadelphia during the 18th century. Abigail, the heroine went against every tenet of her Quaker upbringing and scandalized Philadelphia society. It is a period novel which will appeal especially to women readers. A new mystery story is "The Merriweather File" by Lionel White.

Two outstanding reference books added to our collection during the past week are "The Larousse Encyclopedia of Astronomy" and "Who's Who in American Education". Both of these books should be extensively used. "Elements of Style" by William Strunk will appeal to all who are interested in knowing what is correct. It has been on the best seller list and should appeal to our readers.

A very lovely book is "Printmaking" by Gabor Peterdi. This is a history of printmaking and a discussion of its methods. It will appeal to the artists of the community. An interesting collection of short stories is "Frontiers West" Edited by the Western writers of America. This book will appeal to all who like to read about the old West. Are you planning a trip to California? If so you wil want to see "The Complete Guide to Southern California" by Andrew Hepburn. We already had it's companion volume a "Complete Guide to Northern California." These are very valuable and interesting books.

This weeks additions include a number of books especially James Kjelgaard has a new title called "Hi Jolly." Mary Stolz, who writes very interesting books about girls reaching maturity has a new one called "Some Merry-Go-Round Music". Science fiction addicts will welcome "Galactic Derelict" by Andre Norton. An interesting career story is "Lois Thornton, Librarian" written by Rita G. Brady.

"She Manners" by Robert H. Loeb is an excellent book of etiquette for teen-agers. "The Book of Place Names" by Eloise Lambert contains a wealth of information as to the origin of place names. "Realm of Numbers" by Isaac Asimov makes the entire field of numbers a fascinating study. "Stories of Favorite Operas" by Clyde Robert Bulla is a very fine collection and will be widely used. "Rocketry Through the Ages" by Donald Cox should interest everyone who is interested in rockets. Another book which wil appeal to a wide audience is "Transport Planes that Made History" by David C. Cooke.

West Monroe Church Calls New Pastor

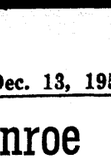

REV. O. C. CLARK

Rev. O. C. Clark is the new pastor of the Fair Park Baptist Church located on the Whites' Ferry Road, West Monroe, it was announced today. He will begin his ministry with the church today.

Rev. Clark comes from Pleasant Hill Baptist Church at Pollock, Louisiana. He is married and has four daughters. His wife is the former Miss Helen Queen of Atlanta, Ga.

A graduate of Louisiana College and the New Orleans Baptist Seminary, Rev. Clark comes to this new church with a successful ministry, according to his friends.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: This is a funny letter to write because I have everything people seem to striving for - except peace in my heart. I have been reading your column and you sound so sure. Where can I find peace?

Mrs. P. L.

ANSWER: When Christ was on earth He said: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me: for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." (Matt. 11:28-30). Jesus was speaking to people just like you and He will give you the peace you want in your heart right now on one condition - open your heart to Him. Tell Him you have sinned. Ask Him to cleanse and forgive you and then to come into your heart. If you do this I promise you, you will have the greatest peace and joy a person can know in this world. When you accept Christ as your Saviour you will be "born again" in a spiritual sense. And because you will be a new person you will enjoy things you never enjoyed before and stop caring for things which seem so important now. As you make Christ Saviour also make Him the Lord of your life. Live for His glory. Help other people to know Him too. Read your Bible every day (start with a book in the Bible like the Gospel of John and read it again and again), and pray (talk) to God many times a day. You will begin to live.

SHRINK SCARE

His colleagues rolled the car into the police garage and replaced it with a child's pedal car, which Bigley found on his return.

"The rain's shrinking my car," he said.

Why You Should Choose a

Hammond Organ for Your Church

When you are ready to choose an organ, remember that a Hammond Organ offers your church the best value.

Over 40,000 churches have chosen a Hammond Organ: because only a Hammond Organ has:

- A far greater range of true church tones than any other organ.
- "Living" cathedral-like tones for any enclosure.
- No tuning expense—only a Hammond can't get out of tune.
- Easy to play.
- Rich percussion effects of chimes, bells, celeste, marimba, and others.

The Hammond Organ

Mergers Seen In Lutheran Church Groups

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Relations are growing warmer between the massive, doctrine-conscious Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the other long-estranged major branches of American Lutheranism.

Leaders of the Missouri Synod and the National Lutheran Council met last week in Chicago in the first of several exploratory discussions aimed at discovering areas of cooperation.

Lutheran unity is not an immediate goal, both sides hasten to explain.

"We are trying to see how far cooperation can go," says a spokesman for the Missouri Synod, the second largest Lutheran Church with 2,200,000 members. "We're trying to find out what we can do and what we can't do together."

The areas of cooperation being explored are in what a NLC spokesman calls "external things," those not directly related to worship or doctrine.

Missouri Synod and five smaller Lutheran bodies loosely allied in the Synodical Conference hold that full doctrinal unity is a requirement for fellowship or free exchange of pulpits and altars. Others have more liberal views of fellowship.

There always has been some element of division among American Lutherans, chiefly along Old World nationalistic lines. But lately Lutherans have been most active in trade nominational mergers.

The Evangelical, American and United Evangelical Lutheran Churches, all members of the NLC, will join formally as a new church of 2,250,000 members on Jan. 1, 1961.

The United, Augustana, Finnish Evangelical (Suomi Synod) and American Evangelical Lutheran Churches, also NLC members, will unite in a new three-million-member church, perhaps by 1961.

The mergers will render the National Lutheran Council virtually unnecessary, since its membership would be reduced to three—or two, if the member Lutheran Free Church joins one of the merged groups.

If some large area of cooperation can be established between the Missouri Synod and the NLC it is possible the council will emerge as a radically different organization, its members cooperating on a more limited basis.

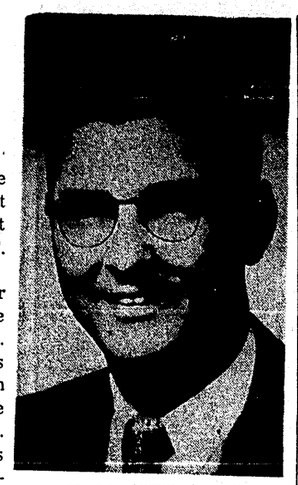

The little Evangelical Lutheran Synod (formerly the Norweigian Synod), has broken relations with the larger church and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod (formerly the Joint Synod of Wisconsin) considered similar action at its last convention.

They maintain that the Missouri Synod has acted contrary to synodical doctrine by taking part in joint religious activities with Lutheran bodies not in doctrinal unity.

The most recent count shows there are more than 7,500,000 Lutherans in the United States divided into 17 church bodies, ranging from the tiny Eilson Synod's 00 baptized members to the United Lutheran Church's 2,400,-

When mergers currently under are accomplished the number of Lutheran bodies will be reduced to 12.

Manerd Aden Ordination To Be Held

REV. MANERD ADEN

An ordination service will be held at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe today at 3 p.m., according to Rev. A. T. Mitchell, pastor.

Rev. Manerd Aden, a former resident of West Monroe, will be ordained as a minister with Rev. Mitchell officiating. Rev. Aden is a graduate of LSU and will soon receive his degree from the New Orleans Baptist Seminary. He is married to the former Miss Tommy Scott of Mantee, Mississippi. He has served for some time as minister of education at Bogalusa Baptist Church.

In the same ordination service, Gene Muckleroy and B. L. Spillers will be ordained as deacons of the host church.

Rev. W. E. Spencer will present the ordination charge, Rev. Filer J. Seals will present the Bible charge, Rev. E. E. Taylor will present the charge of the church and Rev. A. L. New will preside over the ordination prayer. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. A. T. Mitchell.

Monroe Priest Speaker At Ruston Meet

Father Dave Dabria, pastor of Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church of Monroe, will be featured speaker at the nine - parish meeting of the Monroe Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women in Ruston today.

"Council structure and the importance of the NCCW" will be Father Dabria's topics.

Parish chairmen and council members will attend the afternoon meeting, at St. Thomas Acquinas Catholic Church.

Father Paulus, pastor of the Ruston church, will host the meet according to Mrs. D. M. Moore of Monroe, president of the Alexandria Diocesan Council of the NCCW.

Members from St. Paschal's Church in West Monroe, St. Matthews, St. Joseph's, Our Lady of Fatima and Good Shepherd Church in Monroe, churches in Rayville, Delhi, Bastrop and Ruston, as well as the Catholic Daughters of America, will be present for the session.

Mennonites Considered 'Impractical'

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

By the world's standards, Mennonites are "impractical" people.

For more than four centuries, they have been trying to obey literally the teachings of Jesus.

They have persisted in this difficult task in spite of bloody persecutions that came close to exterminating them — and in spite of the many practical reasons that others have found for honing off the sharp edges of the Sermon on the Mount.

Mennonites contend that Christ meant exactly what he said when he told his disciples to love their enemies . . . to turn the other cheek . . . to offer no resistance to those who would do them evil. They believe that any use of force — and particularly the waging of war — is totally incompatible with this commandment. So they are uncompromising pacifists, refusing not only to bear arms, but also to hold office as magistrates or policemen.

WILL NOT ARGUE

If you tell a Mennonite that this is unrealistic, and that it opens the way for the strong to exploit the weak, and the wicked to enslave the good, he will not try to argue with you. He will simply tell you that "Mennonites are determined to take the Lord's words at their face value, regardless of what it may cost." And he will remind you that Jesus told His disciples they should expect to suffer for His sake.

Christian love, in Mennonite teaching, involves far more than avoiding any hurt to your neighbor. It is a positive obligation to serve all men, to seek the good of others even at the sacrifice of your own legitimate interests. All members of the church are called upon to "practice lives of self-denial and frugality, to live simply rather than in luxury" so that they will have the means as well as the will to feed the hungry and clothe the naked.

REFORMATIONISTS

History has given Mennonites abundant opportunity to demonstrate their readiness for suffering and self-denial. The movement originated in Zurich, Switzerland, in 1535, and quickly spread to The Netherlands. Historians have called it "the left wing of the Protestant reformation" because its adherents went far beyond the followers of Luther and Calvin in repudiating Catholic traditions and seeking to return to the "original" practices of the earliest Christians described in the New Testament.

The first members were called "Anabaptists" because they rejected infant baptism and insisted that only adult believers properly could be baptized. The later term "Mennonite" came from Menno Simons, a former Catholic priest who became leader of the Dutch Anabaptists in 1536.

West Monroe Church Calls New Pastor

REV. O. C. CLARK

Rev. O. C. Clark is the new pastor of the Fair Park Baptist Church located on the Whites' Ferry Road, West Monroe, it was announced today. He will begin his ministry with the church today.

Rev. Clark comes from Pleasant Hill Baptist Church at Pollock, Louisiana. He is married and has four daughters. His wife is the former Miss Helen Queen of Atlanta, Ga.

A graduate of Louisiana College and the New Orleans Baptist Seminary, Rev. Clark comes to this new church with a successful ministry, according to his friends.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: This is a funny letter to write because I have everything people seem to striving for - except peace in my heart. I have been reading your column and you sound so sure. Where can I find peace?

Mrs. P. L.

ANSWER: When Christ was on earth He said: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." (Matt. 11:28-30). Jesus was speaking to people just like you and He will give you the peace you want in your heart right now on one condition - open your heart to Him. Tell Him you have sinned. Ask Him to cleanse and forgive you and then to come into your heart. If you do this I promise you, you will have the greatest peace and joy a person can know in this world. When you accept Christ as your Saviour you will be "born again" in a spiritual sense. And because you will be a new person you will enjoy things you never enjoyed before and stop caring for things which seem so important now. As you make Christ Saviour also make Him the Lord of your life. Live for His glory. Help other people to know Him too. Read your Bible every day (start with a book in the Bible like the Gospel of John and read it again and again), and pray (talk) to God many times a day. You will begin to live.

SHRINK SCARE

His colleagues rolled the car into the police garage and replaced it with a child's pedal car, which Bigley found on his return.

"The rain's shrinking my car," he said.

SOLOIST — Cecilia Pate Ward, opera and concert soprano soloist will present a recital of Christmas music today at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, according to an announcement by Jack Day, minister of music at the church. The program will begin at 7:45 p.m.

Mergers Seen In Lutheran Church Groups

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Relations are growing warmer between the massive, doctrine-conscious Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the other long-estranged major branches of American Lutheranism.

Leaders of the Missouri Synod and the National Lutheran Council met last week in Chicago in the first of several exploratory discussions aimed at discovering areas of cooperation.

Lutheran unity is not an immediate goal, both sides hasten to explain.

"We are trying to see how far cooperation can go," says a spokesman for the Missouri Synod, the second largest Lutheran Church with 2,200,000 members. "We're trying to find out what we can do and what we can't do together."

The areas of cooperation being explored are in what a NLC spokesman calls "external things," those not directly related to worship or doctrine.

Missouri Synod and five smaller Lutheran bodies loosely allied in the Synodical Conference hold that full doctrinal unity is a requirement for fellowship or free exchange of pulpits and altars. Others have more liberal views of fellowship.

There always has been some element of division among American Lutherans, chiefly along Old World nationalistic lines. But lately Lutherans have been most active in trade nominational mergers.

The Evangelical, American and United Evangelical Lutheran Churches, all members of the NLC, will join formally as a new church of 2,250,000 members on Jan. 1, 1961.

The United, Augustana, Finnish Evangelical (Suomi Synod) and American Evangelical Lutheran Churches, also NLC members, will unite in a new three-million-member church, perhaps by 1961.

The mergers will render the National Lutheran Council virtually unnecessary, since its membership would be reduced to three—or two, if the member Lutheran Free Church joins one of the merged groups.

If some large area of cooperation can be established between the Missouri Synod and the NLC it is possible the council will emerge as a radically different organization, its members cooperating on a more limited basis.

The little Evangelical Lutheran Synod (formerly the Norweigian Synod), has broken relations with the larger church and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod (formerly the Joint Synod of Wisconsin) considered similar action at its last convention.

They maintain that the Missouri Synod has acted contrary to symbodical doctrine by taking part in joint religious activities with Lutheran bodies not in doctrinal unity.

The most recent count shows there are more than 7,500,000 Lutherans in the United States divided into 17 church bodies, ranging from the tiny Eilson Synod's 500 baptized members to the United Lutheran Church's 2,400,-

When mergers currently underway are accomplished the number of Lutheran bodies will be reduced to 12.

Why You Should Choose a

Hammond Organ for Your Church

When you are ready to choose an organ, remember that a Hammond Organ offers your church the best value.

Over 40,000 churches have chosen a Hammond Organ: because only a Hammond Organ has:

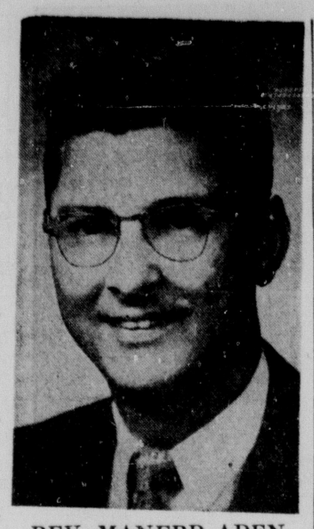

- A far greater range of true church tones than any other organ.
- "Living" cathedral-like tones for any enclosure.
- No tuning expense—only a Hammond can't get out of tune.
- Easy to play.
- Rich percussion effects of chimes, bells, celeste, marimba, and others.

The Hammond Organ

Manerd Aden Ordination To Be Held

REV. MANERD ADEN

An ordination service will be held at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe today at 3 p.m., according to Rev. A. T. Mitchell, pastor.

Rev. Manerd Aden, a former resident of West Monroe, will be ordained as a minister with Rev. Mitchell officiating. Rev. Aden is a graduate of LSU and will soon receive his degree from the New Orleans Baptist Seminary. He is married to the former Miss Tommy Scott of Mantee, Mississippi. He has served for some time as minister of education at Bogalusa Baptist Church.

In the same ordination service, Gene Muckleroy and B. L. Spillers will be ordained as deacons of the host church.

Rev. W. E. Spencer will present the ordination charge, Rev. Filer J. Seals will present the Bible charge, Rev. E. E. Taylor will present the charge of the church and Rev. A. L. New will preside over the ordination prayer. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. A. T. Mitchell.

Monroe Priest Speaker At Ruston Meet

Father Dave Dabria, pastor of Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church of Monroe, will be featured speaker at the nine - parish meeting of the Monroe Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women in Ruston today.

"Council structure and the importance of the NCCW" will be Father Dabria's topics.

Parish chairmen and council members will attend the afternoon meeting, at St. Thomas Acquinas Catholic Church.

Father Paulus, pastor of the Ruston church, will host the meet according to Mrs. D. M. Moore of Monroe, president of the Alexandria Diocesan Council of the NCCW.

Members from St. Paschal's Church in West Monroe, St. Matthews, St. Joseph's, Our Lady of Fatima and Good Shepherd Church in Monroe, churches in Rayville, Delhi, Bastrop and Ruston, as well as the Catholic Daughters of America, will be present for the session.

Mennonites Considered 'Impractical'

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

By the world's standards, Mennonites are "impractical" people.

For more than four centuries, they have been trying to obey literally the teachings of Jesus.

They have persisted in this difficult task in spite of bloody persecutions that came close to exterminating them — and in spite of the many practical reasons that others have found for honing off the sharp edges of the Sermon on the Mount.

Mennonites contend that Christ meant exactly what he said when he told his disciples to love their enemies . . . to turn the other cheek . . . to offer no resistance to those who would do them evil. They believe that any use of force — and particularly the waging of war — is totally incompatible with this commandment. So they are uncompromising pacifists, refusing not only to bear arms, but also to hold office as magistrates or policemen.

WILL NOT ARGUE

If you tell a Mennonite that this is unrealistic, and that it opens the way for the strong to exploit the weak, and the wicked to enslave the good, he will not try to argue with you. He will simply tell you that "Mennonites are determined to take the Lord's words at their face value, regardless of what it may cost." And he will remind you that Jesus told His disciples they should expect to suffer for His sake.

Christian love, in Mennonite teaching, involves far more than avoiding any hurt to your neighbor. It is a positive obligation to serve all men, to seek the good of others even at the sacrifice of your own legitimate interests. All members of the church are called upon to "practice lives of self-denial and frugality, to live simply rather than in luxury" so that they will have the means as well as the will to feed the hungry and clothe the naked.

REFORMATIONISTS

History has given Mennonites abundant opportunity to demonstrate their readiness for suffering and self-denial. The movement originated in Zurich, Switzerland, in 1535, and quickly spread to The Netherlands. Historians have called it "the left wing of the Protestant reformation" because its adherents went far beyond the followers of Luther and Calvin in repudiating Catholic traditions and seeking to return to the "original" practices of the earliest Christians described in the New Testament.

The first members were called "Anabaptists" because they rejected infant baptism and insisted that only adult believers properly could be baptized. The later term "Mennonite" came from Menno Simons, a former Catholic priest who became leader of the Dutch Anabaptists in 1536.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Advice Given On Holly Care

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

PREPARATION OF GREENS

Your holly and other evergreens will last longer in Christmas decorations if you will take the trouble to condition them a little before they are used. Broadleaf evergreens bought from the stands may be drier than they appear to be. They should be soaked overnight in a large container. If you have nothing big enough, soak them in the bath tub. Do not be afraid to leave the whole branches — leaves and all — completely under water for ten hours. Usually, it is necessary to put a weight of some kind on the branches to keep every leaf under water.

SOAKING

The under water soaking will give you time during these busy days to get to the job of splitting or scraping the stems of your material. As you cut up the larger branches into the sizes you are going to use, either split the stems or scrape them on two sides for several inches and put them into deep water. After a few hours, they will be ready to use or you can leave them there until you are ready for them.

Remember that drafts, wind and direct sunshine are the worst enemies of all kinds of cut flowers or leaves because these agencies take the moisture right out of leaves and flowers. In the house, avoid placing decorations over heat ducts or radiators. Live material will last only a day or so in such places before the leaves will begin to fall. If you must decorate in drafty places, plastic spray, a light coating of parrafin or varnish will make your live material last longer than it would without one of these coating substances.

CLIP BRANCHES

Do not hesitate to clip the tips of the branches of your hollies for decorations. Young trees will be helped a great deal by this pruning. It will only make them denser and thicker if you do it every year. On older trees, you will need a ladder to reach up higher. Trees that are pruned only at the bottom will become narrower at bottom than at the top as the years go by.

Small magnolias may be pruned to good advantage, too, while you can reach up near the top. It is a shame to remove the bottom limbs from magnolias and hollies, however, and leave a "stem" tree rather than one with limbs to ground. When the limbs come to the ground, most of the leaves that fall can be left underneath the tree to decay and improve the soil. Fertilizer can be scattered through these leaves once a year to keep the pile decomposing as fast as possible.

Christmas Cheer Movie Scheduled

The Y.M.C.A., in cooperation with the Salvation Army and the Jim Theatre, will sponsor a Christmas Cheer movie, Saturday morning, December 19 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

All boys and girls are invited to attend for a morning of fun while helping less fortunate boys and girls enjoy a Merry Christmas. The admission to the showing will be any usable toy.

The toys will be turned over to the Salvation Army who will repair and paint them and handle the distribution on Christmas Eve.

James Cash, manager of the Jim Theater, said today that a two hour program will be presented.

Pencil Sketch Aid In Flower Arrangements

By NORMA GAUHN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For a stimulating, indoor activity in wintertime, why not try flower arranging? Come summer, there'll be no limit to your skill.

You'll actually get more out of your outdoor gardening chores if you have confidence in your ability to make a pleasing floral display.

City dwellers can try their hand at bringing the outdoors inside at this time of year with fresh leaves and a few choice flowers from the florist.

And a word for non-purists in the flower growing field: the quality of artificial flowers has increased so much in recent years, it's hard to tell many of them from the real thing. Try your arranging hand with fake flowers and see what you can do.

Many people picture a flower arrangement as meaning five dozen long stemmed roses mushrooming up from an imposing vase. In practice, that's fine for a church or funeral home. And it would be hard to go wrong with that many roses. But I feel I've really won out when I've converted five white feathery mums and some sprays of green huckleberry into a good design.

You'll find with practice how unimportant quantity is in flower arrangements. A single gladiola stem and five leaves, placed artistically, can look better than two dozen flowers stuffed haphazardly into a bowl.

I've found that proper equipment cuts down remarkably on the amount of time and patience required for good flower arrangement.

A bouquet should be more than a bunch of flowers and a vase. You must have support for the stems, as mother earth provides in nature.

This means a selection of needle and wire flower holders and a quantity of modeling clay. Have sharp cutters and make sure your container is clean; grease or dirt will cut down the life of the flowers.

STAMPS

Depicted on the new 5-pence purple stamp are the Three Wise Men being guided by the Christmas Star to the town of Bethlehem seen in the distance. The design was the combined work of the artists and engravers of the Note Printing Branch, Commonwealth Bank of Australia.

U. S. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announces that the new 10-cent International Air Mail Stamp, used to prepay air mail postage to Central and South America and the West Indies, will be released June 10 at Miami, Fla.

This new stamp will be similar to the 15 and 25-cent denominations. The illustrative panel at the left side of the stamp will feature a drawing of the Liberty Bell. The inscription, "Let Freedom Ring," appears directly below. A silhouette of a jet airplane is superimposed over the "U" of "U S".

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 10-center may send their addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, Miami 31, Fla. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers 10-Cent Air Mail Stamp."

This is one of the few times the Post Office Department has made such details available on a new issue as far in advance as seven months.

Israel's forthcoming provisional issue will contain 10 stamps, according to the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. As previously announced, the denominations will be in the new currency — agorots.

Of special interest to collectors is the news that, beginning with this issue, plate numbering will begin with Plate No. 1. The number will be enclosed in a hexagonal frame. The familiar running stag is being retained as part of the plate number block.

The Republic of Korea has issued a two-value set commemorating the centenary of the Red Cross and the 10th anniversary of the Korean Red Cross. The 40-hwan red and green shows the emblem of the Red Cross and the Korean peninsula. The 55-kwan orchid depicts the Red Cross emblem on a globe.

Ireland reports that the production of its postage stamps in the 1½-pence and 2½-pence denominations has ceased. This is due to the changes in its postal rates. Philatelists, however, may still obtain previous issues directly from the Philatelic Section, General Post Office, Dublin, Ireland, for the next three months or from your local stamp dealer.

Haiti has issued a new charity series honoring the United Nations' UNICEF work. Depicted on each adhesive is a portrait of President Dr. Francois Duvalier and the coat of arms of Haiti. Two of the stamps are for airmail and the other for regular postage. The surtax on each is 50-centimes. The over-print is "Hommage a l'UNICEF."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Candle Theme For Displays

By MARY JARDINE

The sun, the moon, and the stars have always stood as symbols of the Divine, and in olden times torches, watch fires, beacon lights and lamps were used to celebrate joyous occasions and festivals.

King Alfred measured time by candles, which he enclosed in horn lanterns to prevent the wind from burning them irregularly. Throughout the years candles were used by the monks who notched them or colored them variously to determine the passage of time. Candles have always been used in churches, principally on account of the candle being the symbol of enlightenment, and in the New Testment Jesus is called the Light of the World. St. Jerome told Vigilantius that candles were used in church not for the purpose of dispelling darkness, but to express Christmas Joy.

CHRISTMAS DISPLAY

The Garden Study Club of Monroe used a candle theme for their Christmas display at the Garden Center.

Mrs. Cecil Tait displayed a most beautiful frosted candle tinted the most delicate pink. Fifteen inches high, a milk carton was used as a mold. The snowy effect was achieved by frothing two additional sticks of warm wax and applying to the candle with a fork. Three boxes of parafin wax were used for the candle itself. Very lovely.

Mrs. Morris Harrison displayed a bright and golden hurricane lamp with a swirled candle inside. The hurricane lamp, made of chicken wire, painted white and decorated from top to bottom with tiny gold Christmas balls was placed on a round gold covered base of styrofoam. A small rosette of Christmas ornaments and gold leaves was placed at the base of the candle. Juniper and small pine cones sprayed with snow were inserted around the rim of the base to form an evergreen wreath. Most effective for a mantel, buffet or entrance hall table.

A traditional advent wreath was displayed by Mrs. A. M. Guerriero. The origin of the Advent wreath is lost in antiquity. For many centuries it has been a Christian custom to use advent wreaths in the home as a symbol of the four weeks of Advent, a time of preparation for the birth of the Christ child.

A round styrofoam wreath was used, completely covered with small tufts of pine and tea holly. Four candles were placed around the wreath, three purple ones indicating a time of prayer and penance. The fourth candle was pink. This is lighted on the third Sunday of Advent and indicates joy that the birth of Christ is near. The candles are lighted at the evening meal and a short prayer is recited. A beautiful ceremony. In Germany red candles are used for the Advent Wreath and in some places the wreath is hung from the ceiling.

BUFFET PIECE

Mrs. Henson Coon displayed a beautiful candle decoration situable for a mantel or buffet. A tall, round white candle, with a snowy effect was placed on a round brown base. In front of the candle was a lovely, open crescent wreath made of pine cone flowers, pecans, acorns, tallow berries, camellia seed pods and other small cones. The color was in natural tones of pale beige to brown. A bright red bow with metallic threads of green was placed at the base o the candle. This would be appropriate for any room, but especially effective in a panelled room.

Mrs. Fritz Becker displayed a very festive candle design. A milk glass compote with a short stem was selected for a container. In this Mrs. Becker placed a large white candle brushed with gold. In the background, to highlight the candle Mrs. Becker placed a sea-fan which had been sprayed. Flanking the candle were placements of white and gold palm with clusters of bright gold Christmas ornaments at the base. There is still time to make some of these lovely candle designs for your Christmas decor.

Tall Evergreen Planting Time

By AUDREY DAWSON

Many homemakers are planting shrubs at this season so let's think about some of our tall growing — six feet or over — evergreen shrubs for the landscape today. The camellia (camellia Japonica) is one of our beautiful evergreen shrubs with glossy green waxy leaves and handsome blossoms. This is the aristocrat of southern gardens. It can almost be classed as a tree for it grows to a height of 10 to 20 feet with a spread of 5 to 10 feet. So if this shrub is used remember it needs plenty of space. The blossoms are from white to pink to deep red and some also are variegated.

Cape Jasmine (gardenis florida) is another popular evergreen. This shrub has shiny green leaves, waxy white blossoms and is another favorite for our southern gardens. It grows to a height of 5 to 8 feet and has a spread of 4 to 5 feet. The blossoms appear in May and June with a few scattered blossoms later in the year. The chief trouble with this plant is that it is attacked by the white fly. This pest caused the black sooty covering found on leaves. It can be controlled by spraying with malathion.

Indian Azalea (azalea inica), this is the azalea which grows to a height of from 10 to 15 feet with a spread of 5 to 6 feet. The blossoms are large and snowy but are many times killed by late frost. The hardiest variety is the Formosa whose large blossoms have a purple cast. The pride of Mobile is a deep rose pink and is very lovely. To be at their best these should have plenty of room — plant at least 6 feet apart.

Feijoa (Feijoa sellowiana) — This shrub with its silvery gray foliage is very desirable but needs a lot of space. It reaches a height of 10 to 15 feet and spreads from 5 to 7 feet. It blooms in April and May and has white blossoms with red in the diameter.

Burford Holly (Ilex burfordia) — This is the most beautiful of all the hollies but it too needs a great deal of space and it gets to be 6 to 10 feet tall.

It has glistening waxy green leaves with only one spine. The red berries are large and last all winter. This is an excellent plant for decorations and arrangements at Christmas time.

Pittosporum (Pittosporum tobira) This shrub more than any others is often crowded into a space too small for it. It should be used only on large grounds where it can have room to spread at least 8 to 10 feet.

There is also a variegated pittosporum which is not quite so strong a plant and the light gray and white of its foliage make an interesting contrast. The blossoms are a creamy white and are fragrant as orange blossoms and it blooms in March and April.

Our secretary has made more copies of the Christmas recipe booklet which we prepared for you last year. If you did not get a copy, call the Agriculture Extension Office, FA 3-2251 and the secretary will mail you a copy.

Mrs. Homemaker, you will be using candles during this month, our great holiday season and no matter how careful some is apt to drip on that special tablecloth or rug so keep this information handy. Candle wax that's dripped on table linens can be removed with very little trouble. The tools you will need are a spatula, two white blotters, your iron and a mild solvent. Two useful solvents are denatured alcohol and carbon tetrachloride. You can buy these at most any drug store, but remember they should be kept out of reach of the children. Place the stain between clean white blotters and press with a warm iron, changing the blotters as they become soiled. Then sponge with the solvent. Wash in gentle suds.

"WAX ON RUGS"

If holiday candle wax drips on your rug, here is how you can remove the wax spot and stain. Scrape off all the wax with a dull knife or spatula. Then with a clean soft white cloth sponge off the remaining wax with carbon tetrachloride.

A THOUGHT. You may give without love, but you cannot love without giving.

Club Helping Mother Who Lived In Auto

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — The Grosse Pointe Crisis Club has come to the aid of a young mother and her two daughters who have been living in an automobile.

The plight of Delores Louise Zamojcin, 30, was disclosed Thursday night when she was arrested in suburban Grosse Pointe Shores for speeding.

Police forgot about ticketing her for speeding after she explained, "the car heater doesn't work well when driving slow. We were headed for Belle Isle to park and sleep overnight, and we wanted it warm."

Police gave Mrs. Zamojcin and her daughters, Adele, 7, and Carmen, 6, temporary shelter. For the last five months they had been living in the car most of the time.

Then Friday the Grosse Pointe Crisis Club went into action. It is made up of business and professional men organized to meet just such emergencies.

Overdue rent that caused Mrs. Zamojcin's eviction was paid. So was the $25 due a boarding home which held the children's winter clothing. Groceries were provided.

Promoter Acquitted Of Charge

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Uranium promoter John Milton Addison was acquitted Saturday on a charge of theft.

A jury acted on instruction of Dist. Judge John Onion.

The acquittal set off a wave of backslapping among Addison and his supporters in the courtroom.

Addison operated in 24 states in obtaining what the state says was more than a million dollars from 500 persons. Addison said the money came from loans with no other promise than repayment at 10 per cent interest.

Addison obtained the loans after telling prospective lenders of a Benson upgrader which he said would make his poor-grade uranium ore holdings into profitable ventures.

THE HOME SHIFT

Conditioning For Greenery

By MILDRED SWIFT

Can you realize Christmas is just eleven days from now? You're probably working on your decorations, now. Remember, condition all greens used even, to the tree. This is a fire protection and also keeps the greens fresh for a longer period of time.

To condition greens, make up a solution of one cup of sugar or syrup to each quart of water. Slit the stems of the greens, place the ends in this solution and set outside for at least two days. The Christmas tree could be set up in such a solution as it is much safer if kept in water.

CHRISTMAS IDEAS

If you want the children to make the Christmas balls, get styrofoam balls. Spot glue about on each ball, and roll in glitter. This glitter can be purchased at the dime stores. You'll find styrofoam is a valuable aid in making many types of Christmas decorations.

One of the prettiest trees I have ever seen was sprayed white, on the end of each limb was a pink satin bow. That was all. The ribbon was one inch wide and the bows four inches, made up.

If your ideas are not "set" green and red, what about spraying your tree the color of your carpet, walls or draperies? The effect is mighty pretty.

Did you see Mrs. Effie Lofton make the sunburst on Open House? I'll try to give you her instructions because this would be gorgeous for your front door, over a table in the hall, living room or den.

Materials needed: 8 yucco leaves, 8 or 9 magnolia leaves, 8 small Christmas balls, 1 large gold ball, 3½ to 4 inch square of styrofoam, gold spray paint, netting pins (can be bought from florist or you can use firm short hairpins).

First spray the yucca and magnolia leaves with gold paint. Cut yucca leaves in a point at the base so they will fit in a circle in the center of the styrofoam. Arrange yucca leaves in a circle on the styrofoam base and pin in place with netting pins or hairpins.

Now arrange the magnolia leaves in a circle on top of the yucca leaves. String the 8 gold Christmas balls on a soft wire and arrange in a circle on top of the magnolia leaves, in the center. Pin the large Christmas ball in center of small balls. Make a hanger of some sort on the back of the styrofoam to hold the sunburst on the wall.

It is a good idea to press the yucca and magnolia leaves between magazines or books. This keeps them from curling. They may be painted before or after pressing.

COFFEE TABLE

Mrs. Lofton also made a coffee table arrangement that was so easy and effective. Here are her instructions: Make a wreath using holly, ivy or other greenery that you have. This wreath need not be made on a form. You can just place the greens in a circle on the coffee table, the size in keeping with the size of your table. If there are red berries on the greens, you'll need no Christmas balls. If no berries, the balls can be placed on the wreath.

Now — this is the "cute" part that Effie showed: In the center of the wreath place a glass goblet, up - side down over a cluster of colored Christmas balls or decorations. Then place a candle on top of the foot of the inverted goblet. The candle should be the same in diameter as the foot of the goblet and in proportion to the height of the goblet.

Mrs. Lofton said a very attractive arrangement could be made by using ivy for the wreath and pink camellias interspersed with the ivy. Use a pink candle and pink balls.

GARDENING

If you have lots of shade in your garden, remember the acuba with all its different varieties is a shade loving plant. Also, if you have shade you need more plants with variegated foliage to bring brightness to the garden. The golddust acuba is very beautiful and brings highlights where you need them as it has lots of yellow in the foliage.

The shade for acuba does not have to be dense, but the plant will not thrive if it gets the direct rays of the sun. The plant will grow in almost any soil except the very heavy.

Several people tell me they have had success with the acuba in planter boxes on the inside of the house. These boxes are usually a problem. Acuba is not a fast grower, and that's an advantage for inside plants. It also will thrive with less light than most plants.

Fatshedera should also do very well in an inisde or outside planter, if there is not too much sun. This plant is just half way between upright and horizontal growth. The plant is easily trained by pruning, so you can make it do just about what you want.

If you have a bathtub or lavatory that stays yellow, even when clean, make a paste of your favorite scouring powder. Make a thick paste using hydrogen peroxide. Apply this paste to the yellow fixture and leave for as long as you can, at least several hours. This removes the discoloration but needs to be done periodically. Some fixtures seem to discolor easily.

MONEY

People worry more about money than any other problem in life. Trying to balance what they earn with what they spend causes more furrowed brows than anything else. Also, studies show that money is the number one cause of family arguments. So, it's very important to teach your child the facts of life about good money management.

The experts say, start 'em young. Children are like sponges. They soak up the good as well as the bad in forming habits. It's difficult to teach our children the right values so they will never mistake money as an end in itself, and will recognize it simply as a means for getting some of the material things of life.

Here are some ideas given by specialists to help the child get off to a good start with his saving. Show him how to save pennies for a special goal — owning a few pennies and then parting with them for something he really wants, is step number one in a child's learning to manage his money.

Make it a game to save. Pretend the slot in the piggy bank is the "teller's window" or "drive - in window." Let your youngster help you open his savings account and carry his own passbook back home. It will make everything more real.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House TV programs next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Lola Caldell and Mr. Donald Hollis will show us how to have a safe Christmas; Wednesday, Christmas arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday, Christmas decorations for the entire family with Mrs. Parker Colvin and Mrs. J. W. Golson.

See you next Sunday.

Winnsboro Band Win Superior At NE Festival

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro High School Wildcat band, directed by Glynn Gardner, and winner of the Sweepstakes award last year, took their first step toward a repeat performance Tuesday night when they were awarded a superior rating at the Northeast Louisiana marching festival at the Neville High School stadium.

The Black and Gold Wildcat band competes in class B, and in competition with bands of all classes at Neville, was the only band to be judged superior. It is the only class B band in the state to have been awarded a superior rating in marching so far this year, and is one of just six bands of all classes receiving a superior rating at marching festivals this fall.

Director Gardner has his high-spirited Wildcat band hard at work in preparation for the competition in concert playing and sight reading which is scheduled for later this year. If the Winnsboro musicians can rate superior in these two categories they will again be the winner of the coveted Sweepstakes award.

Advice Given On Holly Care

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

PREPARATION OF GREENS

Your holly and other evergreens will last longer in Christmas decorations if you will take the trouble to condition them a little before they are used. Broadleaf evergreens bought from the stands may be drier than they appear to be. They should be soaked overnight in a large container. If you have nothing big enough, soak them in the bath tub. Do not be afraid to leave the whole branches — leaves and all — completely under water for ten hours. Usually, it is necessary to put a weight of some kind on the branches to keep every leaf under water.

SOAKING

The under water soaking will give you time during these busy days to get to the job of splitting or scraping the stems of your material. As you cut up the larger branches into the sizes you are going to use, either split the stems or scrape them on two sides for several inches and put them into deep water. After a few hours, they will be ready to use or you can leave them there until you are ready for them.

Remember that drafts, wind and direct sunshine are the worst enemies of all kinds of cut flowers or leaves because these agencies take the moisture right out of leaves and flowers. In the house, avoid placing decorations over heat ducts or radiators. Live material will last only a day or so in such places before the leaves will begin to fall. If you must decorate in drafty places, plastic spray, a light coating of parrafin or varnish will make your live material last longer than it would without one of these coating substances.

CLIP BRANCHES

Do not hesitate to clip the tips of the branches of your hollies for decorations. Young trees will be helped a great deal by this pruning. It will only make them denser and thicker if you do it every year. On older trees, you will need a ladder to reach up higher. Trees that are pruned only at the bottom will become narrower at bottom than at the top as the years go by.

Small magnolias may be pruned to good advantage, too, while you can reach up near the top. It is a shame to remove the bottom limbs from magnolias and hollies, however, and leave a "stem" tree rather than one with limbs to ground. When the limbs come to the ground, most of the leaves that fall can be left underneath the tree to decay and improve the soil. Fertilizer can be scattered through these leaves once a year to keep the pile decomposing as fast as possible.

Christmas Cheer Movie Scheduled

The Y.M.C.A., in cooperation with the Salvation Army and the Jim Theatre, will sponsor a Christmas Cheer movie, Saturday morning, December 19 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

All boys and girls are invited to attend for a morning of fun while helping less fortunate boys and girls enjoy a Merry Christmas. The admission to the showing will be any usable toy.

The toys will be turned over to the Salvation Army who will repair and paint them and handle the distribution on Christmas Eve.

James Cash, manager of the Jim Theater, said today that a two hour program will be presented.

Pencil Sketch Aid In Flower Arrangements

By NORMA GAUHN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For a stimulating, indoor activity in wintertime, why not try flower arranging? Come summer, there'll be no limit to your skill.

You'll actually get more out of your outdoor gardening chores if you have confidence in your ability to make a pleasing floral display.

City dwellers can try their hand at bringing the outdoors inside at this time of year with fresh leaves and a few choice flowers from the florist.

And a word for non-purists in the flower growing field: the quality of artificial flowers has increased so much in recent years, it's hard to tell many of them from the real thing. Try your arranging hand with fake flowers and see what you can do.

Many people picture a flower arrangement as meaning five dozen long stemmed roses mushrooming up from an imposing vase. In practice, that's fine for a church or funeral home. And it would be hard to go wrong with that many roses. But I feel I've really won out when I've converted five white feathery mums and some sprays of green huckleberry into a good design.

You'll find with practice how unimportant quantity is in flower arrangements. A single gladiola stem and five leaves, placed artistically, can look better than two dozen flowers stuffed haphazardly into a bowl.

I've found that proper equipment cuts down remarkably on the amount of time and patience required for good flower arrangement.

A bouquet should be more than a bunch of flowers and a vase. You must have support for the stems, as mother earth provides in nature.

This means a selection of needle and wire flower holders and a quantity of modeling clay. Have sharp cutters and make sure your container is clean; grease or dirt will cut down the life of the flowers.

To make blooms last longer, cut stems diagonally for maximum water absorption, keep in a dark cool room for a time before arranging, never place flowers near hot air, and remove all foliage below the water level.

Try to get a picture of what you want before you start. Many good arrangers make a pencil sketch in advance, keeping in mind where the flowers are to go, whether on the dinner table, a hall corner or coffee table.

Remember that in nature, flowers don't grow to the same level. For example, if you have a flat container, vary the length of flower sterms, measuring each one against its spot in the arrangement before trimming.

For a massed effect in a bowl, place center blooms for an overall height of one and a half times that of the bowl. Then build up bloom by bloom, varying the stem lengths. Let one or two flowers trail downward below the bowl rim.

One of the nicest things about flower arranging is that the smarter you get, the cheaper it gets.

You learn to make the most of the less exotic flowers. In season, the most long lasting and effective blooms are the lowly zinnias, dahlias, mums, marigolds, double Shasta daisies, marguerites, gaillardia, strawflowers and calendula.

Mrs. Cecil Tait displayed a most beautiful frosted candle tinted the most delicate pink. Fifteen inches high, a milk carton was used as a mold. The snowy effect was achieved by frothing two additional sticks of warm wax and applying to the candle with a fork. Three boxes of parafin wax were used for the candle itself. Very lovely.

Mrs. Morris Harrison displayed a bright and golden hurricane lamp with a swirled candle inside. The hurricane lamp, made of chicken wire, painted white and decorated from top to bottom with tiny gold Christmas balls was placed on a round gold covered base of styrofoam. A small rosette of Christmas ornaments and gold leaves was placed at the base of the candle. Juniper and small pine cones sprayed with snow were inserted around the rim of the base to form an evergreen wreath. Most effective for a mantel, buffet or entrance hall table.

A traditional advent wreath was displayed by Mrs. A. M. Guerriero. The origin of the Advent wreath is lost in antiquity. For many centuries it has been a Christian custom to use advent wreaths in the home as a symbol of the four weeks of Advent, a time of preparation for the birth of the Christ child.

A round styrofoam wreath was used, completely covered with small tufts of pine and tea holly. Four candles were placed around the wreath, three purple ones indicating a time of prayer and penance. The fourth candle was pink. This is lighted on the third Sunday of Advent and indicates joy that the birth of Christ is near. The candles are lighted at the evening meal and a short prayer is recited. A beautiful ceremony. In Germany red candles are used for the Advent Wreath and in some places the wreath is hung from the ceiling.

BUFFET PIECE

Mrs. Henson Coon displayed a beautiful candle decoration situable for a mantel or buffet. A tall, round white candle, with a snowy effect was placed on a round brown base. In front of the candle was a lovely, open crescent wreath made of pine cone flowers, pecans, acorns, tallow berries, camellia seed pods and other small cones. The color was in natural tones of pale beige to brown. A bright red bow with metallic threads of green was placed at the base o the candle. This would be appropriate for any room, but especially effective in a panelled room.

Mrs. Fritz Becker displayed a very festive candle design. A milk glass compote with a short stem was selected for a container. In this Mrs. Becker placed a large white candle brushed with gold. In the background, to highlight the candle Mrs. Becker placed a sea-fan which had been sprayed. Flanking the candle were placements of white and gold palm with clusters of bright gold Christmas ornaments at the base. There is still time to make some of these lovely candle designs for your Christmas decor.

Tall Evergreen Planting Time

By AUDREY DAWSON

Many homemakers are planting shrubs at this season so let's think about some of our tall growing — six feet or over — evergreen shrubs for the landscape today. The camellia (camellia Japonica) is one of our beautiful evergreen shrubs with glossy green waxy leaves and handsome blossoms. This is the aristocrat of southern gardens. It can almost be classed as a tree for it grows to a height of 10 to 20 feet with a spread of 5 to 10 feet. So if this shrub is used remember it needs plenty of space. The blossoms are from white to pink to deep red and some also are variegated.

Cape Jasmine (gardenis florida) is another popular evergreen. This shrub has shiny green leaves, waxy white blossoms and is another favorite for our southern gardens. It grows to a height of 5 to 8 feet and has a spread of 4 to 5 feet. The blossoms appear in May and June with a few scattered blossoms later in the year. The chief trouble with this plant is that it is attacked by the white fly. This pest caused the black sooty covering found on leaves. It can be controlled by spraying with malathion.

Indian Azalea (azalea inica), this is the azalea which grows to a height of from 10 to 15 feet with a spread of 5 to 6 feet. The blossoms are large and snowy but are many times killed by late frost. The hardiest variety is the Formosa whose large blossoms have a purple cast. The pride of Mobile is a deep rose pink and is very lovely. To be at their best these should have plenty of room — plant at least 6 feet apart.

Feijoa (Feijoa sellowiana) — This shrub with its silvery gray foliage is very desirable but needs a lot of space. It reaches a height of 10 to 15 feet and spreads from 5 to 7 feet. It blooms in April and May and has white blossoms with red in the diameter.

Burford Holly (Ilex burfordia) — This is the most beautiful of all the hollies but it too needs a great deal of space and it gets to be 6 to 10 feet tall.

It has glistening waxy green leaves with only one spine. The red berries are large and last all winter. This is an excellent plant for decorations and arrangements at Christmas time.

Pittosporum (Pittosporum tobira) This shrub more than any others is often crowded into a space too small for it. It should be used only on large grounds where it can have room to spread at least 8 to 10 feet.

There is also a variegated pittosporum which is not quite so strong a plant and the light gray and white of its foliage make an interesting contrast. The blossoms are a creamy white and are fragrant as orange blossoms and it blooms in March and April.

Our secretary has made more copies of the Christmas recipe booklet which we prepared for you last year. If you did not get a copy, call the Agriculture Extension Office, FA 3-2251 and the secretary will mail you a copy.

Mrs. Homemaker, you will be using candles during this month, our great holiday season and no matter how careful some is apt to drip on that special tablecloth or rug so keep this information handy. Candle wax that's dripped on table linens can be removed with very little trouble. The tools you will need are a spatula, two white blotters, your iron and a mild solvent. Two useful solvents are denatured alcohol and carbon tetrachloride. You can buy these at most any drug store, but remember they should be kept out of reach of the children. Place the stain between clean white blotters and press with a warm iron, changing the blotters as they become soiled. Then sponge with the solvent. Wash in gentle suds.

"WAX ON RUGS"

If holiday candle wax drips on your rug, here is how you can remove the wax spot and stain. Scrape off all the wax with a dull knife or spatula. Then with a clean soft white cloth sponge off the remaining wax with carbon tetrachloride.

A THOUGHT. You may give without love, but you cannot love without giving.

THE HOME SHIFT

Conditioning For Greenery

By MILDRED SWIFT

Can you realize Christmas is just eleven days from now? You're probably working on your decorations, now. Remember, condition all greens used even, to the tree. This is a fire protection and also keeps the greens fresh for a longer period of time.

To condition greens, make up a solution of one cup of sugar or syrup to each quart of water. Slit the stems of the greens, place the ends in this solution and set outside for at least two days. The Christmas tree could be set up in such a solution as it is much safer if kept in water.

CHRISTMAS IDEAS

If you want the children to make the Christmas balls, get styrofoam balls. Spot glue about on each ball, and roll in glitter. This glitter can be purchased at the dime stores. You'll find styrofoam is a valuable aid in making many types of Christmas decorations.

One of the prettiest trees I have ever seen was sprayed white, on the end of each limb was a pink satin bow. That was all. The ribbon was one inch wide and the bows four inches, made up.

If your ideas are not "set" green and red, what about spraying your tree the color of your carpet, walls or draperies? The effect is mighty pretty.

Did you see Mrs. Effie Lofton make the sunburst on Open House? I'll try to give you her instructions because this would be gorgeous for your front door, over a table in the hall, living room or den.

Materials needed: 8 yucco leaves, 8 or 9 magnolia leaves, 8 small Christmas balls, 1 large gold ball, 3½ to 4 inch square of styrofoam, gold spray paint, netting pins (can be bought from florist or you can use firm short hairpins).

First spray the yucca and magnolia leaves with gold paint. Cut yucca leaves in a point at the base so they will fit in a circle in the center of the styrofoam. Arrange yucca leaves in a circle on the styrofoam base and pin in place with netting pins or hairpins.

Now arrange the magnolia leaves in a circle on top of the yucca leaves. String the 8 gold Christmas balls on a soft wire and arrange in a circle on top of the magnolia leaves, in the center. Pin the large Christmas ball in center of small balls. Make a hanger of some sort on the back of the styrofoam to hold the sunburst on the wall.

It is a good idea to press the yucca and magnolia leaves between magazines or books. This keeps them from curling. They may be painted before or after pressing.

COFFEE TABLE

Mrs. Lofton also made a coffee table arrangement that was so easy and effective. Here are her instructions: Make a wreath using holly, ivy or other greenery that you have. This wreath need not be made on a form. You can just place the greens in a circle on the coffee table, the size in keeping with the size of your table. If there are red berries on the greens, you'll need no Christmas balls. If no berries, the balls can be placed on the wreath.

Now — this is the "cute" part that Effie showed: In the center of the wreath place a glass goblet, up - side down over a cluster of colored Christmas balls or decorations. Then place a candle on top of the foot of the inverted goblet. The candle should be the same in diameter as the foot of the goblet and in proportion to the height of the goblet.

Mrs. Lofton said a very attractive arrangement could be made by using ivy for the wreath and pink camellias interspersed with the ivy. Use a pink candle and pink balls.

GARDENING

If you have lots of shade in your garden, remember the acuba with all its different varieties is a shade loving plant. Also, if you have shade you need more plants with variegated foliage to bring brightness to the garden. The golddust acuba is very beautiful and brings highlights where you need them as it has lots of yellow in the foliage.

The shade for acuba does not have to be dense, but the plant will not thrive if it gets the direct rays of the sun. The plant will grow in almost any soil except the very heavy.

Several people tell me they have had success with the acuba in planter boxes on the inside of the house. These boxes are usually a problem. Acuba is not a fast grower, and that's an advantage for inside plants. It also will thrive with less light than most plants.

Fatshedera should also do very well in an inside or outside planter, if there is not too much sun. This plant is just half way between upright and horizontal growth. The plant is easily trained by pruning, so you can make it do just about what you want.

If you have a bathtub or lavatory that stays yellow, even when clean, make a paste of your favorite scouring powder. Make a thick paste using hydrogen peroxide. Apply this paste to the yellow fixture and leave for as long as you can, at least several hours. This removes the discoloration but needs to be done periodically. Some fixtures seem to discolor easily.

MONEY

People worry more about money than any other problem in life. Trying to balance what they earn with what they spend causes more furrowed brows than anything else. Also, studies show that money is the number one cause of family arguments. So, it's very important to teach your child the facts of life about good money management.

The experts say, start 'em young. Children are like sponges. They soak up the good as well as the bad in forming habits. It's difficult to teach our children the right values so they will never mistake money as an end in itself, and will recognize it simply as a means for getting some of the material things of life.

Here are some ideas given by specialists to help the child get off to a good start with his saving. Show him how to save pennies for a special goal — owning a few pennies and then parting with them for something he really wants, is step number one in a child's learning to manage his money.

Make it a game to save. Pretend the slot in the piggy bank is the "teller's window" or "drive - in window." Let your youngster help you open his savings account and carry his own passbook back home. It will make everything more real.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House TV programs next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Lola Caldell and Mr. Donald Hollis will show us how to have a safe Christmas; Wednesday, Christmas arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday, Christmas decorations for the entire family with Mrs. Parker Colvin and Mrs. J. W. Golson.

See you next Sunday.

Winnsboro Band Win Superior At NE Festival

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Winnsboro High School Wildcat band, directed by Glynn Gardner, and winner of the Sweepstakes award last year, took their first step toward a repeat performance Tuesday night when they were awarded a superior rating at the Northeast Louisiana marching festival at the Neville High School stadium.

The Black and Gold Wildcat band competes in class B, and in competition with bands of all classes at Neville, was the only band to be judged superior. It is the only class B band in the state to have been awarded a superior rating in marching so far this year, and is one of just six bands of all classes receiving a superior rating at marching festivals this fall.

Director Gardner has his high-spirited Wildcat band hard at work in preparation for the competition in concert playing and sight reading which is scheduled for later this year. If the Winnsboro musicians can rate superior in these two categories they will again be the winner of the coveted Sweepstakes award.

A Pleasure to Own or to Give English IRONSTONE
by Wm. Adams & Sons From England
Adams IRONSTONE is noted for its strength, durability and whiteness. The addition of Scoria to its body and the high temperature to which it is fired gives it strength and durability over earthenware. Its whiteness re-creates the color of the IRONSTONE first made early in the last century. The genuine IRONSTONE is truly a joy to own, a gift to be appreciated.

U.S., Reds Agree On Study Group

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed Friday on setting up a new U.N. group to study how mankind can cooperate in peaceful exploration of outer space.

The two giants in space research reached agreement also on a Soviet proposal for holding an international conference of space experts in 1960 or 1961.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kutznetsov worked out the details at a private meeting that finally broke the long-standing U.S.-Soviet deadlock.

The General Assembly is expected to give quick unanimous approval to an East-West resolution creating the 24-nation group and calling for the international conference under U.N. auspices.

Twelve nations sponsored the resolution.

They are the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Sweden, Japan, India United Arab Republic and Brazil.

Last year the Assembly set up an 18-nation special committee to lay the groundwork for peaceful exploration of outer space. But it was boycotted by the Soviet Union which complained it lacked sufficient representation of neutral and Communist nations.

The resolution provides for a new committee of 12 Western, 7 Communist and 5 neutrals to serve for two years.

The Communist members are the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania and Hungary.

The neutrals are Sweden, United Arab Republic, India, Austria and Lebanon.

The Western members are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Britian, Canada, France, Iran Italy, Japan, Mexico, United States.

The Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia boycotted the meetings of the committee last year, as did India and the United Arab Republic. But it held sessions here and presented a report to the Assembly.

Truck Firm Officials Die In Plane Crash

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—The president of Ward La France Truck Corp. and the company controller-treasurer were killed Friday when the company plane crashed as it approached Chemung County Airport.

There was a report that a third man also had been in the plane.

Killed were Roy Wilson, company president and pilot of the twin-engine plane, and Joseph Faenbrich, controller and treasurer.

Airport officials said the men took off shortly before 4 p.m. on a business trip to New York. It was raining and the ground temperature was just above freezing. In the air, Wilson encountered icing conditions and decided to return to the airport.

Negro Youth Gets Sentence

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A 17-year-old Negro boy was sentenced today to 90 days imprisonment and fined $109 for allegedly striking an elderly white man on a bus here.

E. A. Stanley, 72, testified in Municipal Court that Joseph Joshua struck him several times Wednesday after he asked the youth to give up his seat to a white woman who was standing.

Colts Race Past Rams; Win Conference Title

Score 21 In 4th For 45-26 Nod

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Baltimore Colts rallied for 21 points in the fourth period Saturday to win their second straight Western Conference championship with a 45-26 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The defending league champion Colts will meet the New York Giants, Eastarn Conference champs, at Baltimore Dec. 27 for the National Football League title.

Carl Tasseff went 99 yards with a field goal return and quarterback Johnny Unitas passed for three touchdowns as the Colts crushed the Rams in Sid Gillman's last game as Los Angeles coach.

The Rams, who lost eight straight to finish with a 2-10 record, went into the fourth quarter leading 26-24 before a crowd of 65,528 and a national television audience.

Unitas then put the Colts out front, heaving his 32nd TD pass of the season to Jerry Richardson a nine-yard scoring play. Unitas now has thrown for at least one touchdown in 37 straight league games.

Then linebacker Dick Szmanski intercepted a Billy Wade pass deep in Ram territory and romped 15 yards for another touchdown.

To wrap up their second division title, Taseffa scooped up a Ram field goal attempt that fell short, bobbled it, and then took off on his 99-yard romp.

Taseff's run equalled an NFL record for such a play, established in 1951 by ex-Ram Jerry Williams against Green Bay.

Lou Michaels, who kicked the short one to Taseff had kept the Rams in contention throughout the afternoon. The short kick was the only one of five attempts Michaels' missed.

Los Angeles—trying to snap its seven-game losing streak—got off to a 10-point lead in the first quarter.

Michaels started it with a 15-yard field goal. Fullback Joe Marconi made it 10-0 with a one-yard plunge.

Michaels kicked two more three pointers in the second period, from 19 and 40 yards out. But Unitas passed to Ray Berry for a touchdown and the Colts led at halftime 17-16.

Myhra gave the Colts its halftime lead with a 40-yard field goal.

The lead switched hands in the second half. Unitas and Berry got together on an 11-yard pass for their second touchdown. That made it 24-16 for the Colts.

The sensational Jon Arnett lowered the Colts' margin to 24-23 when he raced around his left end and down the sidelines for 27 yards in the third quarter. Michaels' fourth field goal from 27 yards out put the Rams in front 26-24.

In quick order came the scoring runs of Szymanski and Taseff.

Unitas completed 13 out of 27 passes for 99 yards and three touchdowns. It was far from his best day but the Colt rushing attack gained 183. This plus five interceptions spelled doom for Los Angeles.

Baltimore	7	10	7	21—45
Los Angeles	7	6	10	0—26

Baltimore: TD, Sommer (53 run) Berry 2 (7 pass from Unitas, 11 pass from Unitas), Richardson (9 pass from Unitas), Szymanski (15 interception), Taseff (99 return field goal kick attempt). PF, Myhra (47). PAT, Myhra 6.

Los Angeles: TD, Marconi (4 run), Arnett (27 run). FG, Micahesl 4 (15, 19, 40, 27) PAT, Michaels 2.

State Scores Early To Top La. College

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi State forged ahead early in the first half and easily outclassed Louisiana College 90-61 Saturday night.

Jerry Graves led State to its 35th straight home basketball victory with 23 points. It was State's fourth victory against one defeat.

Glenn Graff popped in 16 points to lead the visitors, who trailed at halftime 45-30.

State hit on 35 field goals from 97 shots for a 36.1 percentage. Louisiana netted 25 out of 75 for a 33 per cent mark.

RAMS GAIN 64 YARDS — End Jim Phillips of the Los Angeles Rams eludes the arms of diving linebacker Bill Pellington of the Baltimore Colts as he crosses the Colts' 35-yard line on a 64-yard pass-run play early in yesterday's game in Los Angeles. The run ended on the Baltimore 15 and resulted in a field goal that put the Rams in front. The Colt behind the official is halfback Ray Brown, who slowed Phillips down so a teammate could make the tackle. (AP Wirephoto)

Calhoun Boys, Reb Girls Win

CALHOUN, La. (Special) — Calhoun's boys drubbed Neville, 58-46, and West Monroe's girls defeated Calhoun, 42-32, in the finals here Saturday night to win the annual Calhoun Invitational Basketball Tournament.

All-state Scottie Sims poured in 20 points and Spike Smith counted 16 as Coach Jerry Lovett's Calhoun quint romped to victory in their own tourney.

Nancy Smith netted 11 fielders and sank 8 charity shots for 30 points to lead the West Monroe girls' win. Joyce Saxon, a high-scoring forward on the Calhoun sextet last season scored 9 for the Rebels.

Joyce Baker and Bobbie Hale had 13 apiece and Eleanor Jo Calhoun notched 6 for Calhoun.

The Rebel girls moved past Ouachita to gain the finals with a 40-39 decision earlier in the day. Miss Smith bagged 25 in that one while Jane Holloway accounted for 27 in a losing cause.

In afternoon boys' semifinals Calhoun dropped Chatham, 51-40, and Neville tagged Ouachita, 43-32. Ab Walker and Fettinger led the Neville attack while Harry Crowe contributed 14 for the Lions. Sims scored 16, Smith 15 and Ronnie Griggs 12 for Calhoun and Buddy Barr pumped in 25 for Chatham.

Sportsmanship awards were presented to Diane LaGrange of Neville in the girls' division and Barr of Chatham in the boys' bracket.

Most valuable players were Miss Smith of West Monroe and Sims of Calhoun.

Eiland Sets New Mark In AAU Event

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special) — Northeast's Don "Buddy" Eiland set a new record in winning the annual, Southern AAU cross country run at City Park here yesterday.

Eiland, sophomore distance ace from Farmerville, ran the five and four-tenths miles distance in 26:53.2, shattering the old record of 27:14.07 easily. Sal Escoto of Tulane set the old record in 1952.

Louisiana Tech is the Gulf States Conference cross country champion and Eiland the individual titlist.

Bill Frye of Northeast finished fifth and George Abbott, also of Northeast, was eighth.

Eiland will compete in the Sugar Bowl Track Meet Dec. 30, participating in the 1500 meter run.

Greenies Bow To Texas By 94-71 Count

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas parlayed sharp-shooting with sparkling defensive play here Saturday night to turn back Tulane 94-71 for a third straight basketball triumph on the home court.

Led by senior Jay Arnette, who counted 25 points, the Texans hit 51 per cent of their shots from the field and turned the game into a second half runaway.

Tulane was especially cold from the field in the first half, making only 25 per cent of its efforts.

Five-ten Dick O'Brien led Tulane with 18 points, but substitute Ron Mitchell was the hottest shooter for Tulane. He counted 16 points as he sank 8 of 11 shots from the field in the second half.

O'Brien was at his best from the free throw line, making 10 of 11 attempts.

Craig Paces Owl Victory Over Bengals

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — David Craig scored 22 points as Rice defeated Louisiana State 71-57 Saturday night for its first victory in four starts this season.

The loss dropped LSU to a 2-2 record.

Rice led all the way except briefly early in the first period when a field goal by Dick Davies gave the Tigers a 15-14 margin. Craig put Rice back in front on two free throws and the Owls were never headed.

A 13-point streak paced by Mike Maroney with six points gave Rice a 30-17 lead after 12 minutes of play.

Early in the second half, three free throws by Craig, a jump shot by Maroney and a hook shot by Dick Park boosted Rice to its widest margin at 53-32.

SLI Edges McNeese For Southern Title

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Tim Thompson's rebound with three seconds to go gave Southwestern Louisiana a 60-59 victory over McNeese Saturday night and the Southern Intercollegiate basketball championship.

McNeese, leading at halftime 34-36 in the final round tilt, held a last minute 59-58 lead. But it lost the ball with 34 seconds to go.

SLI worked it around carefully and then sent up a shot. It missed. A second field goal also missed. But in the melee under the basket, Thompson leaped high and rapped in the winner.

SLI's Bill McHorris with 21 points was high man. Al Nesmith with 14 points led McNeese scoring.

Carl Short of Newberry (SC) College, who led the tourney with 70 points and 36 rebounds, was named outstanding player. Officials named Short on the all-tournament team with Thompson, McNeese's Don Troutman, Delta (Miss) State's Jim Taylor, and Tampa's Chuck Engelking.

COURT RULING SOON

NBA Waits Before Acting On D'Amato

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — National Boxing Assn. executives Saturday listened to Cus D'Amato's version of his troubles with the New York State Athletic Commission and decided to do nothing about them for the time being.

The manager of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson talked to the special NBA executive committee session for over two hours, behind closed doors.

"It was decided to take no action about D'Amato's future status in NBA territory until after the New York Supreme Court rules on his appeal from life suspension by the commission there," NBA President Anthony Maceroni, Providence, R.I., said.

A hearing on D'Amato's appeal to the high state court is set for next Tuesday.

Maceroni said Moore will be notified to set up a fight by Feb. 12, "on or about," and that Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is the only logical contender.

An offer of $100,000 to Moore for a Johnson fight was given to the NBA by Commissioners Alfred Klein and Paul G. Sullivan, and promoter Herman Taylor, of Philadelphia.

William K .King, Louisville promoter, submitted a $40,000 guarantee for Jordan to fight fourth-ranking Rudell Stitch of Louisville.

The other three ranking challengers are Charles Scott, Luis Rodriguez and Sugar Hart.

Bakersfield Victorious In Jr. Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Bakersfield's powerful Renegades started slowly but exploded with long scoring plays to overpower Del Mar College of Corpus Christi, Tex., 36-14, Saturday in the Junior Rose Bowl before 46,923.

The California school had been ranked as the No. 1 junior college football team in the country, with Del Mar right behind. The winner of the annual junior bowl is generally recognized as the national champion of the two-year schools.

Del Mar got off to a 7-0 lead early in the game, taking advantage of a Bakersfield fumble. But the Renegades scored 18 points in the second quarter and that put the game out of reach.

Three of Bakersfield's six touchdowns came on runs of 50 yards or more.

EMPHASIS ON BOOKS

Syracuse Players Aren't All Brawn

By JIM KOCH

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Are Syracuse University's mighty Orangemen, football champions of the nation, a bit brawny in the brains department? 'Taint necessarily so, a check shows.

Phi Beta Kappas and such as Rhodes scholar Pete Dawkins are noticeably absent in the Syracuse football flock, although team Captain Ger Schwedes provides some inspiring leadership.

Syracuse coaches insist their other warriors are keeping an eye on the books, despite the time and energies that go into playing big-time football.

The German-born Schwedes, a solid B student who speaks four languages fluently, is preparing for the foreign service. He scored 100 points this past campaign when Syracuse powered through 10 foes for the first undefeated season in the school's 71 years of football.

This sudden jump to prominence fired off the inevitable question—was Syracuse dropping long-time high education standards to grab top football players?

Actually, Syracuse has been more fussy lately about the educational and good-citizen backgrounds of its prospects than in any of the 11 year's since Coach Ben Schwartzwalder arrived with orders to put out a real football team.

In the early days, an assistant coach said, Syracuse would give a scholarship to a football prospect whose marks were less than fair and let him sink or swim. Now a boy with such marks would be rejected automatically, he added.

Last year, Syracuse lost two of its varsity and two of the freshman squad to the books. The 1958 team average was slightly above the C level, although lower than averages for other sports at the university.

Most of the Syracuse players are taking physical education, preparing to teach and coach. They must take several science courses. History is a favorite major.

Hickox Sparks Miami To 86-70 Win Over Loyola

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five-foot six-inch Dick Hickox popped in 21 points in the second half to lead Miami (Fla) to a 86-70 victory over Loyola Saturday night.

Hickox, smallest man on the floor, was the high scorer with 28 points. His pin - point accuracy helped crack Loyola's manto-man defense and broke up a tight game in the last 10 minutes.

Miami led 36-33 at halftime.

Miami, picking up its fourth victory in five outings, led 36-33 at halftime. But Loyola pulled even at 44-44 in the second half. The loss was Loyola's first in three starts.

Larry Trunk was Loyola's high man with 17 points.

'Apple A Day' Theory Works For Turley

NEW YORK (AP)—"Apples," says right-hander Bob Turley of the New York Yankees, "are keeping wrinkles off my stomach. What's more important, they night put those dollars back in my pocket."

That's a terse self-appraisal Turley made Friday midway through a dietary off season dictated by an 8-11 American League record that followed his great year in 1958.

"The way I got it figured," Turley told the Journal-American from his home in Maryland, "I was bad last year because I felt sluggish because I was too heavy."

"I like to eat," said the husky pitcher, "and I like to eat a lot. I used to say, 'It's only December. I'll eat what I want. Walk over to the refrigerator and go for those big desserts and snacks.'

"Sure, I get tempted every day. But I just grab another apple. My stomach cries all the time for another apple.

"But I'm getting now so I'm not as tempted as much as I used to be. When it gets too rough, I just think about 1958 when I won 21 and lost 7 and was spending this time of the year figuring how I was going to spend my World Series check.

"Then I think of last year. Only eight wins and no World Series check. You've got to be crazy if you don't stop and take stock of what was wrong, then take steps to remedy it."

Watching his calories has enabled Turley, a 6-footer, to be down to 200 by the time spring training starts or—as he puts it—"know the reason why."

"When a pitcher gets older, it is necessary for him to carry less weight," Turley added. "The more you carry, the more tired you're going to get, and I was very tired last season."

Turley said a successful diet depends on how you start the day.

Two Kinds Of Cage Coaches—Loeffler

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

Ken Loeffler, former top college basketball coach who had Tom Gola at LaSalle and later moved to Texas A. and M., says there are only two kinds of basketball coaches in America today..."First, there are the ones who have been fired," he said with a wink, "and second, there are those who will be fired. It's that kind of business."

Loeffler, out of the rat race now and teaching business law at Monmouth College in New Jersey, keeps in touch as a basketball scout...he has been keeping tabs on St. John's for Iowa, which meet in Madison Square Garden's holiday tournament.

Ranks of assistant coaches in the National Football League are likely to be depleted this winter on "rids" by clubs looking for new head coaches...that includes both the NFL and proposed new American Football League...one almost sure to go somewhere is Tom Landry, New York Giants' defensive coach.

Joe Dey of the U.S. Golf Association says the biggest problem involved in starting new golf courses, as well as keeping alive the old ones, is meeting the bills for rising taxes and labor maintenance costs..."only the most soundly organized clubs can stay in business when there's even a slight slump in the economy," he says.

Former heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson is ready to do his own negotiating any time he hears a proposition for the return with Ingemar Johansson...Floyd's manager, Cus D'Amato, has been rendered hors de combat by the New York State Athletic Commission...light heavy king Archie Moore manages to do right well making his own deals but Sugar Ray Robinson hasn't been exactly impressive in that department lately.

The late John Heisman, for whom football's Heisman Trophy is a memorial, should be remembered for even more important personal contributions to the game...a long-time coach (1892 - 1928), he originated the spinner play, the direct pass from center, and under his pressure, the forward pass was legalized in 1906.

Big boom in indoor track is predicted this winter as tension builds up for U.S. olympic trials...seasons starts in the east at Boston on Jan. 16...two big ones indoors are in the works for the West Coast, too...meet directors are being urged to substitute a three-mile run in place of the two-mile since the three is closer to the 5,000 meters run in the olympics.

National Football League, following the lead of the Professional Golfers Association, soon will market an official "NFL" line of athletic equipment, sportswear, etc...among the items is a special blazer for each NFL club, available exclusively to season ticket holders.

Charlie Boy Wins Black Gold At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—W. W. Carroll's Charlie Boy boomed to first at the head of the stretch Saturday and took a four-length victory in the $10,000 Black Gold Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Charlie Boy, ridden by jockey William Skuse, traveled the 6 furlongs in 1:12 3-5 over a track slowed by overnight rain. He returned $8, $4, and $2.80.

Marion Van Berg's Redbird Wish made a belated stretch rush to take the runner-up spot while Ebony Pearl, one-half of the W. Hal Bishop entry, finished third. Redbird Wish paid $6.20 and $3.60 and Ebony Pearl returned $3.00.

Colts Race Past Rams; Win Conference Title

Score 21 In 4th For 45-26 Nod

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Baltimore Colts rallied for 21 points in the fourth period Saturday to win their second straight Western Conference championship with a 45-26 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The defending league champion Colts will meet the New York Giants, Eastarn Conference champs, at Baltimore Dec. 27 for the National Football League title.

Carl Tasseff went 99 yards with a field goal return and quarterback Johnny Unitas passed for three touchdowns as the Colts crushed the Rams in Sid Gillman's last game as Los Angeles coach.

The Rams, who lost eight straight to finish with a 2-10 record, went into the fourth quarter leading 26-24 before a crowd of 65,528 and a national television audience.

Unitas then put the Colts out front, heaving his 32nd TD pass of the season to Jerry Richardson a nine-yard scoring play. Unitas now has thrown for at least one touchdown in 37 straight league games.

Then linebacker Dick Szmanski intercepted a Billy Wade pass deep in Ram territory and romped 15 yards for another touchdown.

To wrap up their second division title, Taseffa scooped up a Ram field goal attempt that fell short, bobbled it, and then took off on his 99-yard romp.

Taseff's run equalled an NFL record for such a play, established in 1951 by ex-Ram Jerry Williams against Green Bay.

Lou Michaels, who kicked the short one to Taseff had kept the Rams in contention throughout the afternoon. The short kick was the only one of five attempts Michaels' missed.

Los Angeles—trying to snap its seven-game losing streak—got off to a 10-point lead in the first quarter.

Michaels started it with a 15-yard field goal. Fullback Joe Marconi made it 10-0 with a one-yard plunge.

Michaels kicked two more three pointers in the second period, from 19 and 40 yards out. But Unitas passed to Ray Berry for a touchdown and the Colts led at halftime 17-16.

Myhra gave the Colts its halftime lead with a 40-yard field goal.

The lead switched hands in the second half. Unitas and Berry got together on an 11-yard pass for their second touchdown. That made it 24-16 for the Colts.

The sensational Jon Arnett lowered the Colts' margin to 24-23 when he raced around his left end and down the sidelines for 27 yards in the third quarter. Michaels' fourth field goal from 27 yards out put the Rams in front 26-24.

In quick order came the scoring runs of Szymanski and Taseff.

Unitas completed 13 out of 27 passes for 99 yards and three touchdowns. It was far from his best day but the Colt rushing attack gained 183. This plus five interceptions spelled doom for Los Angeles.

Baltimore	7	10	7	21	—45
Los Angeles	7	6	10	0	—26

Baltimore: TD, Sommer (53 run) Berry 2 (7 pass from Unitas, 11 pass from Unitas), Richardson (9 pass from Unitas), Szymanski (15 interception), Taseff (99 return field goal kick attempt). PF, Myhra (47). PAT, Myhra 6.

Los Angeles: TD, Marconi (4 run), Arnett (27 run). FG, Micahesl 4 (15, 19, 40, 27) PAT, Michaels 2.

RAMS GAIN 64 YARDS — End Jim Phillips of the Los Angeles Rams eludes the arms of diving linebacker Bill Pellington of the Baltimore Colts as he crosses the Colts' 35-yard line on a 64-yard pass-run play early in yesterday's game in Los Angeles. The run ended on the Baltimore 15 and resulted in a field goal that put the Rams in front. The Colt behind the official is halfback Ray Brown, who slowed Phillips down so a teammate could make the tackle. (AP Wirephoto)

State Scores Early To Top La. College

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi State forged ahead early in the first half and easily outclassed Louisiana College 90-61 Saturday night.

Jerry Graves led State to its 35th straight home basketball victory with 23 points. It was State's fourth victory against one defeat.

Glenn Graff popped in 16 points to lead the visitors, who trailed at halftime 45-30.

State hit on 35 field goals from 97 shots for a 36.1 percentage. Louisiana netted 25 out of 75 for a 33 per cent mark.

TOURNEY CROWNS

Calhoun Boys, Reb Girls Win

CALHOUN, La. (Special) — Calhoun's boys drubbed Neville, 58-46, and West Monroe's girls defeated Calhoun, 42-32, in the finals here Saturday night to win the annual Calhoun Invitational Basketball Tournament.

All-state Scottie Sims poured in 20 points and Spike Smith counted 16 as Coach Jerry Lovett's Calhoun quint romped to victory in their own tourney.

Nancy Smith netted 11 fielders and sank 8 charity shots for 30 points to lead the West Monroe girls' win. Joyce Saxon, a high-scoring forward on the Calhoun sextet last season scored 9 for the Rebels.

Joyce Baker and Bobbie Hale had 13 apiece and Eleanor Jo Calhoun notched 6 for Calhoun.

The Rebel girls moved past Ouachita to gain the finals with a 40-39 decision earlier in the day. Miss Smith bagged 25 in that one while Jane Holloway accounted for 27 in a losing cause.

In afternoon boys' semifinals Calhoun dropped Chatham, 51-40, and Neville tagged Ouachita, 43-32. Ab Walker and Fettinger led the Neville attack while Harry Crowe contributed 14 for the Lions. Sims scored 16, Smith 15 and Ronnie Griggs 12 for Calhoun and Buddy Barr pumped in 25 for Chatham.

Sportsmanship awards were presented to Diane LaGrange of Neville in the girls' division and Barr of Chatham in the boys' bracket.

Most valuable players were Miss Smith of West Monroe and Sims of Calhoun.

Eiland Sets New Mark In AAU Event

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special) — Northeast's Don "Buddy" Eiland set a new record in winning the annual, Southern AAU cross country run at City Park here yesterday.

Eiland, sophomore distance ace from Farmerville, ran the five and four-tenths miles distance in 26:53.2, shattering the old record of 27:14.07 easily. Sal Escoto of Tulane set the old record in 1952.

Louisiana Tech, paced by Don Martin's 27:48.0 clock-won the team championship over Northeast, the only other team entered. Martin finished second behind Eiland.

Louisiana Tech is the Gulf States Conference cross country champion and Eiland the individual titlist.

Bill Frye of Northeast finished fifth and George Abbott, also of Northeast, was eighth.

Eiland will compete in the Sugar Bowl Track Meet Dec. 30, participating in the 1500 meter run.

Greenies Bow To Texas By 94-71 Count

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas parlayed sharp-shooting with sparkling defensive play here Saturday night to turn back Tulane 94-71 for a third straight basketball triumph on the home court.

Led by senior Jay Arnette, who counted 25 points, the Texans hit 51 per cent of their shots from the field and turned the game into a second half runaway.

Tulane was especially cold from the field in the first half, making only 25 per cent of its efforts.

Five-ten Dick O'Brien led Tulane with 18 points, but substitute Ron Mitchell was the hottest shooter for Tulane. He counted 16 points as he sank 8 of 11 shots from the field in the second half.

O'Brien was at his best from the free throw line, making 10 of 11 attempts.

COURT RULING SOON

NBA Waits Before Acting On D'Amato

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — National Boxing Assn. executives Saturday listened to Cus D'Amato's version of his troubles with the New York State Athletic Commission and decided to do nothing about them for the time being.

The manager of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson talked to the special NBA executive committee session for over two hours, behind closed doors.

"It was decided to take no action about D'Amato's future status in NBA territory until after the New York Supreme Court rules on his appeal from life suspension by the commission there," NBA President Anthony Maceroni, Providence, R.I., said.

A hearing on D'Amato's appeal to the high state court is set for next Tuesday.

Maceroni said Moore will be notified to set up a fight by Feb. 12, "on or about," and that Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is the only logical contender.

An offer of $100,000 to Moore for a Johnson fight was given to the NBA by Commissioners Alfred Klein and Paul G. Sullivan, and promoter Herman Taylor, of Philadelphia.

William K .King, Louisville promoter, submitted a $40,000 guarantee for Jordan to fight fourth-ranking Rudell Stitch of Louisville.

The other three ranking challengers are Charles Scott, Luis Rodriguez and Sugar Hart.

Bakersfield Victorious In Jr. Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Bakersfield's powerful Renegades started slowly but exploded with long scoring plays to overpower Del Mar College of Corpus Christi, Tex., 36-14, Saturday in the Junior Rose Bowl before 46,923.

The California school had been ranked as the No. 1 junior college football team in the country, with Del Mar right behind. The winner of the annual junior bowl is generally recognized as the national champion of the two-year schools.

Del Mar got off to a 7-0 lead early in the game, taking advantage of a Bakersfield fumble. But the Renegades scored 18 points in the second quarter and that put the game out of reach.

Three of Bakersfield's six touchdowns came on runs of 50 yards or more.

EMPHASIS ON BOOKS

Syracuse Players Aren't All Brawn

By JIM KOCH

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Are Syracuse University's mighty Orangemen, football champions of the nation, a bit brawny in the brains department? 'Taint necessarily so, a check shows.

Phi Beta Kappas and such as Rhodes scholar Pete Dawkins are noticeably absent in the Syracuse football flock, although team Captain Ger Schwedes provides some inspiring leadership.

Syracuse coaches insist their other warriors are keeping an eye on the books, despite the time and energies that go into playing big-time football.

The German-born Schwedes, a solid B student who speaks four languages fluently, is preparing for the foreign service. He scored 100 points this past campaign when Syracuse powered through 10 foes for the first undefeated season in the school's 71 years of football.

This sudden jump to prominence fired off the inevitable question—was Syracuse dropping long-time high education standards to grab top football players?

Actually, Syracuse has been more fussy lately about the educational and good-citizen backgrounds of its prospects than in any of the 11 year's since Coach Ben Schwartzwalder arrived with orders to put out a real football team.

In the early days, an assistant coach said, Syracuse would give a scholarship to a football prospect whose marks were less than fair and let him sink or swim. Now a boy with such marks would be rejected automatically, he added.

Last year, Syracuse lost two of its varsity and two of the freshman squad to the books. The 1958 team average was slightly above the C level, although lower than averages for other sports at the university.

Most of the Syracuse players are taking physical education, preparing to teach and coach. They must take several science courses. History is a favorite major.

Hickox Sparks Miami To 86-70 Win Over Loyola

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five-foot six-inch Dick Hickox popped in 21 points in the second half to lead Miami (Fla) to a 86-70 victory over Loyola Saturday night.

Hickox, smallest man on the floor, was the high scorer with 28 points. His pin - point accuracy helped crack Loyola's manto-man defense and broke up a tight game in the last 10 minutes.

Miami led 36-33 at halftime.

Miami, picking up its fourth victory in five outings, led 36-33 at halftime. But Loyola pulled even at 44-44 in the second half. The loss was Loyola's first in three starts.

Larry Trunk was Loyola's high man with 17 points.

'Apple A Day' Theory Works For Turley

NEW YORK (AP)—"Apples," says right-hander Bob Turley of the New York Yankees, "are keeping wrinkles off my stomach. What's more important, they night put those dollars back in my pocket."

That's a terse self-appraisal Turley made Friday midway through a dietary off season dictated by an 8-11 American League record that followed his great year in 1958.

"The way I got it figured," Turley told the Journal-American from his home in Maryland, "I was bad last year because I felt sluggish because I was too heavy."

"I like to eat," said the husky pitcher, "and I like to eat a lot. I used to say, 'It's only December. I'll eat what I want. Walk over to the refrigerator and go for those big desserts and snacks.'

"Sure, I get tempted every day. But I just grab another apple. My stomach cries all the time for another apple.

"But I'm getting now so I'm not as tempted as much as I used to be. When it gets too rough, I just think about 1958 when I won 21 and lost 7 and was spending this time of the year figuring how I was going to spend my World Series check.

"Then I think of last year. Only eight wins and no World Series check. You've got to be crazy if you don't stop and take stock of what was wrong, then take steps to remedy it."

Watching his calories has enabled Turley, a 6-footer, to be down to 200 by the time spring training starts or—as he puts it—"know the reason why."

"When a pitcher gets older, it is necessary for him to carry less weight," Turley added. "The more you carry, the more tired you're going to get, and I was very tired last season."

Turley said a successful diet depends on how you start the day.

Two Kinds Of Cage Coaches—Loeffler

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

Ken Loeffler, former top college basketball coach who had Tom Gola at LaSalle and later moved to Texas A. and M., says there are only two kinds of basketball coaches in America today..."First, there are the ones who have been fired," he said with a wink, "and second, there are those who will be fired. It's that kind of business."

Loeffler, out of the rat race now and teaching business law at Monmouth College in New Jersey, keeps in touch as a basketball scout...he has been keeping tabs on St. John's for Iowa, which meet in Madison Square Garden's holiday tournament.

Ranks of assistant coaches in the National Football League are likely to be depleted this winter on "rids" by clubs looking for new head coaches...that includes both the NFL and proposed new American Football League...one almost sure to go somewhere is Tom Landry, New York Giants' defensive coach.

Joe Dey of the U.S. Golf Association says the biggest problem involved in starting new golf courses, as well as keeping alive the old ones, is meeting the bills for rising taxes and labor maintenance costs..."only the most soundly organized clubs can stay in business when there's even a slight slump in the economy," he says.

Former heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson is ready to do his own negotiating any time he hears a proposition for the return with Ingemar Johansson...Floyd's manager, Cus D'Amato, has been rendered hors de combat by the New York State Athletic Commission...light heavy king Archie Moore manages to do right well making his own deals but Sugar Ray Robinson hasn't been exactly impressive in that department lately.

The late John Heisman, for whom football's Heisman Trophy is a memorial, should be remembered for even more important personal contributions to the game...a long-time coach (1892 - 1928), he originated the spinner play, the direct pass from center, and under his pressure, the forward pass was legalized in 1906.

Big boom in indoor track is predicted this winter as tension builds up for U.S. olympic trials...seasons starts in the east at Boston on Jan. 16...two big ones indoors are in the works for the West Coast, too...meet directors are being urged to substitute a three-mile run in place of the two-mile since the three is closer to the 5,000 meters run in the olympics.

National Football League, following the lead of the Professional Golfers Association, soon will market an official "NFL" line of athletic equipment, sportswear, etc...among the items is a special blazer for each NFL club, available exclusively to season ticket holders.

Craig Paces Owl Victory Over Bengals

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — David Craig scored 22 points as Rice defeated Louisiana State 71-57 Saturday night for its first victory in four starts this season.

The loss dropped LSU to a 2-2 record.

Rice led all the way except briefly early in the first period when a field goal by Dick Davies gave the Tigers a 15-14 margin. Craig put Rice back in front on two free throws and the Owls were never headed.

A 13-point streak paced by Mike Maroney with six points gave Rice a 30-17 lead after 12 minutes of play.

Early in the second half, three free throws by Craig, a jump shot by Maroney and a hook shot by Dick Park boosted Rice to its widest margin at 53-32.

Charlie Boy Wins Black Gold At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—W. W. Carroll's Charlie Boy boomed to first at the head of the stretch Saturday and took a four-length victory in the $10,000 Black Gold Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Charlie Boy, ridden by jockey William Skuse, traveled the 6 furlongs in 1:12 3-5 over a track slowed by overnight rain. He returned $8, $4, and $2.80.

Marion Van Berg's Redbird Wish made a belated stretch rush to take the runner-up spot while Ebony Pearl, one-half of the W. Hal Bishop entry, finished third. Redbird Wish paid $6.20 and $3.60 and Ebony Pearl returned $3.00.

SLI Edges McNeese For Southern Title

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Tim Thompson's rebound with three seconds to go gave Southwestern Louisiana a 60-59 victory over McNeese Saturday night and the Southern Intercollegiate basketball championship.

McNeese, leading at halftime 34-36 in the final round tilt, held a last minute 59-58 lead. But it lost the ball with 34 seconds to go.

SLI worked it around carefully and then sent up a shot. It missed. A second field goal also missed. But in the melee under the basket, Thompson leaped high and rapped in the winner.

SLI's Bill McHorris with 21 points was high man. Al Nesmith with 14 points led McNeese scoring.

Carl Short of Newberry (SC) College, who led the tourney with 70 points and 36 rebounds, was named outstanding player. Officials named Short on the all-tournament team with Thompson, McNeese's Don Troutman, Delta (Miss) State's Jim Taylor, and Tampa's Chuck Engelking.

ASKED TO RESIGN

Gillman Quits Under Fire As Los Angeles Mentor

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sid Gillman, in a dressing room news conference that resembled a wake, disclosed Saturday that he was asked to quit as head football coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

"The ownership of the Rams told me I should resign and I agreed. I just didn't up and resign," Gillman said.

An earlier announcement by a club spokesman gave the impression Gillman had resigned by his own decision. The spokesman said Gillman had advised the team before it took the field against the Baltimore Colts that he would not be with the club in 1960.

Co-owner Dan Reeves, General Manager Pete Rozelle and another owner, Fred Levy, also were at the dressing room news conference.

"I feel very sad," Reeves declared. "It was one of the most unhappy decisions that I personally ever have had to make.

"None of us are blaming Sid Gillman for the Rams' poor record this year. But we figured the hue and cry would be too great a pressure if Sid should return next year."

Reeves said he believes that the Rams coaching job is the toughest one in pro football.

"All the other teams look upon us as Hollywood characters and we get a little bit extra when they play us," the club president said.

Reeves accented reports of player dissension.

"I have made mistakes myself this year," Reeves continued, "and they have been rather selfish mistakes.

"Some of the players made mistakes—some of them on the selfish side too.

"But I don't think any of Sid's mistakes were selfish mistakes."

Reeves would make no comment on Gillman's successor.

Former Ram quarterback star Bob Waterfield has been prominently mentioned for the position.

Waterfield, in the pressbox, said he had not been approached by anyone but that he would be interested in the job.

Reeves was asked about Waterfield.

"No comment. We'll have to take a shower and relax for a few days," Reeves said.

Gillman said he will leave "a good young club that needs some help.

"The Rams will need a lot of pass defense people," he said. "A lot of our troubles this year were because we played all season without guards. Until someone comes up with the answer on how to prevent injuries, coaching will remain a very precarious profession."

Gillman said he has no immediate plans.

Gillman smiled and looked relieved when Reeves answered one question for him. The question was: "Is there any moral to what happened to you, Sid?"

A dedicated student of football, tireless to the point of exasperating his aides, Gillman is recognized nationally as one of the more astute men in the profession.

His selection to guide the Rams ended what was literally a manhunt by the Ram organization. Scores of applicants were tapped.

Stepping from college football to the hard-nosed pros is a precarious move. But in his first year of 1955 Gillman enjoyed fantastic success.

Despite a succession of injuries to players, the Rams won the Western Division title. Cleveland walloped them in the NFL championship game, 38-14, but Gillman seemingly had it made as a pro coach.

Then it developed that always not serene among the playing personnel. The matter came more into focus when the club's star quarterback, Norman (The Dutchman) Van Brocklin "retired" after the 1957 campaign.

The out-spoken Dutchmn subsequently "un-retired" and signed with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Van Brocklin-Gillman differences included a violent dislike by Van Brocklin of Gillman's calling all the plays via player-messengers running on and off the field.

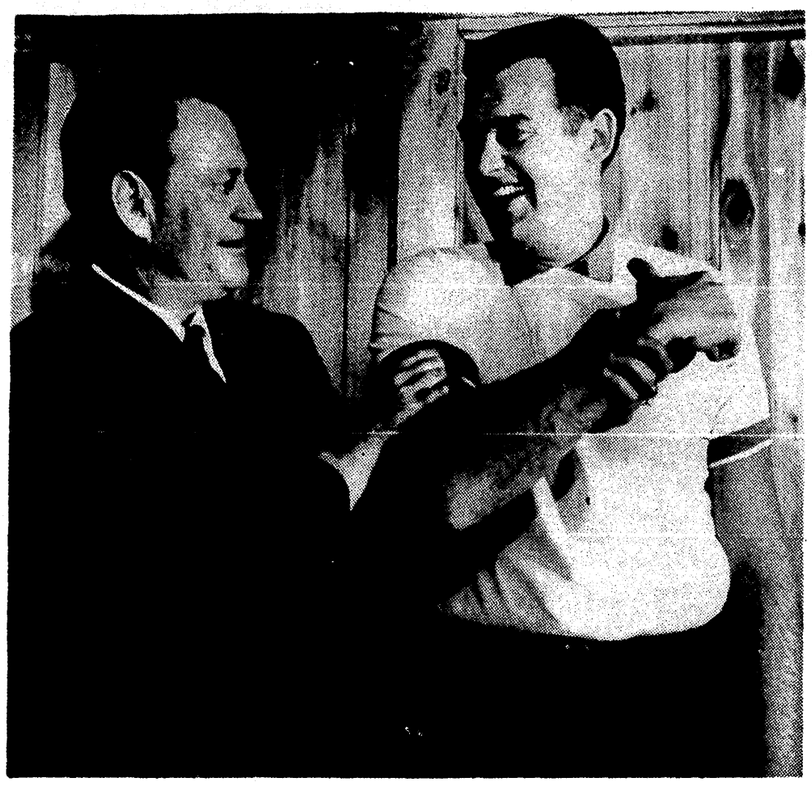

Van Brocklin, while discounting any personal animosity for Gillman, once explained:

"The first year, when Gillman was new to professional football, he asked for help from the (veteran) players.

"We gave it to him, and everything was fine.

"The next year was different. Gillman knew all the answers. He didn't need our help. So. . ."

There were indications of some discontent in the ranks this year. But this is not unusual when a team goes into a losing slump. And, in the case this year, the slump was materially aided by an uncommon number of injuries.

Irish Stun Rams In 57-43 Victory

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

St. Matthew's stunned Bastrop with 11 consecutive points in the first quarter and breezed to 57-43 victory here Saturday night.

Rangy John Varino, a 6-4 center who controlled the backboards with 23 rebounds, led the Irish in point production as they racked up their 7th victory of the campaign against three setbacks.

Varino tossed in 16 points, 14 of which came in a hot first half, as the Irish built up a 36-18 advantage at intermission.

Hustling Buddy Embanato, hitting consistently from 20 feet out, sank 13 points in the first two periods and notched another fielder in the second half to wind up with 15 points. Frankie Accardo followed with 13 counters.

Slender Ned Head topped the Ram effort with 15 points on 6 field goals and 3 gift shots and Jerry Hollis added 10.

The Irish came out at the off hot as a two-dollar pistol and crammed in 11 points before Coach Wig Riley's Rams broke the scoring ice.

Leading 19-10 after one stanza the St. Matthew's quint pulled away in the second and grabbed a 36-18 advantage at the half.

St. Matthew's fired away at a 37 per cent clip in both halves and dropped in 7 of 14 foul shots. The Rams, who used only five men throughout the game, converted 11 of 16 attempts from the line.

The loss was Bastrop's sixth of the year against three victories.

Sam Marsala and Charley Biggar connected for 5 and 6 points respectively for the Irish and hauled in 10 rebounds apiece.

Bastrop prevented a clean sweep by taking the girls' opener, 34-23, as Bonnie Hardy and Jean Harris scored 16 points each. Adeline Elias had 16 for the Irish sextet which trailed at the half, 16-12.

Retirement Of Cannon, Pettit Numbers Asked

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Board of Supervisors suggested Saturday that the numbers worn by All America football player Billy Cannon and former basketball All America Bob Pettit be retired.

The board made the recommendations at its meeting on the LSU campus in New Orleans.

Cannon, who has worn No. 20 during the last three seasons, will make his last appearance in an LSU football uniform in the Sugar Bowl against Mississippi New Year's Day.

He was picked for the All America team last season and again this year. He also received the 1959 Heisman trophy as the nation's outstanding football player, was No. 1 choice in the professional football draft, and was the Associated Press back of the year.

Pettit, an All America for LSU in 1954, is now an outstanding professional player for the St. Louis Hawks. The 1953 team, sparked by Pettit, finished fifth in the AP rankings. The Pettit-led teams also won the 1952 Sugar Bowl title and was runnerup the next year.

Celtics Stop Warriors For 9th Straight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boston's Bill Russell, keeping Philadelphia's 7-foot Wilt Chamberlain in check, helped the Celtics to a 126-117 victory over the Warriors Saturday night and increased their lead in the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern Division.

Until the final five minutes, however, the 9,671 fans in Convention Hall thought the Warriors might win the game.

Boston tied it up at 106, then went ahead to stay on a basket by K. C. Jones. Two fouls by Frank Ramsey made the score 110 - 106, but Chamberlain narrowed that with a jump shot. Philadelphia never got closer.

Russell, in sparking Boston's ninth straight victory, scored 26 points. Guy Rodgers had 27 points and 10 assists to lead the Warriors, whose high scorer was Paul Arizin with 29.

East Defeats West In Jr. Shrine Game

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (APa)—The East scored a come-from-behind touchdown in the fourth quarter Saturday to defeat the West 15-8 in the fourth Shrine Junior College All-Star football game.

The East, a six-point underdog, parlayed two interceptions by halfback Bill Richardson of Victoria, Tex. Junior College and a bruising ground game to score its touchdowns.

Richardson intercepted a pass on his own 28 and returned it to his 38. From there quarterback Al Hill of Co-Lynn, Miss. JC directed a 62-yard scoring attack, going 33 yards himself on two carries.

Ira Coates, fullback from Co-Lynn drove over from seven yards out. His conversion kick made it 7-0 late in the third period.

The West took the ensuring kickoff and marched 80 yards in 12 plays for their score. Halfback Don Haller of Mesa, Colo. ate up 30 yards on five carries.

The score came on a seven-yard pass from Richard Hafen, Dixie, Utah College, to end Art Fermelia of New Mexico Military. Hafen passed to fullback Ray Johnson for the two-point conversion.

Richardson intercepted another Hafen pass on the West 38 late in the final period and the East drove to their winning touchdown. Walter Van Allen of Holmes, Miss. JC went over from the 9.

Tech Gets Hot In 2nd Half To Beat Middle Tennessee

Louisiana Tech's cagers put on the speed in the last half to win their fourth straight game of the season, dumping Middle Tennessee State, 81-63, here Saturday night.

Ahead only 33-31 at the half, the Techsters found the range finally in the last few minutes of play to pull into a safe lead. They were led by Jack Moreland's 20-point outburst in the last half, nine of them in the final three minutes.

Middle Tennessee, hitting on some good set shots, was behind by only seven points, 64-57, with three minutes left but that's where the Techmen began hitting the range. The 18-point margin at the finish was Tech's biggest lead of the game.

The first half was about even divided with the Tennesseeans leading in the first 10 minutes and Tech in front the second 10. Neither team ever got more than six points ahead in the initial half.

After five minutes of play, the score was tied at 8-8. It was tied again at 14-14 and 27-27 in the first half.

In the last half, Middle Tennessee twice cut Tech's lead to one point but could never quite catch the Bulldogs.

Tech, of course, was led by Moreland's 28 points, high for the season for the Minden junior. Two other Bulldogs hit in the double figures, Ray Germany with 18 and Joe Daigle with 13.

Moreland grabbed off 18 rebounds and Daigle 14.

Ralph Bryant led the visitors with 17 points and he was also high in rebounds for the Blue Raiders with 10.

Tech will play Southeastern Oklahoma at Ruston Monday night.

WITH SPARKLING BACKS

Bluebonnet Bowl Features Defense

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian and Clemson, a couple of defensive specialists with sparkling backfield stars, inaugurate the Bluebonnet Bowl football game next Saturday in 70,000-seat Rice Stadium.

The nationally televised game (CBS 3:30 p.m., EST) matches the champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference against a Texas Christian team that shares the Southwest Conference title with two other bowl-bound schools, Texas and Arkansas.

Houston's first experiment with post-season classics since the Oil Bowl of 1946-48 may not draw a full house but the 150 businessmen launching the Bluebonnet have guaranteed each team $100,000. A crowd of 45,000 is needed to break even and the sponsors anticipate little difficulty in exceeding that mark.

Both teams featured rugged line play led by outstanding tackles all season but the Bluebonnet places one of the nation's best ground gainers against Clemson's greatest all-time passer.

TCU's Jack Spikes, a 205-pound-fullback, led all Southwest Conference rushers with 660 yards in 140 carries. Harvey White, a 6-foot-2 senior quarterback, led Clemson on total offense with 719 yards and ended his 3-year varsity career with a Tiger record of 2,026 yards passing.

An All-America tackle, Don Floyd, leads the TCU line, while Lou Cordileone, a third team All-America tackle leads the Clemson forwards.

Both of the veteran teams—the 22 starters will include 16 seniors—completed their regular schedules with 8-2 records.

TCU enters the game as the nation's No. 7 team Clemson No. 11.

Clemson nailed down its seventh bowl trip while losing only to Georgia Tech and Maryland. TCU won seven straight games after losing in early season on muddy fields to nationally ranked Louisiana State and Arkansas.

The TCU string included a 14-9 victory over previously undefeated Texas.

Clemson moves into town at noon Thursday. The Horned Frogs follow 24 hours later.

The national champion Syracuse team will be among those witnessing the Clemson-TCU battle. Syracuse also arrives Friday to establish training headquarters for its New Year's Day Cotton Bowl date with Texas in Dallas.

TCU has compiled a 4-5-1 record for trips to the Sugar, Cotton, Orange and Delta bowls. Clemson holds a 3-3 record for Cotton, Gator and Sugar Bowl appearances.

Sponsors organized the Bluebonnet Bowl with an unofficial policy to try to match the Southwest Conference runner-up team against an outstanding intersectional opponent.

The Southwest champion is pledged to the Cotton Bowl but this year's three-way tie opened the way for TCU to come here and for Arkansas to meet Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl. Texas got the Cotton Bowl bid since it had not played there since 1953.

Grid Writers Honor Coach Of Syracuse

Syracuse, the nation's only major unbeaten team, was ranked first in The Associated Press football poll and will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Schwartzwalder drew more than one-third of the votes cast. Ray Eliot of Illinois, whose team surged to a 5-3-1 finish in his final coaching year, and Wally Butts of Georgia, tied for second with 92 votes.

Georgia had a 9-1 record and will play Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

Clay Stapleton of Iowa State, whose Dirty Thirty surprised with a 7-3 season, was fourth in front of Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin. Bruhn's Badgers meet Washington in the Rose Bowl.

Istrouma Meets Jesuit At Baton Rouge In Finals

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Jesuit and Istrouma will play for the Triple-A football crown here Friday night. The date was decided at a meeting of officials from the two schools in Baton Rouge Saturday.

Jesuit, first-ranked in the final AP poll, entered the finals after a 12-0 victory over LaGrange Friday. The New Orleans Catholic champion's win broke LaGrange's victory skein at 11.

Istrouma is the southeast district champ with a record of 11 victories and one tie over the season. Istrouma won the Triple-A crown from 1955-57.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT

1959 Lean Year In Track, Field

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — As did most pre-Olympic years, 1959 proved a lean one or world track and field records.

International competition enjoyed a lule. There were only three 4-minute miles. The great Herb Elliott of Australia took it easy.

Only really significant trend in 1959 was a marked inroad by European athletes into events traditionally the stronghold of the United States.

Yet, American experts feel certain that from the great reservoir of American talent will rise the stars to dominate these events in the Rome Olympics of 1960.

As far as world records were concerned there was little to get excited about.

New marks were established in the 110-meter and 120-yard hurdles, the 1,000 meters, the 400-yard relay, the 4-mile relay, the hop, step and jump, shot put, discus throw javelin and decathlon.

Also, a new world record was set up for the 220-yard and 200-meter hurdles around a turn. It was the first year for such a record.

World marks were equalled in the 100 yards, the 100 meters, the 200 meters and 220 yards, the latter two distances around one turn.

Outstanding athletes of 1959 were Roy Norton of the United States in the two sprints in which he tied world marks; Sweden's Dan Waern who set a 1,000-meter mark and ran a 4-minute mile; Martin Lauer of Germany who took away the high hurdles world record from America; Edmund Piatowski of Poland who got close to 200 feet for a discus world record, and Russia's Vasily Kunznetsov who established a decathlon mark.

The great Parry O'Brien of the United States kept the shot put world mark to himself while Australia's Elliott ran a 4-minute mile eary in the year and then did little else. An East German, Siegfried Calentin set a European mile record of 3:56.3 but stil didn't impress the experts.

In women's events world marks were as hard to come by as in the men's.

The 400 meters and the 440 yard marks were lowered by Russia's Maria Itkina. Another Russian, Tamara Press set records in the shot put and the penthanthlon while two Russians equallied the 60-meter dash record that's been in the books since 1933. It's rarely run, however.

Only Iolanda Balas of Romania who bettered 6 feet in the high jump lifted herself far above all athletes in all lands.

Here are the 1959 world marks (men):
100 yards—W. G. Woodhouse, Roscoe Cook and Ray Norton, United States, 9.3 equals record.
100 meters—Norton, U.S., 10.1 equals record.
200 meters (turn)—Norton, 20.6, equals record.
220 yards (turn)—Norton, 20.6 equals record.
1,000 meters—Dan Waern, Sweden, 2.17.8
110-meter hurdles—Martin Lauer, German, 13.2
120-yard hurdles—Lauer, 13.2
200-meter hurdles (turn)—Hayes Jones, U. S., and Lauer, 22.5
220-yard hurdles (turn)—Jones, 22.6
Hop, step, jump—Oleg Fyedoseyev, Russia, 54 feet, 9½ inches.
Shot pitt—Parry O'Brien U.S., 63-4
Discus — Edmund Piatowski, Poland, 196-6¾
Javelin—Al Cantello, U.S. 282-3½
Decathlon—V. D. Kuznetsov, Russia, 8,357 points.
400-yard relay—Texas University, 39.6
4-mile relay—Honved Club, Hungary, 16:25.2

WOMEN
60 meters—G. M. Popova and Nonna Polyakova, both Russia, 7.3, equals record
400 meters—Maria Itkina, Russia, 53.4
440 yards—Itkina, 53.7
High jump—Iolanda Balas, Romania, 6-¼
Shot putt—T. P. Press, Russia, 56-7
Pentathlon—Press, 4.880 points.

ASKED TO RESIGN

Gillman Quits Under Fire As Los Angeles Mentor

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sid Gillman, in a dressing room news conference that resembled a wake, disclosed Saturday that he was asked to quit as head football coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

"The ownership of the Rams told me I should resign and I agreed. I just didn't up and resign," Gillman said.

An earlier announcement by a club spokesman gave the impression Gillman had resigned by his own decision. The spokesman said Gillman had advised the team before it took the field against the Baltimore Colts that he would not be with the club in 1960.

Co-owner Dan Reeves, General Manager Pete Rozelle and another owner, Fred Levy, also were at the dressing room news conference.

"I feel very sad," Reeves declared. "It was one of the most unhappy decisions that I personally ever have had to make.

"None of us are blaming Sid Gillman for the Rams' poor record this year. But we figured the hue and cry would be too great a pressure if Sid should return next year."

Reeves said he believes that the Rams coaching job is the toughest one in pro football.

"All the other teams look upon us as Hollywood characters and we get a little bit extra when they play us," the club president said.

Reeves accented reports of player dissension.

"I have made mistakes myself this year," Reeves continued, "and they have been rather selfish mistakes.

"Some of the players made mistakes—some of them on the selfish side too.

"But I don't think any of Sid's mistakes were selfish mistakes."

Reeves would make no comment on Gillman's successor.

Former Ram quarterback star Bob Waterfield has been prominently mentioned for the position.

Waterfield, in the pressbox, said he had not been approached by anyone but that he would be interested in the job.

Reeves was asked about Waterfield.

"No comment. We'll have to take a shower and relax for a few days," Reeves said.

Gillman said he will leave "a good young club that needs some help.

"The Rams will need a lot of pass defense people," he said. "A lot of our troubles this year were because we played all season without guards. Until someone comes up with the answer on how to prevent injuries, coaching will remain a very precarious profession."

Gillman said he has no immediate plans.

Gillman smiled and looked relieved when Reeves answered one question for him. The question was: "Is there any moral to what happened to you, Sid?"

A dedicated student of football, tireless to the point of exasperating his aides, Gillman is recognized nationally as one of the more astute men in the profession.

His selection to guide the Rams ended what was literally a manhunt by the Ram organization. Scores of applicants were tapped.

Stepping from college football to the hard-nosed pros is a precarious move. But in his first year of 1955 Gillman enjoyed fantastic success.

Despite a succession of injuries to players, the Rams won the Western Division title. Cleveland walloped them in the NFL championship game, 38-14, but Gillman seemingly had it made as a pro coach.

Then it developed that always not serene among the playing personnel. The matter came more into focus when the club's star quarterback, Norman (The Dutchman) Van Brocklin "retired" after the 1957 campaign.

The out-spoken Dutchmn subsequently "un-retired" and signed with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Van Brocklin-Gillman differences included a violent dislike by Van Brocklin of Gillman's calling all the plays via player-messengers running on and off the field.

Van Brocklin, while discounting any personal animosity for Gillman, once explained:

"The first year, when Gillman was new to professional football, he asked for help from the (veteran) players.

"We gave it to him, and everything was fine.

"The next year was different. Gillman knew all the answers. He didn't need our help. So. . ."

There were indications of some discontent in the ranks this year. But this is not unusual when a team goes into a losing slump. And, in the case this year, the slump was materially aided by an uncommon number of injuries.

Irish Stun Rams In 57-43 Victory

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

St. Matthew's stunned Bastrop with 11 consecutive points in the first quarter and breezed to 57-43 victory here Saturday night.

Rangy John Varino, a 6-4 center who controlled the backboards with 23 rebounds, led the Irish in point production as they racked up their 7th victory of the campaign against three setbacks.

Varino tossed in 16 points, 14 of which came in a hot first half, as the Irish built up a 36-18 advantage at intermission.

Hustling Buddy Embanato, hitting consistently from 20 feet out, sank 13 points in the first two periods and notched another fielder in the second half to wind up with 15 points. Frankie Accardo followed with 13 counters.

Slender Ned Head topped the Ram effort with 15 points on 6 field goals and 3 gift shots and Jerry Hollis added 10.

The Irish came out at the off hot as a two-dollar pistol and crammed in 11 points before Coach Wig Riley's Rams broke the scoring ice.

Leading 19-10 after one stanza the St. Matthew's quint pulled away in the second and grabbed a 36-18 advantage at the half.

St. Matthew's fired away at a 37 per cent clip in both halves and dropped in 7 of 14 foul shots. The Rams, who used only five men throughout the game, converted 11 of 16 attempts from the line.

The loss was Bastrop's sixth of the year against three victories.

Sam Marsala and Charley Biggar connected for 5 and 6 points respectively for the Irish and hauled in 10 rebounds apiece.

Bastrop prevented a clean sweep by taking the girls' opener, 34-23, as Bonnie Hardy and Jean Harris scored 16 points each. Adeline Elias had 16 for the Irish sextet which trailed at the half, 16-12.

Retirement Of Cannon, Pettit Numbers Asked

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Board of Supervisors suggested Saturday that the numbers worn by All America football player Billy Cannon and former basketball All America Bob Pettit be retired.

The board made the recommendations at its meeting on the LSU campus in New Orleans.

Cannon, who has worn No. 20 during the last three seasons, will make his last appearance in an LSU football uniform in the Sugar Bowl against Mississippi New Year's Day.

He was picked for the All America team last season and again this year. He also received the 1959 Heisman trophy as the nation's outstanding football player, was No. 1 choice in the professional football draft, and was the Associated Press back of the year.

Pettit, an All America for LSU in 1954, is now an outstanding professional player for the St. Louis Hawks. The 1953 team, sparked by Pettit, finished fifth in the AP rankings. The Pettit-led teams also won the 1952 Sugar Bowl title and was runnerup the next year.

Celtics Stop Warriors For 9th Straight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boston's Bill Russell, keeping Philadelphia's 7-foot Wilt Chamberlain in check, helped the Celtics to a 126-117 victory over the Warriors Saturday night and increased their lead in the National Basketball Assn.'s Eastern Division.

Until the final five minutes, however, the 9,671 fans in Convention Hall thought the Warriors might win the game.

Boston tied it up at 106, then went ahead to stay on a basket by K. C. Jones. Two fouls by Frank Ramsey made the score 110 - 106, but Chamberlain narrowed that with a jump shot. Philadelphia never got closer.

Russell, in sparking Boston's ninth straight victory, scored 26 points. Guy Rodgers had 27 points and 10 assists to lead the Warriors, whose high scorer was Paul Arizin with 29.

East Defeats West In Jr. Shrine Game

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (APa)—The East scored a come-from-behind touchdown in the fourth quarter Saturday to defeat the West 15-8 in the fourth Shrine Junior College All-Star football game.

The East, a six-point underdog, parlayed two interceptions by halfback Bill Richardson of Victoria, Tex. Junior College and a bruising ground game to score its touchdowns.

Richardson intercepted a pass on his own 28 and returned it to his 38. From there quarterback Al Hill of Co-Lynn, Miss. JC directed a 62-yard scoring attack, going 33 yards himself on two carries.

Ira Coates, fullback from Co-Lynn drove over from seven yards out. His conversion kick made it 7-0 late in the third period.

The West took the ensuring kickoff and marched 80 yards in 12 plays for their score. Halfback Don Haller of Mesa, Colo. ate up 30 yards on five carries.

The score came on a seven-yard pass from Richard Hafen, Dixie, Utah College, to end Art Fermelia of New Mexico Military. Hafen passed to fullback Ray Johnson for the two-point conversion.

Richardson intercepted another Hafen pass on the West 38 late in the final period and the East drove to their winning touchdown. Walter Van Allen of Holmes, Miss, JC went over from the 9.

Tech Gets Hot In 2nd Half To Beat Middle Tennessee

Louisiana Tech's cagers put on the speed in the last half to win their fourth straight game of the season, dumping Middle Tennessee State, 81-63, here Saturday night.

Ahead only 33-31 at the half, the Techsters found the range finally in the last few minutes of play to pull into a safe lead. They were led by Jack Moreland's 20-point outburst in the last half, nine of them in the final three minutes.

Middle Tennessee, hitting on some good set shots, was behind by only seven points, 64-57, with three minutes left but that's where the Techmen began hitting the range. The 18-point margin at the finish was Tech's biggest lead of the game.

The first half was about even divided with the Tennesseeans leading in the first 10 minutes and Tech in front the second 10. Neither team ever got more than six points ahead in the initial half.

After five minutes of play, the score was tied at 8-8. It was tied again at 14-14 and 27-27 in the first half.

In the last half, Middle Tennessee twice cut Tech's lead to one point but could never quite catch the Bulldogs.

Tech, of course, was led by Moreland's 28 points, high for the season for the Minden junior. Two other Bulldogs hit in the double figures, Ray Germany with 18 and Joe Daigle with 13.

Moreland grabbed off 18 rebounds and Daigle 14.

Ralph Bryant led the visitors with 17 points and he was also high in rebounds for the Blue Raiders with 10.

Tech will play Southeastern Oklahoma at Ruston Monday night.

Bluebonnet Bowl Features Defense

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian and Clemson, a couple of defensive specialists with sparkling backfield stars, inaugurate the Bluebonnet Bowl football game next Saturday in 70,000-seat Rice Stadium.

The nationally televised game (CBS 3:30 p.m., EST) matches the champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference against a Texas Christian team that shares the Southwest Conference title with two other bowl-bound schools, Texas and Arkansas.

Houston's first experiment with post-season classics since the Oil Bowl of 1946-48 may not draw a full house but the 150 businessmen launching the Bluebonnet have guaranteed each team $100,000. A crowd of 45,000 is needed to break even and the sponsors anticipate little difficulty in exceeding that mark.

Both teams featured rugged line play led by outstanding tackles all season but the Bluebonnet places one of the nation's best ground gainers against Clemson's greatest all-time passer.

TCU's Jack Spikes, a 205-pound fullback, led all Southwest Conference rushers with 660 yards in 140 carries. Harvey White, a 6-foot-2 senior quarterback, led Clemson on total offense with 719 yards and ended his 3-year varsity career with a Tiger record of 2,026 yards passing.

An All-America tackle, Don Floyd, leads the TCU line, while Lou Cordileone, a third team All-America tackle leads the Clemson forwards.

Both of the veteran teams—the 22 starters will include 16 seniors—completed their regular schedules with 8-2 records.

TCU enters the game as the nation's No. 7 team Clemson No. 11.

Clemson nailed down its seventh bowl trip while losing only to Georgia Tech and Maryland. TCU won seven straight games after losing in early season on muddy fields to nationally ranked Louisiana State and Arkansas.

The TCU string included a 14-9 victory over previously undefeated Texas.

Clemson moves into town at noon Thursday. The Horned Frogs follow 24 hours later.

The national champion Syracuse team will be among those witnessing the Clemson-TCU battle. Syracuse also arrives Friday to establish training headquarters for its New Year's Day Cotton Bowl date with Texas in Dallas.

TCU has compiled a 4-5-1 record for trips to the Sugar, Cotton, Orange and Delta bowls. Clemson holds a 3-3 record for Cotton, Gator and Sugar Bowl appearances.

Sponsors organized the Bluebonnet Bowl with an unofficial policy to try to match the Southwest Conference runner-up team against an outstanding intersectional opponent.

The Southwest champion is pledged to the Cotton Bowl but this year's three-way tie opened the way for TCU to come here and for Arkansas to meet Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl. Texas got the Cotton Bowl bid since it had not played there since 1953.

Grid Writers Honor Coach Of Syracuse

Syracuse, the nation's only major unbeaten team, was ranked first in The Associated Press football poll and will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Schwartzwalder drew more than one-third of the votes cast. Ray Eliot of Illinois, whose team surged to a 5-3-1 finish in his final coaching year, and Wally Butts of Georgia, tied for second with 92 votes.

Georgia had a 9-1 record and will play Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

Clay Stapleton of Iowa State, whose Dirty Thirty surprised with a 7-3 season, was fourth in front of Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin. Bruhn's Badgers meet Washington in the Rose Bowl.

Istrouma Meets Jesuit At Baton Rouge In Finals

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Jesuit and Istrouma will play for the Triple-A football crown here Friday night. The date was decided at a meeting of officials from the two schools in Baton Rouge Saturday.

Jesuit, first-ranked in the final AP poll, entered the finals after a 12-0 victory over LaGrange Friday. The New Orleans Catholic champion's win broke LaGrange's victory skein at 11.

Istrouma is the southeast district champ with a record of 11 victories and one tie over the season. Istrouma won the Triple-A crown from 1955-57.

Lake Charles was the 1958 winner with a 22-20 victory over Warren Easton.

Last year's standout Trojans who were lost to the team by graduation include Billy Querry, Danny Neumann, Leonard Wall, Billy Foster, Tommy Crow, and David Lee.

Coach Liard is inviting the public to attend any and all of tht home games.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT

1959 Lean Year In Track, Field

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — As did most pre-Olympic years, 1959 proved a lean one or world track and field records.

International competition enjoyed a lule. There were only three 4-minute miles. The great Herb Elliott of Australia took it easy.

Only really significant trend in 1959 was a marked inroad by European athletes into events traditionally the stronghold of the United States.

Yet, American experts feel certain that from the great reservoir of American talent will rise the stars to dominate these events in the Rome Olympics of 1960.

As far as world records were concerned there was little to get excited about.

New marks were established in the 110-meter and 120-yard hurdles, the 1,000 meters, the 400-yard relay, the 4-mile relay, the hop, step and jump, shot put, discus throw javelin and decathlon.

Also, a new world record was set up for the 220-yard and 200-meter hurdles around a turn. It was the first year for such a record.

World marks were equalled in the 100 yards, the 100 meters, the 200 meters and 220 yards, the latter two distances around one turn.

Outstanding athletes of 1959 were Roy Norton of the United States in the two sprints in which he tied world marks; Sweden's Dan Waern who set a 1,000-meter mark and ran a 4-minute mile; Martin Lauer of Germany who took away the high hurdles world record from America; Edmund Piatowski of Poland who got close to 200 feet for a discus world record, and Russia's Vasily Kunznetsov who established a decathlon mark.

The great Parry O'Brien of the United States kept the shot put world mark to himself while Australia's Elliott ran a 4-minute mile eary in the year and then did little else. An East German, Siegfried Calentin set a European mile record of 3:56.3 but stil didn't impress the experts.

In women's events world marks were as hard to come by as in the men's.

The 400 meters and the 440 yard marks were lowered by Russia's Maria Itkina. Another Russian, Tamara Press set records in the shot put and the penthanthlon while two Russians equallied the 60-meter dash record that's been in the books since 1933. It's rarely run, however.

Only Iolanda Balas of Romania who bettered 6 feet in the high jump lifted herself far above all athletes in all lands.

Here are the 1959 world marks (men):
100 yards—W. G. Woodhouse, Roscoe Cook and Ray Norton, United States, 9.3 equals record.
100 meters—Norton, U.S., 10.1 equals record.
200 meters (turn)—Norton, 20.6, equals record.
220 yards (turn)—Norton, 20.6 equals record.
1,000 meters—Dan Waern, Sweden, 2.17.8
110-meter hurdles—Martin Lauer, German, 13.2
120-yard hurdles—Lauer, 13.2
220-yard hurdles (turn)—Jones, 22.6
Hop, step, jump—Oleg Fyedoseyev, Russia, 54 feet, 9½ inches.
Shot pitt—Parry O'Brien U.S., 63-4
Discus—Edmund Piatowski, Poland, 196-6¾
Javelin—Al Cantello, U.S. 282-3½
Decathlon—V. D. Kuznetsov, Russia, 8,357 points.
400-yard relay—Texas University, 39.6
4-mile relay—Honved Club, Hungary, 16:25.2

WOMEN
60 meters—G. M. Popova and Nonna Polyakova, both Russia, 7.3, equals record
400 meters—Maria Itkina, Russia, 53.4
440 yards—Itkina, 53.7
High jump—Iolanda Balas, Romania, 6-¼
Shot putt—T. P. Press, Russia, 56-7
Pentathlon—Press, 4,880 points.

LIBERTY, BLUEBONNET, HOLIDAY

Post-Season Bowl Action Gets Underway Saturday

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia, Houston and St. Petersburg, Fla., light the fuse next Saturday on the holiday football bowl hysteria which is expected to draw 700,000 spectators oldtime stature by Coach Paul paying 2½ million dollars into arenas from coast to coast.

Penn State is a one-point favorite over Alabama in the Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia. Texas Christian rules a three-point choice over Clemson in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston. And Lenoir Rhyne and Texas A&I are a tossup in their battle of small college giants in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg.

Those are three of the advance attractions in a gaudy 18-game program which reaches its crescendo on New Year's Day with the four established post-season events—the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls.

All of the 10 top teams in the final Associated Press poll will be in action, as will virtually all the All-America players and other leading individual stars.

Untold millions will watch the fanfare from the comforts of a living room chair. The headline attractions will be nationally televised by NBC and CBS.

The Liberty and Bluebonnet are new additions to the bowl list and both were fortunate to line up attractive games despite the heavy bidding for talent from the older and more famous promotions.

Liberty Bowl sponsors expect a crowd of at least 50,000 in the huge Philadelphia Stadium, site of the annual Army-Navy game.

Penn State, with one of the year's top quarterbacks in triple-threat Richie Lucas is one of the East's gridiron powers, losing only two games. One of those was a two-point defeat (20-18 on a two-point conversion that failed) by unbeaten, national champion Syracuse.

Alabama, being rebuilt to its (Bear) Bryant, finished the season on a powerful wave. After losing its opening game to Georgia and being tied by Vanderbilt and Tennessee, the Crimson Tide won its last five games for a 7-1-2 mark. Two of the victims were Georgia Tech and Auburn.

A crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 is expected to watch Texas Christian, co-holder of the Southwest Conference title, and Clemson, champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference, clash in Houston. Both have 8-2 records.

It's the second straight major bowl for TCU, which tied the Air Force in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas last Jan. 1. The Horned Frogs have a hard-striking backfield weapon in Jack Spikes and a big, mobile line bolstered by All-America tackle Don Floyd.

Clemson also is a hefty team with unusual speed. The offense is sparked by quarterback Harvey White. Lou Cordileone provides a big part of the muscle in the hard-charging line. This is the seventh bowl appearance for Clemson.

Leno'r Rhyne was champion of the North State Conference with a 10-0 over-all record and No. 1 rating in the NAIA (small college) post-season standings. Texas A&I, from Kingsville, Tex., had an 11-1 mark and was co-champion of the Lone Star Conference.

The Holiday Bowl will be telecast by CBS at 12:30 p.m. after which CBS cameras will move to the Bluebonnet Bowl, starting at 3:30 p.m. The Liberty Bowl, with a 1 p.m. starting time, will be telecast by NBC.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas got the nation's No. 1 team, Syracuse, which will play Texas, No. 4. The Nos. 2 and 3 teams—Mississippi and Louisiana State—clash in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans where Mississippi hopes to avenge a 7-3 regular season setback. This game features an individual duel between rival All-America players, LSU's Billy Cannon, the AP back of the year, and Mississippi's Charley Flowers.

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena brings together the champion of the Big Ten, Wisconsin, and the co-titlist of the Pacific Coast's Big Five, Washington. The Orange Bowl at Miami features Georgia, the Southeastern Conference king, and Missouri, runner-up in the Big Eight.

PENN STATE VS. 'BAMA

Offense, Defense Clash In Liberty

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn State will send its offensive football machine, led by triple-threat quarterback Richie Lucas, against defensive-minded Alabama Saturday in the inaugural Liberty Bowl football game in Philadelphia Stadium.

"They have a strong football team," says Penn State Coach Rip Engle. "It will be one of the real good bowl games. There are a lot of other bowls with teams not as good according to the records."

It will be the first meeting in history between Alabama, ranked 10th in the final Associated Press poll, and Penn State, ranked 12th.

Alabama, its line bolstered by guards Don Cochran, Bill Hannah and Wayne Sims and center Jim Blevins, allowed its opponents only 1,342 yards rushing and 52 points in posting a 7-1-2 record. The Crimson Tide is coached by Bear Bryant.

Lucas, a Glassport, Pa., senior was made the second team Associated Press All-America, ran and passed the Nittany Lions to an 8-2 season. Lucas hit on 58 of 117 passes for 913 yards and five touchdowns. Penn State racked up a total of 255 points.

"I'm not making any predication," says Engle, "but I hear Alabama is supposed to be a 14-point favorite. While they have been able to practice in warm weather, we have been hampered by cold, snow and darkness.

"The practices haven't been good. We haven't jelled. Blame part of it on the weather. We'll have something new in the way of offense."

Bud Dudley, a director of the bowl, estimated the contest would draw 50,000 fans. Philadelphia stadium, formerly known as Municipal stadium, has a seating capacity of 100,000.

"Our ticket sales have just started rolling," Dudley said. "If the weather runs true to form over the last 10 years it should be clear with the temperature about 42. That's perfect football weather."

Penn State, which lost to Syracuse and Pitt, will be making its third bowl appearance. The 1922 team lost to Southern California 14-3 in the Rose Bowl. The unbeaten, untied Nittany Lions of 1947 were held to a 13-13 tie by Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl.

For Alabama, which lost to Georgia and was tied by Vanderbilt and Tennessee, it will be the 13th bowl appearance. In post-season games, Alabama has a 7-4-1 record. The Crimson Tide last played in the 1954 Cotton Bowl game when they were defeated 28-6 by Rice.

Saturday's game will be televised nationally by NBC starting at 12:45 p.m. The kickoff is at 1:05. Dudley said the game would be carried nationally on radio by a network of independent stations through facilities being set up by NBC.

Oilers Hope For Cannon, Tom Landry

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A young oil millionaire was reaching today for a couple of football stars —Tom Landry and Billy Cannon.

Bud Adams Jr., owner of the Houston Oilers of the new American Football League is confident he can obtain signatures from both.

Adams has offered Landry, defensive coach of the New York Giants, the job of head coach of the Oilers. He talked three times earlier this week with Cannon, the All-America Louisiana State halfback, and had another talk scheduled.

Cannon, the Heisman Trophy winner, last week indicated he will sign with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

"We can do more for Cannon than can the Rams," Adams said. "If he goes with them it will simply be because he wants to play in the National Football League."

Cannon was the No. 1 draft selection for both the Oilers and the Rams.

Adams said he made the offer to Landry, a former University of Texas star, last week end in New York City and that Landry is waiting until after the NFL season ends Dec. 27 to announce a decision.

Adams said Landry heads his list but that other coaches under consideration include Forest Evashevski of Iowa, Frank Ivy of the Chicago Cardinals, George Sauer, the former Baylor and Nebraska coach, and Sammy Baugh of Hardin-Simmons.

Adams talked earlier this week after Ed McKeever, former coach after Ed McKeever, former coach at Notre Dame, he served as an intermediary. McKeever now resides in Baton Rouge.

Grayson Falls As Enterprise Takes Crown

SICILY ISLAND, La. (Special) — Enterprise handed Grayson its first loss in 23 games to win the boys' division and Washington, Miss., stopped Agden to take the girls' crown in the annual Sicily Island basketball tournament last night.

Enterprise did it the hard way, beating Grayson, 70-67, in an overtime to sack up the title. Charley Castle looped in 24 points for Enterprise and Billy May tallied 29 for Grayson.

Washington downed Ogden's girls, 63-53, in the finals as Nettles hooped 36 and Jackson had 18. Linda Hatton with 26 and Alford with 17 led Ogden.

Baskin topped Block of Jonesville, 59-48, to win boys' consolation honors and Block slammed Sicily Island, 54-26, in the girls' consolation. Janett had 19 for the winning boys while Billy Brooks tossed in 18 for the losers. Avis Butts had 34 for the Block girls and Margaret Wells netted 20 for Sicily Island.

In boys' semifinals Enterprise nipped Baskin, 56-54, and Grayson routed Block, 65-48. David Ainsworth and Carl Booth accounted for 18 each for Enterprise and Burns poured in 27 for Baskin. May led Grayson with 21 and Pierce bagged 16 for Block.

Girls' semifinal play saw Washington trip Block, 48-32, and Ogden outlast Sicily Island, 53-40. Rae Jackson had 20 for Washington and Butts hit 22 for Block. Hatton's 30 markers paced Ogden and Wells' 25 was high for Sicily Island.

The boys' all-tournament team: McAdams, LaSalle; Pine, Grayson; May, Grayson; Ainsworth, Enterprise; Carl Boothe, Enterprise; Cassels, Enterprise; Burns, Baskin; Edwards, Jonesville; Gray, Baskin; Jordan, Grayson.

Southern Loop May Lose Its Coach Of Year

VMI head football coach John McKenna, who received a plaque for his 9-1-1 record this season, is considering offers from Kansas State and Villanova.

He plans to be in Villanova Saturday to talk to Villanova officials, and it appears he is interested in the post. He already has visited Kansas State at Manhattan, Kan.

McKenna has been at VMI seven years and previously won the coach of the year award in 1957.

TECH RUNNERS — Louisiana Tech's championship cross country track team closed out a very successful season Saturday (Dec. 12) in the Southern AAU meet at New Orleans. The Bulldog runners captured the Gulf States Conference cross country title recently in a meet at Lake Charles and took an 8-1 won-loss record into Saturday's final event. They have not lost to a GSC team all season. Tech's five men who placed in the GSC meet were: (front at left) Russell Lewis, Iowa; Don Martin, Minden; (back at left) Robin Bryan, Springhill; Bob Hayes, Sedgwick, Kan.; and Joel Hebert, Jennings.

3 RECORDS BROKEN

Henley Wins Small College Point Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Garnley Henley of Huron, S. D., Gary Campbell of Whittier, Calif., and Dale Mills of Northeast Missouri State all broke outstanding records in winning individual offense championships in small college football circles for 1959.

Henley topped all scorers with 141 points on 22 touchdowns and nine conversions. This gave him a four-year total of 394 that surpasses anything on record for both major and minor school competition. The legendary Willie Heston of Michigan piled up 370 for Michigan.

Campbell, who switched from halfback to quarterback in Whittier's T formation just before the season started, copped the total offense record, 2,383 yards, and hung up a three - year mark of 5,177 yards. The 6-foot, 195-pound senior also won the passing crown with 111 completions in 183 throws for a .607 average and 1,717 yards.

In so doing Campbell also led Whittier to team championships in total yardage (4,613) and passing (.559 average and 1,993 yards).

Mills, the busiest ball carrier of the year, ran off with the rushing crown for the second straight year and snapped the record for toting the pigskin.

The 175 - pound junior ran 248 times, 24 more than the record set by Reggie West of Texas A&I in 1952, and ground out 1,385 yards. His two-year total of 2,743 yards established another record. He also was second in scoring wth 124 points.

The fgures were released Saturday by the NCAA's service bureau.

Other leaders for the year included:

INDIVIDUAL

Punting (20 or more) — Buck Grover, Salem, W. Va., 27 for 44.6 average.

TEAM

Rushing—Bemidji State, Minn., 326.6 yards a game.

Scoring — Florida A&M, 42.6 points a game.

Scoring defense—Huron, S. D., 2.1 points a game on 21 in 10.

FIRST TIME IN NINE YEARS

Ole Miss Beats Arkansas, 78-63

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Mississippi played second-half basketball Saturday night, beating Arkansas for the first time in nine years, 78-63.

Jack Waters poured in 25 points, John King added 17 and sophomore Sterling Ainsworth hit 15 as Ole Miss outclassed Arkansas in the second half.

Arkansas led through most of the first half but Mississippi took over at 37-36 just before the intermission on a field goal by King. Arkansas' big men, 6-6 Alan Morrison and 6-6 Ronnie Garner, were shoved from under the board in the second half as Ole Miss raced to a 20-point lead, then toyed with Arkansas.

Pat Foster kept Arkansas within striking distance most of the way with a 24-point performance. The inability of Clyde Rhoden to hit from the field hampered Arkansas. Rhoden, the team's high scorer with 29 points as a sophomore last year, got only three points, all on free throws.

The Razorbacks hold an 11-2 edge in the series and had won eight straight over Mississippi.

It was the fifth straight triumph for the Rebels, unbeaten this season. Arkansas lost its third of five starts.

City Drug In 71-64 Victory Over Chatham

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — City Drug of Farmerville, sparked by Buster Carlisle's 25-point production, swept past the Chatham All-Stars, 71-64, here last night in a battle of independent basketball teams.

Playing with only three regulars, City Drug picked up its fourth straight victory of the year without defeat. Lou Bravo, formerly of Loyola, trailed Carlisle, ex-Southwestern of Memphis ace, with 20 points for City Drug. B. White paced the losers with 27 points.

In a girls' game, Lakeshore Scotchwash of Monroe whipped Chatham's all-star girls, 41-20, with two former Mangham standouts, forward Katherine Arrant, the leading scorer with 26 points, and guard June Ross, starring. Betty Smith led Chatham with 15 markers.

LIBERTY, BLUEBONNET, HOLIDAY

Post-Season Bowl Action Gets Underway Saturday

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia, Houston and St. Petersburg, Fla., light the fuse next Saturday on the holiday football bowl hysteria which is expected to draw 700,000 spectators oldtime stature by Coach Paul paying 2½ million dollars into arenas from coast to coast.

Penn State is a one-point favorite over Alabama in the Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia. Texas Christian rules a three-point choice over Clemson in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston. And Lenoir Rhyne and Texas A&I are a tossup in their battle of small college giants in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg.

Those are three of the advance attractions in a gaudy 18-game program which reaches its crescendo on New Year's Day with the four established post-season events—the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowls.

All of the 10 top teams in the final Associated Press poll will be in action, as will virtually all the All-America players and other leading individual stars.

Untold millions will watch the fanfare from the comforts of a living room chair. The headline attractions will be nationally televised by NBC and CBS.

The Liberty and Bluebonnet are new additions to the bowl list and both were fortunate to line up attractive games despite the heavy bidding for talent from the older and more famous promotions.

Liberty Bowl sponsors expect a crowd of at least 50,000 in the huge Philadelphia Stadium, site of the annual Army-Navy game.

Penn State, with one of the year's top quarterbacks in triple-threat Richie Lucas is one of the East's gridiron powers, losing only two games. One of those was a two-point defeat (20-18 on a two-point conversion that failed) by unbeaten, national champion Syracuse.

Alabama, being rebuilt to its (Bear) Bryant, finished the season on a powerful wave. After losing its opening game to Georgia and being tied by Vanderbilt and Tennessee, the Crimson Tide won its last five games for a 7-1-2 mark. Two of the victims were Georgia Tech and Auburn.

A crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 is expected to watch Texas Christian, co-holder of the Southwest Conference title, and Clemson, champion of the Atlantic Coast Conference, clash in Houston. Both have 8-2 records.

It's the second straight major bowl for TCU, which tied the Air Force in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas last Jan. 1. The Horned Frogs have a hard-striking backfield weapon in Jack Spikes and a big, mobile line bolstered by All-America tackle Don Floyd.

Clemson also is a hefty team with unusual speed. The offense is sparked by quarterback Harvey White. Lou Cordileone provides a big part of the muscle in the hard-charging line. This is the seventh bowl appearance for Clemson.

Leno'r Rhyne was champion of the North State Conference with a 10-0 over-all record and No. 1 rating in the NAIA (small college) post-season standings. Texas A&I, from Kingsville, Tex., had an 11-1 mark and was co-champion of the Lone Star Conference.

The Holiday Bowl will be telecast by CBS at 12:30 p.m. after which CBS cameras will move to the Bluebonnet Bowl, starting at 3:30 p.m. The Liberty Bowl, with a 1 p.m. starting time, will be telecast by NBC.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas got the nation's No. 1 team, Syracuse, which will play Texas. No. 4. The Nos. 2 and 3 teams—Mississippi and Louisiana State—clash in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans where Mississippi hopes to avenge a 7-3 regular season setback. This game features an individual duel between rival All-America players, LSU's Billy Cannon, the AP back of the year, and Mississippi's Charley Flowers.

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena brings together the champion of the Big Ten, Wisconsin, and the co-titlist of the Pacific Coast's Big Five, Washington. The Orange Bowl at Miami features Georgia, the Southeastern Conference king, and Missouri, runner-up in the Big Eight.

PENN STATE VS. 'BAMA

Offense, Defense Clash In Liberty

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn State will send its offensive football machine, led by triple-threat quarterback Richie Lucas, against defensive-minded Alabama Saturday in the inaugural Liberty Bowl football game in Philadelphia Stadium.

"They have a strong football team," says Penn State Coach Rip Engle. "It will be one of the real good bowl games. There are a lot of other bowls with teams not as good according to the records."

It will be the first meeting in history between Alabama, ranked 10th in the final Associated Press poll, and Penn State, ranked 12th.

Alabama, its line bolstered by guards Don Cochran, Bill Hannah and Wayne Sims and center Jim Blevins, allowed its opponents only 1,342 yards rushing and 52 points in posting a 7-1-2 record. The Crimson Tide is coached by Bear Bryant.

Lucas, a Glassport, Pa., senior was made the second team Associated Press All-America, ran and passed the Nittany Lions to an 8-2 season. Lucas hit on 58 of 117 passes for 913 yards and five touchdowns. Penn State racked up a total of 255 points.

For Alabama, which lost to Georgia and was tied by Vanderbilt and Tennessee, it will be the 13th bowl appearance. In post-season games, Alabama has a 7-4-1 record. The Crimson Tide last played in the 1954 Cotton Bowl game when they were defeated 28-6 by Rice.

Saturday's game will be televised nationally by NBC starting at 12:45 p.m. The kickoff is at 1:05. Dudley said the game would be carried nationally on radio by a network of independent stations through facilities being set up by NBC.

FIRST TIME IN NINE YEARS

Ole Miss Beats Arkansas, 78-63

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Mississippi played second-half basketball Saturday night, beating Arkansas for the first time in nine years, 78-63.

Jack Waters poured in 25 points, John King added 17 and sophomore Sterling Ainsworth hit 15 as Ole Miss outclassed Arkansas in the second half.

Arkansas led through most of the first half but Mississippi took over at 37-36 just before the intermission on a field goal by King. Arkansas' big men, 6-6 Alan Morrison and 6-6 Ronnie Garner, were shoved from under the board in the second half as Ole Miss raced to a 20-point lead, then toyed with Arkansas.

Pat Foster kept Arkansas within striking distance most of the way with a 24-point performance. The inability of Clyde Rhoden to hit from the field hampered Arkansas. Rhoden, the team's high scorer with 29 points as a sophomore last year, got only three points, all on free throws.

The Razorbacks hold an 11-2 edge in the series and had won eight straight over Mississippi.

It was the fifth straight triumph for the Rebels, unbeaten this season. Arkansas lost its third of five starts.

Southern Loop May Lose Its Coach Of Year

VMI head football coach John McKenna, who received a plaque for his 9-1-1 record this season, is considering offers from Kansas State and Villanova.

He plans to be in Villanova Saturday to talk to Villanova officials, and it appears he is interested in the post. He already has visited Kansas State at Manhattan, Kan.

McKenna has been at VMI seven years and previously won the coach of the year award in 1957.

City Drug In 71-64 Victory Over Chatham

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — City Drug of Farmerville, sparked by Buster Carlisle's 25-point production, swept past the Chatham All-Stars, 71-64, here last night in a battle of independent basketball teams.

Playing with only three regulars, City Drug picked up its fourth straight victory of the year without defeat. Lou Bravo, formerly of Loyola, trailed Carlisle, ex-Southwestern of Memphis ace, with 20 points for City Drug. B. White paced the losers with 27 points.

In a girls' game, Lakeshore Scotchwash of Monroe whipped Chatham's all-star girls, 41-20, with two former Mangham standouts, forward Katherine Arrant, the leading scorer with 26 points, and guard June Ross, starring. Betty Smith led Chatham with 15 markers.

Tonight a million humans will have no place to sleep

In Hong Kong the lucky refugee youngsters may find a place to sleep in a hallway or on an open rooftop. In Calcutta, the haggard beggar woman may find rest in a dirty, crowded street. It's a staggering task merely to keep these people alive on an emergency basis, let alone improving their lot. But your own Faith's Religious Overseas Aid is doing more than its share to help. Why don't you give more than your share . . . now in this season of giving? Give now through your faith.

Doug Weaver Appointed To K-State Post

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Doug Weaver, first assistant football coach at the University of Missouri Saturday was named head grid coach at Kansas State University.

Selection of Weaver to succeed Bus Mertes was announced by the Kansas State Athletic Council.

His salary was not announced.

The council said Weaver would have complete freedom in the selection of four assistant coaches. Ed Bissinger, freshman coach, will remain in that post the council said.

Weaver is 29 and a graduate of Michigan State. He came to Missouri when Coach Dan Devine took over in 1958.

At Columbia, Mo., Coach Debine said he hated to lose Weaver, but would not stand in his way in taking the job.

Weaver is not expected to assume his duties here until after January 1, since the Missouri Tigers are being readied for the Orange Bowl game against Georgia on New Year's Day.

Weaver was graduated from Michigan State in 1953. He was a linebacker on the 1950-52 Spartan teams which Coach Biggie Munn directed to 26 victories out of 27 games.

After graduation, Weaver served in the Air Force and then returned to Michigan State as an assistant to Duffy Daughterty in 1956.

District 1-AA All-Star Team Picture Of Inconsistency

By BILL MCINTYRE
Shreveport Times
(Written for La. Sports Writers ASSN.

The seventy annual district 1-AA football squad can be cited as a model of inconsistency.

The five district coaches voting on the team placed a halfback at end; a center at tackle; a tackle at guard; a quarterback at halfback; and the No. 1 quarterback was in action for only half the season.

Springhill's Larry Sessions, listed as a halfback, was a slot-back in the Lumberjacks' wing-T formation and also played end on occassion. Thus he made the all-star squad as a flanker along with teammate Jimmy Lawrence.

North Caddo's Perry Reiley, the center moved to tackle, was a fulltime tackle in '58 and played that spot on defense this year when not snapping the ball on offense. Reiley moved in alongside Springhill's big Herbert Miller as a tackle.

North Caddo's Jerry Alredge, a regular tackle this fall, also saw spot service as guard and proved to be a stubborn linebacker on defense. Thus he joined the team at guard along with Minden's Malcolm Hodnett.

The pivot post was untampered with as Springhill's Rodney Benson dominated that position for the second straight year.

St. John's Herbie Smith, considered a regular quarterback all season, was placed on the team at a halfback berth because of his running prowess and breakaway speed. At halfback he was Thomas.

Rounding out the top eleven players were quarterback Bain Slack of Springhill — the loop's leading passer despite hobbling injuries - and fullback Bob Ashley of Minden.

Springhill, runnerup in the league race, monopolized the all-star roster with five players in Sessions, Lawrence, Miller, Benson and Slack. Champion Minden and North Caddo each grabbed off two spots — the Crimson Tide with Hodnett and Ashley, the Rebels with Reiley and Alredge. Homer and St. John's, finishing up in a three - way tie with North Caddo for third place, landed Thomas and Smith, respectively to give each of the five squads a voice on the squad.

Four of the current all-stars are repeaters from the 1958 eleven—Ashley, Thomas, Hodnett and Benson. And Thomas and Ashley wound up as the only unanimous selections on the all-senior team.

The average weight of the backfield is the smallest in north Louisiana history at 166 pounds and three of the ball carriers stand 5-10 and under.

Thomas, a 5-8, 170-pounder, captured the district scoring title with 119 points in just 9 games and 11 of his 18 TDs covered 30 yards or more. Against Homer's three biggest rivals — Ruston, Springhill and Minden — Thomas collected all 40 Pelican points.

The Homer ace averaged 4.5 while galloping for 927 yards. Although his rushing total fell almost 300 yards shy of his 1958 efforts, he increased his league-leading point production by five.

Ashley, back for his second straight all - star appearance, was 1-AA's top rusher of the season with 1,274 yards on 152 carries, an 8.4 average. And in scoring he amassed 79 points for runnerup honors in the circuit.

Ashley's 1,274 yards rushing was more than half of Minden's total of 2,378 yards gained through 11 games.

Smith opened the campaign as the St. John's quarterback but after four games he began commuting between that position and halfback. As a halfback he averaged 7 yards per try and on defense he was one of the area's top safetymen.

Herbie broke loose for eight touchdowns — including a 100-yard kickoff return against Mansfield and a 97 - fumble recovery against Cotton Valley — and for the season collected 61 points, third best in 1-AA.

Slack and teammate Lonnie Park ran one - two in the ballotting for the quarterback post. In his opening game Slack — who completed 93 of 158 passes in 1958 for 1,484 yards and 15 touchdowns — rifled 17 aerials against Haynesville and completed 10 for 133 yards.

But in the third game of the season against St. John's Slack had a leg banged up and was idled through four games. However, he returned and wound up the season with 19 connections on 32 attempts for 212 yards. His lone touchdown pitch was a 58 - yard strike to Sessions against unbeaten LaGrange of Lake Charles.

Sessions and Lawrence gave Springhill two 1-AA ends for the second consecutive year. As a slot - back in the wing - T, Sessions personally carried the ball for 262 yards; scored 9 TDs for 54 points (6 on pass catches;) and completed 2 of 7 passes himself. Lawrence caught three scoring passes for the season, including an 83 - yard connection against Bossier.

Both Miller, at 230-pounds, and Reiley at 210, give the 1-AA line size at tackle and Hodnett, a brutal 198 - pound blocker, was no midget at guard. Alredge and Benson both hit the scales in the vicinity of 175 pounds but their week - to - week performances made them big.

Voting on the team were coaches Alton Kelly of Minden, Joe Blaylock of Springhill, Ed Sigrist of North Caddo, C. O. Brocato of St. John's and Don Johnson of Homer.

Triple Main Attraction At B&B Monday

Six contestants in last week's eight-man tag team donnybrook return to the B&B Arena Monday night to fill a triple main event card.

China Mira opposes Cecile Blevins in the female segment of the evening's action while Chris Belkas meets Firpo Zybysko and state champion Mick Sharp squares off against the hoodless Black Panther to round out the attraction.

All three bouts have hour time limits and require two falls to win.

Sharp, who has had a steady stream of challengers for the championship in recent weeks, will keep the crown at least one more week since the title won't be at stake.

Belkas, a former champion before Sharp, probably came near a record for brevity here last week. The Golden Greek put on a whirlwind start to whip Zybysko in one minute flat with a couple of drop kicks.

Miss Mira and Miss Belvins are no strangers, having met here several times, and will renew a long-standing feud. Miss Blevins defeated Miss Mira in the final fall to win the tag match last week.

Neville Game Tickets Go On Sale Tuesday

Tickets sales for the Neville-football game to be played in Houma Friday night at 8:00 are scheduled to go on sale Tuesday morning in the Neville office, according to Sidney Seegers, NHS principal.

There will be a block of the stadium from the 35 to 35 reserved for Monroe fans who plan to attend the game. Therefore there will be no specific reserved seats, but a reserved section instead. Advance tickets for this block are $1.50 for adults and $2.00 at the game. Student tickets are 75 cents in advance and $1.00 at the gate.

There will be chartered buses for all those fans who wish to take advantage of this service. Call the Neville office for details Monday. The buses are expected to leave Neville Early Friday morning.

The reason the game will be played in Houma instead of Thibodaux is that the former's stadium holds 10,000 people, a considerbly greater number than could be seated at Thibodaux.

According to head coach Bill Ruple, the Neville football team will leave Thursday for Houma by chartered bus. The band and Tigerettes will depart by bus Friday morning.

Aaron Officially NL Batting King

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hammerin' Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, who led the National League batters from the opening week to the season's end, Saturday was crowned the official champion for 1959.

Aaron wound up with a .355 average to win the senior circuit title for the second time. The Braves' outfielder won his first crown in 1956 with a .328 mark. Joe Cunningham of St. Louis finished second with a .345 average last season, official averages released by National League headquarters disclosed.

Eddie Mathews, another Milwaukee slugger, edged Chicago's Ernie Banks for the home run championship. Mathews hit one in the final playoff game against Los Angeles, giving him 46. Banks had 45. Ernie led in 1958 with 47.

Banks, however, salvaged the 1959 runs batted in crown. He drove in 143 tallies, 14 more than his pace-setting total of 1958.

Aaron is only the third Braves' player to take batting honors in the modern era. The others were Rogers Hornsby in 1928 and Ernie Lombardi in 1942—when the Braves were still in Boston. Overall, Aaron pounded out 223 hits, including 46 doubles, 7 triples and 39 home runs.

Vada Pinson, Cincinnati's swift sophomore, came off with two high. He led in doubles with 47 and runs scored, 131. Charley Neal and Wally Moon of the pennant-winning Dodgers tied for the most triples, 11. Neal had the most sacrifice bunts, 21.

Willie Mays of San Francisco led in stolen bases for the fourth straight season, swiping 27. Johnny Temple of Cincinnati had the most sacrifice flies, 13.

Kenny Boyer, St. Louis' stellar third baseman, compiled the longest batting streak, 29 games.

Only 12 players among those eligible for the batting title with a minimum of 477 total appearances finished at .300 or better. In addition to Aaron and Cunningham they were: Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco, .317; Pinson, 316; Mays .313; Temple and teammate Frank Robinson, .311 each; Boyer, .309; Mathews, .306; Banks, .304; Moon and the Cards' Bill White, .302.

Cincinnati had the highest team batting average, .274 and Milwaukee hit the most homers, 177.

Tonight a million humans will have no place to sleep

In Hong Kong the lucky refugee youngsters may find a place to sleep in a hallway or on an open rooftop. In Calcutta, the haggard beggar woman may find rest in a dirty, crowded street. It's a staggering task merely to keep these people alive on an emergency basis, let alone improving their lot. But your own Faith's Religious Overseas Aid is doing more than its share to help. Why don't you give more than your share . . . now in this season of giving? Give now through your faith.

Doug Weaver Appointed To K-State Post

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Doug Weaver, first assistant football coach at the University of Missouri Saturday was named head grid coach at Kansas State University.

Selection of Weaver to succeed Bus Mertes was announced by the Kansas State Athletic Counci'.

His salary was not announced.

The council said Weaver would have complete freedom in the selection of four assistant coaches. Ed Bissinger, freshman coach, will remain in that post the council said.

Weaver is 29 and a graduate of Michigan State. He came to Missouri when Coach Dan Devine took over in 1958.

At Columbia, Mo., Coach Debine said he hated to lose Weaver, but would not stand in his way in taking the job.

Weaver is not expected to assume his duties here until after January 1, since the Missouri Tigers are being readied for the Orange Bowl game against Georgia on New Year's Day.

Weaver was graduated from Michigan State in 1953. He was a linebacker on the 1950-52 Spartan teams which Coach Biggie Munn directed to 26 victories out of 27 games.

After graduation, Weaver served in the Air Force and then returned to Michigan State as an assistant to Duffy Daughterty in 1956.

District 1-AA All-Star Team Picture Of Inconsistency

By BILL MCINTYRE
Shreveport Times
(Written for La. Sports Writers ASSN.

The five district coaches voting on the team placed a halfback at end; a center at tackle; a tackle at guard; a quarterback at halfbac'; and the No. 1 quarterback was in action for only half the season.

Springhill's Larry Sessions, listed as a halfback, was a slot-back in the Lumberjacks' wing-T formation and also played end on occassion. Thus he made the all-star squad as a flanker along with teammate Jimmy Lawrence.

North Caddo's Perry Reiley, the center moved to tackle, was a fulltime tackle in '58 and played that spot on defense this year when not snapping the ball on offense. Reiley moved in alongside Springhill's big Herbert Miller as a tackle.

North Caddo's Jerry Alredge, a regular tackle this fall, also saw spot service as guard and proved to be a stubborn linebacker on defense. Thus he joined the team at guard along with Minden's Malcolm Hodnett.

The pivot post was untampered with as Springhill's Rodney Benson dominated that position for the second straight year.

St. John's Herbie Smith, considered a regular quarterback all season, was placed on the team at a halfback berth because of his running prowess and breakaway speed. At halfback he was Thomas.

Rounding out the top eleven players were quarterback Bain Slack of Springhill — the loop's leading passer despite hobbling injuries - and fullback Bob Ashley of Minden.

Springhill, runnerup in the league race, monopolized the all-star roster with five players in Sessions, Lawrence, Miller, Benson and Slack. Champion Minden and North Caddo each grabbed off two spots — the Crimson Tide with Hodnett and Ashley, the Rebels with Reiley and Alredge. Homer and St. John's, finishing up in a three - way tie with North Caddo for third place, landed Thomas and Smith, respectively to give each of the five squads a voice on the squad.

Four of the current all-stars are repeaters from the 1958 eleven—Ashley, Thomas, Hodnett and Benson. And Thomas and Ashley wound up as the only unanimous selections on the all-senior team.

The average weight of the backfield is the smallest in north Louisiana history at 166 pounds and three of the ball carriers stand 5-10 and under.

Thomas, a 5-8, 170-pounder, captured the district scoring title with 119 points in just 9 games and 11 of his 18 TDs covered 30 yards or more. Against Homer's three biggest rivals — Ruston, Springhill and Minden — Thomas collected all 40 Pelican points.

The Homer ace averaged 4.5 while galloping for 927 yards. Although his rushing total fell almost 300 yards shy of his 1958 efforts, he increased his league-leading point production by five.

Ashley, back for his second straight all - star appearance, was 1-AA's top rusher of the season with 1,274 yards on 152 carries, an 8.4 average. And in scoring he amassed 79 points for runnerup honors in the circuit.

Ashley's 1,274 yards rushing was more than half of Minden's total of 2,378 yards gained through 11 games.

Smith opened the campaign as the St. John's quarterback but after four games he began commuting between that position and halfback. As a halfback he averaged 7 yards per try and on defense he was one of the area's top safetymen.

Herbie broke loose for eight touchdowns — including a 100-yard kickoff return against Mansfield and a 97 - fumble recovery against Cotton Valley — and for the season collected 61 points, third best in 1-AA.

Slack and teammate Lonnie Park ran one - two in the balloting for the quarterback post. In his opening game Slack — who completed 93 of 158 passes in 1958 for 1,484 yards and 15 touchdowns — rifled 17 aerials aginst Haynesville and completed 10 for 133 yards.

But in the third game of the season against St. John's Slack had a leg banged up and was idled through four games. However, he returned and wound up the season with 19 connections on 32 attempts for 212 yards. His lone touchdown pitch was a 58 - yard strike to Sessions against unbeaten LaGrange of Lake Charles.

Sessions and Lawrence gave Springhill two 1-AA ends for the second consecutive year. As a slot - back in the wing - T, Sessions personally carried the ball for 262 yards; scored 9 TDs for 54 points (6 on pass catches;) and completed 2 of 7 passes himself. Lawrence caught three scoring passes for the season, including an 83 - yard connection against Bossier.

Both Miller, at 230-pounds, and Reiley at 210, give the 1-AA line size at tackle and Hodnett, a brutal 198 - pound blocker, was no midget at guard. Alredge and Benson both hit the scales in the vicinity of 175 pounds but their week - to - week performances made them big.

Voting on the team were coaches Alton Kelly of Minden, Joe Blaylock of Springhill, Ed Sigrist of North Caddo, C. O. Brocato of St. John's and Don Johnson of Homer.

Triple Main Attraction At B&B Monday

Six contestants in last week's eight-man tag team donnybrook return to the B&B Arena Monday night to fill a triple main event card.

China Mira opposes Cecile Blevins in the female segment of the evening's action while Chris Belkas meets Firpo Zybysko and state champion Mick Sharp squares off against the hoodless Black Panther to round out the attraction.

All three bouts have hour time limits and require two falls to win.

Sharp, who has had a steady stream of challengers for the championship in recent weeks, will keep the crown at least one more week since the title won't be at stake.

Belkas, a former champion before Sharp, probably came near a record for brevity here last week. The Golden Greek put on a whirlwind start to whip Zybysko in one minute flat with a couple of drop kicks.

Miss Mira and Miss Belvins are no strangers, having met here several times, and will renew a long-standing feud. Miss Blevins defeated Miss Mira in the final fall to win the tag match last week.

Neville Game Tickets Go On Sale Tuesday

Tickets sales for the Neville-football game to be played in Houma Friday night at 8:00 are scheduled to go on sale Tuesday morning in the Neville office, according to Sidney Seegers, NHS principal.

There will be a block of the stadium from the 35 to 35 reserved for Monroe fans who plan to attend the game. Therefore there will be no specific reserved seats, but a reserved section instead. Advance tickets for this block are $1.50 for adults and $2.00 at the game. Student tickets are 75 cents in advance and $1.00 at the gate.

There will be chartered buses for all those fans who wish to take advantage of this service. Call the Neville office for details Monday. The buses are expected to leave Neville Early Friday morning.

The reason the game will be played in Houma instead of Thibodaux is that the former's stadium holds 10,000 people, a considerbly greater number than could be seated at Thibodaux.

According to head coach Bill Ruple, the Neville football team will leave Thursday for Houma by chartered bus. The band and Tigerettes will depart by bus Friday morning.

Aaron Officially NL Batting King

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hammerin' Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, who led the National League batters from the opening week to the season's end, Saturday was crowned the official champion for 1959.

Aaron wound up with a .355 average to win the senior circuit title for the second time. The Braves' outfielder won his first crown in 1956 with a .328 mark. Joe Cunningham of St. Louis finished second with a .345 average last season, official averages released by National League headquarters disclosed.

Eddie Mathews, another Milwaukee slugger, edged Chicago's Ernie Banks for the home run championship. Mathews hit one in the final playoff game against Los Angeles, giving him 46. Banks had 45. Ernie led in 1958 with 47.

Banks, however, salvaged the 1959 runs batted in crown. He drove in 143 tallies, 14 more than his pace-setting total of 1958.

Aaron is only the third Braves' player to take batting honors in the modern era. The others were Rogers Hornsby in 1928 and Ernie Lombardi in 1942—when the Braves were still in Boston. Overall, Aaron pounded out 223 hits, including 46 doubles, 7 triples and 39 home runs.

Vada Pinson, Cincinnati's swift sophomore, came off with two high. He led in doubles with 47 and runs scored, 131. Charley Neal and Wally Moon of the pennant-winning Dodgers tied for the most triples, 11. Neal had the most sacrifice bunts, 21.

Willie Mays of San Francisco led in stolen bases for the fourth straight season, swiping 27. Johnny Temple of Cincinnati had the most sacrifice flies, 13.

Kenny Boyer, St. Louis' stellar third baseman, compiled the longest batting streak, 29 games.

Only 12 players among those eligible for the batting title with a minimum of 477 total appearances finished at .300 or better. In addition to Aaron and Cunningham they were: Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco, .317; Pinson, 316; Mays .313; Temple and teammate Frank Robinson, .311 each; Boyer, .309; Mathews, .306; Banks, .304; Moon and the Cards' Bill White, .302.

Cincinnati had the highest team batting average, .274 and Milwaukee hit the most homers, 177.

Trade By Yanks Mystifies Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York press, accustomed to chiding the Yankees for their "steals" from the Kansas City Athletics, wondered in print Saturday whether club officials might have been goaded into their latest deal.

Commenting on the Yanks' acquisition of outfielder Roger Maris, shortstop Joe DeMaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley for outfielders Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern, pitcher Don Larsen and first baseman Marv Throneberry, Dan Daniel of the World Telegram & Sun wrote:

"Yankee fans today were mystified . . . The general opinion was that, failing to complete a single transaction in a field of great trading activity at Miami Beach, the general manager of the Bombers and Casey Stengel had been goaded into the deal.

"Local enthusiasts were delighted to see Maris . . . come to the Stadium. But they felt that far too much had been given for Roger."

The deal, 15th in an unbroken American League trading string with the A's since March 1955, was sure to "invite further attacks by Yankee haters all over the nation," Daniel wrote.

"I hope we haven't made a mistake," Manager Casey Stengel told Barney Kremenko of the Journal-American. "We gave up four good men. Three of them could play regularly for Kansas City."

Kremenko said there were indications other clubs were after Maris and as a result the Yankee bid had to be high.

Kremenko also referred to the Yanks' inability to close a deal at the Florida baseball meetings, quoting Stengel that "I was near five deals and blew them all."

New York baseball writers all returned from Florida quoting General Manager George Weiss as chagrined that he was unable to make a deal. The Yanks have been offering infielder Gil McDougald to the Milwaukee Braves as a solution to the Braves' second base problem in exchange for one or two Milwaukee pitchers. Warren Spahn and Bob Buhl were mentioned. The Yanks also have been reported after reliever Don Elston of the Chicago Cubs and earlier were said to be using third baseman Andy Carey and Bauer as bait.

The inter-league trading deadline is Tuesday at midnight. Intra-league trading is unrestricted until next June 15.

New Zealand Driver Wins Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Little-known Bruce McLaren of New Zealand scored a "gift" victory in the first U.S. Grand Prix Saturday when Australia's Jack Brabham's car ran out of gas on the last lap.

The quiet, young Aussie's car stopped as he wheeled into the last straightaway in front of the pack. He pushed it to the finish line to take fourth place as McLaren, only a few yards back, flashed past to win.

Both drove British Cooper Climaxes.

As it turned out, the half mile of pushing was unnecessary because the coveted world title virtually was handed to Brabham when his top challenger in the world rankings, Stirling Moss of London, was eliminated by a broken gear box on his Cooper on the fifth lap of the 41-lap test.

Moss needed a victory here while Brabham finished third or lower to overtake the Australian in the world standings.

The winning speed around the twisting, turning Sebring course was 98.63 miles an hour. The time was 2 hours, 12 minutes, 35.7 seconds

YANKS-A'S

Veeck Lambasts 'Closed Combine'

CHICAGO (AP) — Owner Bill Veeck of the pennant - winning Chicago White Sox Saturday blasted what he described as the "apparent closed combine" of the New York Yankees and the Kansas City A's in the American League.

Irked by Friday's seven-player deal between the Yankees and A's, Veeck told The Associated Press:

"I don't know whether there is any unusually close connection between those two clubs. But whether there is or not is immaterial because it appears there is.

"I would think for the good of public opinion, they would not have operated for some time—is this the 15th deal between them—as an apparent entry."

At Havana, General Manager Frank Lane of Cleveland noted it was the 15th Yank-A's deal since 1955. "It's legal but should cause some eybrow lifting," said Lane.

Veeck was quoted Friday night as saying there was an "unholy alliance" between the Yanks and the A's since Arnold Johnson has headed the Kansas City club.

Saturday, Veeck said the term of unholy alliance was "a little high class for me, I don't think I said that."

"The important thing," Veeck continued, "is that it appears on the surface, at least, that the two clubs are operating as a closed combine to deal with one another.

"This is a dangerous thing, public opinion-wise. The American League is supposed to be an eight-club league with the rights of clubs to deal freely among one another. But a two-club tieup puts 25 per cent of the players out of the reach of the other clubs.

"All this talk about nobody wanting to trade with the Yankees is wrong. I know Lane tried to deal with the Yankees at the recent major league meetings. Hank Greenberg of our club talked to George Weiss (Yankee general manager). Weiss said he'd talk to him later. Hank has yet to hear from the Yankees."

"As for the Athletics, only yesterday morning the Detroit Tigers tried to talk to Kansas City about Roger Maris but were told there could be no deal unless it included Harvey Kuenn."

Lane, in Havana, disclosed he tried to get Maris from the A's last week but was told the young outfielder could be had only for Kuenn. "You don't spell Kuenn 'Larsen,'" snapped Lane.

In the deal, the Yanks received Maris, infielder Joe DeMaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley and sent Larsen, outfielders Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern, and first baseman Marv Throneberry to Kansas City.

Veeck said he planned no official protest about "the strange coincidence of the Yankees getting the players they need from the A's."

Friday night, addressing a church group, Veeck said, "This kind of thing comes under the heading of conduct detrimental to baseball." He also hoped other club owners will try to stop these "brutal transactions."

Veeck said: "After the outbursts against the previous deal in which the A's traded Hector Lopez to the Yankees, I was hopeful that if the two clubs did not cease and desist their private trading, they at least would make some deals with somebody else."

Now, Veeck said, he feared that the A's Bud Daley might be next to go to New York. "The Yankees say they need a left-handed pitcher," quipped Veeck.

Conerly On Sporting News All-Pro Club

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Quarterbacks Charley Conerly of the New York Giants and Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts head the National Football League all-star offensive teams selected Saturday by The Sporting News.

The Giants staked out seven places on the offensive and defensive platoons selected by the weekly paper. The Colts won five positions on the Western squad.

Conerly was picked to quarterback the Eastern offense and Unitas the Western.

Joining Unitas in the Western backfield are J. D. Smith of the 49ers, Lenny More of the Colts and the Rams' Ollie Matson. The offensive line is made up of ends Ray Berry, Colts, and Del Shofner, Rams; tackles Jim Parker, Colts, and Forest Gregg, Packers; guards Bruce Bosley, 49ers, and Stan Jones, Bears; and center Jim Ringo, Packers.

Burrell Named Most Valuable In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — All-America guard Bill Burrell of Illinois, The Associated Press Lineman of the Year, Saturday was elected most valuable player to his team for 1959 in the Big Ten.

The Illini captain will receive the Silver Football Award annually presented by the Chicago Tribune since 1924. Burrell, brilliant on offense and defense, received more than half of the first place votes of the 23 electors.

The election board is made up of conference coaches, 10 veteran officials, Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson, David Condon, sports columnist for the Tribune, and Tribune Sports Editor Wilfrid Smith.

Burrell is the first lineman selected for the honor since Bob Wilson of Wisconsin was named 10 years ago.

Burrell was chosen from a list of most valuable players that included end Ted Aucreman of Indiana; end Don Norton, Iowa; end Tom Moe, Minnesota; end Jim Houston, Ohio State; and end Len Jardine, Purdue; guard Jerry Stalcup, Wisconsin; center Jim Andreotti, Northwestern, and backs Tony Rio of Michigan and Dean Look of Michigan State.

Lakers Dealt 20th Loss By Cincy, 107-97

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — High scoring Jack Twyman and Win Wilfong carried Cincinnati to a 107-97 victory over Minneapolis Saturday in a nationally televised National Basketball Assn. game.

Wilfong sank 4 of 4 free throws in the last two minutes to keep the Royals out in front. He finished with 16 points to be the third high Cincinnati scorer.

Hub Reed hit 17 for the Rolays, who picked up their ninth victory against 18 defeats.

Twyman hit 11 of 21 shots from the field and 15 out of 15 free throws.

Lambert Trophy To Syracuse

NEW YORK (AP) — Syracuse, the national major college football champion for 1959, will receive the Lambert Trophy Sunday at a reception at a midtown restaurant. The award is for Eastern college football supremacy.

Syracuse will be represented by Lew Andreas, athletic director; Coach Ben Schwartzwalder and Gerhard Schwedes, team captain and halfback. Dr. John A. Perkins, president; Dave Nelson, Athletic director and head coach, and Mark Hurm, captain and center, will represent Delaware.

Representatives of both colleges will be saluted on the Ed Sullivan television program (CBS).

PLACES NO LIMIT

Southwest Loop To Check Grants

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference found Saturday that athletic scholarships were being kept within reasonable bounds so placed no limit on them. But it was decided to maintain a close check.

Executive secretary Howard Grubbs will report at each winter meeting on the number of scholarships being carried in each sport, something he did at the winter meeting that closed here Saturday.

His study disclosed that the Southwest Conference schools average about 140 scholarships per year in all sports with 114 of them for football and basketball.

The conference wants to keep the scholarships within bounds both as economical and an equalization measure.

While the conference fathers—the faculty committee—went along with the athletic directors and coaches that they were not excessive in awarding athletic scholarships, they would not permit the football coaches to add two days to spring training.

The athletic officials had asked that the conference bring its spring training rule equal with that of the NCAA which allows 20 practice sessions in 36 days. Only 18 sessions in 28 days are allowed by the Southwest Conference.

The faculty committee took the view that the rule it already had was equal to that of the NCAA because the Southwest Conference specified "physical sessions" whereas the NCAA called only for "sessions."

A system of graduated penalties for rules violations was worked out by a committee at the spring meeting and this was up for action. But the faculty committee merely accepted the report and filed it for "future reference." Under the plan there would be graduated penalties for schools, coaches, students and the alumni.

The question of starting night football games at 7:30 o'clock instead of 8, as an aid to the press and to allow the fans to get home earlier, was passed over pending a survey by Grubbs of the radio interests.

Some of the schools had advocated that basketball receipts be divided rather than the home team keep all but the committee wouldn't take action at this time. Rather it appointed a committee to study the situation most schools with low attendance favor the plan.

Fighter Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Fullmer, NBA middleweight champion, Saturday was named boxer of the year for 1959 by the B'nai B'rith Sports Lodge of New York. Fullmer, from West Jordan, Utah, will be one of nine modern-day athletes honored at a dinner here Jan. 24.

Surprise – Snow Finally Falls At Squaw Valley

The barren hills and valley had caused concern to Olympic Games officials.

Hadley Eager For Shot At Short Fence

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Kent Hadley, New York's new first baseman, said Saturday he was eagerly looking forward to taking aim at the short right field fence in Yankee Stadium.

Hadley, who hit 10 homers and batted .253 in his rookie year with Kansas City last season, pointed out that the right field home run target in New York is 57 feet shorter than in the A's ball park (296 to 353). A left-handed hitter, Hadley said it had been his lifelong ambition to play for the Yanks.

The young first baseman, batting .259 for Estrellas de Oriente in the winter league here, was acquired in a seven player trade Friday. Roger Maris and Joe DeMaestri also moved to New York while Don Larsen, Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern and Marv Throneberry shifted to Kansas City.

Clemson Club Forced Indoors For Workout

The Tigers received a scout report on Texas Christian, their foe in the inaugural Bluebonnet Bowl game at Houston, next Saturday.

The team viewed movies of TCU games. When the rain cleared in the afternoon, the Tigers went outdoors for a signal drill.

The faculty committee took the view that the rule it already had was equal to that of the NCAA because the Southwest Conference specified "physical sessions" whereas the NCAA called only for "sessions."

A system of graduated penalties for rules violations was worked out by a committee at the spring meeting and this was up for action. But the faculty committee merely accepted the report and filed it for "future reference." Under the plan there would be graduated penalties for schools, coaches, students and the alumni.

The question of starting night football games at 7:30 o'clock instead of 8, as an aid to the press and to allow the fans to get home earlier, was passed over pending a survey by Grubbs of the radio interests.

Some of the schools had advocated that basketball receipts be divided rather than the home team keep all but the committee wouldn't take action at this time. Rather it appointed a committee to study the situation most schools with low attendance favor the plan.

Fighter Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Fullmer, NBA middleweight champion, Saturday was named boxer of the year for 1959 by the B'nai B'rith Sports Lodge of New York. Fullmer, from West Jordan, Utah, will be one of nine modern-day athletes honored at a dinner here Jan. 24.

Surprise – Snow Finally Falls At Squaw Valley

The barren hills and valley had caused concern to Olympic Games officials.

Hadley Eager For Shot At Short Fence

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Kent Hadley, New York's new first baseman, said Saturday he was eagerly looking forward to taking aim at the short right field fence in Yankee Stadium.

Hadley, who hit 10 homers and batted .253 in his rookie year with Kansas City last season, pointed out that the right field home run target in New York is 57 feet shorter than in the A's ball park (296 to 353). A left-handed hitter, Hadley said it had been his lifelong ambition to play for the Yanks.

The young first baseman, batting .259 for Estrellas de Oriente in the winter league here, was acquired in a seven player trade Friday. Roger Maris and Joe DeMaestri also moved to New York while Don Larsen, Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern and Marv Throneberry shifted to Kansas City.

Clemson Club Forced Indoors For Workout

The Tigers received a scout report on Texas Christian, their foe in the inaugural Bluebonnet Bowl game at Houston, next Saturday.

CLAIMS COLUMNIST

Trade By Yanks Mystifies Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York press, accustomed to chiding the Yankees for their "steals" from the Kansas City Athletics, wondered in print Saturday whether club officials might have been goaded into their latest deal.

Commenting on the Yanks' acquisition of outfielder Roger Maris, shortstop Joe DeMaestri and first baseman Kent Hadley for outfielders Hank Bauer and Norm Siebern, pitcher Don Larsen and first baseman Marv Throneberry, Dan Daniel of the World Telegram & Sun wrote:

"Yankee fans today were mystified . . . The general opinion was that, failing to complete a single transaction in a field of great trading activity at Miami Beach, the general manager of the Bombers and Casey Stengel had been goaded into the deal.

"Local enthusiasts were delighted to see Maris . . . come to the Stadium. But they felt that far too much had been given for Roger."

The deal, 15th in an unbroken American League trading string with the A's since March 1955, was sure to "invite further attacks by Yankee haters all over the nation," Daniel wrote.

"I hope we haven't made a mistake," Manager Casey Stengel told Barney Kremenko of the Journal-American. "We gave up four good men. Three of them could play regularly for Kansas City."

Kremenko said there were indications other clubs were after Maris and as a result the Yankee bid had to be high.

Kremenko also referred to the Yanks' inability to close a deal at the Florida baseball meetings, quoting Stengel that "I was near five deals and blew them all."

New York baseball writers all returned from Florida quoting General Manager George Weiss as chagrined that he was unable to make a deal. The Yanks have been offering infielder Gil McDougald to the Milwaukee Braves as a solution to the Braves' second base problem in exchange for one or two Milwaukee pitchers. Warren Spahn and Bob Buhl were mentioned. The Yanks also have been reported after reliever Don Elston of the Chicago Cubs and earlier were said to be using third baseman Andy Carey and Bauer as bait.

The inter-league trading deadline is Tuesday at midnight. Intra-league trading is unrestricted until next June 15.

All-Academic Squad Jibes With All-SEC

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Some of the stars on Southeastern Conference football teams are doing well by the school work too.

Evidence of this came today editors of the American Peoples Encyclopedia who released an All-SEC academic team. It includes 10 players on the All-SEC first and second football teams.

Conerly On Sporting News All-Pro Club

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Quarterbacks Charley Conerly of the New York Giants and Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts head the National Football League all-star offensive teams selected Saturday by The Sporting News.

The Giants staked out seven places on the offensive and defensive platoons selected by the weekly paper. The Colts won five positions on the Western squad.

Conerly was picked to quarterback the Eastern offense and Unitas the Western.

Joining Unitas in the Western backfield are J. D. Smith of the 49ers, Lenny More of the Colts and the Rams' Ollie Matson. The offensive line is made up of ends Ray Berry, Colts, and Del Shofner, Rams; tackles Jim Parker, Colts, and Forest Gregg, Packers; guards Bruce Bosley, 49ers, and Stan Jones, Bears; and center Jim Ringo, Packers.

The West's defensive platoon includes ends Gino Marchetti, Colts, and Doug Atkins, Bears; tackles Leo Nomellini, 49ers, and Dave Hanner, Packers

Burrell Named Most Valuable In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — All-America guard Bill Burrell of Illinois, The Associated Press Lineman of the Year, Saturday was elected most valuable player to his team for 1959 in the Big Ten.

The Illini captain will receive the Silver Football Award annually presented by the Chicago Tribune since 1924. Burrell, brilliant on offense and defense, received more than half of the first place votes of the 23 electors.

The election board is made up of conference coaches, 10 veteran officials, Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson, David Condon, sports columnist for the Tribune, and Tribune Sports Editor Wilfrid Smith.

Burrell is the first lineman selected for the honor since Bob Wilson of Wisconsin was named 10 years ago.

Burrell was chosen from a list of most valuable players that included end Ted Aucreman of Indiana; end Don Norton, Iowa; end Tom Moe, Minnesota; end Jim Houston, Ohio State; and end Len Jardine, Purdue; guard Jerry Stalcup, Wisconsin; center Jim Andreotti, Northwestern, and backs Tony Rio of Michigan and Dean Look of Michigan State.

New Zealand Driver Wins Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Little-known Bruce McLaren of New Zealand scored a "gift" victory in the first U.S. Grand Prix Saturday when Australia's Jack Brabham's car ran out of gas on the last lap.

The quiet, young Aussie's car stopped as he wheeled into the last straightaway in front of the pack. He pushed it to the finish line to take fourth place as McLaren, only a few yards back, flashed past to win.

Both drove British Cooper Climaxes.

As it turned out, the half mile of pushing was unnecessary because the coveted world title virtually was handed to Brabham when his top chellenger in the world rankings, Stirling Moss of London, was eliminated by a broken gear box on his Cooper on the fifth lap of the 41-lap test.

Moss needed a victory here while Brabham finished third or lower to overtake the Australian in the world standings.

The winning speed around the twisting, turning Sebring course was 98.83 miles an hour. The time was 2 hours, 12 minutes, 35.7 seconds

Miss Graham Weds Charles Brown In Jena

Miss Francis Alice Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wroe Graham of Nebo, became the bride of Charles Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Brown of Olla, at 7:30 in the evening On December 3. The Rev. D. K. Harris of Olla performed the double ring ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sassier in Jena.

Prior to the nuptials, Miss Janis Gwinn sang "Because."

The bride wore a two piece dress of navy wool with black accessories, and carried a white Bible topped with white "mums" and fern. Her only attendant, Mrs Wayne Sassier, was attired in a two piece blue wool with black accessories, and wore a corsage of white mums.

The bride's mother was in wine colored wool with matching accessories while the bridegroom's mother wore a green wool with a corsage of red carnations.

Attending the bridegroom was his brother, Ralph Brown of Georgetown.

Following the nuptials was the reception in the dining room of the Sassier home. The lace covered table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and fern. At one end was a tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom.

The crystal punch service was at the other end of the table. Serving the punch and cake were Mrs. Wayne Sassier and Mrs. Jimmie Barnes.

Miss Graham Weds Charles Brown In Jena

Miss Francis Alice Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wroe Graham of Nebo, became the bride of Charles Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Brown of Olla, at 7:30 in the evening On December 3. The Rev. D. K. Harris of Olla performed the double ring ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sassier in Jena.

Prior to the nuptials, Miss Janis Gwinn sang "Because."

The bride wore a two piece dress of navy wool with black accessories, and carried a white Bible topped with white "mums" and fern. Her only attendant, Mrs Wayne Sassier, was attired in a two piece blue wool with black accessories, and wore a corsage of white mums.

The bride's mother was in wine colored wool with matching acwhile the bridegroom's mother wore a green wool with a corsage of red carnations.

Attending the bridegroom was his brother, Ralph Brown of Georgetown.

Following the nuptials was the reception in the dining room of the Sassier home. The lace covered table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and fern. At one end was a tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom.

The crystal punch service was at the other end of the table. Serving the punch and cake were Mrs. Wayne Sassier and Mrs. Jimmie Barnes.

MRS. WILLIAM ROBERT HART

Fairbanks Church Scene Of Hart-Gunther Wedding

Miss Charlotte Ann Gunther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gunther of Fairbanks, became gunther of Fairbanks, became the bride of William Robert Hart son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Hart, of Shreveport in the Fairbanks Baptist church on Saturday, December 5. The Rev. Paul McComb performed the double ring ceremony.

Decorating the church were standards filled with white gladioli and fern. These were placed before a background of Southern smilax and magnolia leaves. White tapers burned in tall candelsticks.

As the guests were being seated by the ushers, Billy L Wallace, and Joe Stuart, a prenuptial concert was given by the organist, Mrs. Lee Morgan. She accompanied Bobby R. Hodnett as he sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

As she entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was wearing a waltz-length white lace gown fashioned with fitted bodice, sabrina neckline, and long pointed sleeves. Irridescent sequins and seed pearls outlined the pattern of the lace. The bouffant skirt of lace and net was accented with tiers of net ruffles cascading to the back hem. Her waist - length veil of nylon tulle fell from a coronet of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple-throated white orchid, feather carnations, and white satin streamers.

The bride's attendants were Miss Naomi Jane Gill, maid of honor, and Mrs. Albert Racer, matron of honor. They wore identical sheath dresses of ice blue satin brocade and their headdresses were flat bows of the same material. They wore short white gloves and ice blue pumps, and carried bouquets of large white chrysanthemums arranged with pompons.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Standards of white chrysanthemums and gladioli formed a background for the receiving line. Mrs. Gunther chose for her daughter's wedding a mauve brocade ensemble with matching shoes and hat. Mrs. Hart, mother of the groom, was wearing a Dior blue crepe gown with matching feathered hat. Both wore corsages of white chrysanthemums.

A crystal and silver epergne filled with white chrysanthemums centered the bride's table, which was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth. At one end of the table was placed the tiered cake, decorated in white and blue, which was served by Mrs. Herbert Frazier, aunt of the bride. At the other end of the table, Mrs. Bob Johnson served punch.

Before the young couple left on their wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride changed into a blue wool suit with mink collar. With this she wore a white hat and the orchid from her wedding bouquet. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hart will be making their home in Shreveport.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thompson and Wayne, from Calhoun; Mrs. Sherman Bowman, of King Ferry, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wallace, Mrs. Wayne Luther, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Michaelias, Miss Carolyn Sepulvado of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Allen of Pasadena, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mills and Cathy of Richardson, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Tucker of Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnson and Charles Lee of Little Rock, Arkansas; Jim Hart of Enid, Oklahoma.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — When Llewellyn Culbert discovered the record player he gave his wife for her birthday was not in working condition, he hastily demanded that a department repair the machine.

Repairs were made, but the only trouble, according to police, was that Culbert had stolen the machine from the store.

He was found guilty of theft.

Mrs. King, Mrs. Rubin Give Party Friday

Mrs. Frederic King and Mrs. Sam Rubin, Jr., entertained with a sherry party which was held in the King residence on Pargoud boulevard on Friday afternoon.

Golden holiday decorations were used throughout the reception suite. Focal point in the living room was the tall driftwood tree which was placed before the glass wall overlooking the patio. The tree was sprayed gold and filled with gold and white ornaments. A side table held a pyramid of golden roses.

The golden theme was carried into the dining room with a flat wreath of gilded magnolia leaves on the table. Standing in the center of the wreath was a tiered golden stand overflowing with gold balls and grapes. White candles in gold candlesticks completed the arrangement.

On the sideboard were three square gold candles of graduated heights, with gilded magnolia leaves used as the base. Completing the arrangement was a white sleigh filled with gold balls and pulled by tiny white reindeer.

About fifty ladies called between the hours of three and five Friday afternoon.

PUTTING last-minute touches on the driftwood tree as they await their guests are Mrs. Sam Rubin, Jr., and Mrs. Frederic King. They were hostesses at a sherry pary on Friday afternoon in the King residence.

Junior Charity League Has Ball At Paragon

The Paragon club was the scene of the Junior Charity League's Christmas ball on Saturday night. Silver and glittered greenery set the holiday theme in the decorations.

Silver Christmas trees alternating with bare branches hung with silver balls encircled the round dance floor. Three large nets held balloons which were released over the heads of the dancers.

During intermission hors d'oeuvres were served in the adjoining Jade room. The centerpiece on the refreshment table had been planned and executed by a committee from the past presidents of the League. Mrs. D. T. Milam, Mrs. J. L. Adams, and Mrs. Ray Rhymes served on this committee.

Individual white-covered tables surrounding the dance floor were centered with arrangements of styrafoam snowflakes, stars, and silvered pine branches.

Co-chairman of the decorating committee were Mrs. Don Giffen and Mrs. R. G. Hart, Jr., who were assisted by Mrs. Thomas Henry, Mrs. Charles E. Brown, Mrs. Jamar Adcock, Mrs. William E. Parker, Mrs. J A.. Faucett, Mrs. M. B. Gwin, Mrs. John B. Stoddard, and Mrs. John Kelso, Jr.

Mrs. William Dent served as general chairman of the dance. Assisting her were Mrs. Stanley Bagwell as ticket chairman, and Mrs. Herbert Land Jr., as reservations chairman.

Ted Weems and his band played for dancing from nine until one o'clock. Three hundred and eighty persons attended the ball.

Wrap wire coat hangers with red or green crepe paper. Attach three ribbon streamers and on these pin your Christmas cards for display.

Cox-Stephan Rites To Be In Troy, Alabama

MRS. WILLIAM ROBERT HART

Fairbanks Church Scene Of Hart-Gunther Wedding

Miss Charlotte Ann Gunther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gunther of Fairbanks, became gunther of Fairbanks, became the bride of William Robert Hart son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Hart, of Shreveport in the Fairbanks Baptist church on Saturday, December 5. The Rev. Paul McComb performed the double ring ceremony.

Decorating the church were standards filled with white gladioli and fern. These were placed before a background of Southern smilax and magnolia leaves. White tapers burned in tall candelsticks.

As the guests were being seated by the ushers, Billy L Wallace, and Joe Stuart, a prenuptial concert was given by the organist, Mrs. Lee Morgan. She accompanied Bobby R. Hodnett as he sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

As she entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was wearing a waltz-length white lace gown fashioned with fitted bodice, sabrina neckline, and long pointed sleeves. Irridescent sequins and seed pearls outlined the pattern of the lace. The bouffant skirt of lace and net was accented with tiers of net ruffles cascading to the back hem. Her waist - length veil of nylon tulle fell from a coronet of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple-throated white orchid, feather carnations, and white satin streamers.

The bride's attendants were Miss Naomi Jane Gill, maid of honor, and Mrs. Albert Racer, matron of honor. They wore identical sheath dresses of ice blue satin brocade and their headdresses were flat bows of the same material. Ah, and hasn't it been a lovely week for a clothes-watcher? There have been an unusual number of galas with the gentlemen in black tie and the ladies dressed accordingly.

Several hundred friends were invited to a pre-dance party given by the BILL DURRETTS, the PHIL ROSAMUNDS, and the STEWART SCOTTS before the Junior Charity League's Christmas ball last Saturday night. The party was held in the main dining room of the Paragon Club, which was decorated with specimen white chrysanthemums arranged with blue balls.

The CHARLES WHITAKERS invited twenty - two friends to drop by their home on Civic street before the Charity Ball. Virginia chose to wear a strapless white brocade dress with cummerbund of turquoise satin . . . Green lights were used on the steps and at the entrance leading to the living room, where a green, blue, and silver theme was carried out. On the mantel were green branches arranged with a snow man and snow scene. The mirror behind the arrangement also reflected silver snowflakes which were suspended from the ceiling. Magnolia leaves and blue balls centered the dining table.

Centering the dining table was a two - tiered gold container holding gold balls, white puffs, and gilded leaves . . . In the den, a tree of gold magnolia leaves and blue berries was espaliered against the brick wall. A driftwood tree trimmed with tiny blinking lights was placed on the buffet against the opposite wall. About fifty friends called between seven and nine.

Here last week end for the ball were the JOE POWELLS, former Monroyans who moved to Orange, Texas, early last summer. Their hosts, MILDRED and LEE VANDERPOOL, invited a group of their old friends over for a visit with the out-of-towners on Friday night. Mildred was wearing a beige organza shirtwaist. Mavis, the guest of honor, chose a dress of royal blue, fashioned with wool jersey bodice and chiffon skirt.

Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were used with greenery in the entrance and in the living room. In the den were twin arrangements of lemons and magnolia foliage.

Complementing the dining room decor was a centerpiece of roses in shades from palest pink to deepest rose, arranged in a crystal and silver epergne. A roast loin of beef au jus to be sliced for sandwiches was placed at one end of the table. A silver chafing dish held devilled oysters, and other delicacies included a cold lobster dip and cheeses.

The music was the thing at the Big Timer's winter formal at Bayou DeSiard Country Club Wednesday night. Freddy Martin and his orchestra — and we do mean orchestra — with strings, yet! With such music, one felt absolutely sinful sitting one out.

With all these opportunities, we have seen some of the loviest frocks ever . . . Red is always a popular holiday color. Some of the outstanding reds were JOYCE DEAN's satin, short in front and dipping to the heels in back . . . FRANCES ADCOCK'S red lace over white satin, worn with a full-length red satin coat . . . and LUCILLE HUNT, with a sassy bustle bow in back . . . With her red chiffon, HELEN EDWARDS was wearing an elegant rhinestone choker.

Like a Christmas doll was LOUISE SEYMOUR in a floating floor - length white formal . . . PETE KELLEY wore green taffeta, with a full skirt shirred in tiers . . . MARY LEE MILAM'S floor - length pale blue sheath was embroidered all over in matching braid . . . Black lace medallions trimmed bodice and hem of JEAN DICKENHORST's bouffant white organza . . . NANCY FLUKE'S chiffon was in lavender shading into deep purple . . . MARIE BERNSTEIN wore gold slippers with her white dress brocaded in gold . . . Most becoming was PAT RILEY'S green lace over blue satin . . . WAVA FRAZER'S white taffeta featured an intricately draped bustle-back.

Shades of beige and brown are very good this year. At the League ball, President JOAN SAGER was wearing beige lace with a tiered skirt and a green orchid corsage . . . Dance chairman CHARLOTTIE DENT chose a beige chiffon sheath embroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls . . . DOT AMMAN wore a dancing dress of brown lace over champagne satin . . . and a deep brown satin cummerbund was the accent on JOYCE SHURR's dress, fashioned with a skirt of beige lace ruffles.

Our own BETTY . HALE M'DADE is home for a visit from El Camp, Texas. With her three daughters, KAREN, PEGGY, and DONNA, she is the guest of her mother, MRS. ROY HALE, and her sister and family, the GARLAND HAMMONS . . . Last Friday morning MARY ALICE HUSTED and JUNE RUBIN honored Betty with a coffee party in the Husted home.

Fall flowers were used in the living - dining room. Centering the table were bronze chrysanthemums in a footed silver double compote. A tall brass candelabra wreathed in fruit was placed on the buffet. Food at this party was something special: miniature pizzas, little fried pies filled with mincemeat, tiny pecan pies. Jean Hammons poured coffee.

About twenty-five old friends of Betty's were invited to share this occasion. Out-of-town guests included SALLY M'SWEEN, who drove up from Alexandria, and PAT ELLIOT and MARGARET CLARK, who came from Lake Village, Ark. . . . Betty has also been guest of honor at several informal luncheons this week. Hostesses who have entertained have been PATSY PIPES, MOE CARTER, and JEAN GIFFEN.

The new home of the OSCAR HARRELLS will be the scene of a Christmas open house this afternoon. Friends are invited to call at 707 North Sixth street in West Monroe between the hours of three and six.

In her column on etiquette not too long ago, Emily Post stated "The only time I can think of when it is improper for a woman to wear gloves is when she is eating." Jane Merchant composed these lines in answer:

Read now the glad pronunciation,
The tidings of emancipation
From every lurking, nagging doubt
On when to wear, to go without Your gloves. You're socially correct.
Impeccable, should you elect
To wear them swimming 'mid the fishes,
Or bathing babies, drying dishes,
Or polishing your fingernails,
Or typing letters, robbing mails,
Or knifing foes. No brow will lift,
And no punctilious friend be miffed,
For all is proper etiquette
If, hand in glove, you haven't et.

Mrs. F. L. Smith Entertains Miro Club

The Miro Book club, a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, held their regular December meeting Monday at the Rendezvous, with Mrs. F. L. Smith as hostess.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, president, distributed the booklet, "The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Art" by John Canaday, Art Editor and critic of the New York Times. This is an essay designed to point out the basic things one should look for in order to appraise intelligently and fully appreciate whatever paintings we see. It is the first of a series of reference booklets in an educational program to be supplied free of cost to members as a service from the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Thomas Jett reviewed "Green Grows Ivy", and interesting account of the activities and experiences of Ivy Baker Priest who served as Treasurer of the United States.

Club members in attendance were - Mrs. Tidwell, Mrs. Jett, Mrs. A. V. Breard, Mrs. Horace Fluker, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Miss Catherine Livaudais, Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. George Temple and Mrs. Smith.

Wrapping paper, gift wrappings and paper ribbon can be reused if the wrinkles and creases are wiped with a damp sponge on the wrong side and the papers and ribbons are then ironed.

Catholic Newcomers Club Has Christmas Party

The Catholic Newcomers club officers were hostesses for the club's annual Christmas party given at St. Joseph's Hall on Saturday, December 5th at 8 p.m.

The long buffet table was appropriately decorated with a white tree dressed with red ornaments and beads. The red and white color scheme was carried out at the individual tables were tall white candles enhanced the Yuletide motif.

Dancing and games highlighted the evenings activities. The exchange of comical gifts added merriment to the occasion.

Those members present were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Blaes, Charles Cerise, George Collette, Earl Trabue, Cliff Paige, Don Warkin, Richard Yeager, Otis Jarnagin, Allan Brinkhaus, Jack Stephens, Jake Orr, W. L. Licht, Joe Reine, Joe Caulfield and their guests for the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vicknair and Mrs. Lauretta Stephens.

Mrs. Bill B. Boyer Wed In Crossett

The First Methodist Church of Crossett was the setting Friday evening, November 27th, for the marriage of Miss Laura Carlynne Booles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carlton Booles, and Bill B. Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Boyer, all of Crossett.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Luther Buckner, of Farmerville, Louisiana, before an altar decorated with standing baskets of yellow gladiola and fern, with branched candelabra holding lighted yellow tapers. Organist was Dwight Shelton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length dress with fitted bodice of imported lace with reimbroidered scallops edging the bateau neckline and wrist-length sleeves. A wide panel of lace fell down the front and back of the bouffant skirt of tulle. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a circlet of seed pearls and orange blossoms. A bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley was carried on her white prayer book.

Miss Judith Anita Booles, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Kay Johnson, Barbara Jane Roberts, Roxie Gale Brookings, and Virginia Ann Dawson of Bernice, Louisiana. They wore sheath dresses of cinnamon velvet with sashes of bronze peau de soie, which formed sashes in back with streamers to the street-length hems. Head dresses were bandeaus of the peau de soie, and they each carried three long-stemmed Talisman roses.

Frank Dolan served as best man, and ushers were Bobby Gibbs, Charles Wiggins, Teddy Huff, and Bobby Titus, of Monroe.

The mother of the bride was gowned in a sheath of beige embroidered cotton satin with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. The groom's mother wore a navy blue dress, with corsage of lavendar chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the wedding there was a reception in the home of the bride's parents. The serving table was covered with an Italian cutwork cloth, centered with a tiered wedding cake. Miniature yellow rose buds circled the crystal punch bowl. Assisting at the reception were Miss Margie Miles, who poured; Miss Cecelia Watson, who served cake; and Miss Libby Gibbs, who presided at the Bride's Book.

For travel the bride wore a moss green wool suit with fur collar and black accessories. Following a short wedding trip to New Orleans the couple will be at home in Crossett.

Out of town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robert Booles, of Ruston,; Miss Maxine Liggin, of Pineville, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Meek, and Susan and Sally Meek, of El Dorado, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Garland Dawson; Mrs. M. A. Liggin, with Maradee, Molly, and Jeanne Liggin, all of Bernice, La.; Mrs. Bob Titus, of Monroe, Don Williamson, of Hamburg, Ark.; and Mrs. Luther Buckner, of Farmerville, La.

Catholic Newcomers Club Has Christmas Party

The Catholic Newcomers club officers were hostesses for the club's annual Christmas party given at St. Joseph's Hall on Saturday, December 5th at 8 p.m.

The long buffet table was appropriately decorated with a white tree dressed with red ornaments and beads. The red and white color scheme was carried out at the individual tables were tall white candles enhanced the Yuletide motif.

Dancing and games highlighted the evenings activities. The exchange of comical gifts added merriment to the occasion.

Those members present were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Blaes, Charles Cerise; George Collette, Earl Trabue, Cliff Paige, Don Warkin, Richard Yeager, Otis Jarnagin, Allan Brinkhaus, Jack Stephens, Jake Orr, W. L. Licht, Joe Reine, Joe Caulfield and their guests for the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vicknair and Mrs. Lauretta Stephens.

Mrs. Bill B. Boyer Wed In Crossett

The First Methodist Church of Crossett was the setting Friday evening, November 27th, for the marriage of Miss Laura Carlynne Booles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carlton Booles, and Bill B. Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Boyer, all of Crossett.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Luther Buckner, of Farmerville, Louisiana, before an altar decorated with standing baskets of yellow gladiola and fern, with branched candelabra holding lighted yellow tapers. Organist was Dwight Shelton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length dress with fitted bodice of imported lace with reimbroidered scallops edging the bateau neckline and wrist-length sleeves. A wide panel of lace fell down the front and back of the bouffant skirt of tulle. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a circlet of seed pearls and orange blossoms. A bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley was carried on her white prayer book.

Miss Judith Anita Booles, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Kay Johnson, Barbara Jane Roberts, Roxie Gale Brookings, and Virginia Ann Dawson of Bernice, Louisiana. They wore sheath dresses of cinnamon velvet with sashes of bronze peau de soie, which formed sashes in back with streamers to the street-length hems. Head dresses were bandeaus of the peau de soie, and they each carried three long-stemmed Talisman roses.

Frank Dolan served as best man, and ushers were Bobby Gibbs, Charles Wiggins, Teddy Huff, and Bobby Titus, of Monroe.

The mother of the bride was gowned in a sheath of beige embroidered cotton satin with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. The groom's mother wore a navy blue dress, with corsage of lavendar chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the wedding there was a reception in the home of the bride's parents. The serving table was covered with an Italian cutwork cloth, centered with a tiered wedding cake. MISS LINDA ANN BROOKS — MISS SHARON BROOKS

The marriage of the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ricks of Swartz will be celebrated at a double wedding December 22. Miss Linda Ann Brooks will be wed to Raymond Parks, and Miss Sharon Brooks will become the bride of Eugene Berry. The Rev. Devere Sanson will officiate at the ceremonies at 7:30 in the evening at the Locharbor Baptist church in Swartz. A reception will follow at the home of the brides' parents.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH LESTER FINLEY of Crossett, Arkansas, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Marilyn Kay Finley, to Thomas Valentine Deckelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deckelman, of Hamburg, Arkansas. The bride-elect was a member of Phi Sigma Chi at Arkansas A. and M. Mr. Deckelman also attended Arkansas A. and M., where he was a member of Phi Lambda Chi. The wedding will be December 27 in the chapel of the First Baptist church in Crossett.

Miss Bouanchaud, Miles Pollard, Jr., Are Wed

Miss Marie Olivia Bouanchaud and Miles Pollard Jr. were united in marriage in the Trinity Episcopal church in Baton Rouge on the evening of November 28. The Rev. A. Stratton Lawrence officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Bouanchaud is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Oliver Bouanchaud of Baton Rouge, the former Miss Clara Averett of West Monroe. Her grandmother is Mrs. Sadie Averett of West Monroe. The groom is the son of O. M. Pollard Sr., and the late Mrs. Pollard of Baton Rouge.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Frank Collins played a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Richard Noren sang 'O Perfect Love" by Willan.

Escorted to the altar by her uncle, Warren McGee of West Monroe, the bride wore a gown of peau de soie and re-embroidered imported lace. The full skirt swept into a chapel train and was appliqued with medallions of lace. She wore a three-tiered veil of illusion attached to a small cap of matching lace studded with pearls. She carried a sheaf of camellias.

Miss Eugenia Maxon of Fort Walton, Fla., was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Patricia Ann and Margaret Ann Godfrey, and Miss Martha Jones of Shreveport. All wore floor-length princess gowns of opera green taffeta with a sabrina neckline featuring large rolled collars with trapeze skirts. Upon their heads were flat bows of the same material. They carried bouquets of rosebuds.

Mr. Pollard Sr. was best man for his son, while groomsmen were Buckner Harris Jr., E. K. Oswalt, Billy Howell Alexander from Picayune, Miss., Norman Saurage III of Lake Charles. Ushers were Bobby Welch and Henry Johnston of Jackson, La.

The little flower girl was the groom's sister, Debra Pollard and the ring bearer was his small brother, Jeffrey.

RECEPTION AT COUNTRY CLUB

For the reception which followed at the Baton Rouge Country Club, the bride's mother received wearing a blue lace gown with an orchid corsage. Mrs. O. M. Pollard Sr. assisted in receiving and wore a champagne and taupe gown. She, too, wore an orchid corsage.

Others assisting with hostess duties were Miss Katherine Averett, sister of Mrs. Bouanchaud, Mrs. Warren McGee, Mrs. William Mundinger, Mrs. Joseph Roubique, Mrs. James Godfrey, Mrs. Charles Myer, Mrs. Hamilton Crawford, Miss Katherine Crawford, Mrs. Theron Brown, Mrs. W. D. Wall III, Mrs. Arthur O'Quinn, Mrs. J. Roland Bouanchaud, Miss Nell Bouanchaud, Mrs. Oliver Smith, Miss Jeanette Bouanchaud, Mrs. L. W. Eaton Sr., Mrs. Marie Brown, Mrs. John Crosby, Mrs. James Madison Bouanchaud, Mrs. Lynn Sherill, Mrs. Douglas Warriner, Miss Adelle Sherrill, Miss Ann Warriner, Mrs. Ardley Smith, Mrs. Raymond Crosby.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore an original gray suit with gray accessories. Her hat was red and she wore a corsage of gardenias. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Baton Rouge.

The newly married Mrs. Pollard is a graduate of All Saints College in Vicksburg, having also attended University High School. She attended LSU where she was affiliated with Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Pollard, a graduate of University High, attended LSU and is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Highland Park Club Gives Holiday Party

Ladies who are members of the Thursday Bridge club of the Highland Park country club invited their husbands to a cocktail party in the lounge on Tuesday evening.

A gold and silver arrangement, centered with reindeer and pine cones was used on the buffet table. Hors d'oeuvres were served throughout the evening.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Copes, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blackmon, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Buce, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nolen, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davis, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wicks, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Orchard, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rizzo, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Lobrano, and Coleman Hudson.

Several interesting gift papers have been reproduced from full-color photographs. On eportrays Christmas trees and Santas smartly formed of paper sculpture and lavishly decorated with gold lace.

Perhaps you can't turn lead into gold as alchemists once claimed to do, but you can turn ordinary string or twine into a beautiful gold cord for wrapping gifts. Put the desired amount of string in a bottle of quick drying gold (or platinum) paint and shake well. Remove the string carefully and spread out on a newspaper. It will dry in a few seconds and be ready to use.

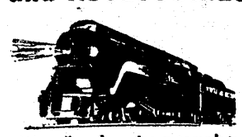

The warmth and informality of a water color painting has been used to interpret a rural scene symbolic of the Christmas celebrations of old, according to the stylist.

Foil papers lend a rich, often luminescent flavor to other designs. Bronzed foils, as well as papers in other metallic shades, stand out among the stylish new offerings.

Delta Kappa Gamma Meets At Frances Hotel

The two Ouachita Parish Chapters of the Delta Kappa Gamma society, Eta and Alpha Nu, held a joint meeting for December at the Mirror Room of the Frances Hotel. Hostesses from Eta Chapter were Mrs. Eloise Slater, Chairman, Mrs. Evelyn Barnes, Mrs. Louise Gray Lemert, Mrs. Eula Pearl Montgomery, Miss Betty Oxford, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, Mrs. Ruby Ball, Miss Josephine McCranie, Mrs. Birdie Mae Mulhern, Mrs. George Riser, Miss Mary Alma Tompkins and Miss Annie Windes.

The first event of the evening was the initiation of seven new members. The three new members initiated into Eta Chapter were Mrs. Maude Merritt Bentrup, Mrs. Olive Lee Cochran and Mrs. Melba Sims Odom. Those initiated into Alpha Nu Chapter were Mrs. Virginia Christmas, Miss Cliffie Olmstead, Mrs. Ruby Pinton and Mrs. Jane Hayden.

Taking part in the initiation rites were Miss Mabel Lann, President of Eta; Miss Eleona Brinsmaid, President of Alpha Nu; and Mrs. Alfred Reid, Miss Frances Wilson and Mrs. Malcolm Le Fevre, all members of Eta Chapter.

After the initiation the hostess invited everyone into the dining room where the tables were beautifully decorated for the Christmas season. Miss Frances Flanders of Eta Chapter told a Christmas story, "The man who missed Christmas" by Coningsby Dawson. It is a story which helps restore the true meaning of Christmas. The guests then were served Christmas dinner, after which a short business meeting was held.

Members of Eta Chapter present for this lovely occasion were: Mrs. Ruby C. Ball, Mrs. Evelyn Barnes, Miss Harriett Boyle, Miss Eloise Cann, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Miss Kathryn Douciere, Mrs. Paul Fink, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. George Guier, Mrs. W. R. Hammond, Mrs. Sara W. Hollingsworth, Miss Sallie Humble, Miss Marianna Johnson, Miss Mabel Lann, Miss Gladys Latham, Mrs. Malcolm Lefevre, Miss Rosa Belle McDonald, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Mrs. Eula Pearl Montgomery, Mrs. Birdie Mae Mulhern, Miss Betty Oxford, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. Alfred Reid, Mrs. George Riser, Mrs. Dora Mae Schultz, Miss Ruth Simmons, Mrs. Nell Sims, Mrs. Eloise Slater, Miss Anne Smith, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, Miss Mary Alma Tompkins, Mrs. Marguerite Vincent, Mrs. Gladys Ward, Mrs. Lucille C. Wilkins, Mrs. Howard Willard, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Annie Windes, Mrs. Carl McHenry, Mrs. Wayne Gray. Mrs Mark Price, Jr. who has just transferred to Eta Chapter, was welcomed as a new member.

Members of Alpha Nu present were: Miss Eleona Brinsmaid, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Miss Geneve Castles, Mrs. Fay Wilson, Mrs. Eunice Dunn, Mrs. Oberah Fisher, Mrs. Ida Lee Wilbert Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. W. E. Leigh and Mrs. William B. Bottorff.

MISS GAYLE LOUISE HOGAN

Miss Hogan, Mr. Head To Be Married In January

The Oak Grove Baptist Church will be the scene on January 30 of the marriage of Miss Gayle Louise Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Herman Hogan, and Carroll Dean Head, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Arnold Head of Oak Grove. The Rev. J. D. Cheatham will officiate at the ceremony.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sherrard of West Monroe and of Mr.a nd Mrs. F. E. Hogan of Oak Ridge. She is a senior at Louisiana Tech, where her sorority is Sigma Kappa.

Mr. Head's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mills of Lake Providence, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. T. I. Head of Pioneer. He is presently a student at the graduate school of Louisiana Tech in Ruston, where the couple will be making their home.

Bob Hope Set For Christmas Show In Alaska

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope will leave Dec. 20 for Alaska and his eighth Christmas appearance before the nation's armed forces.

Hope has appeared at bases from the Pacific during World War II to Greenland, Iceland, Europe and Africa during holiday seasons.

While in Alaska he will film his Jan. 13 television show for the National Broadcasting Co. At one point in his Alaskan tour he will reach a place only 48 hours from Russian Siberia.

DIET FOR OYSTERS

GLOUCESTER POINT, Va. (AP) — There is a pampered group of oysters here and another group not so pampered.

One group gets 12 quarts of salt water per minute and the other four quarts. The object is to see if oysters gain weight and get fat faster in swift or slow currents.

The Virginia Fisheries Laboratory wants to know what makes an oyster fat.

Mrs. Pomeroy Hostess For Welcome Club

The December meeting of the Welcome Book Club was held in the home of Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy, 1303 Speed Drive. Red candles in brass candle sticks with red holly were used in the entrance hall.

A manager scene and display of religious Christmas cards dominated the family room. Silver and pink candle arrangements were used in the living room.

Mrs. E. A. Porter, president, presided during the business meeting. Members voted to send cookies and gifts for the annual Christmas party of the Veterans Hospital Alexandria, La.

A program of Christmas music was given by Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Anspach. Mrs. Ben R. Oliphant reviewed "The Southern Christmas Book" by Harnett Kane.

Refreshments were served from the tea table decorated with a gold and white pyramid arrangement of white angels and candles with gold foliage.

Members attending were: Mrs. L. F. Bewick Mrs. F. E.u Mrs. L. F. Bewick, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. O. O. Cummings, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. A. S. To every DAD in town!

Say Dad, here's a deal: you can give your home and family the finest gift of all this Christmas and it will only take about five minutes of your time.

The answer is simple—give CARPET. Just stop in tomorrow and arrange to give a Masland carpet gift certificate—let the family choose the Masland broadloom carpet they like best from a host of gay Masland colors and exciting new textures. You can begin a "lay-away" plan right now with small monthly payments and take up to three full years to pay. Yes, Dad, this is a deal that will make this your best Christmas ever and make you the best Dad in town!

"And Remember... if it's MASLAND... it's MOTHPROOF!"

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the engagement of Miss Joan Elizabeth Heaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Heaney of Queen's Village, New York, to Lt. John R. Lowry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Lowry of Winnsboro. Miss Heaney, a graduate of the State University of New York, is now teaching at Kindley Air Force Base in Bermuda. Lt. Lowry received a degree in Chemical Engineering from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and is now an aircraft maintenance officer at Kindley Air Force base. A February wedding is planned.

PICTURED IS MRS. GLYNN LAVAUGH JOHNSTON whose marriage was solemnized Saturday night in Downsville. The bride is the former Miss Phyllis Delores Tidwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Tidwell of Downsville. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Johnston of Marion. The young couple will be living in Marion after their return from their wedding trip.

Girl Scout News

With the spirit of Christmas working everywhere, we are sure that Scout troops are no exception, that surprises, gifts, parties, and service projects are important activities with them.

Lots of secrets in the air!

For several weeks we have planned to use Troop 22's investiture in the news. This troop of third and fourth graders is the first Brownie group ever to be organized at Ransom School, although there was quite an active Intermediate troop several years ago. We probably mentioned that the troop was being started, but there is more to organizing a troop than that. The support of parents has to be assured, leadership provided, training taken, and the girls themselves have to attend at least four meetings, during which they are learning about Brownies. When every girl and adult has paid for national registration fee and the forms have reached the local office, the troop plans an investiture ceremony. It is not until then that a girl may wear a uniform and at that time she receives her pin and her membership card.

Mrs. N. B. Thurmond, who served last year as assistant leader of Troop 85 at Mitchell School, brought her enthusiasm for Scouting to Ransom when her daughter transferred. She secured the help of Mrs. Jewel Wilcockson as assistant leader and the backing of a troop committee, composed of Mrs. J. W. Hogan, Mr. J. W. Wilters, ndET gan, Mr. J. W. Walters, and Mrs. C. S. Netherland.

For their investiture, held early in the evening at the school cafeteria, the troop set a record of some sort; every girl had at least one parent present, and the leader and girls were all in uniform. Each new Brownie Scout made her promise, "I promise to do my best to love God and my country, to help other people every day, especially those at home."

Afterward, there was a chance for parents to get acquainted while the girls acted as hostesses, serving punch and cookies they had made. The guests enjoyed hearing the girls tell of fun they had already had in Scouting, including their adventures at Pine Wood on playday.

Most young girls like to cook, if Mother will let them, and they all like to eat, so we can imagine their "sampling" meeting was great fun. The girls made ginger bread at home and each brought a piece to a meeting for the others to taste and compare with her own. Best of all, each mother reported that her daughter had left the kitchen clean after her cooking. That's the Brownie magic at work!

Off to a good start in Scouting are the following girls of the troop: Patricia Adams, Karen Brown, Donna Dunn, Sharon Evans, Cheryl Griggs, Dianne Hinton, Linda Hogan, Kathy Knox, Sharon Lee, Cathy Lewis, Vickie McDuffie, Linda Netherland, Merrill Netherland, Glenda Shamburger, Sue Smith, Angela Soignier, Patsy Spillers, Jan Thurmond, Judy Wilcockson. congratulations, and may you have many years of progressive activities ahead of you!

When we mentioned the Thanksgiving service project of Toop 10 we somehow failed to mention that it was a joint project with Troop 41, the third grade group at Highland School, whose leaders are Mrs. Alvin Arledge and Mrs. Billy Johnson. We are glad to see girls learning the importance of doing small acts of service that make life brighter for others and bring happiness to the doers, too.

NAVY INSURED

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska's mythical navy, manned by nothing but admirals, is now insured against sinking, collision, fallout, icebergs and stray whales.

The insurance policy, 2 by 4 feet, was presented to Gov. Ralph Brooks by the Nebraska insurance industry.

Governors have been presenting "admiral" commissions to officials, friends, distinguished visitors and local heroes for the past 28 years.

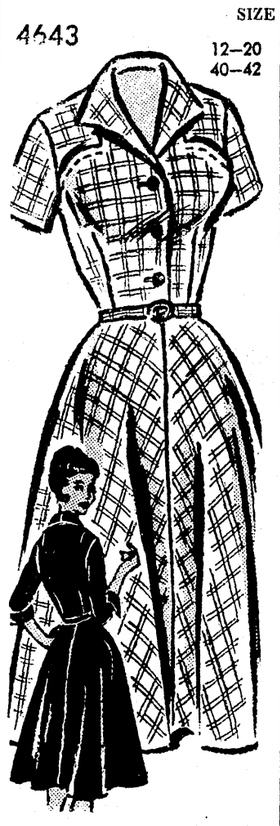

SLICK SALESMAN

COVENTRY, Conn. (AP) —The neat young fellow with a suitcase identified himself as a door-to-door salesman. But when he got his foot in the door of the home, the truth came out. He was a state policeman out to make a gambling arrest in the home. The trick worked.

HAND IN THE DOOR

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — It was late at night, the buses had stopped running and, to be on the safe side, Mrs. Marian Hall asked two policemen to drive her home. As she got out of their cruiser she slammed the door on her own hand and had to have it treated at a hospital.

MISS MELVA JEAN FULLER, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Bobby David Gilbert, formerly of Damascus, Georgia, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Fuller of Start. He is the son of Mrs. Eunice Terry of Lakeland, Florida, and the late Bobby Lee Gilbert of Damascus. The wedding is planned for three o'clock in the afternoon of December 20, with the Rev. J. S. Deal officiating.

Monroe Garden Club Has Program By Judges

"Harvest from the Past" was the theme of the December meeting of the Monroe Garden club on Monday. The program consisted of interpretations from the club's judges, Mrs. Parker Colvin, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. Norman Jardine, and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie.

Mrs. Jamar Adcock, president, presided over the meeting, which was held in the ballroom of the Paragon club. Following the brief business meeting, the program was given, with the judges explaining their arrangements to the group.

Mrs. Golson, whose category was decorations for children's festivities, did several variations of sugar plum trees. One stylized tree was completely covered with Santa figurines and Christmas corsages which were designed to be removed and given to the guests. Another tree was filled with tiny angels and candles swinging from the bare branches. Apples and berries used with magnolia leaves around a red candle formed an edible centerpiece. Dyed egg shells filled with miniature ornaments and Santas hung in still another tree arrangement.

Madonnas were used several ways by Mrs. Colvin. A golden madonna with gold balls and gold-dipped eucalyptus in a golden bowl made an effective one-color interpretation. Blue angel hair formed the base for a blue madonna backed by gold-sprayed branches, cattails wrapped in gold foil, and gold balls. With a white madonna, Mrs. Colvin used a Hogarth curve of gold rope with white calla lilies on a black base.

For a modern placement, Mrs. Colvin used a black branch hung with pink carnations and centered with gold balls. Pink and gold balls and gold leaves encircled the base of the branch.

With a pink madonna, Mrs. Jardine arranged a crescent of greenery accented with white carnations. Nandina was the base for a figurine of St. Francis encircled by his birds and tiny animals.

The centerpiece for the club's twenty-fifth anniversary was done by Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Sr., in all white and silver. A branched silver candlestick was used on the white cut-work cloth. Flowers entwined in the candlestick were white Fuji mums and holly sprayed silver. Names of charter members of the club were painted in silver on a white scroll.

Chairman of the hostesses for this meeting was Mrs. Ted Allen assisted by Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr.

Speaks To Neville FHA

The Neville chapter of the Future Homemakers of America held its December business meeting at the school. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Miss Penny Dean. The order of business was postponed until after the program.

The guest speaker was Mrs. B. A. Walker, Mrs. Walker demonstrated different ways to perk up your Christmas gifts. She told the group of many ideas to use for Christmas wrappings for the approaching holiday season.

Plans for the State F.H.A. Convention were told to the group. The convention was held in Alexandria on December 4-5. Delegates to this meeting were as follows: Misses Mickey Shaughnessy, Mary Lynn Armstrong, and Nancy Noland. The group was accompanied by the F.H.A. sponsor, Mrs. Daisy Daniels.

Home Gardener Club Holds Dinner Meet

The December meeting of the Home Gardener club was a dinner in a local hotel. Christmas decorations were used in the banquet room, with candles and greenery on the mantel and mistletoe hanging from the chandelier. On a side table was a figure of St. Francis and his birds. The main dining table was centered with an arrangement of red striped candy canes used with pine cones, greenery, and reindeer. Red and silver net trees were placed the length of the table, and miniature Santas were the favors at each plate.

Mrs. M. W. Montgomery welcomed the members and guest to this annual affair. After a traditional Christmas dinner was served. Charles Wood was master of ceremonies. He introduced Veo Gray, who led the members and visitors in singing Christmas Carols. Ronnie Brothers accompanied him. Mr. Gray also played several numbers on his cornet and then sang "Grandma" and "Bless this House."

Using as their theme "Symbols of tradition in keeping Christmas," Mrs. Georgie Williams gave an interesting talk on the origin of evergreens and mistletoe used at Christmas; Mrs. S. W. Raby, the origin of the use of the Madonna and the statue of Saint Francis at Christmas; Mrs. T. L. Firnbeerg, the symbols of candles, bells, Christmas trees, and reindeers; and Mrs. W. R. Mosley, keeping Christmas.

Members and guest enjoying this festive affair were: Mrs. Alice David, Mrs. M. M. DeWees, Miss Norma Duty, Mrs. W. B. Evans, Mrs. Firnberg, Mrs. J. A. Funston, Mrs. L. R. Harrison, Mrs. E. M. Henderson, Mrs. M. J. Hortman, Mrs. Lucy Mason, Mrs. A. F. McMullen, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mrs. Moseley, Mrs. H. E. Munholland, Mrs. C. H. Osborne, Mrs. Frank Pettit, Mrs. Raby, Mrs. V. A. Randall, Mrs. J. O. Rhodes, Mrs. J. M. Smith, Mrs. W. H. Steen, Mrs. A. A. Tarpley, Mrs. John Varner, Mrs. J. W. Webster, Sr., Mrs. G. C. Williams, Mrs. Georgie Willias, Mrs. Armand Wroten, Mrs. K. R. Young, Miss Pearl LeFevre, Mrs. Aline Banister, Mrs. Katherine Averett, Mr. Wood Mr. Gray and Mr. Brothers.

Hostess for the evening were Mrs. Hortman, Mrs. G. C. Williams, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Georgia Williams, and Mrs. McMullen.

Card Sending Custom Spreads In 100 Years

For a custom that is so well-established, that of exchanging yuletide greetings, is amazingly new — just over a century old—for it was in 1843 that the first Christmas card was published, in England. Since then, the sending of Christmas cards has become almost universal, Although in some lands greetings are sent on New Year's Day instead of December 25.

Sir Henry Cole, an Englishman, created the first Christmas car, in 1843. Cole had 1,000 cards designed with the greeting, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You." The card shows a friendly family party in progress; the olders with raised wine glasses in a toast to the person receiving the card. Although Cole was hailed for his idea in inventing the Christmas card, and eventually was knighted, his greeting met with severe criticism because it showed children at the same table with the wine drinkers.

Another early Christmas card was designed by William Maw Egley, of England, in 1848, also showing people in seasonal activities. Included are a family dinner in an elaborate dining hall, a young lady writing a Christmas letter, a young man reading, and other persons dancing, skating and feeding the needy.

Early publishers, meeting demands of time, often included mistletoe decorations and sprigs on their cards. The first cards were unfolded pasteboards printed in color. Later, in the 1850s and 1860s, cards were die-stamped with designs combining ornaments and lettering.

"Father Christmas," the English equivalent of Santa Claus, early became a favorite decoration for Christmas cards. Flowers, especially the red rose and poinsettias, Holly, birds and animals were also widely used, possibly because of the brilliant coloring they offered. The traditional Christmas colors — red and green —were widely used from the start.

There were few religious scenes on early cards. They were not widely used until Christmas cards were printed in America by Louis Prang who is credited with being "the father of the American Christmas card." He began making Christmas cards in Boston in 1875, and sponsored art competitions to obtain his card designs.

Christmas cards, much as they are known today, began replacing the post card around 1915. Yuletide greetings of the 1920s were heavily sentimental —such as this card of 1924 that featured a verse that began:

"There are friends we meet as we journey along
"who like ships that pass in the night
"We meet one day and they drift away
"Silently out of sight....."

By 1931, Christmas greetings more closely resembled the cards of today. In that era, Christmas cards also reflected the depression and prohibition. A 1932 greeting noted:

"In this year of Readjustment,
"Quite the best that I can send;
"Is this wish — a Merry Christmas.
From a poor but honest friend."

The years of World War II brought patriotic cards, popular for servicemen overseas. Old Glory, eagles, warplanes and military insignia were depicted. Significantly, perhaps, cards with religious themes also were more popular in wartime.

In recent years, the works of world-famed personalities, including such artists as Sir Winston Churchill and Norman Rockwell and such writers as Ogden Nash and Norman Vincent Peals have proved popular as yuletied greetings.

MRS. OSCAR MORGAN CRAWFORD, JR., whose marriage on December 5 in announced today. The bride is the former Miss Charlotte Whittington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade F. Whittington of West Monroe. Mr. Crawford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Crawford, Sr., of West Monroe. The bride is a student at Northeast State college, while the groom attends Louisiana Tech.

Found: At Last— What To Give Those Who Have

NEW YORK (UPI) — Found, at last: An answer to the perennial Christmas question of what to give the person who already has everything.

It turns out that it doesn't really matter much what it is. It can be big, different expensive or absolutely worthless. But it must be a conversation piece.

That's the advice given in a new holiday volume titled "The Complete Christmas Book," edited by Franklin Watts, which aims to solve just about every Yuletide problem a person can imagine.

One of the key sections is titled "giving to the people who have everything."

Here's what is recommended:

—Get something you have never seen before but that you have heard people discussing.

—Give the biggest of anything — the biggest paper clip, the biggest straw bag or straw hat, the biggest decanter or the biggest scarf or apron.

—Give a humorous gift, such as an apothecary jar crammed with 1,000 aspirin tablets or indigestion pills—or whatever you think might amuse a harrassed executive.

—Give the most expensive of anything — a single cake of a costly soap, a solid gold house key or some similar token of your esteem.

— Give a nostalic gift — an old book, an old play poster, or penny candy in a jar.

HELP CAME

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — When Policeman J. Waverley Applewhite wounded himself with a pistol while target practicing, his greatest worry was about six acres of corn ready for harvest.

A Boy Scout troop offered to pick it on a Saturday. A man offered a tractor and farm wagon and a member of Chesterfield County's board of supervisors brought over a mechanical corn picker.

Slator Home Scene Of B&PW Holiday Party

The home of Mrs. Laura Slator was the setting for the annual Business and Professional Women's club's Christmas party, on Tuesday evening.

The house was aglow with Christmas decorations. On a white brick mantle, reflected in a large gold framed mirror, was a scene of the "Carolers". Behind the figurines was an arrangement of star Christmas lights in a candle holder. On a chest by the folding doors was an arrangement of the "Nativity Scene" flanked by green boughs and red candles. Near the entrance was a large cranberry glass pitcher filled with red berries and greenery.

In the dining room, the buffet was centered with a wreath formed of gold fruit, pine cones, and flowers. Tall red tapers glowed within the wreath. The tea table was covered with a white lace cloth with a small green traditional Christmas tree and red tapers. Christmas carols played softly as Mrs. Slator greeted guests at the door, and Mrs. Helen Trichel took each guest's gift and put it under the tree.

Mrs. Trichel was in charge of the program, and introduced Bill Haddad of Northeast Louisiana State College who gave a humorous reading entitled "What is a Boy". Miss Charlene Carriero, also a college student, gave a reading entitled "If He Had Not Come," by Nan Weeks from God and The Fine Arts. Mr. Haddad then gave "There Is A Santa Claus" the famous answer of Mr. Frank P. Church to a little girl who wrote a letter to the New York Telegraph asking if there was a Santa Claus.

Mrs. Nelwyn Hollyfield led the group in singing traditional carols and afterwards the group thanked Mrs. Slator for her hospitality by singing "She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Coordinated styling is the latest word this year in Christmas gift wraps, as well as in fashions.

Perhaps the most eye-catching of all the styling touches in a new series of "sparkling" gift wraps, Miss King said. Trees, winter vistas and geometric designs are executed in glittering silver against backgrounds of contrasting color.

After Christmas gifts were exchanged, members and guests were invited into the dining room where a buffet was served. Mrs. Lucille Mathis served the salad, Mrs. Ruby McElroy served the meat, and Mrs. Alice Baur presided at the tea service.

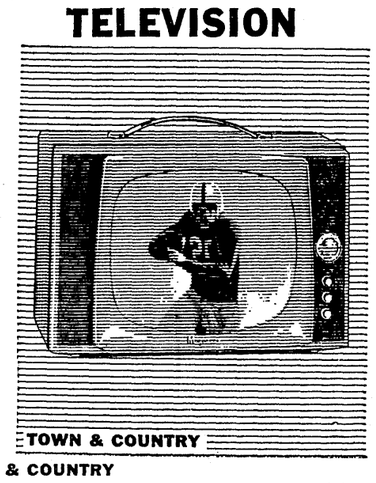

Hostesses for the occasion were the officers of the club and special committee chairmen, Mrs. Billie Harrell, Mrs. McElroy, Mrs. Carice King, Mrs. Mathis, Mrs. Trichel, Mrs. Marguerite Meek, Mrs. Slator, Mrs. Gladys Miles, and Miss Baur.

Members attending were Miss Baur, Mrs. Lela K. Breard, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux, Mrs. India Calder, Mrs. Opal Creasy, Mrs. Arrah Culver, Miss Alberta D'Amico, Mrs. Johnnie Elbert, Mrs. Inas Gwin, Mrs. Billie Harrell, Mrs. Lois Harrell, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Kathryn Higgins, Mrs. Madeline Hirsch, Mrs. Nelwyn Hollyfield, Miss Maibel Hood, Mrs. Carice King, Mrs. Agnes Krogmire, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Mrs. Rubie McElroy, Mrs. Lucille Mathis, Mrs. Meek, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. Mae Modes, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Bettie Oxford, Mrs. Myrtle Porter, Mrs. Florence Powers, Mrs. Eunice Skroggs, Mrs. Flora Seaman, Mrs. Bessie Skinner, Mrs. Laura Slator, Miss Elizabeth Stenberg, Miss Lula Swinson, Mrs. Inez Tayler, Mrs. Trichel, Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, Miss Ruth Whatley, Mrs. Ava White, Mrs. Jewel Wise, and Mrs. Eloise Hunt, Mrs. Mable Wright.

Early publishers, meeting demands of time, often included mistletoe decorations and sprigs on their cards. The first cards were unfolded pasteboards printed in color. Later, in the 1850s and 1860s, cards were die-stamped with designs combining ornaments and lettering.

"Father Christmas," the English equivalent of Santa Claus, early became a favorite decoration for Christmas cards. Flowers, especially the red rose and poinsettias, Holly, birds and animals were also widely used, possibly because of the brilliant coloring they offered. The traditional Christmas colors — red and green —were widely used from the start.

There were few religious scenes on early cards. They were not widely used until Christmas cards were printed in America by Louis Prang who is credited with being "the father of the American Christmas card." He began making Christmas cards in Boston in 1875, and sponsored art competitions to obtain his card designs.

Christmas cards, much as they are known today, began replacing the post card around 1915. Yuletide greetings of the 1920s were heavily sentimental —such as this card of 1924 that featured a verse that began:

"There are friends we meet as we journey along
"who like ships that pass in the night
"We meet one day and they drift away
"Silently out of sight....."

By 1931, Christmas greetings more closely resembled the cards of today. In that era, Christmas cards also reflected the depression and prohibition. A 1932 greeting noted:

"In this year of Readjustment,
"Quite the best that I can send;
"Is this wish — a Merry Christmas.
From a poor but honest friend."

The years of World War II brought patriotic cards, popular for servicemen overseas. Old Glory, eagles, warplanes and military insignia were depicted. Significantly, perhaps, cards with religious themes also were more popular in wartime.

In recent years, the works of world-famed personalities, including such artists as Sir Winston Churchill and Norman Rockwell and such writers as Ogden Nash and Norman Vincent Peals have proved popular as yuletied greetings.

HELP CAME

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — When Policeman J. Waverley Applewhite wounded himself with a pistol while target practicing, his greatest worry was about six acres of corn ready for harvest.

A Boy Scout troop offered to pick it on a Saturday. A man offered a tractor and farm wagon and a member of Chesterfield County's board of supervisors brought over a mechanical corn picker.

Found: At Last— What To Give Those Who Have

NEW YORK (UPI) — Found, at last: An answer to the perennial Christmas question of what to give the person who already has everything.

It turns out that it doesn't really matter much what it is. It can be big, different expensive or absolutely worthless. But it must be a conversation piece.

That's the advice given in a new holiday volume titled "The Complete Christmas Book," edited by Franklin Watts, which aims to solve just about every Yuletide problem a person can imagine.

Here's what is recommended:

—Get something you have never seen before but that you have heard people discussing.

—Give the biggest of anything — the biggest paper clip, the biggest straw bag or straw hat, the biggest decanter or the biggest scarf or apron.

—Give a humorous gift, such as an apothecary jar crammed with 1,000 aspirin tablets or indigestion pills—or whatever you think might amuse a harrassed executive.

—Give the most expensive of anything — a single cake of a costly soap, a solid gold house key or some similar token of your esteem.

— Give a nostalic gift — an old book, an old play poster, or penny candy in a jar.

Coordinated styling is the latest word this year in Christmas gift wraps, as well as in fashions.

Perhaps the most eye-catching of all the styling touches in a new series of "sparkling" gift wraps, Miss King said. Trees, winter vistas and geometric designs are executed in glittering silver against backgrounds of contrasting color.

Slator Home Scene Of B&PW Holiday Party

The home of Mrs. Laura Slator was the setting for the annual Business and Professional Women's club's Christmas party, on Tuesday evening.

The house was aglow with Christmas decorations. On a white brick mantle, reflected in a large gold framed mirror, was a scene of the "Carolers". Behind the figurines was an arrangement of star Christmas lights in a candle holder. On a chest by the folding doors was an arrangement of the "Nativity Scene" flanked by green boughs and red candles. Near the entrance was a large cranberry glass pitcher filled with red berries and greenery.

In the dining room, the buffet was centered with a wreath formed of gold fruit, pine cones, and flowers. Tall red tapers glowed within the wreath. The tea table was covered with a white lace cloth with a small green traditional Christmas tree and red tapers. Christmas carols played softly as Mrs. Slator greeted guests at the door, and Mrs. Helen Trichel took each guest's gift and put it under the tree.

Mrs. Trichel was in charge of the program, and introduced Bill Haddad of Northeast Louisiana State College who gave a humorous reading entitled "What is a Boy". Miss Charlene Carriero, also a college student, gave a reading entitled "If He Had Not Come," by Nan Weeks from God and The Fine Arts. Mr. Haddad then gave "There Is A Santa Claus" the famous answer of Mr. Frank P. Church to a little girl who wrote a letter to the New York Telegraph asking if there was a Santa Claus.

Mrs. Nelwyn Hollyfield led the group in singing traditional carols and afterwards the group thanked Mrs. Slator for her hospitality by singing "She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

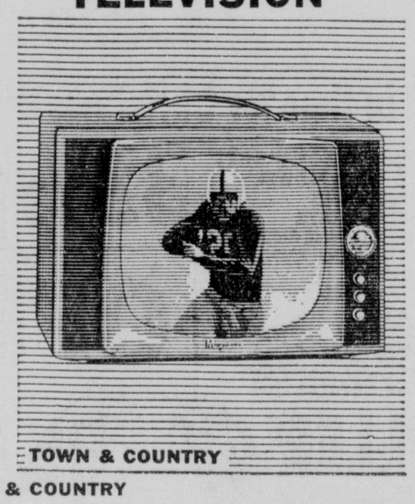

After Christmas gifts were exchanged, members and guests were invited into the dining room where a buffet was served. Mrs. Lucille Mathis served the salad, Mrs. Ruby McElroy served the meat, and Mrs. Alice Baur presided at the tea service.

Hostesses for the occasion were the officers of the club and special committee chairmen, Mrs. Billie Harrell, Mrs. McElroy, Mrs. Carice King, Mrs. Mathis, Mrs. Trichel, Mrs. Marguerite Meek, Mrs. Slator, Mrs. Gladys Miles, and Miss Baur.

Members attending were Miss Baur, Mrs. Lela K. Breard, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux, Mrs. India Calder, Mrs. Opal Creasy, Mrs. Arrah Culver, Miss Alberta D'Amico, Mrs. Johnnie Elbert, Mrs. Inas Gwin, Mrs. Billie Harrell, Mrs. Lois Harrell, Mrs. Faye Heard, Mrs. Kathryn Higgins, Mrs. Madeline Hirsch, Mrs. Nelwyn Hollyfield, Miss Maibel Hood, Mrs. Carice King, Mrs. Agnes Krogmire, Mrs. Helen Luckett, Mrs. Rubie McElroy, Mrs. Lucille Mathis, Mrs. Meek, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. Mae Modes, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Bettie Oxford, Mrs. Myrtle Porter, Mrs. Florence Powers, Mrs. Eunice Skroggs, Mrs. Flora Seaman, Mrs. Bessie Skinner, Mrs. Laura Slator, Miss Elizabeth Stenberg, Miss Lula Swinson, Mrs. Inez Tayler, Mrs. Trichel, Mrs. Zylpha Wainwright, Miss Ruth Whatley, Mrs. Ava White, Mrs. Jewel Wise, and Mrs. Eloise Hunt, Mrs. Mable Wright.

Use Accessories To Add Sparkle To Living Room

Q.— My modern living room is very green. Draperies are very dull and I would like suggestions for making it brighter. The walls are beige, carpet silver gray and I would like to add a touch of color. Furniture is modern. Can you help me?

A.— You might do it all with accessories. Replace the dull lamps with gay glass ones in the turquoise of the sofa. Repaint walls eggshell to match drapery background if possible. Add deep peacock blue pillows to sofa and a chair in that color eventually. All accessories should be in shades of turquoise and peacock. You'll be surprised at what a difference it will make.

Q.— I would like suggestions on redecorating a 10-year-old boy's room. I have a blond bed and chest that I plan to paint black and would like to know what to do about spread, draperies, rugs, walls and accessories.

A.— Do a black, beige and red scheme. Starting with the floor: a plastic treated cork would carry your son through college and at the moment could be enlivened with red throw rugs. The same cork could serve as a bulletin board on which to tack pictures of today's heroes and tomorrow's heroines. Walls should pick up cork tones. Bedspread would be nice in wide wale, bright red corduroy.

Q.— Our canary yellow kitchen with royal blue trim and linoleum floor does not fit in with the autumn theme of browns, corals and greens used throughout our home. Economy prohibits replacing the tile but we plan to paint and change the floor. Could blue trim on tile be successfully painted or replaced? Kitchen is rather dark.

A.— Replace blue tile with brown (cocoa — rather light tone). This is not inexpensive but worth it. Paint walls above pale beige and get speckled flooring that picks up beige and brown.

Q.— I would like some advice on how to decorate my living room. I have light brown tweed sofa, extra long, with cherry legs. Pillows are beige, turquoise, white and melon. I have a turquoise swivel chair. What kind of coffee table should I buy? What do you suggest for curtains, wall color?

A.— With the large sofa, two small square tables — one placed at either end would be more interesting than one long cocktail table. These could have wood legs and marble tops and if the room is all modern it might be interesting to buy these in French Provincial as unexpected decorating note. Paint walls pale beige, have sheer curtains to match. Chairs could be pale turquoise or blue. Accent rugs could be turquoise.

YOUR PROBLEMS

She Doesn't Realize It But This Man Is Married

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I have four boys who are always getting bumped, bruised or hurt. I'm thankful nothing serious has happened to them but anyone who has raised boys will tell you that one is always bandaged or healing.

My mother-in-law enjoys making trouble for me in small ways. Whenever my husband mentions one of the boys had a fall or cut himself she says "Where was their mother when it happened?" Then he looks at me and says, "I never thought of that."

Now you know, Ann Landers, no mother can police her kids 24 hours a day. I do my best, but when my mother-in-law gets through with me you'd think I was the poorest mother in the world. How can I defend myself? RESENTFUL

Dear Resentful: You don't need to defend yourself so don't bother.

Ask your husband to keep his lip zipped about what happens on the home front. It isn't necessary that he brief his mother on all the small casualties.

When she notices a bruise or a bandage and asks where you were when it happned, simply say "Drunk in a saloon—as usual." This should defang her.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend is separated from his wife —but not divorced. His children are teenagers. He sees me about four nights a week and then spends weekends with his family. He moves right in with a suitcase.

I told him last week to either live with them or leave them alone. His answer set me to thinking.

He said "I can ALWAYS get another girl friend but I'll never be able to replace my children." I told him not to fool himself, that one day his kids will marry and he'll be a lonesome man.

Please don't get the idea that I want him to marry me. I don't. I'm self-supporting and am interested only in companionship. Should I insist he choose between his family and me?—MEG

Dear Meg: He's already made his choice. Furthermore, he's told you to like it or lump it.

Whether you realize it or not, you're going with a married man. I'll bet you a dollar to an old Landon button that if you told him you were through being his weekday sweetie he'd go back to his family on a full-time basis which is where he belongs.

* * *

Dear Ann: I'm going to be married in January and I need a common sense opinion.

My mother has a lovely singing voice and has been the solist at many weddings. She would like to sing at my wedding and I have no objectons, but something tells me that it isn't proper. Another complication is that she would have to sing from the balcony and not be able to sit with the family.

May I have your advice on whether or not it's proper? — BERKELY BRIDE

DEAR B.B.: Your mother can sing at a weding any old time but the pleasure of sitting beside her husband and witnessing your marriage will come only once.

Hire someone to sing from the mother attend the wedding in a balcony, and suggest that your non-professional capacity.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Toy Dog Helps To Dispel Child's Fears

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The small small who is unfamiliar with animals in the home is quite apt to be afraid of them. A large dog looms terrifyingly in front of a small child and if the animal leaps up or lets out a big bark, the child flees screaming. In fact, the animal's friendly approach is often misinterpreted as an attack.

Mrs. H.R.U. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: My little girl of three is deathly afraid of dogs. She would run right out into the street and in front of cars if she happened to see a dog coming toward her. We have several dogs on this street and they are perfectly harmless, but she can't be persuaded that they are.

"We have a very large collie next door and he barks quite loudly at times and this frightens her so that she turns pale. I don't want her to grow up with this fear. Can you tell me how I can help her?

Buy her a very small dog, one that doesn't jump or frighten small children. A friendly, little cocker spanicl, if taken when very young, would be just the pet for her. A small child could not live in the same house with such a delightful pet and not become attached to it. Through love of this dog she will forget her fears of other dogs.

Also, it helps to give the child a cuddly, toy dog to take to bed with her. If you give it a name and a personality the child becomes fond of it, then when she sees other dogs she thinks of her own dog and ceases to feel fearful.

Mrs. P.R. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: I realize I have been wrong but when the baby was just learning to run about and she got into mischief I put her in her bed to keep her safe. Now she hates her bed. I have a real time getting her to bed at night. She is now two and one-half. Lately I have acquired a gate for her door and so I put her in her room but not in her bed, but she still fusses at being put to bed."

One night, even if you had not used this as a method of punishment. Children of about this age dislike being separated from their families, and so when they are taken to bed, before the rest of the family go, they make a big fuss.

is wrong, of course, to use a bed as a place of punishment; it should be thought of as an agreeable place in which to cuddle down and sleep. But there are probably other factors to blame for the present situation.

Make a pleasant ceremony of going to bed, doing each thing each night in exactly the same way and in the same order and the child will end up in bed as the natural finale of the ceremony.

Drug Maker Says Public Being Gouged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drug maker said Friday the big pharmaceutical houses are gouging the American people by at least 750 million dollars a year.

Seymour N. Blackman pictured the prescription user as the captive of a big company monopoly—the victim of overpricing with no freedom of choice in selecting the brand of medication he needs.

Blackman, 39, an executive of two New Jersey firms, made this attack on his big competitors in testimony before the Senate Antitrust subcommittee. The Senate group is trying to determine whether drug prices are too high at the wholesale level, and if Congress should do something about it.

"I personally feel that the American public is overpaying at least three-quarters of a billion tion which they purchase on prescription," Blackman said.

"The consumer buying drugs on prescription has no choice. He must buy the medication and he has no choice as to the brand."

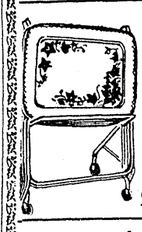

Blackman, executive secretary of Premo Laboratories Inc. of South Hackensack and president of Omega Precision Medical Instruments Inc. of Passaci, charged the big drug firms have won control of medicine pricing by controlling patents on new wonder remedies and other compounds.

MR. AND MRS. G. H. ARMSTRONG of Winnsboro announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Mary Alice, to Clyde Allen Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Robinson also of Winnsboro. The wedding ceremony will be an event of January 1, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents.

Blackman, 39, an executive of two New Jersey firms, made this attack on his big competitors in testimony before the Senate Antitrust subcommittee. The Senate group is trying to determine whether drug prices are too high at the wholesale level, and if Congress should do something about it.

"I personally feel that the American public is overpaying at least three-quarters of a billion

tion which they purchase on prescription," Blackman said.

"The consumer buying drugs on prescription has no choice. He must buy the medication and he has no choice as to the brand."

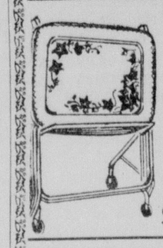

Blackman, executive secretary of Premo Laboratories Inc. of South Hackensack and president of Omega Precision Medical Instruments Inc. of Passaci, charged the big drug firms have won control of medicine pricing by controlling patents on new wonder remedies and other compounds.

MR. AND MRS. G. H. ARMSTRONG of Winnsboro announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Mary Alice, to Clyde Allen Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Robinson also of Winnsboro. The wedding ceremony will be an event of January 1, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents.

The familiar Pennsylvania Dutch mode of artwork has been used on several new gift papers including one that portrays Christmas ornaments in outlines of broken gold against a red background.

Aviation Experts Developing Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Aviation experts believe the chances of surviving an air crash will improve when science develops:

—Rupture-proof gas tanks.

—Stronger airliner seats.

The survival question was underlined recently in two crashes with a grim similarity: There was only one survivor in each accident.

One man escaped alive when a Piedmont Airlines DC-3 crashed near Charlottesville, Va., killing the other 20 passengers. He was sitting in the rear of the plane, in the last seat on the right.

The other fortunate survivor was on an Allegheny Airlines Martin 202 which hit a mountain near Williamsport, Pa. This man was sitting in the center of the cabin, in a seat next to the window. He was the only escapee out of the 22 passengers aboard.

Lady luck was about the only thing the two fortunate survivors had in common. They were seated in different areas. They were saved largely because the fuselage happened to break open just where they were sitting. The impact tossed both free of the wreckage.

In the Piedmont crash, all the fatalities resulted from "load forces" exceeding what the human body can stand. Seats and safety belts were ripped loose, throwing the occupants forward violently.

In the Allegheny crash, the impact force apparently was less and most of the deaths are believed to have resulted from fire. The lone survivor said later that he could hear people screaming after the crash.

What is modern aviation doing to develop safer seats and tanks?

Much already has been accomplished in seat research. Seats in the new jetliners, for example, offer considerable crash protection.

This is achieved first by making the fuselage itself stronger. The modern jet structure is designed so that the maximum force which can be exerted inside the cabin during an emergency landing will not exceed 12 to 14 times the force of gravity.

That is a tremendous force, but the human body can withstand even greater impacts provided it can be held in place. That is the function of the seat and the seat belt. In the jets, the seats are more firmly attached to the floor and are built of aluminum alloy—strong enough to resist impact, yet flexible enough to crush under stress and thus absorb impact energy.

The stronger structure, seats and belts add up to a combination capable of withstanding violent and sudden decelertion as high as 16 times the force of gravity. Or, in simpler terms, coming to a dead stop from 100 miles an hour in about two seconds with no harmful effects.

The gas tank problem is not so easy to solve. Many companies are working on rupture - proof tanks and tests have been promising. The chief goal is to develop a tank that is lightweight as well as strong. All present types appear to be too heavy for practical use, and weight is an airliner's greatest enemy.

Most aviation experts reject the idea of backward-facing seats as a means of increasing the chnces of crash survival. The Military Air Transport Command (MATS) has adopted such seats and so has the Royal Air Force in Great Britain. The theory is that a rear-facing set absorbs the crash energy involved in sudden decelertion.

Is one area of a plane safer than another?

Inasmuch as the front of the plane heads toward the ground first, theoretically it is safer to sit in the rear. But the experts point out it all depends on the type of crash, how the plane hits, the direction of the deceleration force, whether there is fire, and many other factors.

NATURAL GAS CONTRACTS

'Favored Nation' Clauses May End

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Power Commission will shortly wind up a case that may be the prelude to the death of "favored nation" clauses in natural gas rate contracts.

Under favored nation, which got its odd name from the government's reciprocal trade policy, a producer selling gas at a fixed contract rate is automatically entitled to any higher rate his pipeline customer pays a rival producer in the same area.

The case to be decided involves $98,877 of rate increases claimed by Pure Oil Co., Chicago, from El Paso Natural Gas Co., on grounds El Paso activated Pure's favored nation clauses by paying a rival producer a higher price. Actually, according to the commission, 35 million dollars of favored nation rate hikes are involved, directly or indirectly.

When Pure filed its case last spring, the commission declared consuming public that it felt compelled to decide whether they are "void or voidable as contrary to public interest."

It made no formal decision, however, pending disposition of the Pure-El Paso case. And there is still no certainly it will use this as a basis to outlaw all favored nation. But it may define its stand in such unmistakable terms that producers and pipelines will feel required to omit the clause from their contracts.

On Nov. 16, FPC examiner Glen R. Law, in an interim decision, denied Pure's proposed rate hikes "for lack of justification." Pure sells to El Paso under three favored-nation contracts with deliveries made in Upton and Crockett counties, Texas, and Le County, N.M.

It claimed the favored nation provision was triggered when El Paso purchased gas from West Texas Gathering Co., in Winkler County, Texas, at 16 cents per thousand cubic feet as against its own rates of 11.17 cents, 11.05 cents, and 10.5 cents.

Law pointed out that West Texas produces no gas but buys it from producers in the Emperor and South Kermit fields.

Stranded Crew In Baton Rouge May Leave Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP)—The 35-man crew aboard the stranded, financial-troubled vessel Pacific Conqueror may get home before Christmas.

Attorneys in New Orleans said Friday litigants in dispute over the debt-ridden ship have reached an agreement.

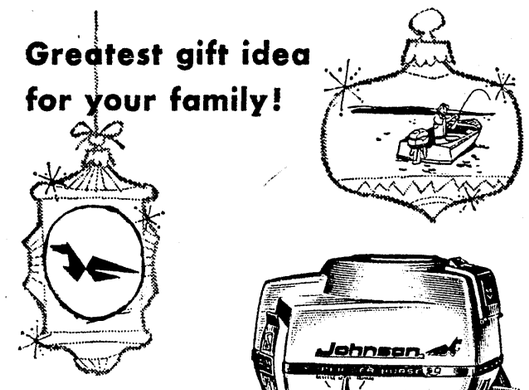

This will enable officers and crew to borrow enough money against the ship to send them home.

Attorneys said a $25,000 loan would enable them to return to Greece and carry a portion of their back wages with them.

The loan will be sought in the next few days.

Aviation Experts Developing Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Aviation experts believe the chances of surviving an air crash will improve when science develops:

—Rupture-proof gas tanks.

—Stronger airliner seats.

The survival question was underlined recently in two crashes with a grim similarity: There was only one survivor in each accident.

One man escaped alive when a Piedmont Airlines DC-3 crashed near Charlottesville, Va., killing the other 20 passengers. He was sitting in the rear of the plane, in the last seat on the right.

The other fortunate survivor was on an Allegheny Airlines Martin 202 which hit a mountain near Williamsport, Pa. This man was sitting in the center of the cabin, in a seat next to the window. He was the only escapee out of the 22 passengers aboard.

Lady luck was about the only thing the two fortunate survivors had in common. They were seated in different areas. They were saved largely because the fuselage happened to break open just where they were sitting. The impact tossed both free of the wreckage.

In the Piedmont crash, all the fatalities resulted from "load forces" exceeding what the human body can stand. Seats and safety belts were ripped loose, throwing the occupants forward violently.

In the Allegheny crash, the impact force apparently was less and most of the deaths are believed to have resulted from fire. The lone survivor said later that he could hear people screaming after the crash.

What is modern aviation doing to develop safer seats and tanks?

Much already has been accomplished in seat research. Seats in the new jetliners, for example, offer considerable crash protection.

This is achieved first by making the fuselage itself stronger. The modern jet structure is designed so that the maximum force which can be exerted inside the cabin during an emergency landing will not exceed 12 to 14 times the force of gravity.

That is a tremendous force, but the human body can withstand even greater impacts provided it can be held in place. That is the function of the seat and the seat belt. In the jets, the seats are more firmly attached to the floor and are built of aluminum alloy—strong enough to resist impact, yet flexible enough to crush under stress and thus absorb impact energy.

The stronger structure, seats and belts add up to a combination capable of withstanding violent and sudden decelertion as high as 16 times the force of gravity. Or, in simpler terms, coming to a dead stop from 100 miles an hour in about two seconds with no harmful effects.

The gas tank problem is not so easy to solve. Many companies are working on rupture - proof tanks and tests have been promising. "LAST ANGRY MAN" — David Wayne, with microphone, and Paul Muni amuse Nancy Pollock and Joby Baker in a scene from "The Last Angry Man" which starts Sunday at the Paramount Theatre.

Paul Muni Returns To Movie Screen

Magnificent Paul Muni, too long absent from the screen, once again is dazzling Paramount Theatre audiences with another brilliantly conceived and executed performance as "The Last Angry Man." Long recognized as a rugged perfectionist who works on his performances like a jeweler polishing a brilliant diamond, Muni here has wrought a gem of an interpretation, another superbly individualistic and picturesque screen character. A stirring, heart-quickening motion picture version of Gerald Green's best selling novel, "The Last Angry Man" is a Columbia picture also starring David Wayne.

Muni won his Academy Award for "The Story of Louis Pasteur." As "The Last Angry Man," he again plays a doctor and Hollywood is already discussing the possibility of another Oscar.

As the general practitioner who tries to help the sick, and poor and the unfortunate in his decrepit neighborhood, Muni is so real it hurts. Fiercely dedicated to his work and his large, but indigent, practice, he nevertheless is inclined to be crusty and bitter about "the galoots who won't let you live."

As a television executive fighting to preserve his professional life and his crumbling marriage to Betsy Palmer, Wayne conceives the idea of new television show called "Americans, U.S.A.", a show with real people. A brief human interest newspaper item about Muni's help to a girl beset by hoodlums in the middle of the night, sparks Wayne to get Muni for his first TV show. The gruff old doctor grudgingly assents. But then a juvenile delinquent, one of "the galoots" Muni rails against, needs the doctor's help.

Muni is superb as the testy old man who faces life without compromise and Wayne is solid as the young TV executive with troubles. Betsy Palmer gives an attractive performance as his wife. Luther Adler as Muni's successful doctor friend, Claudia Baker round out the supporting cast. Gerald Green wrote the screenplay; Daniel Mann directed "The Last Angry Man" and Fred Kohlmar produced the picture.

Little Theater Curtain Call

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" opened to a capacity audience on Friday night and showed again last night. You have four chances to see this production as it will run through Wednesday night of this coming week. Reservations may be made by calling the box office at Selman Field between 2:00 and 7:00 any afternoon. I am happy to report that the stnotype machine, which we had been needing so desperately was loaned by Mr. G. C. Thornton. Mrs. Tom Davenport is furnishing the paper to be used with this machine. Watch for the banquet table in the play. It was beautifully decorated by Judy Evans and Mary Gill.

Everyone is eager to know when construction will start on the "Strauss Playhouse". I am sorry to report that bids were received by the building committee but they were entirely above our means and the plans are now being revised. This will mean a delay in beginning construction.

Little Theatre members have been getting around as usual. Ray and Kathryn Magruder went down to L. S. U. to see their daughter Joan play the lead in "Crucible." It was a smash hit. Also in the audience was Beth Breese, who is in school at L. S. U. this year. Emma Louise Biedenharn has returned from New York where she had a delightful time attending plays and the Metropolitan Opera. She especially enjoyed Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer in "Marriage Go Round" and "La Plume de ma Tante". The highlight of her opera attendance was the performance of Simionotta in "Il Trivatore."

Monroe turned out en masse to see the Stephen Papich production of "Gay 90's night" presented by the Louisiana Tech Concert Association on Monday night. Patricia Morrison, the leading lady, was beautiful and the entire production was gay, pretty and fast moving.

Seen at this performance were: Dr. Catherine Foster, Fleta and Bill Latham, Leon Hammonds, Fred and Aline Petty, Clark and Ethel Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Aubrey McKeithan, Scherck Bogan, Julius Cahn, Lallage Feazel, Mary Hazel and Shelby Meek, Frances and Lee Hodges and many others. Betty Biedenharn and Frances Flanders drove over and spent the night in order to visit with Diane Gibson, a young friend of Betty's who was a dancer in the production. It was interesting to get a backstage view of theater life. Miss Morrison wore the most beautiful costumes and Anna Cheselka was a most accomplished dancer.

Last Saturday night the cast and crew of "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" had a party at the home of Bessie and Lamar Mulligan. The party was held after rehearsal and was enjoyed by all.

Little Theatre sends its best wishes to Kay Ethridge and Chuck Morgan who met on the set of Anastasia, courted during "Detective Story" and were married the day before Thanksgiving.

Remember there will be a performance of "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" tonight and each night through Wednesday. Make your reservations early. This is the last column to appear until after Christmas and we wish each of you a very merry Christmas.

EXPERTS DECLARE

Aggression Big Danger In China

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of foreign policy experts warned Monday night of a danger of new aggression by Red China and said Russia's current peace drive is a tactic aimed at expanding Soviet power.

It also called on U.S. leaders to stop "jolting along from crisis to crisis" and develop daring and creative new foreign policies to help shape a new and peaceful order in world affairs.

The 30,000-word report was prepared under the sponsorship of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. It laid special emphasis on the need of the nation's leaders to obtain maximum public discussion of foreign policy issues by providing full information even on such matters as nuclear armaments, where possible. Otherwise, the report said, negotiations with the Soviet Union tend to become simply "strile or dangerous bartering."

Such negotiations were advocated on the ground that the United States must take advantage of every opportunity to try to resolve outstanding issues with the Communist world. But the report declared that this country must maintain its military capacity to fight either general or local wars if force is necessary to preserve its vital interests.

The report warned against any retreat from West Berlin or any agreement which would dissolve the North Atlantic Alliance or allow West Germany to fall within the Soviet orbit.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's new tactic, it said, is more subtle and complex but no less menacing than the old tactic of threat and force in the Stalinist years.

"If Soviet aims were merely greater economic welfare for itself and for its neighbors," the report said, "it might be a cause for rejoicing. In fact, however, supported by propaganda, infiltration and subversion, aided by the implied threat of its military power, the Soviet Regime gives every evidence that it hopes to expand until it has gained a clear preponderance of power in the world."

Turning to Communist China, the report said it is "in a posture which, in the past historical experience, has almost invariably led to aggression."

China it said, has a rapidly growing population, a shortage of vital resources and a fanatical ideology, while "soft situations" exist in many of its neighboring countries.

Furthermore, Red China looks upon the United States as its "supreme enemy, the one major obstacle" to its domination of all Asia. It's "overriding political and strategic aim is undoubtedly to undermine American influence, to separate the United States from its friends and supporters in Asia, and to force the withdrawal of United States defensive forces."

The report suggested that eventually Red China's growing strength—especially if it acquires atomic weapons—may put heavy strains upon its relations with Russia. The United States must try to avoid courses of action which drive China closer to the Soviets, it advised.

The 74-page report is the fifth in a series on great national issues sponsored by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. An overall panel under the chairmanship of Laurance S. Rockefeller, president of the fund, has supervised preparation of the series with separate panels dealing with individual subjects.

Two former Assistant Secretaries of State, Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and Adolf A. Berle Jr., attorney, are among the 14 members of the foreign policy panel.

The report was written principally by August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund under the panel's direction and with the help of a number of experts in the field.

One question which arose in connection with the report was whether it represented the views of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, often mentioned as a contender for the Republican presidential nomination. Rockefeller told a reporter he had not seen the report so he had no idea whether he approved it. He resigned from the over - all study panel in May, 1958.

In dealing with the development of foreign policy within the U.S. government, the report repudiated all arguments that foreign policy is somehow too complicated and remote for understanding by the citizens of a democracy.

The role of leadership, the report said, is to determine the issues of public discussion and recommend lines of action so that discussion can be relevant to possible solution.

"If the role of leadership is not adequately fulfilled," it said, "public discussion is left with little other function than attack or criticism. . . ."

Where there is a conflict between secrecy and disclosure with doubt as to which should prevail "we feel that the balance must go in favor of revealing information," the panel said.

In preparation for meeting the problems of a rapidly changing world the report suggested the task of the Secretary of State be revised to permit him to concentrate on policy at the highest level. It also proposed that the executive branch and Congress arrange for "joint study and action" on organizational changes which might be desirable to deal with foreign policy more effectively in the future.

In dealing with specific problems, the panel said the United States should direct its foreign aid and trade policies toward long range goals of strengthening the new and developing nations, especially those on the borders of the Communist bloc. In this respect it emphasized a need for cooperation with India and Japan, and declared there must be a clear assertion of United States intention to protect the Middle East against the pressures of Communist power.

In the field of disarmament the panel recommended continuous study of the complex problems created by changes in weapons systems and declared that any progress made in disarmament agreements with the Soviet Union must go hand in hand with the solution of political issues necessary to decrease world tensions.

Furthermore, it said while seeking peace the United States must be prepared to face up to the possibility of war.

"The only question is whether peace shall be the whole aim of foreign policy; whether everything shall be yielded to that end. Clearly the answer must be no. The risks which arise from the possibility of war are great. But by resolutely accepting the risk—and by that alone—we gain a decent chance of avoiding it."

Khrushchev Calls For Electricity

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev has called for electrification of the entire Soviet Union within 20 years as part of the country's long range plan for economic development.

In a speech reported Saturday by the Soviet news agency Tass, Khrushchev said the plan for power plant construction on a vast scale "is not fantasy, it is a feasible plan resting on the powerful Socialist economy."

Khrushchev spoke at a conference of electrical engineers in Moscow Nov. 28. His speech will be published Sunday in Moscow newspapers, Tass said.

The Soviet leader said his plan was based on Lenin's doctrine: "Communism is Soviet power plus the electrification of the whole country."

"Without electrification there can be no mechanization and automation of production. And without mechanization and automation there will be no rise in labor productivity," he said.

"Therefore, the long range plan for the electrification of the country covering 15-20 years and the long range plan for the development of the national economy for the same period must become the kernel of our program of Communist construction," he added.

In order to achieve the 100 per cent goal, Khrushchev said, the capacity of all Soviet power stations must increase seven or eight fold in 15 to 20 years.

Sen. King Gives Davis Support

JONESVILLE (Special) — Dr. R. E. King, incumbent, candidate for state senator, announced his support for the former governor Jimmy Davis. His announcement is as follows:

"I have served one term as senator under Governor Davis and believe that he is the best qualified candidate for the governor's office and will do more for Catahoula, Richland and Franklin parishes," he said.

THE ONE BIG PRESENT
There seems to be two schools of thought when it comes to Christmas giving. One school says swamp 'em with a bushel of little things. The other declares, dazzle them with one big present that will make this, "the Christmas I got the (you name it)."
For instance, this might be the year you give dad the slide projector that finally puts him in show business. We recommend the Kodak Cavalcade. It treats an audience to a crisp, colorful performance of slides they see "big as life."
Or this might be the year you give the family the movie camera that will save all your good times together. Your best buy: the Brownie Automatic Movie Camera. This new Brownie has an electric eye that makes sure the exposure is always right, no matter who is handling the job of cameraman.
Or again, maybe this is the year someone gets the 35mm camera they have been so slyly hinting for. No better way to fill that bill than with a Pony II Camera Outfit. It's everything they'll need to shoot AND view color slides, all beautifully packaged.
To show we can straddle an issue as well as the next fellow, we can also help fill up a Christmas stocking with a lot of useful photo aids that any photo hobbyist will love to get.

Paul Muni Returns To Movie Screen

Magnificent Paul Muni, too long absent from the screen, once again is dazzling Paramount Theatre audiences with another brilliantly conceived and executed performance as "The Last Angry Man." Long recognized as a rugged perfectionist who works on his performances like a jeweler polishing a brilliant diamond, Muni here has wrought a gem of an interpretation, another superbly individualistic and picturesque screen character. A stirring, heart-quickening motion picture version of Gerald Green's best selling novel, "The Last Angry Man" is a Columbia picture also starring David Wayne.

Muni won his Academy Award for "The Story of Louis Pasteur." As "The Last Angry Man," he again plays a doctor and Hollywood is already discussing the possibility of another Oscar.

As the general practitioner who tries to help the sick, and poor and the unfortunate in his decrepit neighborhood, Muni is so real it hurts. Fiercely dedicated to his work and his large, but indigent, practice, he nevertheless is inclined to be crusty and bitter about "the galoots who won't let you live."

As a television executive fighting to preserve his professional life and his crumbling marriage to Betsy Palmer, Wayne conceives the idea of new television show called "Americans, U.S.A.", a show with real people. A brief human interest newspaper item about Muni's help to a girl beset by hoodlums in the middle of the night, sparks Wayne to get Muni for his first TV show. The gruff old doctor grudgingly assents. But then a juvenile delinquent, one of "the galoots" Muni rails against, needs the doctor's help.

Muni is superb as the testy old man who faces life without compromise and Wayne is solid as the young TV executive with troubles. Betsy Palmer gives an attractive performance as his wife, Luther Adler as Muni's successful doctor friend, Claudia Baker round out the supporting cast. Gerald Green wrote the screenplay; Daniel Mann directed "The Last Angry Man" and Fred Kohlmar produced the picture.

Little Theater Curtain Call

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" opened to a capacity audience on Friday night and showed again last night. You have four chances to see this production as it will run through Wednesday night of this coming week. Reservations may be made by calling the box office at Selman Field between 2:00 and 7:00 any afternoon. I am happy to report that the stnotype machine, which we had been needing so desperately was loaned by Mr. G. C. Thornton. Mrs. Tom Davenport is furnishing the paper to be used with this machine. Watch for the banquet table in the play. It was beautifully decorated by Judy Evans and Mary Gill.

Everyone is eager to know when construction will start on the "Strauss Playhouse". I am sorry to report that bids were received by the building committee but they were entirely above our means and the plans are now being revised. This will mean a delay in beginning construction.

Little Theatre members have been getting around as usual. Ray and Kathryn Magruder went down to L. S. U. to see their daughter Joan play the lead in "Crucible." It was a smash hit. Also in the audience was Beth Breese, who is in school at L. S. U. this year. Emma Louise Biedenharn has returned from New York where she had a delightful time attending plays and the Metropolitan Opera. She especially enjoyed Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer in "Marriage Go Round" and "La Plume de ma Tante". The highlight of her opera attendance was the performance of Simmotta in "Il Trivatore."

Monroe turned out en masse to see the Stephen Papich production of "Gay 90's night" presented by the Louisiana Tech Concert Association on Monday night. Patricia Morrison, the leading lady, was beautiful and the entire production was gay, pretty and fast moving.

Seen at this performance were: Dr. Catherine Foster, Fleta and Bill Latham, Leon Hammonds, Fred and Aline Petty, Clark and Ethel Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Aubrey McKeithon, Scherck Bogan, Julius Cahn, Lallage Feazel, Mary Hazel and Shelby Meek, Frances and Lee Hodges and many others. Betty Biedenharn and Frances Flanders drove over and spent the night in order to visit with Diane Gibson, a young friend of Betty's who was a dancer in the production. It was interesting to get a backstage view of theater life. Miss Morrison wore the most beautiful costumes and Anna Cheselka was a most accomplished dancer.

Last Saturday night the cast and crew of "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" had a party at the home of Bessie and Lamar Mulligan. The party was held after rehearsal and was enjoyed by all.

Little Theatre sends its best wishes to Kay Ethridge and Chuck Morgan who met on the set of Anastasia, courted during "Detective Story" and were married the day before Thanksgiving.

Remember there will be a performance of "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" tonight and each night through Wednesday. Make your reservations early. This is the last column to appear until after Christmas and we wish each of you a very merry Christmas.

EXPERTS DECLARE

Aggression Big Danger In China

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of foreign policy experts warned Monday night of a danger of new aggression by Red China and said Russia's current peace drive is a tactic aimed at expanding Soviet power.

It also called on U.S. leaders to stop "jolting along from crisis to crisis" and develop daring and creative new foreign policies to help shape a new and peaceful order in world affairs.

The 30,000-word report was prepared under the sponsorship of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. It laid special emphasis on the need of the nation's leaders to obtain maximum public discussion of foreign policy issues by providing full information even on such matters as nuclear armaments, where possible. Otherwise, the report said, negotiations with the Soviet Union tend to become simply "strile or dangerous bartering."

Such negotiations were advocated on the ground that the United States must take advantage of every opportunity to try to resolve outstanding issues with the Communist world. But the report declared that this country must maintain its military capacity to fight either general or local wars if force is necessary to preserve its vital interests.

The report warned against any retreat from West Berlin or any agreement which would dissolve the North Atlantic Alliance or allow West Germany to fall within the Soviet orbit.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's new tactic, it said, is more subtle and complex but no less menacing than the old tactic of threat and force in the Stalinist years.

"If Soviet aims were merely greater economic welfare for itself and for its neighbors," the report said, "it might be a cause for rejoicing. In fact, however, supported by propaganda, infiltration and subversion, aided by the implied threat of its military power, the Soviet Regime gives every evidence that it hopes to expand until it has gained a clear preponderance of power in the world."

Turning to Communist China, the report said it is "in a posture which, in the past historical experience, has almost invariably led to aggression."

China it said, has a rapidly growing population, a shortage of vital resources and a fanatical ideology, while "soft situations" exist in many of its neighboring countries.

Furthermore, Red China looks upon the United States as its "supreme enemy, the one major obstacle" to its domination of all Asia. It's "overriding political and strategic aim is undoubtedly to undermine American influence, to separate the United States from its friends and supporters in Asia, and to force the withdrawal of United States defensive forces."

The report suggested that eventually Red China's growing strength—especially if it acquires atomic weapons—may put heavy strains upon its relations with Russia. The United States must try to avoid courses of action which drive China closer to the Soviets, it advised.

The 74-page report is the fifth in a series on great national issues sponsored by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. An overall panel under the chairmanship of Laurance S. Rockefeller, president of the fund, has supervised preparation of the series with separate panels dealing with individual subjects.

Two former Assistant Secretaries of State, Dean Rusk, president of the Rockefeller Foundation and Adolf A. Berle Jr., attorney, are among the 14 members of the foreign policy panel.

The report was written principally by August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund under the panel's direction and with the help of a number of experts in the field.

One question which arose in connection with the report was whether it represented the views of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, often mentioned as a contender for the Republican presidential nomination. Rockefeller told a reporter he had not seen the report so he had no idea whether he approved it. He resigned from the over - all study panel in May, 1958.

In dealing with the development of foreign policy within the U.S. government, the report repudiated all arguments that foreign policy is somehow too complicated and remote for understanding by the citizens of a democracy.

The role of leadership, the report said, is to determine the issues of public discussion and recommend lines of action so that discussion can be relevant to possible solution.

"If the role of leadership is not adequately fulfilled," it said, "public discussion is left with little other function than attack or criticism. . . ."

Where there is a conflict between secrecy and disclosure with doubt as to which should prevail "we feel that the balance must go in favor of revealing information," the panel said.

In preparation for meeting the problems of a rapidly changing world the report suggested the task of the Secretary of State be revised to permit him to concentrate on policy at the highest level. It also proposed that the executive branch and Congress arrange for "joint study and action" on organizational changes which might be desirable to deal with foreign policy more effectively in the future.

In dealing with specific problems, the panel said the United States should direct its foreign aid and trade policies toward long range goals of strengthening the new and developing nations, especially those on the borders of the Communist bloc. In this respect it emphasized a need for cooperation with India and Japan, and declared there must be a clear assertion of United States intention to protect the Middle East against the pressures of Communist power.

In the field of disarmament the panel recommended continuous study of the complex problems created by changes in weapons systems and declared that any progress made in disarmament agreements with the Soviet Union must go hand in hand with the solution of political issues necessary to decrease world tensions.

Furthermore, it said while seeking peace the United States must be prepared to face up to the possibility of war.

"The only question is whether peace shall be the whole aim of foreign policy; whether everything shall be yielded to that end. Clearly the answer must be no. The risks which arise from the possibility of war are great. But by resolutely accepting the risk—and by that alone—we gain a decent chance of avoiding it."

Catahoula Vote Registration Up

JONESVILLE (Special) — A total of 115 Catahoulans registered for the second primary during the three days, Monday through Wednesday, the registrar's books were open, according to Mrs. Mary Swaggart, registrar.

Of that total, 84 were white and 31 colored. That brings the total to 4,435 registered voters in the parish of which number are 4,065 white voters and 370 colored. The total number of white voters include five registered as Republicans. All others are Democrats.

ANTI-MONOPLY GROUP

Drug Industry In Kefauver Probing

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are some of America's sick being deprived of so-called miracle drugs because prices have been pegged out of their reach?

Are the prices being rigged by major drug manufacturers in violation of the anti-trust laws?

Sen. Estes Kefauver's Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee set out this week to find the answers. After preliminary testimony, the subcommittee accused six major firms of making illegal pacts to sew up the market on two arthritis wonder drugs, prednisone and prednisolone.

The companies denied this. They also defended tremendous price mark-ups on some of their products as the forfeit the sick must pay for the costly research that develops the medicines.

The Justice Department is investigating the alleged agreements. Since January a New York grand jury has been studying a wide range of possible violations.

The subcommittee concentrated on cross-licensing contracts which the Schering Corp., Bloomfield, N. J., signed with five other concerns in 1955-58 covering the two arthritis drugs.

It was alleged that the pacts provide that the five firms — Parke, Davis & Co., the Upjohn Co., Merck & Co., Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc., and iba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc.—pay Schering royalties on the not-yet-patented drugs and promise to sell them only in packaged form.

Irene Till, the subcommittee's patent expert, said this bars sales in bulk and freezes out small competitors. She added that bulk sales are made at less than one-tenth the price of the packaged drugs.

Subcommittee aides asserted that Schering marked up some of its drugs by 7000 per cent. Estradiol, for female disorders, was cited in this category. Also cited was estinyl, a similar drug, which cost 28 cents for 100 tablets, sold wholesale at $8 and at retail for $13.35—a mark-up of 2757 per cent.

Kefauver asked Schering President Francis C. Brown why some small companies were able to sell estinyl for $2 or $3. Brown replied that they did not provide the kind of service Schering does.

Emphasizes Research Costs

"We are trail - blazers in medical research," he said, "and thus must withstand the cost of developing new products." He said Schering spent "many millions" in its research program and cited development of a new drug called Naqua for treatment of heart and kidney diseases.

Brown said his company is "in business not just for today but for tomorrow" and must continue research through profits and earnings.

"The consumer of today must contribute to the benefits which the future will bring, just as the government expects taxpayers to do," he added.

Kefauver remarked that many persons who urgently need miracle drugs can't afford them. Brown responded that he could name at least a dozen research projects "where we probbly spent more than $500,000 or more and have nothing to show for it." He said none of these setbacks were shown in the subcommittee's facts and figures charts.

Brown agreed that many people undoubtedly found it difficult to pay for medicine. But he said the drug firms also have to pay grocery bills and rent. "The problem," he said, "concerns inadequate income rather than excessive prices."

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said Schering "very apparently charged all the traffic would bear." He also noted that Schering, Merck and Upjohn had "about the same price" on certain items.

Brown said his company had not violated any laws and he flailed the subcommittee for putting in the record figures "which grossly misconstrue the true facts."

John T. Connor, president of Merck, testified that objective examination would show the drug industry is "highly competitive and free of excessive concentration." He said both research and profits are necessary if the hunt for new break-throughs in the wonder drug field is to continue.

As an offshoot of the inquiry, the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation told the subcommittee that "greedy quacks" in the patent medicine business bilk arthritis sufferers of 250 million dollars a year.

After the investigation ends, the subcommittee will decide whether to turn its findings over to the Justice Department; whether corrective legislation is necessary, or whether operations of the drug makers are entirely legal.

Grandfather Claims New Flight Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Joseph H. Moore, a grandfather twice over, Saturday claimed a new world air speed record of 1,216 miles an hour for the U.S. Air Force.

Piloting a Republic F-105 Thunderchief jet, combat equipped, Moore broke the French record of 1,100.426 miles an hour over a 100 kilometer closed course at Edwards Air Force base Friday.

Moore emphasized at a press conference Saturday morning at International Airport here that the new mark has not yet been officially verified by the National Aeronautic Assn.

The Spartanburg, S.C., - born flier said he would attempt the flight again over the weekend or early next week if the NAA does not recognize his speed mark.

The general, a combat pilot with 100 missions during World War II and many decorations, said he broke the record twice Friday. His "slowest" speed was 1,170 miles an hour, some 70 miles an hour over the French record.

The record was run over the closed course which measured 100 kilometers, or 62.14 miles. He made most of the run at an altitude of 38,000 feet. The French run was made at about 2,500 feet.

ANTI-MONOPLY GROUP

Drug Industry In Kefauver Probing

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are some of America's sick being deprived of so-called miracle drugs because prices have been pegged out of their reach?

Are the prices being rigged by major drug manufacturers in violation of the anti-trust laws?

Sen. Estes Kefauver's Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee set out this week to find the answers. After preliminary testimony, the subcommittee accused six major firms of making illegal pacts to sew up the market on two arthritis wonder drugs, prednisone and prednisolone.

The companies denied this. They also defended tremendous price mark-ups on some of their products as the forfeit the sick must pay for the costly research that develops the medicines.

The Justice Department is investigating the alleged agreements. Since January a New York grand jury has been studying a wide range of possible violations.

The subcommittee concentrated on cross-licensing contracts which the Schering Corp., Bloomfield, N. J., signed with five other concerns in 1955-58 covering the two arthritis drugs.

It was alleged that the pacts provide that the five firms — Parke, Davis & Co., the Upjohn Co., Merck & Co., Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc., and iba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc.—pay Schering royalties on the not-yet-patented drugs and promise to sell them only in packaged form.

Irene Till, the subcommittee's patent expert, said this bars sales in bulk and freezes out small competitors. She added that bulk sales are made at less than one-tenth the price of the packaged drugs.

Subcommittee aides asserted that Schering marked up some of its drugs by 7000 per cent. Estradiol, for female disorders, was cited in this category. Also cited was estinyl, a similar drug, which cost 28 cents for 100 tablets, sold wholesale at $8 and at retail for $13.35—a mark-up of 2757 per cent.

Kefauver asked Schering President Francis C. Brown why some small companies were able to sell estinyl for $2 or $3. Brown replied that they did not provide the kind of service Schering does.

Emphasizes Research Costs

"We are trail - blazers in medical research," he said, "and thus must withstand the cost of developing new products." He said Schering spent "many millions" in its research program and cited development of a new drug called Naqua for treatment of heart and kidney diseases.

Brown said his company is "in business not just for today but for tomorrow" and must continue research through profits and earnings.

"The consumer of today must contribute to the benefits which the future will bring, just as the government expects taxpayers to do," he added.

Kefauver remarked that many persons who urgently need miracle drugs can't afford them. Brown responded that he could name at least a dozen research projects "where we probbly spent more than $500,000 or more and have nothing to show for it." He said none of these setbacks were shown in the subcommittee's facts and figures charts.

Brown agreed that many people undoubtedly found it difficult to pay for medicine. But he said the drug firms also have to pay grocery bills and rent. "The problem," he said, "concerns inadequate income rather than excessive prices."

DURING PAST WEEK

Stock Mart Nears Record High Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market during the past week came w i t h i n less than three points of its record high set on Aug. 3.

That was on Tuesday when blue chip issues led industrials to a closing high of 675.39, up 9.72 points, the best level since Aug. 4 and the widest gain for the group since Nov. 27, 1957. The record industrial high was set Aug. 3 this year at 678.10.

Rails that day rose 1.89 points to 154.90, best level since Oct. 29. It was the widest rise for that group in three weeks.

The market had been rising moderately on Monday so that the two-day gain was a sizable one. Then it fell again Wednesday, rallied slightly Thursday and resumed the decline Friday.

Trading fell off for the week to 17,001,394 shares, a daily average of 3,400,278 shares. In the previous week the sales totaled 18,033,375 shares for a daily average of 3,606,675.

When the final count was taken for the week, the a v e r a g e s showed modest advances. The industrial closed at 670.50 up 6.50 points from the previous week; railroad 153.65 up 0.92; utility 87.08 up 0.33; and 65 stocks 217.31 up 1.73.

It was a good week for business news. Steel operations set an all time record high. Automobile output rose sharply. Electricity output came close to a record. Retail trade rose and was well above a year ago. Bituminous coal output was up sharply.

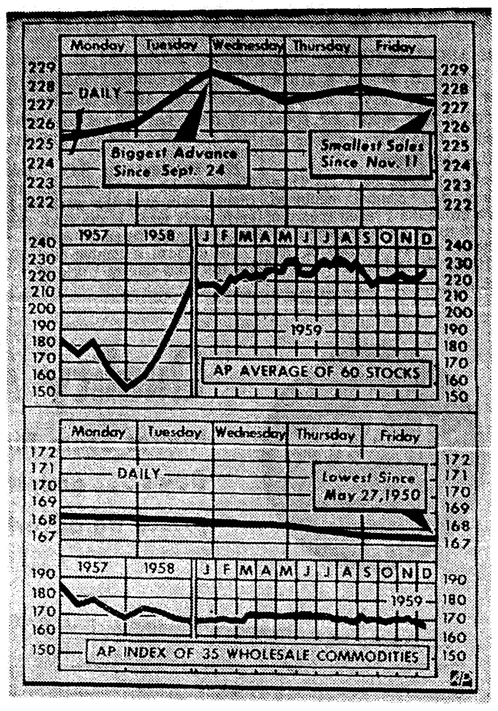

On Monday better demand was noted for the oils and rails which for a long time had been behind the m a r k e t. But the market lacked strong leadership that day. Electric & Musical Instruments was the most active stock and one had to go down the list a long way before finding a blue chip.

On Tuesday when the big gain came, the blue chips were in the lead—General Electric, Westinghouse, DuPont, Dow, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide.

The drug shares got a jolt when C o n g r e s s investigated prices. They fell on Wednesday, rallied on Thursday and turned down again on Friday.

D u r i n g the week, the Ford Foundation successfully sold an additional two million shares of Ford Motor stock and the issue turned strong after the sale was out of the way. General Motors weathered a secondary offering of 200,000 shares of its stock, possibly a block from the Timken estate.

Paper issues sagged at times on the dip in paperboard output. Tobaccos had a brief boost on Friday when the American Medical Assn. Journal published an editorial warning against conclusions on cancer from smoking cigarettes.

STOCK AVERAGE CONTINUES TO GAIN — For the third week in a row, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced — closing at 227.7 from 225.8 a week ago. The commodity index declined last week to the lowest point since May 27, 1950, when it closed Friday at 167.4 from 168.4 in the preceding period. The industrial component showed the widest loss. Outlook Bright In Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market usually arises in December and has its best gain in the last two weeks of the month.

Market experts believe this year will see the old pattern followed. According to that pattern, industrial shares have risen in their average in 45 of the past 62 years in December. Rails have risen in 37 of these years.

Ordinarily the rally carries into January which also is a good month for the market. In the past 63 years, the industrial average has risen in 41 Januarys and rails have risen in 38.

This upturn reflects two things. By mid-December, the year - end selling to establish gains or losses for income tax purposes has run its course. That selling piles up cash for the sellers which eventually is reinvested. Also the investment cash total is swelled by year-end dividend a n d interest payments which are invested in the market as a rule.

While the market men believe the December - January pattern will be followed on the historic routine, they are not as eager to give buying advice for the remainder of the year.

That doesn't mean they are turning bearish or that they think there will be a big bust ahead. But they are cautious because the prices of many stocks are very high and they assert one must be very selective in his market operations until indications come to light on the trend of earnings.

The year 1960 is expected to be a whopper for the economy in general with the gross national product—all goods and services produced—crossing the half trillion dollar mark.

Such an economy would m e a n sharply higher corporation income and sharply higher dividend payments. If these things materialize, then the current prices of many stocks — now considered out of line on an earnings basis — could well become very respectable and susceptible to further advance.

The investors of 1960 may eventually have to decide if they will want to lighten their c o m m o n stock holdings and go into bonds on a larger scale. Bonds have been in disrepute for a long time with prices falling and yields rising. The yields are the return on the investment. As the price goes down the return rises because the income on a bond is fixed at a certain level.

Those who do have that decision to make must take into consideration the prospect of inflation being licked or increasing. If inflation is licked, bonds would become very attractive and stocks might then go into disrepute much as bonds are today.

Economists of the Prudential Insurance Co. have taken a l o o k into the future and they are convinced there will be no decline in the cost of living index which is a measure of inflation.

These economists give t h r e e reasons for their belief. In the first place, they point out, as business improves toward capacity levels, business concerns will compete more vigorously with each other for both labor and materials, and pay less attention to costs or efficiency.

Secondly, employes in the service industries whose productivity gains are small will receive the same wage boosts as workers in production. Rising costs not fully offset by productivity increases are inflationary, they assert.

And finally, the group finds we still are a long way from solving the perplexing problem of how to convince business and labor to restrict their claims to less than the total gain realized from rising productivity. "Until we succeed in this," they assert, "t h e consumer, being unorganized and inarticulate, will continue to pay the bill."

Cotton Futures Capture Modest Market Gains

NEW YORK (AP) —Cotton futures made modest gains last week, c'osing 15 cents to $1 a bale higher.

Some local buying, coupled with mill price fixing, gave support to the market. Offerings came largely from scattered hedge selling.

Purchases of 1959 crop cotton by the Commodity Credit Corp. in the week ended Dec. 4 totaled 439,000 bales. Sales amounted to 523,000 bales.

Cotton impounded under the government loan in the Dec. 4 week amounted to 111,000 bales, bringing the total for the crop season to 155,000 bales. After withdrawals of 9,000 bales, the net stock was 146,000 bales.

Registration of cotton for export totaled 317,777 bales in the Dec. 4 week, bringing the total for the season to 4,142,000. Exports in the week ended Tuesday were larger than in any previous week in nearly two years, totaling 186,000 bales.

Exports for the current season through Dec. 8 amounted to 1,381,000 bales compared with 1,018,000 a year ago.

FINANCIAL NEWS

Business Humming Along At Fast-Moving March

NEW YORK (AP) — Business hummed along the past week at a swift pace, sparked by Christmas buying of unprecedented proportions, record steel production, and stepped up automobile output.

Free-spending crowds jammed stores almost everywhere. Merchants were nearly unanimous in confidence that yule buying is headed for a record.

Retail trade's dollar volume was up from 1 to 5 per cent over a year ago. Biggest gains were registered in women's gift apparel, toys, television sets, furniture, and household gifts.

Steel mills operated at an estimated 94.3 per cent capacity, a rate capable of turning out 2,671,000 tons of steel, the greatest tonnage on record.

Prospects of a settlement of the steel dispute, however, grew darker. The industry was cool to a union proposal for company-by-company bargaining. Federl meditors broke off negotiations because they had been unproductive and to allow the union to turn its attention to the aluminum industry.

During the week the steelworkers signed contracts with American Can Co. and Continental Can Co., calling for an average general wage increase of 28 1-5 cents an hour over three years. Both c o m p a n i e s immediately announced slight price increases.

Shipments of finished steel gained ground but lagged behind ingot production. This kept steel-using industries in a bind. Carrier Corp., in Syracuse, N. Y., laid off 400 workers for a week because of a steel shortage.

Freight carloadings increased to 649,639 the past week, mainly on steel tonnage. Loadings the previous week were 574,126, and a year ago 594,884.

The automobile industry boosted its production about 50 per cent over the previous week and scheduled another big jump the coming week in a drive to make up the more than 750,000 cars lost due to steel shortages.

General Motors resumed assembly operations and recalled 60,000 workers, putting all but 31,000 of its 215,000 laid-off employes back on the job. Full production will be under way the coming week.

Chrysler reopened and built some cars. Most of its plants will be back in operation the coming week.

American Motors operated at record speed. Ford kept up its heavy output. The industry plans to build a million cars between now and Jan. 26, when the Taft-Hartley injunction in the steel strike expires.

The government reported unemployment rose by 398,000 in mid-November to a total of 3,670,000, an increase not as large as expected. The total of workers 65,640,000, slightly more than the usual seasonal drop.

Consumers got a break in the meat department. Prices went down as livestock growers poured an increasing volume of cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs into markets. Sales of hogs for slaughter were the largest since the week ended Dec. 1, 1956. Meat production also was the biggest since that week.

Briefly around the business scene: New York Central Railroad declared a 25-cent dividend, its first since December, 1957 . . . General Electric Co. will lay off 800 workers at its flight propulsion plant near Cincinnati because of Defense Department cutbacks in jet engine orders. . . . Walgreen Co. will open 42 new drug stores by the end of next September. . . . Standard Brands is putting advertisements on milk cartons as a test in New Mexico. . . . Government-held farm surpluses have risen to $9,200,000,000 with additional gains in prospect. . . . Mutual savings banks in New York and savings and loan associations in California are planning to increase interest rates paid to savers. . . . People are throwing half a billion dollars to the dogs this year, spending 350 millions to feed their pets and the balance on accessories. . . . Singer Manufacturing Co., sewing machine maker, expects sales near 400 million dollars this year, up 10 per cent from 1958. . . . Downtown stores in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are countering the taint of overcommercialism by donating window space to churches for displays during the Christmas season.

Committees For Cotton Quota Named

JONESVILLE (Special) — Committees of farmers who will be cotton marketing quota referendum throughout Catahoula parish on Dec. 15 were announced yesterday by the Catahoula Parish Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. All committee members are farmers eligible to vote in the referendum.

Arrangements have also been completed for establishing polling places in all of Catahoula Parish's eight cotton-growing communities. Notices showing the date of referendum, the rules governing eligibility to vote, and the location of polling places have been posted in conspicious places in the parish.

P. J. Rison, Chairman Parish ASC Committee pointed to that "eligible" voters in the December 15 referendum are all persons who, as landlords, tenants, or sharecroppers, engaged in the produ tion of upland cotton in 1959. Any questions about eligibility should be checked in advance with the parish office.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Stock Mart Nears Record High Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market during the past week came w i t h i n less than three points of its record high set on Aug. 3.

That was on Tuesday when blue chip issues led industrials to a closing high of 675.39, up 9.72 points, the best level since Aug. 4 and the widest gain for the group since Nov. 27, 1957. The record industrial high was set Aug. 3 this year at 678.10.

Rails that day rose 1.89 points to 154.90, best level since Oct. 29. It was the widest rise for that group in three weeks.

The market had been rising moderately on Monday so that the two-day gain was a sizable one. Then it fell again Wednesday, rallied slightly Thursday and resumed the decline Friday.

Trading fell off for the week to 17,001,394 shares, a daily average of 3,400,278 shares. In the previous week the sales totaled 18,033,375 shares for a daily average of 3,606,675.

When the final count was taken for the week, the a v e r a g e s showed modest advances. The industrial closed at 670.50 up 6.50 points from the previous week; railroad 153.65 up 0.92; utility 87.08 up 0.33; and 65 stocks 217.31 up 1.73.

It was a good week for business news. Steel operations set an all time record high. Automobile output rose sharply. Electricity output came close to a record. Retail trade rose and was well above a year ago. Bituminous coal output was up sharply.

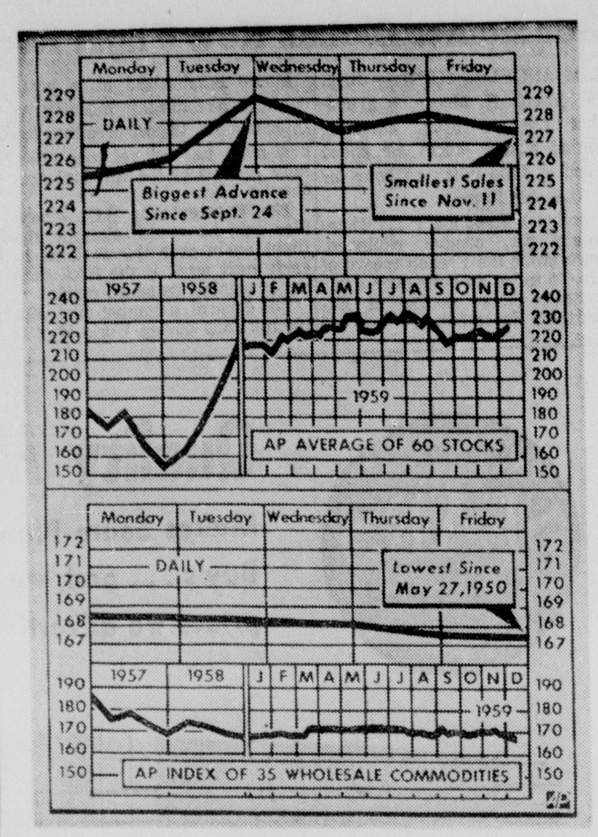

On Monday better demand was noted for the oils and rails which for a long time had been behind the m a r k e t. But the market lacked strong leadership that day. Electric & Musical Instruments was the most active stock and one had to go down the list a long way before finding a blue chip.

On Tuesday when the big gain came, the blue chips were in the lead—General Electric, Westinghouse, DuPont, Dow, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide.

The drug shares got a jolt when C o n g r e s s investigated prices. They fell on Wednesday, rallied on Thursday and turned down again on Friday.

D u r i n g the week, the Ford Foundation successfully sold an additional two million shares of Ford Motor stock and the issue turned strong after the sale was out of the way. General Motors weathered a secondary offering of 200,000 shares of its stock, possibly a block from the Timken estate.

Paper issues sagged at times on the dip in paperboard output. Tobaccos had a brief boost on Friday when the American Medical Assn. Journal published an editorial warning against conclusions on cancer from smoking cigarettes.

STOCK AVERAGE CONTINUES TO GAIN — For the third week in a row, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced — closing at 227.7 from 225.8 a week ago. The commodity index declined last week to the lowest point since May 27, 1950, when it closed Friday at 167.4 from 168.4 in the preceding period. The industrial component showed the widest loss. Outlook Bright In Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market usually arises in December and has its best gain in the last two weeks of the month.

Market experts believe this year will see the old pattern followed. According to that pattern, industrial shares have risen in their average in 45 of the past 62 years in December. Rails have risen in 37 of these years.

Ordinarily the rally carries into January which also is a good month for the market. In the past 63 years, the industrial average has risen in 41 Januarys and rails have risen in 38.

This upturn reflects two things. By mid-December, the year - end selling to establish gains or losses for income tax purposes has run its course. That selling piles up cash for the sellers which eventually is reinvested. Also the investment cash total is swelled by year-end dividend a n d interest payments which are invested in the market as a rule.

While the market men believe the December - January pattern will be followed on the historic routine, they are not as eager to give buying advice for the remainder of the year.

That doesn't mean they are turning bearish or that they think there will be a big bust ahead. But they are cautious because the prices of many stocks are very high and they assert one must be very selective in his market operations until indications come to light on the trend of earnings.

The year 1960 is expected to be a whopper for the economy in general with the gross national product—all goods and services produced—crossing the half trillion dollar mark.

Such an economy would m e a n sharply higher corporation income and sharply higher dividend payments. If these things materialize, then the current prices of many stocks — now considered out of line on an earnings basis — could well become very respectable and susceptible to further advance.

The investors of 1960 may eventually have to decide if they will want to lighten their c o m m o n stock holdings and go into bonds on a larger scale. Bonds have been in disrepute for a long time with prices falling and yields rising. The yields are the return on the investment. As the price goes down the return rises because the income on a bond is fixed at a certain level.

Those who do have that decision to make must take into consideration the prospect of inflation being licked or increasing. If inflation is licked, bonds would become very attractive and stocks might then go into disrepute much as bonds are today.

Economists of the Prudential Insurance Co. have taken a l o o k into the future and they are convinced there will be no decline in the cost of living index which is a measure of inflation.

These economists give t h r e e reasons for their belief. In the first place, they point out, as business improves toward capacity levels, business concerns will compete more vigorously with each other for both labor and materials, and pay less attention to costs or efficiency.

Secondly, employes in the service industries whose productivity gains are small will receive the same wage boosts as workers in production. Rising costs not fully offset by productivity increases are inflationary, they assert.

And finally, the group finds we still are a long way from solving the perplexing problem of how to convince business and labor to restrict their claims to less than the total gain realized from rising productivity. "Until we succeed in this," they assert, "t h e consumer, being unorganized and inarticulate, will continue to pay the bill."

Cotton Futures Capture Modest Market Gains

NEW YORK (AP) —Cotton futures made modest gains last week, c'osing 15 cents to $1 a bale higher.

Some local buying, coupled with mill price fixing, gave support to the market. Offerings came largely from scattered hedge selling.

Purchases of 1959 crop cotton by the Commodity Credit Corp. in the week ended Dec. 4 totaled 439,000 bales. Sales amounted to 523,000 bales.

Cotton impounded under the government loan in the Dec. 4 week amounted to 111,000 bales, bringing the total for the crop season to 155,000 bales. After withdrawals of 9,000 bales, the net stock was 146,000 bales.

Registration of cotton for export totaled 317,777 bales in the Dec. 4 week, bringing the total for the season to 4,142,000. Exports in the week ended Tuesday were larger than in any previous week in nearly two years, totaling 186,000 bales.

Exports for the current season through Dec. 8 amounted to 1,381,000 bales compared with 1,018,000 a year ago.

FINANCIAL NEWS

Business Humming Along At Fast-Moving March

NEW YORK (AP) — Business hummed along the past week at a swift pace, sparked by Christmas buying of unprecedented proportions, record steel production, and stepped up automobile output.

Free-spending crowds jammed stores almost everywhere. Merchants were nearly unanimous in confidence that yule buying is headed for a record.

Retail trade's dollar volume was up from 1 to 5 per cent over a year ago. Biggest gains were registered in women's gift apparel, toys, television sets, furniture, and household gifts.

Steel mills operated at an estimated 94.3 per cent capacity, a rate capable of turning out 2,671,000 tons of steel, the greatest tonnage on record.

Prospects of a settlement of the steel dispute, however, grew darker. The industry was cool to a union proposal for company-by-company bargaining. Federl meditors broke off negotiations because they had been unproductive and to allow the union to turn its attention to the aluminum industry.

During the week the steelworkers signed contracts with American Can Co. and Continental Can Co., calling for an average general wage increase of 28 1-5 cents an hour over three years. Both c o m p a n i e s immediately announced slight price increases.

Shipments of finished steel gained ground but lagged behind ingot production. This kept steel-using industries in a bind. Carrier Corp., in Syracuse, N. Y., laid off 400 workers for a week because of a steel shortage.

Freight carloadings increased to 649,639 the past week, mainly on steel tonnage. Loadings the previous week were 574,126, and a year ago 594,884.

The automobile industry boosted its production about 50 per cent over the previous week and scheduled another big jump the coming week in a drive to make up the more than 750,000 cars lost due to steel shortages.

General Motors resumed assembly operations and recalled 60,000 workers, putting all but 31,000 of its 215,000 laid-off employes back on the job. Full production will be under way the coming week.

Chrysler reopened and built some cars. Most of its plants will be back in operation the coming week.

American Motors operated at record speed. Ford kept up its heavy output. The industry plans to build a million cars between now and Jan. 26, when the Taft-Hartley injunction in the steel strike expires.

The government reported unemployment rose by 398,000 in mid-November to a total of 3,670,000, an increase not as large as expected. The total of workers 65,640,000, slightly more than the usual seasonal drop.

Consumers got a break in the meat department. Prices went down as livestock growers poured an increasing volume of cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs into markets. Sales of hogs for slaughter were the largest since the week ended Dec. 1, 1956. Meat production also was the biggest since that week.

Briefly around the business scene: New York Central Railroad declared a 25-cent dividend, its first since December, 1957 . . . General Electric Co. will lay off 800 workers at its flight propulsion plant near Cincinnati because of Defense Department cutbacks in jet engine orders. . . . Walgreen Co. will open 42 new drug stores by the end of next September. . . . Standard Brands is putting advertisements on milk cartons as a test in New Mexico. . . . Government-held farm surpluses have risen to $9,200,000,000 with additional gains in prospect. . . . Mutual savings banks in New York and savings and loan associations in California are planning to increase interest rates paid to savers. . . . People are throwing half a billion dollars to the dogs this year, spending 350 millions to feed their pets and the balance on accessories. . . . Singer Manufacturing Co., sewing machine maker, expects sales near 400 million dollars this year, up 10 per cent from 1958. . . . Downtown stores in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, are countering the taint of overcommercialism by donating window space to churches for displays during the Christmas season.

Committees For Cotton Quota Named

JONESVILLE (Special) — Committees of farmers who will be cotton marketing quota referendum throughout Catahoula parish on Dec. 15 were announced yesterday by the Catahoula Parish Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. All committee members are farmers eligible to vote in the referendum.

Arrangements have also been completed for establishing polling places in all of Catahoula Parish's eight cotton-growing communities. Notices showing the date of referendum, the rules governing eligibility to vote, and the location of polling places have been posted in conspicious places in the parish.

P. J. Rison, Chairman Parish ASC Committee pointed to that "eligible" voters in the December 15 referendum are all persons who, as landlords, tenants, or sharecroppers, engaged in the produ tion of upland cotton in 1959. Any questions about eligibility should be checked in advance with the parish office.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The community polling places in the December 15 poll are as follows: Ward 1; Watson's Store and Newman's Store; Ward 2, Peck Station, Cox's Filling Station and Rosenwald school; Ward 3, School house; Ward 4, Dayton Store; Ward 5, ASC office; Ward 6, Spink's Store and Wallace Ridge Store, Taylor's Amoco Station, Archie Post Office and Walters Store and Ward 7, Elmly Store, Parhams Store and Central School.

Block High Band Concert Set Thursday

JONESVILLE (Special) — A concert by the Block High School band will be held on Thursday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium at Jonesville. The concert will be under the direction of Larry Ingram.

Also taking part in the concert will be the Block Glee Club. The selections are Rudolph, The Red Nose Reindeer; Santa Claus is Coming To Town and White Christmas.

Also rendering two numbers will be Cadet Band with "Silent Night" and "Three Christmas Glimpses," written especially for the Cadet Band.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The young mother, expecting her third child, got a baby shower just like anybody else — only hers was held in the Madison County jail.

The woman was awaiting transfer to the women's prison following her conviction on a charge of forgery. "We felt sorry for the girl even though she committed a crime," said a jailer.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday reported the arrest of two Negro women on charges of theft. The two were identified as Alice Jenson, 26, of Grambling, $150 bond posted; and Bertha Tucker, 23, of 1014 Calypso street, Monroe, $127.50 bond. The later was also charged with disturbing the peace, police reported.

A burglary charge was held against William Lee Henderson, 22-year old Negro of 1725 Adonis street, by Monroe police yesterday. Henderson was being held without bond.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday reported the arrest of two Negro women on charges of theft. The two were identified as Alice Jenson, 26, of Grambling, $150 bond posted; and Bertha Tucker, 23, of 1014 Calypso street, Monroe, $127.50 bond. The later was also charged with disturbing the peace, police reported.

A burglary charge was held against William Lee Henderson, 22-year old Negro of 1725 Adonis street, by Monroe police yesterday. Henderson was being held without bond.

Naval Court Fight Is 'Good Theatre'

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

For its second undertaking of the local live theatrical year, the Monroe Little Theatre opened a six - day run of Herman Wouk's "Caine Mutiny Court - Martial" at Selman Field Playhouse Friday night.

The audience was not up to capacity, but even the airplanes were entering the field with caution Friday — such was the weather. While there were some flaws in the presentation which gave "Caine Mutiny" less professional polish than was noted in the season's opener, "Janus," the significant idea behind the World War II courtroom drama was well conveyed to the audience.

RIGHT WAY

"The right way and the Navy (or other service) way," is a cliche often used by servicemen weary of military routine which seems to keep them working long hours at chores which have no apparent purpose.

The writer of the "Caine Mutiny" takes such a case where a Navy regular commander obviously cannot pull a minesweeper through a typhoon and his — a civilian seaman — takes over and saves the ship. So it would appear the "right way" won out, except that deposed Commander Queeg, played by Rufus Bruce, charged Lieutenant Maryk — Frank Welder — with mutiny.

There are lawyers on both sides, Claude Fuller as judge advocate or prosecutor and William O. Smith as defense. Casting was especially good on the part of director Ivan Uttal in the cases of Smith as the Jewish defense lawyer and Welder as "man of the sea" Maryk. The latter had a salty air not unlike Popeye, and it was easy to believe this fellow really had brought a tin can ship through a typhoon.

Top acting honors of the evening would have to go to William O. Smith who took the part of defense lawyer, Barney Greenwald. His actions and mannerisms so recalled an Army court martial series of 15 years back in which your critic battled it out with such a lawyer until I still feel as though I am ordered by the court to recognize his good job.

Val Ringo as the ranking officer on the court was the only member of the all - male cast along with the enlisted men played by Curtis Rape and Albert Alexander who had good military bearing. Further criticism along this line halted abrutly when it was discovered the naval officers' uniforms were owned by Monroyans who show the marks of their tours of duty done to this very day.

'SHOOK UP'

Jorge Mack as a "shook up" signalman added a welcome note of comedy as did V. P. Dalrymple during his testimony as a Navy psychiatrist.

Rufus Bruce, as Commander Queeg, was perhaps a little to "civilian" for an old Navy regular, but did a masterful job of "cracking up" in the face of questioning.

Claude Fuller as the prosecutor pushed his lines a little too fast which gave the impression he already knew how his questions were going to be answered as he put them to those testifying. This will probably clear up after the first couple of nights.

Others testifying in the case of the "wrong way to beat the Navy way" were Lamar Mullican, Bill Cody, Ed Anders, Craig Campbell and Pat Price. Serving as members of the court were H. M. Kenny, Walter Speed, Col. Richard Longfellow and Salvador Danna.

The "Caine Mutiny" like many other writings about the services gives the impression it starts out to take a good poke at the military only to draw the conclusion that defense — even if built on thousands of tangled regulations handled by mixed-up minds — is a fortunate thing for the country to have.

Mutt Slated To Receive Medical Honor

NEW YORK (AP)—As dogs go, Ruff is only a mutt, a mutt once destined for execution in a public pound. But to the medical profession he's a hero.

In fact, Ruff will get a silver "hero's collar" from the National Society for Medical Research in a fancy ceremony Sunday.

For the past 18 months Ruff, a 5-year-old mongrel, has been living with a second heart — a "booster"—implanted in his chest.

In an operation performed at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn by Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the booster was created by refashioning part of the dog's diaphragm into a muscular aid under the regular heart. The booster is activated by a tiny radio transmitter outside his body.

The medical society said such boosters serve as auxiliaries to the natural heart and give "major hope for some half million Americans whose hearts have been damaged by coronaries or hypertension."

Dr. Kantrowitz said that "only a few electronic and biological problems remain before it (this type of booster) can be used safely and effectively on humans."

Ringleader Of Convicts Pleads Guilty

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — The ringleader of 20 escaped North Carolina convictes pleaded guilty Saturday to a federal charge of transporting a weapon in interstate commerce.

Charles W. (Ynak) Stewart, 52, waived a hearing and was taken to Roanoke, Va., City Jail where he will await the February term of U.S. Dist. court in Danville, Va. He was held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Stewart told U. S. Commissioner English Ford he wanted to be tried and imprisoned elsewhere before facing North Carolina authorities.

"They treat you good in a federal penitentiary," he said.

State police captured Stewart Friday after a car he was driving had crashed and he fled into nearby woods. He was armed with a .38-caliber revolver.

Naval Court Fight Is 'Good Theatre'

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

For its second undertaking of the local live theatrical year, the Monroe Little Theatre opened a six - day run of Herman Wouk's "Caine Mutiny Court - Martial" at Selman Field Playhouse Friday night.

The audience was not up to capacity, but even the airplanes were entering the field with caution Friday — such was the weather. While there were some flaws in the presentation which gave "Caine Mutiny" less professional polish than was noted in the season's opener, "Janus," the significant idea behind the World War II courtroom drama was well conveyed to the audience.

RIGHT WAY

"The right way and the Navy (or other service) way," is a cliche often used by servicemen weary of military routine which seems to keep them working long hours at chores which have no apparent purpose.

The writer of the "Caine Mutiny" takes such a case where a Navy regular commander obviously cannot pull a minesweeper through a typhoon and his — a civilian seaman — takes over and saves the ship. So it would appear the "right way" won out, except that deposed Commander Queeg, played by Rufus Bruce, charged Lieutenant Maryk — Frank Welder — with mutiny.

There are lawyers on both sides, Claude Fuller as judge advocate or prosecutor and William O. Smith as defense. Casting was especially good on the part of director Ivan Uttal in the cases of Smith as the Jewish defense lawyer and Welder as "man of the sea" Maryk. The latter had a salty air not unlike Popeye, and it was easy to believe this fellow really had brought a tin can ship through a typhoon.

Top acting honors of the evening would have to go to William O. Smith who took the part of defense lawyer, Barney Greenwald. His actions and mannerisms so recalled an Army court martial series of 15 years back in which your critic battled it out with such a lawyer until I still feel as though I am ordered by the court to recognize his good job.

Val Ringo as the ranking officer on the court was the only member of the all - male cast along with the enlisted men played by Curtis Rape and Albert Alexander who had good military bearing. Further criticism along this line halted abrutly when it was discovered the naval officers' uniforms were owned by Monroyans who show the marks of their tours of duty done to this very day.

'SHOOK UP'

Jorge Mack as a "shook up" signalman added a welcome note of comedy as did V. P. Dalrymple during his testimony as a Navy psychiatrist.

Rufus Bruce, as Commander Queeg, was perhaps a little to "civilian" for an old Navy regular, but did a masterful job of "cracking up" in the face of questioning.

Claude Fuller as the prosecutor pushed his lines a little too fast which gave the impression he already knew how his questions were going to be answered as he put them to those testifying. This will probably clear up after the first couple of nights.

Others testifying in the case of the "wrong way to beat the Navy way" were Lamar Mullican, Bill Cody, Ed Anders, Craig Campbell and Pat Price. Serving as members of the court were H. M. Kenny, Walter Speed, Col. Richard Longfellow and Salvador Danna.

The "Caine Mutiny" like many other writings about the services gives the impression it starts out to take a good poke at the military only to draw the conclusion that defense — even if built on thousands of tangled regulations handled by mixed-up minds — is a fortunate thing for the country to have.

Mutt Slated To Receive Medical Honor

NEW YORK (AP)—As dogs go, Ruff is only a mutt, a mutt once destined for execution in a public pound. But to the medical profession he's a hero.

In fact, Ruff will get a silver "hero's collar" from the National Society for Medical Research in a fancy ceremony Sunday.

For the past 18 months Ruff, a 5-year-old mongrel, has been living with a second heart — a "booster"—implanted in his chest.

In an operation performed at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn by Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz, the booster was created by refashioning part of the dog's diaphragm into a muscular aid under the regular heart. The booster is activated by a tiny radio transmitter outside his body.

The medical society said such boosters serve as auxiliaries to the natural heart and give "major hope for some half million Americans whose hearts have been damaged by coronaries or hypertension."

Dr. Kantrowitz said that "only a few electronic and biological problems remain before it (this type of booster) can be used safely and effectively on humans."

The 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets (master bedroom's carpeted and has 2 closets); 2 tile baths with glass enclosed shower over tubs—one has dressing table . . . as well as utility room, Lennox 5-ton central air conditioning and heating, drapes, double garage, mahogany paneled office, storage, and landscaped 100x150 ft. lot. This description isn't adequate—only your inspection can do this home justice!

MARIE PLACE

A WEALTH OF EXTRAS awaits you in this brick home in its select location! Enter the spacious living room (14x23)-dining area (9x13); pine paneled kitchen with pine paneled cabinets, ventahood, and pass-thru to the . . . split-level breakfast area and large (21x29) pine paneled den with double fireplace in wall of brick, glass wall, and broken quarry tile floors. There's also: 3 bedrooms (one has wall of built-ins — master bedroom's carpeted with double sliding door closet); 3tile baths—2 have shower over tubs. And "to boot"—carpeting in hall, 5 tons of air conditioning, drapes, Venetian blinds, central heating, double carport, storage with maid's ½ bath, and well landscaped 100x150 lawn with shade trees, sprinkler system, and fenced back yard. You'll want to see this one—today!

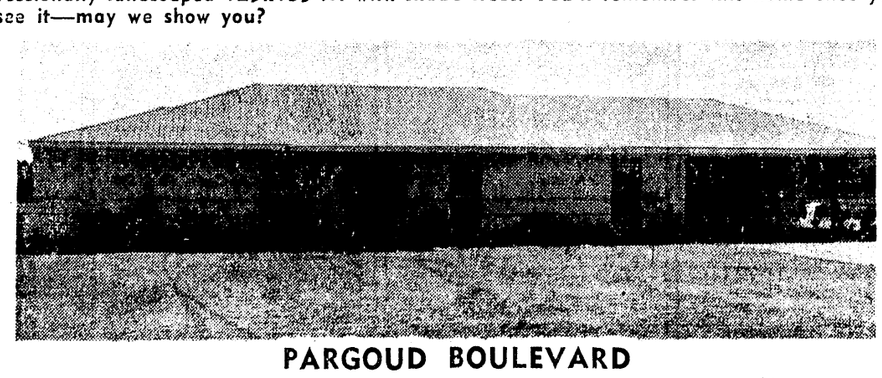

PARGOUD BOULEVARD

DIANNE ST. AND OLIVER ROAD

THIS ROMAN BRICK DEFIES DESCRIPTION with even the best adjectives! You'll know what we mean when you see this year old home with: entry has broken quarry tile floor; most spacious (16x31) carpeted living room-dining area with Roman brick fireplace; natural red gum paneled kitchen boasts matching bronze built-ins — Caloric oven and range, Westinghouse dishwasher, Nutone food mixer-blender, refrigerator—plus an excellent array of natural red gum cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, planning area, built-in breakfast bar . . . and paneled family room with a wall of built-ins including desk, TV space, bookcases—with acoustical tile ceilings. The enclosed sun porch (12x22) boasts a combination of Roman brick and sliding windows; both bedrooms are carpeted—one has walk-in closet, dressing room with mirror wall, dressing table with huge mirror, built-in chest and storage—other has 2 closets, built-in chest and storage, full length mirror on door; and 2 tile baths with glass enclosed shower over tubs—one has dressing table. And so much more including: Mathes 4-ton central air conditioning and heating, decorator drapes by Lance, indirect lighting, double carport, storage, and professionally landscaped 125x135 lot with shade trees. You'll remember this home once you see it—may we show you?

PARGOUD BOULEVARD

PERFECTLY DETAILED WORKMANSHIP plus the owner's personal "touch" created this hardly-lived-in brick home! The carpeted living room's 18x27; kitchen is built-in (Tappan oven and range, Tappan refrigerator and freezer, Hot Point dishwasher, ventahood) with gum paneled cabinets, Formica counter tops; and large (14x26) paneled den with sliding glass doors to patio. There's 2 bedrooms with walk-in closets; 2 tile baths have shower over tubs, dressing tables . . . plus Chrysler Air-Temp central air conditioning and heating, drapes, double carport, storage, and 100x150 ft. landscaped lawn. A pleasurable showing awaits you here today! Call and we'll gladly show you thru!

FORSYTHE AVENUE (COUNTRY CLUB AREA)

A PICTURE BOOK exterior and interior! For this brick home has much to boast! From the foyer you enter the entertaining size (21x16) carpeted living room; carpeted dining room with buffet; workless kitchen with built-in Thermador oven and range, dishwasher, disposal, Formica topped birch cabinets, ventahood; and breakfast room with exposed brick. The paneled den's 16x20; carpeted study has bookcases; 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets—one's carpeted, another has a wall of built-ins; and 3 tile baths—with such details as dressing tables, shower over tubs, glass enclosed shower, and master bath has adjoining dressing room with built-in chest. There's so much more including: drapes, oak block floors, central air conditioning and heating, double carport, storage, and shady landscaped 100x289 ft. lot. By all means, see this fine home today!

You'll want to see this one—today!

PARGOUD BOULEVARD

DIANNE ST. AND OLIVER ROAD

THIS ROMAN BRICK DEFIES DESCRIPTION with even the best adjectives! You'll know what we mean when you see this year old home with: entry has broken quarry tile floor; most spacious (16x31) carpeted living room-dining area with Roman brick fireplace; natural red gum paneled kitchen boasts matching bronze built-ins — Caloric oven and range, Westinghouse dishwasher, Nutone food mixer-blender, refrigerator—plus an excellent array of natural red gum cabinets (Formica tops), ventahood, planning area, built-in breakfast bar . . . and paneled family room with a wall of built-ins including desk, TV space, bookcases—with acoustical tile ceilings. The enclosed sun porch (12x22) boasts a combination of Roman brick and sliding windows; both bedrooms are carpeted —one has walk-in closet, dressing room with mirror wall, dressing table with huge mirror, built-in chest and storage—other has 2 closets, built-in chest and storage, full length mirror on door; and 2 tile baths with glass enclosed shower over tubs—one has dressing table. And so much more including: Mathes 4-ton central air conditioning and heating, decorator drapes by Lance, indirect lighting, double carport, storage, and professionally landscaped 125x135 lot with shade trees. You'll remember this home once you see it—may we show you?

PARGOUD BOULEVARD

PERFECTLY DETAILED WORKMANSHIP plus the owner's personal "touch" created this hardly-lived-in brick home! The carpeted living room's 18x27; kitchen is built-in (Tappan oven and range, Tappan refrigerator and freezer, Hot Point dishwasher, ventahood) with gum paneled cabinets, Formica counter tops; and large (14x26) paneled den with sliding glass doors to patio. There's 2 bedrooms with walk-in closets; 2 tile baths have shower over tubs, dressing tables . . . plus Chrysler Air-Temp central air conditioning and heating, drapes, double carport, storage, and 100x150 ft. landscaped lawn. A pleasurable showing awaits you here today! Call and we'll gladly show you thru!

FORSYTHE AVENUE (COUNTRY CLUB AREA)

A PICTURE BOOK exterior and interior! For this brick home has much to boast! From the foyer you enter the entertaining size (21x16) carpeted living room; carpeted dining room with buffet; workless kitchen with built-in Thermador oven and range, dishwasher, disposal, Formica topped birch cabinets, ventahood; and breakfast room with exposed brick. The paneled den's 16x20; carpeted study has bookcases; 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets—one's carpeted, another has a wall of built-ins; and 3 tile baths—with such details as dressing tables, shower over tubs, glass enclosed shower, and master bath has adjoining dressing room with built-in chest. There's so much more including: drapes, oak block floors, central air conditioning and heating, double carport, storage, and shady landscaped 100x289 ft. lot. By all means, see this fine home today!

BAYOU BRICK

A LOVELY bayou setting combined with a beautiful brick home! We would like to show you through this 2 bedroom home (both are exceptionally large), conveniently arranged kitchen, spacious living room, central heating, attic fan. In Lakeshore and priced at a low $16,500!

OAK PARK ADDN.

AN EXCLUSIVE location that you can point to with pride! And this brick home is all you could hope to find in a home! There's spacious living room with sliding glass doors opening onto patio, modern - to the minute kitchen with natural finish cabinets. Formica tops built-in oven and range, 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets, 2 complete ceramic tile baths with dressing table, shower. Hardwood floors, blinds and lovely drapes included. Double carport, storage room. On large, well landscaped lot with shade trees. Call now on this!

313 PECAN

IN LAKESHORE. Here's a 3 bedroom home you should see today! It's like new throughout with attic fan, carport, storage. On large lot. And best of all! It's already financed on a 4½ per cent direct G. I. loan — save $15, every month on interest alone! Pay small equity and assume loan — but hurry!

ON THE BAYOU IN LAKESHORE

A FINE home that we're proud to present for your consideration. It incorporates all the fine bayou living you're looking for (with a fishing dock and a patio) . . . plus a home that includes built-ins, more cabinet space than you can imagine, closets everywhere you look, big sliding glass doors opening to patio, double-carport, storage —an it can be sold furnished or unfurnished. Call today for an appointment to see!

I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND HOW IT HAPPENED, BROTHER. I OPENED THE DOOR TO LEND THE SQUATLEYS AN UMBRELLA. NOW THAT BRAZEN MA SQUATLEY IS SLEEPING IN MY BED AND I'M SLEEPING IN THE BATHTUB.

MAYBE YOU THINK I'M HAVING A BALL... WITH SAG SQUATLEY IN MY BED AND ME SLEEPING ON THE KITCHEN TABLE!

WHAT'LL WE DO?

ONCE WE GOT RID OF THEM BY PUTTING ITCH POWDER IN THE BEDS...BUT THEN WE HAD TO BURN THE MATTRESSES.

HEY, THAT'S A SWELL WAY TO GET RID OF THEM!... WE'LL BURN OUR HOUSE DOWN!

BUT, BROTHER, THAT'S ARSON! YOU'D GO TO PRISON!

I'VE GOT IT! WE'LL BURN SOME RAGS AND JUST PRETEND THE HOUSE IS ON FIRE! ONCE WE GET 'EM OUTSIDE, SLAM AND LOCK THE DOOR!

YOU HEAR THET, PAW? THEY'RE A-FIXIN' TO TRICK US!

YOU AIMIN' TO LET 'EM TRICK US OUTEN A GOOD PLACE TO SLEEP, PAW?

NO SIREE, AH AIN'T! ONCE A SQUATLEY IS SQUATTED, HE STAYS SQUATTED!

FIRE THE HOUSE IS ON FIRE! RUN FOR YOUR LIVES!

FOLLOW ME! RUN FOR YOUR LIVES!

WE GOT TH' SWEENEYS OUTA TH' HOUSE, PAW!

THEN SLAM TH' DOOR AN' LOCK IT...WHILST AH PUT THIS SKILLET OF BURNIN' RAGS UNDER TH' KITCHEN FAUCET.

HEY, THIS IS OUR HOUSE! OPEN UP!

NOK! NOK!

PAW'S A HERO! HE SAVED TH' SWEENEYS' HOUSE!

YOU AIM TO KEEP 'EM LOCKED OUT, PAW?

WAL, AH DUNNO YET. SEEIN' AS HOW WE SAVED THEIR HOUSE FROM BURNIN' TO TH' GROUND, AH FIGGERED MEBBE WE COULD MAKE A DEAL TO STAY HERE FOREVER!

BRINGING UP FATHER

JIGGS, IT'S SUCH A LOVELY DAY LET'S GO FOR A RIDE IN THE COUNTRY-

BUT THE TRAFFIC IS TOO HEAVY-

MAYBE YOU'RE RIGHT! LET'S TAKE A WALK INSTEAD- WE CAN VISIT MOTHER -

DON'T YOU THINK THAT'S A GOOD IDEA?

I LIKED YOUR FIRST IDEA--LET'S GO FOR A RIDE IN THE COUNTRY-

MAGGIE, I CAN'T FIND MY CAR KEYS--

PINHEAD!! YOU'RE ALWAYS LOSING YOUR KEYS!

I DON'T SEE HOW A GROWN MAN CAN BE SO FORGETFUL!---I'LL LEND YOU MINE!

I NEVER FORGET ANYTHING BECAUSE I HAVE A SYSTEM --I KNOW EXACTLY WHERE MY CAR KEYS ARE--

I ALWAYS KEEP THEM IN MY KEY CASE --

AND I ALWAYS KEEP MY KEY CASE IN MY CHANGE PURSE--

-AND I ALWAYS KEEP MY CHANGE PURSE IN MY BAG --

NOW, IF YOU COULD ONLY REMEMBER WHERE YOU KEEP YOUR BAG---

OH, KEEP QUIET!!

GOOD MORNING--I GOT UP EARLY FOR A CHANGE TO FINISH MY SHOPPING.

MY, MY-- DO I SMELL COFFEE? I CERTAINLY CAN USE SOME TO GET MY EYES OPEN.

AH-H-- THAT DOES IT-- UH! OH, MY

WELL, DON'T YOU WANT ANOTHER CUP OF COFFEE, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM?

--UGH- NO, THANK YOU.

STILL-- ANOTHER CUP MIGHT TASTE GOOD-- I'D HATE TO DEPRIVE FUZZY OF MY REGULAR MORNING PATRONAGE.

FUZZY'S P

Coffee Pot

AH, FUZZY--YOU'RE LOOKING YOUR USUAL PRETTY SELF.

I'LL BET YOU SAY THAT TO ALL THE GIRLS, SIR.

HA! I KNOW ONE HE DOESN'T SAY IT TO!

YOU LOOK CHEERFUL, SIR. I THINK I'LL GO OVER TO FUZZY'S FOR SOMETHING, TOO.

I DON'T BLAME YOU, WILLIAM... THAT FUZZY HAS EVERYTHING A MAN COULD WANT.

I'M STUMPED, MAMIE-- I JUST CAN'T FIND AN EXPENSIVE PRESENT AT A REASONABLE PRICE FOR HIS LORDSHIP.

I KNOW A PLACE YOU CAN; PLUSHIE SAID THEY HAVE EVERYTHING A MAN COULD WANT AT FUZZY'S.

OTRO

FUZZY'S PLACE

Coffee Pot

A RESTAURANT--? WELL, MY STARS, I DON'T SEE WHAT LORD PLUSHBOTTOM COULD WANT HERE-- HE'S NO GOURMET.

HELLO, I AM FUZZY-- THE CASHIER SAID YOU WANTED TO SEE ME.

HO-HO-- CROWN ME, WILLIAM-- --UH?

HOLD IT, WILLIE-- LADIES FIRST!

FERD JOHNSON

AFTER THE WEDDING RECEPTION IS OVER EVERYONE RETIRES!

SMILIN' JACK

LATE AT NIGHT A BLOOD-CURDLING SCREAM AWAKENS THE HOUSEHOLD!

WHAT? YOU SAY THE SILHOUETTE LOOKED LIKE RONALD?

YES, MOTHER, I SAW PLAINLY IN THE MOONLIGHT FROM MY WINDOW!

WHERE IS RONALD, MOTHER?

HE WASN'T IN HIS BED WHEN I WAS AWAKENED BY YOUR SCREAM, CORAL!

ANOTHER SEED OF SUSPICION IS PLANTED IN MOTHER'S MIND!

MAYBE RONALD IS PLANNING TO KILL ME AND CORAL, TOO.

RONALD!! WHERE ARE YOU?

HERE I AM, PRECIOUS! WHAT'S ALL TH' FUSS?

WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN?

ZACK MOSLEY

I WOKE UP HUNGRY AND WENT TO THE KITCHEN--- I WAS SLICING HAM---
